

The Face of Fillmore

By Sherry Shepard

July 3, 2013

The Face of Fillmore has had another change in in recent months. Just a year ago the north and east sides of the high school auditorium were a large parking area used for many school events, as well as stake conferences, and a great place to practice riding a bicycle for the neighborhood children.

In the summer of 2012, a massive change occurred and in just a matter of days the parking lot was history, making way for the year-long construction project of the new gymnasium facility. Residents have watched as huge machines first dug and then others, including large cranes were used in the project. Crews worked through the intensely cold winter on the structure and were seen from early morning until late evening during parts of the year.

In the past weeks, it was obvious the exterior of the building was nearing completion. Landscaping crews went to work and in just a matter of hours the area around the building took on a great new look. The picture here is of the northeast corner of the gymnasium and its landscaping – an attractive addition to the Face of Fillmore.

