John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium and Park Improvements

COMMUNITY OUTREACH REPORT

April 27, 2018

A. Introduction

This memorandum summarizes activities that have been undertaken in 2017—2018 to engage stakeholders and the general public in the planning and design effort to redevelop the south side of Glen Cove Creek to improve waterside recreational facilities. This study by the City of Glen Cove, led by the Department of Parks and Recreation and the Glen Cove Community Development Agency (CDA), is funded by the New York State Department of State under Title 11 of the Environmental Protection Fund. The community outreach effort consists of two major elements: meetings of various types and a survey. It is supported by various documents and electronic messaging, including a fact sheet, announcements on the City's website, press releases, flyers, and a postcard handout. In the appendix to this memorandum are summaries of various activities and copies of relevant documents.

B. Meetings

Three types of meetings have been held as part of the outreach effort:

- Meetings with a Project Advisory Committee;
- Pop-up meetings with the public held during community events; and
- A public open house held at Glen Cove City Hall.

These meetings are described below.

Project Advisory Committee Meetings – The City of Glen Cove appointed a Project Advisory Committee (Committee) early on in the study, made up of members of the City's Recreation Commission and City staff who have a keen interest in recreational facilities and services in the City and its environs. While the membership has changed over the course of the study, the Committee presently consists of the following individuals:

- Darcy A. Belyea, City of Glen Cove Director of Parks and Recreation
- Ann S. Fangmann, AICP Executive Director, City of Glen Cove Community Development Agency
- Nicolas Shearman, Grant Administrator, City of Glen Cove Community Development Agency

- City of Glen Cove Recreation Commission:
  - o Ken Pilla, Chair
  - o Darcy Belyea
  - o Brian Simmons
  - o Peter Ciccone
  - o Sal Farruggia
  - o Brian Neice
  - o Marty Shannon
  - o Bob Payton
  - o Steve Tripp
  - o Debbie Patino
  - o Michael Zangari

The City and its consultant team have met with the Committee on several occasions, using these meetings to gather information about recreational needs, discuss specific issues with the current recreational area south of Glen Cove Creek, and review various concept proposals. These meetings were held at City Hall on the following dates:

- January 23, 2017
- April 10, 2017 (Work Session)
- June 19, 2017
- February 28, 2018

In addition to these meetings, many Committee members attended and assisted with outreach for the pop-up meetings and the public open house. They also helped distribute postcards about the study survey.

Pop-up Meetings – During the summer and fall of 2017, three pop-up meetings were held to inform the public about this study, to gather input, and to encourage them to participate in the survey. The three pop-up meetings were held at the following events:

- Downtown Sounds concert on the evening of July 21, 2017
- National Night Out on August 1, 2017
- Soccerfest on November 4, 2017

For the two pop-up events held on July 21, 2017 and August 1, 2017, a tent was set up with five boards placed on easels. Three of the boards were figures of:

- Existing Conditions
- Short-term Proposal
- Long-term Proposal

Existing Conditions show the John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium and Park as it exists. The Short-Term Proposal consists of three main elements:

- Replacement of the compost area with a multi-use field;
- Additional parking in that area of the park; and
- A new bathroom/concessions facility.

The Long-Term Proposal consists of the following:

- All the elements of the Short-Term Proposal;
- Modification of existing fields;
- Expansion of the park north of Morris Avenue, including such possible elements as:
  - o A new baseball field,
  - o Indoor sporting facilities, and
  - o An open lawn area;
- A new indoor facility (for practice, etc.);
- Additional parking; and
- A pedestrian waterfront esplanade.

The other two boards asked for people to give their comments about 1) the Short-term Proposal and 2) the Long-term Proposal. (One board for each.) Comments were written on Post-it notes by participants or by team members recording participants' responses and placed on the respective boards.

During each event, passers-by were encouraged to review the various boards. Members of the project team who were staffing the event answered questions, discussed the study, and explained proposed improvements,

Approximately 50 people participated in the pop-up event on July 21, 2017 and 100 on August 1, 2017. Visitors included residents, various local elected officials, and key businesspeople. Many residents attended with their families, especially on August 1, 2017.

A total of 83 Post-it note comments were received, with 24 on July 21 and 59 on August 1, 2017.

City officials facilitated a pop-up event table at the City's 2017 Soccerfest event on November 4, 2017, a large youth soccer tournament. Approximately 90 people participated in the pop-up and shared their input on the project proposals.

In addition, visitors to all pop-up events were encouraged to take the project survey, either by filling it out at the event itself or taking a postcard with them that showed how the survey could be taken online.

Public Open House – A public open house was held on Thursday, October 12, 2017 from 6—9 PM, inviting members of the public to learn more about the project and provide their input on project improvements. An open house style meeting was chosen instead of a public hearing or lecture-like presentation to create a welcoming environment for attendees to discuss the project with one another and directly engage with City, CDA, and consultant team staff. The open house included the following:

- A series of boards, identical to those shown at the July and August pop-up events, encouraging people to 1) study the existing site, as well as the short-term and long-term proposed concepts, and 2) leave comments about the proposed concepts on Post-it notes.
- Two boards that highlighted the July and August pop-up events and interim results of the survey.
- Subject matter experts – including representatives of the City and the City’s consultant team – to discuss the overall study, the proposed concepts, and attendees’ suggestions.
- A table for people to take the survey and/or to pick up postcards that indicated how to take the survey online via the City’s website.
- A table for children to engage in drawing activities, while their parents reviewed boards, wrote comments, and discussed the study with subject matter experts.
- A Spanish interpreter.

A total of 75 people attended the meeting. A total of 86 Post-it note comments were received.

C. Survey

A survey was created to ask people for their input on 1) the existing recreational facilities on the south side of Glen Cove Creek, and 2) the proposed short-term and long-term concepts. The survey was made available in print for handwritten responses and via the City's website for online access. The online and print surveys included the same content, and both were supported by large figures that displayed the existing conditions and proposed concepts.

The public was encouraged to participate in the survey from the time it was first made available on July 21, 2017 until it was closed out on February 9, 2018 – a period of over six months. A total of 476 surveys were collected, nearly all online (i.e., 461 online and 15 paper copies). At the end of December 2017, the survey was made available (and promoted as such) in Spanish. No Spanish-language surveys were submitted. As described in the following “Support of Outreach Activities” section, the survey was advertised in a variety of ways, such as email blasts including the Project Fact Sheet to approximately 1,200 parents of participants in the City's Parks and Recreation programs, and advertisement of the survey by the City's Junior Sports program among their memberships.

D. Support for Outreach Activities

A number of different measures were used to promote the outreach activities described above. These are described below:

Stakeholder and Community Contact List – From the beginning of the study, an electronic list of contacts was maintained of the following people:

- Contacts at key Glen Cove stakeholder community organizations;
- Residents and others who attended project outreach events;
- Elected officials representing the City of Glen Cove; and
- Members of the Glen Cove Planning Board, the Zoning Board of Appeals, and the Board of the Community Development Agency.

Website – Various online applications were employed as part of this outreach effort:

- The survey was created using Survey Monkey and was made available online.
- A webpage was created and posted on the City's website in August 2017 titled Help us Plan the Future of John Maccarone Memorial Stadium and Park! This study webpage identified the survey website and encouraged people to both access and fill out the survey.
- Project webpage language was updated on the City's website following the October 12, 2017 Public Open House, under the title We Still Need Glen

Cove Residents to Help Us Plan the Future of John Maccarone Memorial Stadium and Park! This update encouraged people to fill out the survey.

Flyer – A flyer was created in September 2017 to advertise both the October 12, 2017 public open house and the survey. The flyer was distributed by the City to community groups and stakeholders via email. Print copies were distributed to businesses in the City’s downtown business district, and to the Glen Cove Library, Senior Center, and Youth Bureau. They were also made available at the City Clerk’s office and Mayor’s office. The flyer was posted on former Mayor Reginald Spinello’s Facebook page on October 11, 2017 (@Mayor Reggie Spinello).

Press Release – A press release was produced by the City in September 2017 which 1) explained the study effort, 2) reported on the pop-up meetings, 3) identified and described the survey website, and 4) identified the upcoming public open house on October 12, 2017.

Fact Sheet – A fact sheet was prepared in December 2017, describing 1) the purpose of the study, 2) outreach events held since the summer, and 3) the survey. It was prepared both in English and Spanish. The fact sheet was distributed electronically to the City’s stakeholder and community contacts, including 1,200 parents of participants in the City’s Parks and Recreation programs. Print copies were provided to the Glen Cove Library, Senior Center, Youth Bureau, and the Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club, and made available at the City Clerk’s office and Mayor’s office. Copies were also distributed in print to downtown businesses.

Survey Postcard – A postcard identifying the survey website was created to promote participation. It was distributed to attendees of the pop-up meetings and the public open house. The City also distributed the postcard at the City Clerk’s office.

Spanish Translation – The outreach effort was cognizant of the significant number of residents of the City who speak Spanish as their first language and English as their second. The following steps were taken to accommodate and encourage the participation of Glen Cove’s Spanish speaking population in the study:

- Spanish speaking personnel from the consultant team attended pop-up meetings and the public open house.
- The public open house flyer was translated into Spanish and distributed to the public by the City.
- The fact sheet was translated into Spanish for distribution to the public by the City. Print copies were provided to several City of Glen Cove businesses that cater to the City’s Spanish- speaking population.

- The survey was translated into Spanish.

E. Results of the Outreach Effort

Summary of Outreach Events Results (Pop-ups and Open House) – A total of 225 people attended the pop-up events and public open house in 2017. They submitted 169 comments on Post-it notes and some provided comments on comment sheets. At all events, there were a number of positive and supportive comments made by people, such as: “the project is long overdue”, “the plans are very well put together and wonderful”, and “it’s worth waiting for” were common expressions. Here’s what people noted:

- Regarding the Short-Term Proposal, people liked:
  - o The new field’s ability to be used for soccer, football, and lacrosse
  - o The additional and improved parking
  - o The improved bathrooms and concession areas
- Regarding the Long-Term Proposal, people liked:
  - o The new configuration of the Upper Fields
  - o The overall improvement of all fields
  - o The additional parking
  - o The indoor facility
  - o The esplanade

A number of people had additional ideas that they wanted to be considered. While people listed these ideas under both the Short- and Long-Term Proposals, most related to the Long-Term Proposal, since they often involved the use of land in the larger area considered by the Long-Term Proposal. These are the ideas most often heard:

- Consideration of various water features, including the following:
  - o A public pool (discussed as being outdoors and/or indoors)
  - o Water slides
  - o A sprinkler or a splash pad area for small kids
- An ice skating rink (discussed as being outdoors and/or indoors):
  - o Possibly used for roller skating at other times
- Pickleball courts
- Tennis courts
- Skateboard park

- Playground
- More basketball courts (discussed as being outdoors and/or indoors)
- Additional uses of an indoor facility:
  - o Recreation center
  - o Glen Cove Hall of Fame
- Walking and running should be further encouraged through such improvement as:
  - o A running track around the various fields
  - o The esplanade extended both to Garvies Point and to Morgan Park for cyclists and pedestrians

In addition to these suggestions, there were concerns that some participants noted. They are summarized as follows:

- There may be too much emphasis on the baseball fields. There is a need for even more multi-purpose fields to be used for soccer, lacrosse, and football. Perhaps the new proposed baseball field or Campy Field could be used for other purposes.
- There is a need to improve Lower Fields drainage, as well as make sure the entire improved area will drain well.
- Concern that there will be insufficient parking even with the new additions.
- In response to concerns about more basketball courts, a few people noted that there is no need for additional basketball courts since new ones have opened at the Glen Cove Municipal Golf Course.

Summary of the Survey Results – As stated above, 476 separate survey responses were returned during a period of over six months from late July 2017 through early February 2018. Of those, 97 percent were completed using the online electronic version of the survey. Others were completed by hand at outreach events and elsewhere.

- Who took the survey? Of those who listed their residential zip code, 90 percent lived in the immediate Glen Cove area. Another six percent lived in the immediate environs surrounding Glen Cove. The remaining respondents (4%) lived elsewhere in Nassau and Queens Counties.

Nearly all who took the survey have been to the area before:

- o 86 percent have participated in a sport, either as a player, coach, umpire/referee or in some other capacity
- o 90 percent have been spectators

Participated in a sport

Has been a spectator

In almost equal numbers, the two sports most often participated in or watched were baseball and soccer. To lesser degrees, respondents also participated in or watched softball and football games. Far fewer noted lacrosse and kickball as sports they took part in or watched.

To a large extent, people felt that the best feature of the area was the number of fields, allowing for many activities to occur at the same time:

- o “The best feature is the large number of fields which accommodates many events simultaneously.”
- o “Plenty of baseball fields that are able to service multiple levels of play.”
- o “Large size allows great flexibility in number/ types of games that can be played.”

In addition, others noted the central location of the fields in the City as their best feature. Current lighting was also seen as adequate and an important feature.

Three features were seen by many as the area’s main deficiencies:

- o Lack of adequate parking
- o The age and relative poor condition of the fields and related facilities, including the grass, poor drainage, snack bar, restrooms, bleachers, and scoreboard
- o The fact that the fields are too oriented to baseball:
  - “(Need) more field options so more sporting events can be held.”
  - “Irregular shape makes it difficult to accommodate many fields of other sports.”
- o Others pointed to the noxious odors of the nearby compost site and the overall industrial setting as a negative feature

- Reactions to the Short-Term Proposal - Perhaps of greatest importance is that 82 percent of those responding said they would use or visit the recreational area more as a result of the implementation of the Short-Term Proposal. The three most important improvements cited in this order were:

- o The new, multi-purpose field
- o Additional parking
- o New rest rooms

Other improvements cited (by fewer) as important were the seating at the new field, new entrances to the park, and the new concession building.

Only 30 percent of those responding noted things about the Short-Term Proposal that they did not like. These included the following:

- o There are things this proposal lacks:
  - Playground
  - Skating area
  - Pickleball courts
  - Ice rink
  - Swimming pool
  - Shaded area
- o The focus should be on improving the existing fields, not building something new.
- o Why keep the animal shelter in its current location?
- o Need training facilities.
- o Concerns about traffic flow around the area.

- Reactions to the Long-Term Proposal - As with the reaction to the Short-Term Proposal, the reaction to the Long-Term Proposal was very positive: 89 percent said they would use or visit the recreational area more often. Two aspects of the proposal were considered important by many:

- o Indoor practice buildings
- o Better layout of the Upper Fields

In addition, of lesser (but virtually equal) importance were:

- o More parking
- o New pedestrian waterfront esplanade
- o Ability to convert baseball fields into soccer fields

Finally, fewer cited the additional baseball field as an important factor.

Only 28 percent of those responding noted things about the Long-Term Proposal that they did not like. These included the following:

- o The most prevalent thing that people cited was too much emphasis on adding and improving baseball fields. Those who noted this often offered a variety of other uses for current or future baseball fields.
- o There are things this proposal lacks:
  - Playground
  - Skating area
  - Pickleball courts
  - Ice rink
  - Swimming pool
  - Batting cages
  - Promenade/walkway surrounding the entire area
  - Facilities and areas for the elderly and the disabled to recreate
- o Move the animal shelter away from this area
- o Block off the view of the Department of Public Works site and industrial buildings with landscaping

- Revisions to the Short-Term Proposal

A revised design has been prepared for the short term plan taking into consideration the community outreach process results. Key changes include the reconfiguration of the field layout to accommodate the addition of a playground, more ADA accessible restrooms, changes to the parking lot design, and location of the concession near the proposed playground.

This past summer, we heard from over 150 people at two evening outdoor events - a Downtown Concert on July 21 and at National Night Out on August 1.

On the evening of October 12, more than 75 people came to City Hall to offer their input and 90 people provided their feedback at Soccerfest on November 4.

Finally, since the summer, more than 250 people have responded to a survey about the future use of the site. We would still like to hear from you, and encourage you to participate!

City of Glen Cove Seeks Public Input to Improve Waterfront Recreational Facilities Survey Asks Residents to Share their Ideas for Recreation Improvements

Glen Cove, NY, September 18, 2017...The City of Glen Cove is asking residents for their ideas and feedback as it considers improvements to John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium, a valuable recreational resource located on the south side of Glen Cove Creek. With the support of funds provided by the New York State Department of State under Title 11 of the Environmental Protection Fund, the city is planning ways to improve the existing stadium and park, as well as the adjacent site of the former incinerator and compost area on Morris Avenue, both of which have been or are being decommissioned. Making such improvements will allow for more outdoor and indoor recreational opportunities and, at the same time, make it easier for people to park around the grounds.

The Glen Cove Recreation Commission and the Glen Cove Community Development Agency have been working closely with the Glen Cove Parks & Recreation Department and the consultant team, spearheaded by lead contractor Nelson & Pope, to devise a plan that would tie the proposed new waterside recreational amenities to the existing 19 acre John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium complex. "This is an exciting opportunity to improve Glen Cove's recreational facilities and we are grateful to New York State for providing our city with a grant that will help us realize a dynamic vision for our children and their families," said Mayor Reggie Spinello. "Critical to our success is hearing all of the great ideas our residents have to improve our current recreational offerings, create new facilities and recalibrate former industrial sites into Glen Cove's very own field of dreams."

"We have already received some thoughtful recommendations from our community outreach efforts during the summer," said Darcy Belyea, Parks & Recreation Director. "Over 150 people reviewed our draft plans and gave us many smart suggestions that complement our existing facilities and programs while also offering concepts that can take our recreational offerings to the next level; and we want more ideas."

There are two new opportunities for the public to provide their input on various draft concepts:

- There is an electronic, online survey for anyone to participate in at any time, available at www.surveymonkey.com/r/glencovecreek. It will take ten minutes to fill out, as the survey asks for reactions to existing conditions, short-term (i.e., current sites) and potential long-term improvements. The survey allows participants to download enlarged maps to better view specific elements of the proposals.

- On Thursday, October 12 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., the city will sponsor an Open House at City Hall, allowing residents to view large-scale versions of plans, speak to project personnel, and offer comments and suggestions.

"The health, wellness and vitality of a community are often times dependent on the recreational activities and facilities available right in your hometown," adds Ann Fangmann, AICP, Executive Director, Glen Cove Community Development Agency. "As representatives of the community our success on this Waterfront Recreational project is dependent on meeting our residents' needs and making their ideas a reality so I encourage everyone to take our survey and attend the October Open House."

Mayor's Update New Developments and Celebrations

Finally! That is the comment that I receive from many residents in response to the start of the demolition of the Village Square. Yes, this has been a long time coming – over six years in fact – and RXR Realty's new Village Square project will be an important catalyst for the vitalization of downtown Glen Cove. There will be jobs, new downtown living options with 146 rental apartments available for occupancy and new businesses that will complement our existing retail and restaurant mix and potentially attract additional retailers and entertainment options like the new AMC Theatre to our downtown. With the support of our Industrial Development Agency, projects like this will continue to be a priority as we enhance the livability and vitality of our city.

In addition to new building projects, we are also looking forward to companies and education groups expanding and reinvigorating their presence in the city. The School for Language Communication and Development has expressed interest in maintaining the educational integrity of the Coles School as they consider plans for a new school in our community. Rising Tide, a local favorite natural foods store is looking to expand its space as demand for their products and ready-to-eat option increases. It's also great to have Carvel back serving their soft serve ice cream and see our local supermarkets invest in their facilities as King Kullen, Stop n' Shop and La Placita are all renovating their stores to meet the needs of Glen Cove and area shoppers.

From local business to city business, our efforts this fall and winter will focus on finalizing our 2018 budget while maintaining our commitment to keep taxes stable, pinpoint new revenue sources and host dialogues on affordable housing, expanding the recreational offerings in the area of John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium and continuing to create exciting programs and events that engage our community with holiday celebrations, music, movies and cultural celebrations like Glen Cove's 100th and 350th Anniversaries which kick off in January, 2018.

With Halloween and Thanksgiving to the December holiday celebrations, I wish you and your families a season of togetherness and enjoyment.

Residents' input sought on how to transform former industrial site by creek

BY DAVID OLSON
david.olson@newsday.com

Glen Cove city officials are hoping to transform much of a former industrial site on the south side of Glen Cove Creek into parks, athletic fields and other "green uses," connecting it to the Garvies Point development on the creek's north shore.

An open house next Thursday will allow residents to give their input on proposed changes. One plan puts a field for football, soccer and lacrosse on a former city composting site, and parking across the street, where a long-unused incinerator is being demolished.

Long term, another athletic field, a splash park, a pool, and picnic and play areas are among options being discussed, said city parks and recreation director Darcy Belyea.

"The whole goal is to make that south side of the creek less industrial and bring it back to the public," Belyea said on a recent afternoon while standing at the composting site, the air filled with the odor of the nearby asphalt plant.

Glen Cove is a coastal city, but, "unless you go to one of the two beaches, you're not accessing the waterfront," she said. "This opens it up for everybody."

The composting and incinerator sites will be overhauled first, Belyea said. Next to the incinerator property is the city waste transfer station, which Mayor Reginald Spinello said he wants to close by 2019.

Belyea stood outside a cavernous aluminum building at the site, watching backhoes and bulldozers sort mounds of trash and recyclables. She imagined an indoor recreation center

Open house

Glen Cove residents can view plans for the south side of Glen Cove Creek and offer their own ideas at an open house next Thursday from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at City Hall. An online survey on the topic is at city website glencovelivus.com. Click on waterside improvement survey.

ter with batting cages and an artificial-turf field "if it were cleaned and we could get the smell out."

The city eventually hopes to transform other properties into recreation and park space, to complement the eight existing ballfields farther inland from the creek. But "there's no determination at all that any one of these particular properties would be targeted for reuse," said Ann Fangmann, executive director of the Glen Cove Community Development Agency.

Uniondale-based RXR Realty is in talks to buy the asphalt plant, said Frank Haftel, first vice president at RXR. The goal "is to bring it more in line with the public uses and public spaces that are part of Garvies Point," Haftel said, referring to RXR's project on the north side of the creek that is to include 1,110 condominiums and apartments, parks and other amenities.

Belyea envisions an esplanade on the south shore traveling over a creek bridge to connect with the esplanade planned for Garvies Point.

But none of the proposals is final, and the city is awaiting residents' ideas at the open house, Belyea said.

"We want to hear what they have to say," she said, "as to what they want there."

BRIEFS

Scuba divers and residents dive-in to clean Glen Cove's beaches

The Glen Cove Beautification Commission and the Long Island Scuba Network teamed up with Glen Cove's Harbor Patrol, local residents and students to help clean Pryhill and Morgan Park beaches as part of the 32nd annual International Coastal Cleanup, sponsored by Ocean Conservancy.

Scuba divers, equipped with metal detectors and net bags, cleaned under the water's surface while others combed Glen Cove's beaches with trash grabbers and bags to collect debris and track their finds. "This cleanup event is part environmental and part science project as we track every bit of trash so that the information can be used to educate the public and government agencies about the consequences of marine debris," said Darcy Belova, director of Glen Cove's Parks and Recreation Department and Beautification Commission.

Public input wanted to improve waterfront recreational facilities

The City of Glen Cove is asking residents for their ideas and feedback as it considers improvements to John MacCarone Memorial Stadium located on the south side of Glen Cove Creek. With the support of funds provided by the New York State Department of State under Title 11 of the Environmental Protection Fund, the city is planning ways to improve the existing stadium and park, as well as the adjacent site of the former incinerator and compost area on Morris Avenue, both of which are being decommissioned. Making such improvements will allow for more outdoor and indoor recreational opportunities and make it easier for people to park around the grounds.

The Glen Cove Recreation Commission and the Glen Cove Community Development Agency have been working closely with the Glen Cove Parks and Recreation Department and the consultant team, spearheaded by lead contractor Hudson &

Pope, to devise a plan that would tie the proposed new waterfront recreational amenities to the existing 19-acre John MacCarone Memorial complex.

■ There is an electronic, online survey for anyone to participate in at any time, available at www.surveymonkey.com/r/glenovestadium. The City of Glen Cove is asking residents for their ideas on improvements to John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium, located on the south side of Glen Cove Creek. With the support of funds provided by New York State Department, the city is planning ways to improve the existing stadium and park, as well as the adjacent site of the former incinerator and compost area on Morris Avenue, both of which are being decommissioned.

The Glen Cove Recreation Commission and the Glen Cove Community Development Agency are working closely with the Glen Cove Parks & Recreation Department and the consultant team, spearheaded by lead contractor Nelson & Pope, to devise a plan that would tie the proposed new waterside recreational amenities to the existing 19 acre John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium complex.

"This is an exciting opportunity to improve Glen Cove's recreational facilities and we are grateful to New York State for providing our city with a grant that will help us realize a dynamic vision for our children and their families," said Mayor Reggie Spinello. "Critical to our success is hearing all of the great ideas our residents have to improve our current recreational offerings, create new facilities and recalibrate former industrial sites into Glen Cove's very own field of dreams."

Here are two ways to submit ideas

Via an electronic, online survey available at www.surveymonkey.com/r/glen-covecreek. It will take about ten minutes to fill out, as the survey asks for reactions to existing conditions, short-term (i.e., current sites) and potential long-term improvements. The survey allows users to download enlarged maps to better view specific elements of the proposals.

On Thursday, October 12th from 6 PM to 9 PM, the city will sponsor an Open House at City Hall, allowing residents to view large-scale versions of plans, speak to project personnel, and offer comments and suggestions.

Wanted: Public Input On Waterfront Rec Facilities

The City of Glen Cove is asking residents for their ideas and feedback as it considers improvements to John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium, a valuable recreational resource located on the south side of Glen Cove Creek. With the support of funds provided by the New York State Department of State under Title 11 of the Environmental Protection Fund, the city is planning ways to improve the existing stadium and park, as well as the adjacent site of the former incinerator and compost area on Morris Avenue, both of which have been or are being decommissioned. Making such improvements will allow for more outdoor and indoor recreational opportunities and make it easier for people to park around the grounds.

The Glen Cove Recreation Commission and the Community Development Agency (CDA) have been working closely with the Parks & Recreation Department and the consultant team, spearheaded by lead contractor Nelson & Pope, to devise a plan that would tie the proposed new waterside recreational amenities to the existing 19-acre John Maccarone Memorial (City) Stadium complex.

"We have already received some thoughtful recommendations from our community outreach efforts during the summer," said Darcy Belyea, parks and recreation director. "Over 150 people reviewed our draft plans and gave us many smart suggestions that complement our existing facilities and programs while also offering concepts that can take our recreational offerings to the next level; we want more ideas."

There is an online survey for anyone to participate in at www.surveymonkey.com/r/glencovecreek. It will take 10 minutes to fill out, as the survey asks for reactions to existing conditions, short-term (i.e., current sites) and potential long-term improvements. The survey allows participants to download enlarged maps to better view specific elements of the proposals.

On Thursday, Oct. 12, from 6 to 9 p.m., the city will sponsor an open house at City Hall, allowing residents to view large-scale versions of plans, speak to project personnel and offer comments and suggestions.

"The health, wellness and vitality of a community are often times dependent on the recreational activities and facilities available right in your hometown," said Ann Fangmann, executive director of the CDA.
