She writes:

Bristol is a typical Wisconsin Township, being a six mile square municipality located in southeastern Wisconsin. Bristol is bordered on the south by the Wisconsin-Illinois State Line, on the east by I-94, on the north by County Highway K or 60th Street, and on the West by 216th Avenue, also known as Town Line Road.

Bristol has experienced continual growth and change.

The first land claim was made in 1835 by William Higgins on the property now at 14800 75th Street. The second claim was by Sereno Fowler on Highway 50 at MB North (156th Avenue). The Fowlers were teachers from the east, so they started a private Girl's School with Mrs. Fowler being the first female teacher in the Township. She also started the first Library.

The first farm opened and plowed was in 1836 by Rollin Tuttle at 8001 184th Avenue. In 1837 a road was surveyed from Southport (Kenosha) to Lake Geneva and settlement concentrated at Highway 50 and 184th Avenue known as "Jacksonville". They petitioned for a mail route and in 1839 a post office was established in the A.B. Jackson home and he was named Postmaster. The need for a name brought about the decision for "Bristol" in honor of the Reverend Ira Bristol, an early settler. By 1850 log cabins were being replaced with frame buildings, orchards were planted, schools and churches had been built. An agricultural fair was started and in 1853 the first circus in Kenosha County took place in Bristol.

The coming of the KD (Kenosha Division) Railroad in 1857 caused settlement to shift to the depot area and what today is called the "Village of Bristol". There was a stock yard, coal and lumber yard, Bowman Dairy, hardware store, meat market, four grocery stores, two blacksmith shops, harness shop, general merchandise store, ladies hat store, barber shop, pool hall and a funeral home. The post office moved to the village in 1889.

Woodworth also had a depot, Bowman Dairy, Robert's Feed and Grain, blacksmith shop and later the U.S. Standard Products Co. (Serum Plant). The last train was taken off in 1939. Trucks had taken over the freight service with their greater flexibility and door to door delivery. Installation of municipal sewer in 1965 and water in 1968 put the budding Industrial park on U.S. Highway 45 in a good position to offer an ideal location to small manufacturing companies. Today there are businesses in the 150 acre park and steps are in process for expansion. Air service is readily available at Kenosha, Milwaukee Mitchell or Chicago O'Hare Airports.

Sewer and water allowed nice subdivisions to spring up and flourish along with several apartment buildings. Seer was extended to the Lake George area in 1971. A second well was drilled in 1983 a mile north of the village on Highway 45 with piping connecting it to well #1 thus either well can service the 100,000 gallon storage tower located in the industrial park.

The new county highway garage and office complex at 45 and 50 will have a big effect on future growth in that area.

The I-94 corridor as opened up a whole new development on the east boundary of Bristol, Hotels, outlet stores, gas stations, fast food, banks, restaurants, mini-storage and a huge auto dealership stand on what was farm land. A third municipal well was dug there and sewer service is contracted to Pleasant Prairie. Having three interstate exchanges in Bristol assures continuing commercial growth in the corridor.

Land Use Committee to hear rezoning requests

1-4-94
The county Land Use Committee will conduct a public hearing at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 12, at the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St., Bristol, to discuss requests for zoning changes.

■ 1-94 Partners, Deerfield, Ill., owner, and Charles Catalano, general partner, Lynn and Sandi Obertin, 11900 45th Ave., buyer/agent, request a change from A-1 Agricultural Preservation to B-3 Highway Business zoning at the southwest corner of Highway 50 and 125th Avenue.

change from A-1 Agricultural Preservation to B-3 Highway Business District as zoning map amendment at the northwest corner of highways 50 and 45.

■ Richard S. and Betty Manthly, P.O. Box 447, Salem, request a conditional use permit to allow the relocation and increase in height of an existing radio communication tower, on the east side of 224th Avenue at Highway 142.

■ Alan W. and Patricia L. Doerflinger, 900 100th Ave., lessor, and Smart SMR of Illinois Inc., a Nextel Communications subsidiary, Schaumburg, Ill., lessee, request a conditional use permit to construct a radio equipment shelter next to an existing radio communications tower on the west side of 100th Avenue, south of Highway A.

■ Linda Wilson, 15901 Horton Road, requests a conditional use permit for the operation of a personal kennel.

Mott withdraws from race

Supports Moravec for county executive

Russell Mott will withdraw from the race for Kenosha County executive and he will support Kathleen Moravec for the job.

When he announced in November that he would seek the post, Mott, 83, 6100 156th Ave., said he would withdraw if someone else challenged incumbent John Collins.

"When Kelly Moravec announced she was going to run, I took the time to make a thorough study of her," Mott said. "She has the integrity and honesty that is needed for this office."

Moravec, 43, 6426 54th Ave., is the 17th District alderman.

Collins, 48, 408 78th St., is seeking his third four-year term.

Mott, a long-time critic of Collins, asks his supporters to back Moravec "if you ever hope to change the high taxes and spending that the present administration has given us."

Moravec said, "I'm delighted he's lending his support to me."

She said she and Mott share the same philosophy of tight fiscal restraint.

Collins, who ran unopposed in the 1990 election after former County Executive Gil Dosenagen dropped out of the race, said he is taking Moravec's challenge seriously.

"This is a very serious election and is going to be treated by me and those who support me as very serious," Collins said. "I anticipate a lively

Bristol denies kennel request

BRISTOL — On a 3-2 vote, the Bristol Town Board Monday recommended denial of Linda Wilson's request for a dog kennel.

Supervisors William Lesnjak, Donald Wienke and John Meyer voted to deny the kennel request. Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren and Supervisor William Glenbocki favored the kennel.

The town recommendation now goes to the county for final action. The Land Use Committee will vote on the issue at a 7 p.m. meeting Wednesday at the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St.

Wilson's request has a long, complicated history. Though she has had dogs on her property at 16607 Horton Road since 1985, Wilson did not have them licensed. She will answer to that charge in Bristol Municipal Court later this month.

"Linda Wilson is not denying that she was in violation," said Van Slochteren. "Everybody has a right to make a mistake and correct that mistake."

Wilson's request for a conditional use permit that would allow her to keep eight dogs in a confined space on her property has neighbors on both sides of the issue.

Noel Elfering, 15324 Horton Road, supported Wilson's request at last week's meeting of the Bristol Plan Commission and again Monday. He said the dogs cause no problem in the neighborhood and should be allowed to stay.

Wilson's dogs were already living in the town before Bristol adopted the county zoning ordinance, said Elfering, and should be allowed to stay.

Bill Meyer, 16607 Horton Road, another neighbor and brother of Supervisor John Meyer, opposes Wilson's request. He told the town planning commission one of Wilson's dogs attacked a steer in his pasture seven years ago.

Late last week, Town Board members were hopeful that a solution had been found. Wilson and Meyer were to meet and resolve their differences.

But in a letter delivered to board members Monday, Wilson said, "As you know, I accepted your recommendation to proceed with this mediation process in hopes that I could resolve some grievance presented by my neighbor. After making every attempt to accommodate his schedule, with the assistance of the board supervisors appointed to the mediation, my neighbor chose not to appear."

Wilson said, "My dogs are pets. They do not cause noise, and they have not bothered my neighbors."

Both Lesnjak and Wienke said they opposed Wilson's request because it is contrary to county zoning ordinances.

When the Wilson request was on the Bristol Town Board agenda last October, there were questions about whether John Meyer should be allowed to vote, given the involvement of his brother. Town Attorney Cecil Rothrock advised the board that Meyer should not vote because a member of his immediate family was involved in the issue.

Since that time, an opinion from the District Attorney's office contradicted Rothrock's opinion, noting that a brother is not considered immediate family. Rothrock said Meyer should be allowed to vote and he did.

Contest offers students money

To the Editor:

Each year the 'American Legion National High School Oratorical Contest' is held. The state mails the information to all high schools the end of August. The local chairman checks with the high schools to make sure they have the information and see if they need any help.

The contest is open to all high school students, 9th thru 12th grades. They are to give a prepared oration not less than eight minutes nor more than ten minutes on some phase of the Constitution of the United States which will give emphasis to the attendant duties and obligation of a citizen to our government.

Most prizes are scholarships. The contest starts with a county contest, district (we are in the First District, Kenosha, Racine, Walworth and Waukesha Counties), state vice commander's contest and state finals. The winner receives a $1,000 scholarship, national regional contest, national sectional contest, and the national finals the winner receives $18,000, 2nd place $16,000, 3rd place $14,000, and 4th place $12,000 scholarships.

We have a problem in Kenosha County, the schools are not passing the information to the students. I have asked students in Kenosha, Somers, Paddock Lake and Wilmot and they have never heard about the contest. With all the money in scholarships surely some students should be interested.

The Kenosha County contest is scheduled for noon Sunday, January 23, at American Legion Post 21, 504 58 Street, Kenosha — First District contest is Sunday, February 6th, Parkview High School in Orfordville. Kenosha County American Legion Oratorical Contest Chairman Lyle Krueger 414-857-2119.

Bristol may adopt new team name

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Five years after it dropped the name "Demons" for its teams, the Bristol Grade School Board Tuesday night was asked to consider dropping its current name, "The Renegades."

Administrator Gale Ryzek said he was looking for a suitable insignia to symbolize a renegade for new basketball uniforms that were ordered. Frustrated at not being able to find something, he said he checked the definition of the word in the dictionary and discovered, to his dismay, that a renegade "is someone deceitful, who rapes and pillages."

Said Ryzek, "I recommend we consider something a little more politically correct."

"We gave the people a choice five years ago," replied board member Edward Becker. "They didn't want the demon because they said it was worshipping the devil. The same people said a renegade was fine for a mascot, and now all of a sudden we're getting static."

Board President Richard Bizek said, "In this day and age, renegades is a lousy name. We let them pick it, and they picked it out of spite because they lost the demons."

Bizek suggested selecting the name of an animal, such as the badger. But Becker took issue, saying, "The badger is one of the most vicious killers there is."

In other business, the board authorized Ryzek to purchase four computers at a cost of $1,007 each, to bring the number of computers in the lab to 30.

Quarry plans unveiled

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

Plans to locate a limestone quarry at Sheridan Road and Highway 165 were announced Thursday by officials of Payne and Dolan Inc., Waukesha.

Ed Reesman, Payne and Dolan vice president, said the company plans to purchase 400 acres for the project. The actual limestone quarry and stone refining operation will involve only 175 acres.

Reesman said the new quarry is necessary to meet the growing demand for limestone in Kenosha and Racine counties and surrounding communities. Within a year, all currently permitted sources for limestone in Kenosha County will be depleted, he said.

Benefits to the local community, according to projections by Payne and Dolan, include the impact of a $3 million to $4 million operating budget on the local tax base; tax revenue of $400,000 per year; readily available stone supply for local contractors; annual payroll of

"There has never been a mining operation of that scope in Kenosha County."

Thomas Terwall, Pleasant Prairie village president

about $1.5 million; and an estimated $700,000 in goods and services that would be purchased locally.

The operation would employ 25 people, approximately one-third of them from Kenosha County. Quarrying would run from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m., approximately 250 days per year.

Limestone is a basic ingredient in all phases of new construction.

Before the quarry operation will be allowed to start, a lengthy permit process must be satisfied.

The site needs approval from the village of Pleasant Prairie and the Department of Natural Resources. Issues that will be studied include air quality, cultural resources, wetland use and land use.

Studies of visual influences, noise, traffic circulation, water quality, geology and soils will also be done before the final permit is issued.

"There are a lot of unanswered questions about the project," Pleasant Prairie Village President Thomas Terwall said Thursday. "There has never been a mining operation of that scope in Kenosha County."

Terwall said before the Pleasant Prairie Village Board and the Pleasant Prairie Plan Commission vote on the matter, there will be public hearings to give citizens a chance to comment.

The first public hearing will likely be held early in March, he said.

Reesman said a project information newsletter was mailed Wednesday to 1,300 residents who live closest to the proposed quarry. The company plans an informational open house soon, he said.

A 12-acre parcel in the southeast corner of the quarry site has been donated by Payne and Dolan to the Archaeological Conservancy, Albuquerque, N.M. It is considered a valuable archeological and scientific resource.

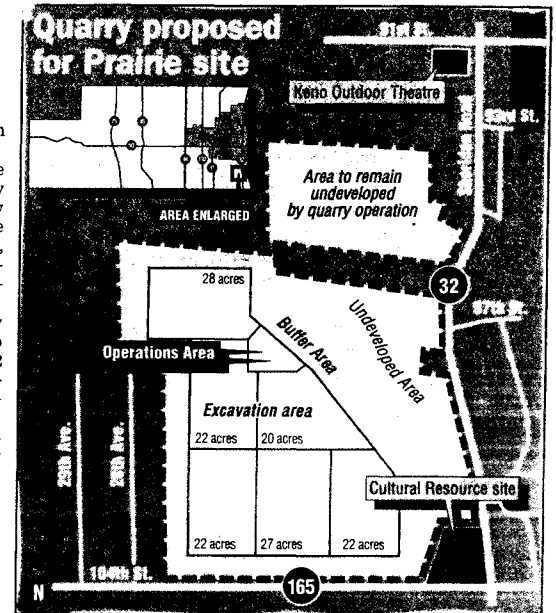

Members of the conservancy asked Pleasant Prairie two months ago to rezone the 12 acres from agricultural to conservancy so it can be protected.

Reesman said once the quarry is permitted, the company will excavate limestone at the rate of 25 acres every five to 15 years.

Quarrying begins by removing the surface soil and exposing the limestone. Explosive charges are then detonated in drilled holes to break the stone.

The stone is then crushed into various sizes to meet specific customer needs.

Reesman said modern blasting equipment is quieter than old equipment.

Kenosha News map

"We'll be quarrying far below the surface and the site will be enclosed and obscured," said Reesman.

Payne and Dolan estimates the Pleasant Prairie site will have a life of 50 years, producing about 4,000 tons of stone a day. Reesman said the operation would require 180 trucks per day, most of them using the Highway 165 to I-94 route.

Mott claims Collins violated election laws

By Jennie Tunkielcz
Staff Writer

Election papers for County Executive John Collins are being questioned by his former opponent Russell Mott.

Mott is charging that Collins violated state election laws by not signing a declaration of candidacy form before circulating nomination papers.

Collins and County Clerk

Mott

Collins

Nancy Principe say there is no violation.

District Attorney Robert Jambois and Assistant District Attorney Richard Ginkowski are reviewing the complaint and may have a ruling today on the matter.

"My concern is when I saw the belly-aching of Pat Nelson and Brenda Carey-Mielke on the two boys running for county supervisor, I thought to myself, 'Wait a minute. What about the County Executive?" Mott said Wednesday.

Nelson and Carey-Mielke have filed election law violation complaints against their opponents for signing nomination papers which they did not circulate.

Charles Labanowsky Sr., Nelson's opponent, would not have enough signatures to be on the ballot if it is found he violated election rules.

Thomas Callahan, Carey-

Mielke's opponent, would lose 10 signatures but would not lose his place on the ballot.

Both charges are being reviewed by the District Attorney's office.

Principe said no laws were violated in Collins' case.

On Dec. 15, well before the Jan. 4 deadline, Collins turned in his completed nomination papers, Principe said.

Principe said she reviewed

Collins' election file on Dec. 16 and found he had not turned in his declaration of candidacy form.

"He thought all of his forms were in, so I called him," Principe said. "I've called candidates before when they don't turn in all the papers."

"It's only fair," Principe said.

Collins turned in the needed form on Dec. 21.

Bristol kennel request tabled First aid course to b offered in Bristol

By Arlene Jensen

1-13-94
BRISTOL — The county Land Use Committee Wednesday tabled Linda Wilson's request for a conditional use permit that would allow her to operate a kennel on her property at 15901 Horton Road.

After more than two hours of testimony, mostly by people supporting Wilson's request, committee members said they were not satisfied with some of the conditions listed on the permit.

"I cannot accept these conditions," said Supervisor Mark Karow. "A 12- by 6-foot kennel in a garage is not big enough for eight dogs. And a kennel should not be part of a residence in a garage. It should be in a separate building."

Supervisor Patricia Nelson said she wants to see items such as longer runs for the dogs, runs made of material than can be hosed off and canopies to shade the animals from the summer sun.

Larry Brumback, assistant director of Planning and Development, said a new set of conditions will be prepared and the request will be placed on a future agenda. It may not be ready for the Feb. 9 meeting, he said.

Wilson is asking to be allowed to keep eight dogs on her property. Though the actual issuance of a kennel license would come from the town of Bristol, the conditional use permit must be issued by the county in accordance with zoning laws.

Bristol nixes kennel application

By Jeanie Lindstrom

1-17-94
This could be a case of the Hatfield's and the McCoy's, as two Bristol neighbors brought their dispute before the town board Jan. 10.

Linda Wilson, 15901 Horton Road, previously requested a kennel license for the nine dogs she has owned since 1985. She admitted in a printed statement to the board that her dogs have gone previously unlicensed.

"In the Horton Road area, we were under the mistaken impression that some of these new ordinances did not affect us," Wilson said. "I guess we felt we were a little bit too country."

Objecting to the approval of the license is neighbor Bill Meyer, 16007 Horton Road. His brother, John, is a member of the town board.

"One of the supervisors stated if it weren't for the objection of my neighbor, he would vote in favor of it. Another supervisor said he had no choice but to stick with his brother. This kind of personal bias should never enter into an important decision by town supervisors," Wilson's letter stated.

But chairman Audrey Van Slochteren says there is more to the story than the issue of a kennel license. Wilson was asked to meet with Meyer and settle the differences on their own.

"I accepted your recommendation to proceed with this mediation process," Wilson stated. "After making every attempt to accommodate Meyer's schedule, my neighbor chose not to appear.

"There are long-time problems here," she said. "And the town does not get involved in neighborhood feuds."

The request for the license was denied on a 3-2 vote. Van Slochteren and supervisor William Glembocki voted for approval, while supervisors William Leanjak, Don Wienke and Meyer voted against.

"She has appealed and they wouldn't listen," Van Slochteren said. "I think we'll see it end up in court."

Wilson has licensed four of her dogs and is in violation with the other five. She will appear in Bristol municipal court Jan. 19.

Crosswalks: The board voted unanimously against having a crosswalk painted on Highway 45 and 82nd Street, a common crossing for students attending Bristol School.

"Crosswalks would not resolve the problem," Van Slochteren said.

Recently a child was hit by a truck at the site in question.

Sewer extension approval sought

By Arlene Jensen

1-14-94
BRISTOL — The town of Bristol has asked state approval for a sanitary sewer collection system in Bristol Utility District 4.

Acting on behalf of the district, the Bristol Town Board has requested approval of a collection system in the district and an interceptor sewer to pipe sewage to Salem for processing.

District 4 consists of two platted subdivisions, Lake Shangrila Beach and Lake Shangrila Beach Second Addition, with a combined total of 192 lots.

Boundaries of the district are Highway V (116th St) on the north, 122nd St. on the south, one block east of 221st Ave. on the east and Lake Shangrila on the west.

Fifteen homes and one commercial business are currently served by sewer. An additional 147 homes use holding tanks and septic tanks.

Bristol Business Manager Mary Schmidt said "Every year we get more reports of failing septic systems at Shangrila. No can can build a home out there without a holding tank."

Utility District No. 4 is within Salem Utility District No. 2 service area and has a contract for treatment. The Salem plant has ample capacity to accept wastewater from the Bristol subdivisions.

Frederick Huhn, DNR Bureau of Wastewater Management, said the estimated construction cost for the collection system and interceptor sewer is $1,687,927. Annual operation and maintenance costs have been estimated at $16,392, including a payment of $8,000 to Salem to cover treatment costs.

Complaint filed dismissed against Collins

By Jeanie Lindstrom

Former Kenosha County executive candidate Russell Mott, Bristol, has filed a complaint with the district attorney's office. The complaint states that incumbent John Collins violated state election laws by not signing a declaration of candidacy form before circulating nomination papers for re-election to the county executive seat.

"(County clerk) Nancy Principe told me she called John Collins to have him sign his candidacy papers," Mott said. "Collins told her his man was going to do that. Principe also said Collins has never come down and signed them. She's always sent them to his campaign manager."

"According to state statutes, he's in violation and could be fined up to $500," Mott added.

When Mott brought the accusation to district attorney Robert Jambois, Jambois tried to dismiss him. Only after Mott said he would take his complaint to the attorney general, did Jambois assign the investigation to assistant district attorney Richard Ginkowski.

Reportedly, Principe denies any laws were violated. Collins turned in his nomination papers on Dec. 15, before the Jan. 4 deadline; Principe reviewed the election file on Dec. 16 and discovered Collins had not filed a declaration of candidacy form; Principe called Collins about the missing declaration of candidacy form; Collins turned the form in Dec. 21.

On Jan. 13, the district attorney's office said Collins did not violate state election laws due to the inconsistencies in those laws.

After the decision, Mott said he will take his concerns to the attorney general for investigation.

"I'm not interested in a fine," Mott said. "I'm interested in Collins admitting he made a mistake."

Upset with Collins and an increase in taxes, Mott had declared his candidacy for county executive, saying he would withdraw from the race if someone else would challenge Collins.

When Kelly Moravec tossed her hat into the political ring, Mott withdrew his candidacy, supporting Moravec.

The government giveth and the government taketh away, especially if you are a farmer.

The Kenosha-Racine County office of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service this week cautioned farmers that if they participated in the government's 1993 Acreage Reduction Program and received advance deficiency payments last spring, there is a strong likelihood they will be required to repay some or all of that money.

The reason, explained Douglas Caruso, ASCS state director, is that corn prices paid to growers have risen dramatically because of lower-than-expected production in 1993. The reason for that, he said, was the flooding of the Mississippi River basin and excessive moisture throughout the Midwest Corn Belt, including southeast Wisconsin.

Most ARP participants received an advance corn deficiency payment when they enrolled last spring. That payment was 36 cents per bushel, or one-half of projected 72-cent deficiency payment.

The actual payment, said local ASCS Director Elmer Strassburg, will be the difference between the government target price of 75 cents per bushel and the average market price during the five months from September through this month. The government projected a five-month market price of $2.03, but the actual price has jumped to more than $3 per bushel.

While the final calculation of the 1993 corn deficiency payment will not be made until next month, Caruso said "it is clear that it will be considerably less than the 72 cents projected last spring." Bottom line is that farmers who got advance payments will likely have to give the money back to the government.

Cash grain farmer Wilfred Meier, 2611 98th St., Bristol, said Tuesday that the news really didn't come as much of a shock.

"Because of the flooding in the Midwest, the drought in the Southeast and the excess rainfall in this area last summer," he said, "we knew production would be down and corn prices up." The government gave farmers the option of putting up to 10 percent of their acreage into the ARP program and getting paid not to grow corn on it. But you signed a contract that stated you would only receive money if prices stayed low.

Meier said in his case, he held out 23 of several hundred acres intended for corn last growing season and received about $4,200 from the federal government as half payment for participating in the Acreage Reduction Program. He said he expects to have to pay all of it back once the final calculations are made next month.

While he is getting an excellent price right now for the corn he sells — $2.92 per bushel in Milwaukee — he doesn't expect to realize any more profit than he did on his 1992 crop.

"I am getting more bushels per acre," he said, "but because I had acre after acre drowned out, I only have 17,000 bushels in my bins, and I should have had 22,000 bush-

Jackpot $24 million Powerball ticket bought in Bristol

BRISTOL — He wasn't giving any names, but Ron Schuler said he talked with someone Sunday who knows the winner of a $24 million Powerball lottery jackpot.

"A young lady called in the afternoon," said Schuler, owner of the Countryside Convenience Center, 20015 93rd St., where the winning ticket was purchased.

"She said she knows who the winner is, but they didn't want to say right away," he said.

He said he had given her information on how to contact lottery officials, and they had advised him not to give out her name until the winner and the lottery are ready to make an announcement.

"This is the second big winner we've had in 21 years that the store's been open. That's pretty amazing," Schuler said.

He referred to a $100,000 prize won here the same day last July when school teacher Les Robins of Fond du Lac won a $110 million Powerball jackpot with a ticket purchased in that eastern Wisconsin city.

"A lot of people had gotten the word that we had a winner and they came in" Sunday, he said. "Business was good."

This is the first multi-million-dollar jackpot won in Kenosha County, said Wisconsin Lottery spokesman Steve Madsen. There have been a couple $250,000 winners, including new Kenosha County Register of Deeds Louise Principe, and the $100,000 won by an Illinois woman at Schuler's store.

It's also the third largest prize ever won in the state, topped only by Robins and Wayne Goetsch, Beaver Dam, who won $27.6 million in October 1989, Madsen said.

Saturday night's winner marks Wisconsin's fourth in the multi-state Powerball game, he said.

Besides Robins, the other winners were Doug Hallada, Sturgeon Bay, who won $6 million on July 1, 1992, and Roland Mahlum, LaCrosse, who received $2 million on July 4, 1992.

Man arrested for lewd behavior

A Bristol man has been arrested on four counts of lewd and lascivious behavior.

Clint Hartigan, 20, 10217 195th Ave., has admitted to Sheriff's Department detectives that on four occasions Jan. 11 he pulled up in his car alongside female motorists and exposed himself to them.

The incidents occurred between 10:15 p.m. and 11 p.m. on Highway 50, between Highway 45 and 248th Avenue.

Lt. Larry Zarletti said detectives located Hartigan based on descriptions of the car.

Kathy E. Mudroch, 32, 19612 81st St., Bristol, was released from Memorial Hospital, Burlington, after treatment of injuries received in an accident at 7:29 a.m. Tuesday.

The Kenosha Sheriff's Department said Mudroch, west-bound on Highway 142, spun out of control on the icy roadway east of 240th Avenue. The car struck the south guardrail, then crossed the road and struck the other guardrail.

Sewer project OK'd by Salem, Bristol

SALEM — An agreement extending sewer service from Salem into Bristol was approved Thursday during special meetings held by the Salem and Bristol town boards.

Salem Town Chairman Shirley Boening said the agreement extends Salem's sewer line east to serve properties in the town of Bristol on the east shore of Lake Shangrila.

She said Bristol's engineer will design the system and handle the project until it is connected to Salem Sewer Utility District 2. Once the project is completed, the Bristol property owners will pay the same sewer user charge, $80.25 per quarter, as Salem utility users.

Bristol will collect the charges and pay to Salem an amount equal to the charges and fees and will be responsible for recovering such amounts from its own customers through its own billings. Connection fees will be paid prior to the customer connecting to the sewer system.

Following Salem's adoption of the agreement, Salem Utility District Attorney John Bjelajac hand carried the document to Bristol, where it was approved by the Bristol Board and signed by Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren and Clerk Gloria Bailey.

Gun club noise may hinder development

Shooting range near planned subdivision

BRISTOL — Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Monday she believes a compromise can be reached between those who shoot guns at the Bristol Conservation Club and those who think the sport is too noisy.

At a meeting of the Bristol Town Board, Van Slochteren responded to a letter from Eric Ward, 20030 82nd St., who wrote: "The continued operation of the shooting range is very important to a lot of citizens of Bristol."

The Conservation Club, south of Highway AH, west of Highway 45, has recently come under criticism from residents who live nearby. A major subdivision is planned for property adjoining the club.

Ward, 15, a gun owner, said in his letter: "I have heard that the new housing development in town might cause a problem for the gun range...It is my opinion that the developer should have known about the range and should have taken that into consideration before buying the land that they are building on."

Ward said the range provides entertainment and recreation for town residents, brings money in from other communities and promotes gun safety. If the ranges were closed, he said, hunters would be without a safe, suitable place to fire their guns.

Van Slochteren said there will be meetings of the Town Board, members of the conservation club and concerned citizens.

"We do want to talk to everyone concerned," she said, "and I feel sure it will be amicable."

In other business, the board approved a proposal from the engineering firm of Graef, Anhalt and Schloemer, Wauke- sha, for bidding and construction plans for a $1.6 million sewer project in Utility District 4.

A collection system will be installed in the district, which consists of two subdivisions, Lake Shangrila Beach and Lake Shangrila Beach Second Addition, with a combined total of 192 lots. Besides a collection system, the project includes an interceptor sewer to pipe sewage to Salem for processing.

Though the area is in the town of Bristol, it is included in the service area of Salem Utility District 2. The Salem plant has ample capacity to accept wastewater from the Bristol subdivisions.

Approval of an agreement with Salem Utility District No. 2 was also on the Monday agenda, but Van Slochteren said it could not be approved because copies of the contract had not arrived from Salem. The matter will be handled at a special Thursday meeting, she said.

The board also approved a certified survey map for the property of Lynn and Sandi Obertin, Highway 50 and 125th Ave. The town and county recently approved the rezoning of the parcel from agricultural to highway business, clearing the way for a new business, to be called Obertin's Artwalk.

The Obertins, 11900 45th Ave., currently have stores at the Factory Outlet Centre and at Lakeside Marketplace that specialize in original artwork and crafts. They will consolidate into one new building.

Conservation club concerns raised

By Diane Jahnke

A meeting between the Bristol Town Board, conservation club representatives and citizens with concerns over the shooting range will be set in the near future, said chairman Audrey Van Slochteren at the Jan. 24 meeting.

The issue of noise from the shooting range creating a nuisance was once again raised. The matter was addressed by Eric F. Ward, 15, who was concerned that complaints may arise from resident who settle in the planned Bristolwoods Subdivision.

The Conservation Club of Kenosha County, Highway AH, just west of Highway 45, is located adjacent to the planned subdivision. Ward felt the developer should have taken the existing shooting range into consideration before buying the land.

In a letter submitted to Van Slochteren, Ward wrote, "The range provides entertainment and recreation for many citizens of Bristol. The range also promotes gun safety."

"If for some reason, the ranges are closed, NRA (National Rifle Association) members and hunters will be without a safe, suitable place to fire their guns."

Ward also noted the range had been in the area for a long time.

"There is no reason why some reasonable compromise can not be reached that would not severely limit the operation of the range," he stated.

Complaints of noise from the shooting range were expressed last fall by several nearby residents. The board at that time, agreed to meet with conservation club representatives.

Utility district: The board approved a $1.6 million proposal from Graef, Anhalt and Schloemer to perform the Step 3 phase of the Utility 4 sewer project in Lake Shangri-la.

Town employees thanked: Van Slochteren thanked the town employees and fire department for "their fine service through the frigid weather."

She said there were two water main breaks and a couple of residents had frozen pipes. The roads also demanded extra attention.

Van Slochteren commented, "We again have received calls complementing our road crew. So, hats off to our employees."

Would county-run airport idea fly?

Talks preliminary on cost, interest

By Joe DiGiovanni
Staff Writer

1-25-94
There have been talks on how much it would cost the county to operate the Kenosha Regional Airport if it took control of the facility from the city, officials said Monday.

County and city officials said talks were preliminary and have been restricted to gathering data over the telephone. They said it was too early to determine whether they supported the change.

"The best analogy that I know of is somebody has asked us to walk into the used-airport lot and kick tires, and that's all that's happened," County Executive John Collins said. "Nobody's even looked at the sticker yet."

Mayor John Antaramian asked the county to consider taking control of the facility, 9900 52nd St. He said the county was benefiting from some city services, including the airport, but was not paying for them.

"There are areas where county government should be dealing with what the city is doing," the mayor said. He declined to elaborate on what other city services he felt the county could operate.

The airport has been operating at an annual deficit of $250,000 to $300,000. City Administrator Nickolas Arnold said. He said the talks have been limited to conversations between himself and Frederick Patrie, county public works director, and David Geertsens, county finance director.

He said the talks began in late fall. Meanwhile, County Board Supervisor Mark Wisniewski said he wanted the county Intergovernmental and Administration Committees to discuss the matter with the city. He said residents of the 19th District are upset about zoning laws the city adopted last year and the possibility of expanding the airport.

"People are becoming confused, they are becoming irritated and they are becoming disgusted," Wisniewski said.

Under the zoning ordinance, the city can regulate development in areas of Somers, Pleasant Prairie, Paris and Bristol that are near the airport. The areas span 3 miles from the airport and types of restrictions vary depending on each location's proximity to the airport.

Collins said the county was concerned because aldermen were deciding zoning issues in other municipalities. He said the county should have had a say in the zoning, but the city denied that request.

In addition, he said the county was concerned that expansion would cause some roads to be closed and relocated.

Embittered? By what standard?

To the Editor: 2-18-94

This is an answer to the statement Mr. John Collins made in the January 14 Kenosha News article that Jennie Tunkielez wrote.

Mr. John Collins, first of all, I am not embittered as you stated, but I am upset with your stating one thing and doing the exact opposite and caring nothing for the people in Kenosha County.

Now the second part in which you stated that I want you off the ticket. This is not true so am I to think that this is another one of your mistakes? The article also quoted Mr. Jambouis stating that you had made a mistake. If I or any other person had made that mistake we would have been in court and made to pay for our mistake, but not you. I think the state election board should take you off the ticket with your many violations of the law.

Now the third part where you said that the people must decide who would be the best leader for the people of Kenosha County. This leader must have honesty and integrity to lead us into the 21st Century, so please try and be honest in what you tell the people. To date, you have not shown the leadership that will be required for this job.

Now, Mr. Collins, if this is embitterment by your standard, I am sorry, but that is not the proper way for an elected official to operate. Let the chips fall where they may.

Family claims Powerball winnings

By Kenosha News Staff and Associated Press 2-12-94

"We all bought the ticket. We're all winners," said Kathryn Gibson of Salem, one of six family members seeking a share in the $24 million Powerball jackpot won Jan. 22.

Gibson, 24620 87th St., her parents, two sisters and a brother filed a court request Friday asking that their family partnership be recognized as the winner of the jackpot.

In addition to Gibson, the State Gaming Commission said the group includes her sister Christine Meek, also of Kenosha County; their parents, Rita and Phillip Bonanno of Lake County, Ill.; a brother, Phillip Bonanno of Volusia County, Fla.; and a third sister, Cynthia Bonanno of Lake County.

Lottery officials on Feb. 2 had validated the winning ticket from the Jan. 22 drawing. The ticket was purchased at Countryside Convenience Center, 20015 93rd St., Bristol. f The Bonanno family partnership filed the request in Dane County Circuit Court.

Attorneys for the ticket holders issued a statement that a court order was needed, under state law, for the payment to go to the family group rather than an individual.

The statement said the matter should be resolved in the next several weeks.

This is the first multi-million-dollar Powerball jackpot won in Kenosha County, according to Steve Madsen, spokesman for the Wisconsin Lottery.

Madsen said earlier that the jackpot actually totaled $24,391,317.11 and if it were paid to a single winner the first payment would be $1,230,317.11 followed by 19 annual payments of $1,219,000.

Marine repair business denied by Bristol panel

By Patrik Vander Volden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — A zoning change and conditional use permit were denied Tuesday by the Plan Commission for a proposed marine parts and repair business on the northeast corner of Highway 45 and 84th Place.

By 4-1 votes, the commission denied a request by Mario M. Sampaio, 19910 84th Place, and John Cost, Lindenhurst, Ill., to rezone the parcel from single-family to highway business and to issue a conditional use permit.

Of 14 nearby property owners notified, five attended the meeting to object to the zoning.

Although Bristol Motors is on the opposite corner, neighbors said the area is residential in character and a business would be incompatible.

"I'd like to work with my neighbors," said Sampaio.

He said he planned to live in a house currently on the parcel and build a 54-foot by 40-foot pole building in which to operate his mail order business, parts repair and small retail sales.

Commissioners were concerned that the highway business zoning was inappropriate for just marine sales and too intrusive on the neighborhood by allowing a larger variety of businesses than any other zoning.

Voting to deny the petition were Dan Hohmeier, Gene Anderson, John Boldt and Pete Hansen. Commission Chairman Larry Kilduff voted in favor.

191. From the Land Use Committee regarding Denial of Mario M. Sampaio (owner) requesting rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District in the Town of Bristol.

RESOLUTION NO. 191

WHEREAS, on January 7, 1994 Mr. John C. Cost (Buyer/Agent) petitioned the Kenosha County Board of Supervisor for a rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District as well as a Conditional Use Permit to allow a marine sales and service business on Tax Parcel #35-4-121-083-0772-1 located in the southwest quarter of Section 8, Township 1 North, Range 21 East, Town of Bristol. For informational purposes only, this property is vacant land located on the northeast corner of the intersection of U.S. Highway "45" (208th Avenue) and 84th Place.

WHEREAS, the Land Use Committee held a public hearing on the subject rezoning and took testimony on the issues and voted for denial of the rezoning based on the following reasons resulting from the testimony presented:

1. Significant single family residential property owners in the area are opposed to the proposed marine sales and service business use.
2. The proposed B-3 Highway Business use is not compatible with Town of Bristol's Village Business District designated for this property in the Town of Bristol's Land Use Plan.
3. Subject property would have great difficulty meeting the ingress, egress, and parking requirement of the Kenosha County General Zoning and Shoreland/Floodplain Zoning Ordinance. Traffic and parking are important issues since this property abuts U.S. Highway 45.
4. The proposed building associated with the business would not meet the standards delineated in the site plan review section of the county's zoning ordinance;

WHEREAS, The Plan Commission and the Town Board of Bristol held public hearings on the rezoning and at which time significant opposition was shown by single family residential property owners from THE surrounding area and the proposed use was not compatible with the Town of Bristol's Land Use Plan, the Plan commission and the Town Board of Bristol recommended denial of the request;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that he request of John Cost (Buyer/Agent) for a rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District and accompanying Conditional Use Permit for a marine sales and service business on Tax Parcel #35-4-121-083-0772-1 be denied for the aforementioned reasons.

Bristol rejects rezoning

BRISTOL — The Bristol Town Board, meeting in special session Wednesday night, voted unanimously to recommend denial by Kenosha County of a request for a zoning change and conditional use permit to allow operation of a marine parts and repair business on the northeast corner of Highway 45 and 84th Place.

The action came one day after the Bristol Plan commission recommended denial of the two requests by Mario M. Sampaio, 19910 84th Place, and John Cost, Lindenhurst, Ill. The two men had sought a change in zoning from single-family residential to highway business.

The Town Board also approved a request by Michael Louvain and Palmyra Dalous to recommend the county rezone a parcel from agricultural and manufacturing to agricultural and single-family residential.

Benefactor honored

Carol Merkt-Wilks' dedication to and support of the Kenosha Symphony Orchestra have resulted in her receipt of the 1994 Helmut Schaefer Memorial Award.

Presented by James Zdanowicz, past president of the Kiwanis Club of Western Kenosha, at the Saturday night symphony concert, the annual award recognizes those playing members of the symphony or those who have demonstrated outstanding support of the symphony.

Among Merkt-Wilks' gifts to the orchestra have been its bass drum and stand, stage risers, a set of bells, a symphonic triangle, gong, stand and mallets. In addition, for a number of years she has endowed the principal cello, flute and piccolo.

Merkt-Wilks, 4110 81st St., along with her late husband George Merkt, was co-founder of Merkt's Cheese Co., Bristol, which began in 1937. She remained president of the company until 1982 when she stepped down to become chairman of the board.

Due to illness, Merkt-Wilks was unable to receive her award in person. Zdanowicz says he talked to her Saturday at her home, showing her the award at that time. Accepting the award on her behalf were Merkt-Wilks' nephews Tim and Tom Merkt.

Begun in 1967, the Helmut Schaefer Memorial Award commemorates Schaefer, a charter member of both the Kiwanis Club of Western Kenosha and the Kenosha Symphony Orchestra. A French horn player, Schaefer also was elected president of the Kenosha Symphony Board.

Bristol to adopt recycling law

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Mandatory recycling is scheduled to start in the town of Bristol on March 1, 10 months before the statewide edict takes effect.

At a Monday meeting, the Bristol Town Board announced a mandatory recycling ordinance will be presented for adoption Feb. 28. Residents who want to review the ordinance prior to the meeting may do so at the town office.

The ordinance will say that Bristol residents must recycle those items for which there is a market, such as glass, aluminum, cardboard and newspaper.

On Jan. 1, 1995, recycling becomes mandatory statewide. Every home, apartment building, hospital, school, university, office, industry and governing unit must participate.

Town officials also announced Monday they will continue to push for passage of a state law that would give towns the same rights as cities and villages.

Senate Bill 684, known as the town parity bill, was voted out of committee last week and now goes to the Senate floor for a vote. The Assembly version of the town parity bill is set for a hearing today before the Assembly Urban and Local Affairs Committee in Madison.

Supervisor William Lesnjak said he will attend the hearing to testify on behalf of Bristol and all Wisconsin towns. He said the new law would require that the word "towns" be inserted along with cities and villages in state laws.

"It is an oppressive inconsistency that residents of towns are considered as second class citizens under Wisconsin statutes," said Lesnjak.

Wisconsin takes great pains to protect individual liberties, he said, "but towns are victimized by discrimination of the worst sort. Towns are denied their right to exist when faced with the annexation claims of neighboring cities and villages."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who with Lesnjak and Supervisor William Glembocki testified for the bill at a Feb. 9 hearing, said, "Times have changed and our state laws must reflect the changes that have taken place."

Because of the lack of parity, Van Slochteren said, "Our citizens are being deprived of the basic rights granted to them by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

In other business, Supervisor Donald Wienke, who serves on the town Recreation Committee, said the town has received a gift of $500 from the estate of the late Carl and Elsie Krahn. The money is to be used for park bleachers at Hansen Park, he said.

Supervisor William Glembocki appealed to residents to uncover fire hydrants to make it easier for firefighters to find them.

Though the warmer weather will help, he said, it may not be enough.

SHIRLEY REUTER
HAPPY 60th BIRTHDAY
TO MY MOTHER

Words will never tell of the love for you I know so well.
Countless, cherished moments shared and held so very dear.
"Ponderosa" was our home with childhood memories never to grow.
You and Dad made our lives secure and full of laughter. Of course we had our painful times amid the peace and chatter.
We little ones brought home our treasures much to your delight.
The salamanders, snakes and such were just a portion of it.
Even though atop a chair you tried to hide your fears. You warned our hearts and gave such joy it brings me close tears.
You've been my special friend ever since I can recall.
You are there with tender care and gentle strength for all.
Making time for loved ones with devotion and a listening ear.
Never finding fault or trying interfere.
That precious gift upon your face is felt just like your warm embrace. It shines with all your kindness, modesty, and grace.
This gift you bestow so open to those that cross your path.
Of course, your heartfelt smile bringing pleasure all the while.
Mom, I want everyone to know that you mean the world to me.

Winners of $24 million lottery come forward

By Jeannie Lindstrom

The winners of the $24 million Powerball lottery Jan. 22 have finally come forward.

The winnings will be split among six family members: two sisters, Kathryn Gibson, Salem; and Chris Meek, Bristol; their parents, Rita and Phillip Bonanno, Round Lake, Ill.; a brother in Florida, and a brother and a sister in Lake County, Ill.

The Quick Pick ticket was purchased by Rita Bonanno at County-wide Convenience Center, Hwy. 45, Bristol.

Dennis Meek, Chris Meek's son, said, "The lawyers don't want them to issue a statement yet."

Steve Madsen, Wisconsin Gaming Commission, explained attorneys will have to file forms saying all the family members listed are winners. When that's done, Madsen said, they will receive their first check, $1,230,317. However, that's not tax free. After taxes, the amount of the first payment will be $800,000, he added.

Bristol nicknames debated

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Being politically correct can be tougher than it sounds. Just ask the Bristol Grade School Board.

Several years ago, the board dropped the nickname "Demons" because of objections of a group of parents. Now, with its latest nickname — The Renegades — under attack, the board has begun a quest to find a name that offends no one but still inspires school teams and their fans.

Students recently were asked to submit suggestions for a new school nickname, and 144 responded. Administrator Gale Ryczek selected the five names that appeared most often and had the student body vote on them.

The results: 162 votes for the nickname Bristol Bulldogs; 85 for the Bristol Bobcats; 52 for the Bristol Badgers; 15 for the Bristol Blue Jays, and 13 for the Bristol Bucks.

Among the more unusual suggestions were the Bristol Bandicots (an Australian rat) and Bristol Cowabungas. And, despite its abandonment seven years ago, seven students said they want to be known as the Bristol Demons again.

During a meeting Wednesday night, board member

Jeannie Lindstrom moved to replace the name Renegades with Bulldogs, but the motion failed on a 2-2 vote, with Lindstrom and Shirley Bizek in favor and Karen Kiefer and Board President Richard Bizek voting against.

Bizek said he voted against the Bulldogs name because he prefers Badgers and, second, he feels the board should wait until long-time member Ed Becker recovers from an illness and can participate in the decision.

So, at least for the time being, Bristol Grade School teams will continue to be known as the Bristol Renegades.

Bristol plans logo unveiling

The new identity and slogan for the town of Bristol will be unveiled at a special presentation on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 6 p.m. at the Bristol Municipal Building.

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, believes the new logo and slogan captures the spirit of the town that is unique to this rural and suburban community. "We feel that this identity is important to our progress as a community," she said.

"Having been in existence as a town since 1837, we will finally have a graphic and verbal identity that differentiates us from the other southeastern Wisconsin communities," said Slochteren.

Marine repair business denied by Bristol panel

Bristol rejects rezoning

BRISTOL — The Bristol Town Board, meeting in special session Wednesday night, voted unanimously to recommend denial by Kenosha County of a request for a zoning change and conditional use permit to allow operation of a marine parts and repair business on the northeast corner of Highway 45 and 84th Place.

The action came one day after the Bristol Plan commission recommended denial of the two requests by Mario M. Sampaio, 19910 84th Place, and John Cost, Lindenhurst, Ill. The two men had sought a change in zoning from single-family residential to highway business.

The Town Board also approved a request by Michael Louvain and Palmyra Dalous to recommend the county rezone a parcel from agricultural and manufacturing to agricultural and single-family residential.

Benefactor honored

Carol Merkt-Wilks' dedication to and support of the Kenosha Symphony Orchestra have resulted in her receipt of the 1994 Helmut Schaefer Memorial Award.

Presented by James Zdanowicz, past president of the Kiwanis Club of Western Kenosha, at the Saturday night symphony concert, the annual award recognizes those playing members of the symphony or those who have demonstrated outstanding support of the symphony.

Among Merkt-Wilks' gifts to the orchestra have been its bass drum and stand, stage risers, a set of bells, a symphonic triangle, gong, stand and mallets. In addition, for a number of years she has endowed the principal cello, flute and piccolo.

Merkt-Wilks, 4110 81st St., along with her late husband George Merkt, was co-founder of Merkt's Cheese Co., Bristol, which began in 1937. She remained president of the company until 1982 when she stepped down to become chairman of the board.

Due to illness, Merkt-Wilks was unable to receive her award in person. Zdanowicz says he talked to her Saturday at her home, showing her the award at that time. Accepting the award on her behalf were Merkt-Wilks' nephews Tim and Tom Merkt.

Begun in 1967, the Helmut Schaefer Memorial Award commemorates Schaefer, a charter member of both the Kiwanis Club of Western Kenosha and the Kenosha Symphony Orchestra. A French horn player, Schaefer also was elected president of the Kenosha Symphony Board.

Marine repair business denied by Bristol panel

By Patrik Vander Velden

BRISTOL — A zoning change and conditional use permit were denied Tuesday by the Plan Commission for a proposed marine parts and repair business on the northeast corner of Highway 45 and 84th Place.

By 4-1 votes, the commission denied a request by Mario M. Sampaio, 19910 84th Place, and John Cost, Lindenhurst, Ill., to rezone the parcel from single-family to highway business and to issue a conditional use permit.

Of 14 nearby property owners notified, five attended the meeting to object to the zoning.

Although Bristol Motors is on the opposite corner, neighbors said the area is residential in character and a business would be incompatible.

"I'd like to work with my neighbors," said Sampaio.

He said he planned to live in a house currently on the parcel and build a 54-foot by 40-foot pole building in which to operate his mail order business, parts repair and small retail sales.

Commissioners were concerned that the highway business zoning was inappropriate for just marine sales and too intrusive on the neighborhood by allowing a larger variety of businesses than any other zoning.

Voting to deny the petition were Dan Hohmeier, Gene Anderson, John Boldt and Pete Hansen. Commission Chairman Larry Kilduff voted in favor.

191. From the Land Use Committee regarding Denial of Mario M. Sampaio (owner) requesting rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District in the Town of Bristol.

RESOLUTION NO. 191

WHEREAS, on January 7, 1994 Mr. John C. Cost (Buyer/Agent) petitioned the Kenosha County Board of Supervisor for a rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District as well as a Conditional Use Permit to allow a marine sales and service business on Tax Parcel #35-4-121-083-0772-1 located in the southwest quarter of Section 8, Township 1 North, Range 21 East, Town of Bristol. For informational purposes only, this property is vacant land located on the northeast corner of the intersection of U.S. Highway "45" (208th Avenue) and 84th Place.

WHEREAS, the Land Use Committee held a public hearing on the subject rezoning and took testimony on the issues and voted for denial of the rezoning based on the following reasons resulting from the testimony presented:

1. Significant single family residential property owners in the area are opposed to the proposed marine sales and service business use.
2. The proposed B-3 Highway Business use is not compatible with Town of Bristol's Village Business District designated for this property in the Town of Bristol's Land Use Plan.
3. Subject property would have great difficulty meeting the ingress, egress, and parking requirement of the Kenosha County General Zoning and Shoreland/Floodplain Zoning Ordinance. Traffic and parking are important issues since this property abuts U.S. Highway 45.
4. The proposed building associated with the business would not meet the standards delineated in the site plan review section of the county's zoning ordinance;

WHEREAS, The Plan Commission and the Town Board of Bristol held public hearings on the rezoning and at which time significant opposition was shown by single family residential property owners from THE surrounding area and the proposed use was not compatible with the Town of Bristol's Land Use Plan, the Plan commission and the Town Board of Bristol recommended denial of the request.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that he request of John Cost (Buyer/Agent) for a rezoning from R-4 Urban Single-Family Residential District to B-3 Highway Business District and accompanying Conditional Use Permit for a marine sales and service business on Tax Parcel #35-4-121-083-0772-1 be denied for the aforementioned reasons.

The winners of the $24 million Powerball lottery Jan. 22 have finally come forward.

The winnings will be split among six family members: two sisters, Kathryn Gibson, Salem; and Chris Meek, Bristol; their parents, Rita and Phillip Bonanno, Round Lake, Ill.; a brother in Florida, and a brother and a sister in Lake County, Ill.

The Quick Pick ticket was purchased by Rita Bonanno at County-

wide Convenience Center, Hwy. 45, Bristol.

Dennis Meek, Chris Meek's son, said, "The lawyers don't want them to issue a statement yet."

Steve Madsen, Wisconsin Gaming Commission, explained attorneys will have to file forms saying all the family members listed are winners. When that's done, Madsen said, they will receive their first check, $1,230,317. However, that's not tax free. After taxes, the amount of the first payment will be $800,000, he added.

Bristol nicknames debated

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 2-17-94

BRISTOL — Being politically correct can be tougher than it sounds. Just ask the Bristol Grade School Board.

Several years ago, the board dropped the nickname "Demons" because of objections of a group of parents. Now, with its latest nickname — The Renegades — under attack, the board has begun a quest to find a name that offends no one but still inspires school teams and their fans.

Students recently were asked to submit suggestions for a new school nickname, and 144 responded. Administrator Gale Ryczek selected the five names that appeared most often and had the student body vote on them.

The results: 162 votes for the nickname Bristol Bulldogs; 85 for the Bristol Bobcats; 52 for the Bristol Badgers; 15 for the Bristol Blue Jays, and 13 for the Bristol Bucks.

Among the more unusual suggestions were the Bristol Bandicots (an Australian rat) and Bristol Cowabungas. And, despite its abandonment seven years ago, seven students said they want to be known as the Bristol Demons again.

During a meeting Wednesday night, board member

Jeannie Lindstrom moved to replace the name Renegades with Bulldogs, but the motion failed on a 2-2 vote, with Lindstrom and Shirley Bizek in favor and Karen Kiefer and Board President Richard Bizek voting against.

Bizek said he voted against the Bulldogs name because he prefers Badgers and, second, he feels the board should wait until long-time member Ed Becker recovers from an illness and can participate in the decision.

So, at least for the time being, Bristol Grade School teams will continue to be known as the Bristol Ren-

Bristol to adopt recycling law

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 2-15-94

BRISTOL — Mandatory recycling is scheduled to start in the town of Bristol on March 1, 10 months before the statewide edict takes effect.

At a Monday meeting, the Bristol Town Board announced a mandatory recycling ordinance will be presented for adoption Feb. 28. Residents who want to review the ordinance prior to the meeting may do so at the town office.

The ordinance will say that Bristol residents must recycle those items for which there is a market, such as glass, aluminum, cardboard and newspaper.

On Jan. 1, 1995, recycling becomes mandatory statewide. Every home, apartment building, hospital, school, university, office, industry and government unit must participate.

Town officials also announced Monday they will continue to push for passage of a state law that would give towns the same rights as cities and villages.

Senate Bill 684, known as the town parity bill, was voted out of committee last week and now goes to the Senate floor for a vote. The Assembly version of the town parity bill is set for a hearing today before the Assembly Urban and Local Affairs Committee in Madison.

Supervisor William Lesnjak said he will attend the hearing to testify on behalf of Bristol and all Wisconsin towns. He said the new law would require that the word "towns" be inserted along with cities and villages in state laws.

"It is an oppressive inconsistency that residents of towns are considered as second class citizens under Wisconsin statutes," said Lesnjak.

Wisconsin takes great pains to protect individual liberties, he said, "but towns are victimized by discrimination of the worst sort. Towns are denied their right to exist when faced with the annexation claims of neighboring cities and villages."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who with Lesnjak and Supervisor William Glembocki testified for the bill at a Feb. 9 hearing, said, "Times have changed and our state laws must reflect the changes that have taken place."

Because of the lack of parity, Van Slochteren said, "Our citizens are being deprived of the basic rights granted to them by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights."

In other business, Supervisor Donald Wienke, who serves on the town Recreation Committee, said the town has received a gift of $500 from the estate of the late Carl and Elsie Krahn. The money is to be used for park bleachers at Hansen Park, he said.

Supervisor William Glembocki appealed to residents to uncover fire hydrants to make it easier for firefighters to find them.

Though the warmer weather will help, he said, it may not be enough.

Bristol plans logo unveiling

The new identity and slogan for the town of Bristol will be unveiled at a special presentation on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 6 p.m. at the Bristol Municipal Building.

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, believes the new logo and slogan captures the spirit of the town that is unique to this rural and suburban community. "We feel that this identity is important to our progress as a community," she said.

"Having been in existence as a town since 1837, we will finally have a graphic and verbal identity that differentiates us from the other southeastern Wisconsin communities," said Slochteren.

Just look at the facts. The Mauro Auto Mall sells everything from BMWs to Chevy trucks — 11 lines in all. It's a point of pride with the owners that their salespeople have never worked for any other dealer. Customers can choose any one of 70 automobiles inside the building, or 2,500 outside. The size of "An automobile is a high-anxiety purchase. It can be complicated and confusing."

And it all seems to be working. Ralph Mauro notes that the dealership sold 700 automobiles at retail in August (300 wholesale), and that Mauro Auto Mall has sold an average of 550 autos per month since its July, 1992 opening. The number of employees is 180 and customers continue to stream in — from Milwaukee, Chicago and just about everywhere in between.

They seem to enjoy the mall's extra touches. When customers bring their cars in for service at one of Mauro's 88 bays, they are presented with a number of options. They can take the Mauro shuttle to a nearby shopping center, totting a beeper so they can be notified when their car is ready.

Ralph calls the dealership a "dream concept" resulting from his need to "be different." Yet from one showroom to another, there are planned similarities. Each showroom has its own entrance, its own customers and its own price ranges, "but we sell the same way" throughout, Ralph says. "All our salespersons have no prior automobile sales experience. We offer our sales staff a salary and commission based upon sales volume and customer satisfaction. And every customer is surveyed within 72 hours of making a purchase."

Another similarity involves pricing. If you want to haggle over prices, you'll have to go elsewhere, Ralph advises. "We have a 'no negotiating' philosophy ... we have pre-negotiated the price. What you see on the price sticker is what you pay. We guarantee our price for 30 days, which means that if you find a lower price in that time, we'll refund the difference." He says that Mauro has paid up "a few times."

Juggling the service needs presented by such a wide range of auto lines has not been problem-free, Ralph says. The service area is open Monday through Thursday from 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday, until 6 p.m. and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It provides customers with both a service writer and a service advisor for each manufacturer. Each of Mauro's 35 service technicians receives incentives for customer satisfaction (based upon a quality-of-work score) in addition to a regular salary.

Opening a nearly one-of-a-kind dealership took some grit and patience, Ralph admits. At first, few manufacturers were interested in the mall concept. Now, with sales on the rise and customer satisfaction appearing high, Mauro has won manufacturers over.

Winning isn't entirely foreign to the Mauros. Following their father Frank's lead, both sons entered the automobile business directly after college. Ralph turned his first dealership, a Cadillac

From the beginning, Ralph saw the giant dealership as more than just a marketing tool. A single location, rather than six, allows the dealership to contain costs, consolidate support services and ultimately, cut down on prices. And the area, with its numerous outlet stores, is what Ralph calls a "prime location."

While tending to one of the area's largest dealerships can become all-

Ralph Mauro envisions future growth with the addition of more automobile lines. He plans to nearly double the sales force — to 100 — by the company's second anniversary date.

"There are 10 million people living in the area from metropolitan Chicago to metropolitan Milwaukee," Ralph says. And if the Mauro brothers have their way, just about every one of those people will buy a car at the Mauro Auto Mall.

Bristol unveils new town logo

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Town officials Tuesday unveiled the town's new identity, a logo that proclaims "The Town of Bristol, Naturally." 2-16-94

A stand of oak trees is the focal point of the logo, with the blue sky above and the gently curved horizon below.

At a town hall reception, Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said, "The sweeping blue sky represents nature. The oak trees symbolize strength." Van Slochteren said, "Bristol dates back to 1837 and surely that is indicative of strength and growth. We believe Bristol offers its residents a simplicity of life while combining a balance in its rural, residential, commercial and industrial sectors."

"The need for a town to have an identity and a logo is an idea fostered by the Wisconsin Towns Association," said Van Slochteren. "We want to make Bristol stand out from the other towns in southeastern Wisconsin."

The logo will be on display in the reception area of the town hall and has already been reproduced on stationery and business cards. Long term plans call for painting it on water towers and town trucks.

"When anybody sees the design, they will think of the town of Bristol, naturally," said Van Slochteren.

Joe Stanhibel, whose firm, Stanhibel and Associates, developed the design, said, "Bristol is like a breath of fresh air. There is a natural feeling of openness, a pastoral quality."

Bristol Board rewriting town's ordinances

BRISTOL — The year-long task of rewriting Bristol's town ordinances is nearly complete, town officials said Thursday. The completed ordinances will be ready for presentation to the public by April.

The public works ordinance reviewed at Thursday's meeting will set standards for road construction, culverts and street excavations. It also deals with damages to or obstruction of streets and the rules on driveway approach.

Supervisor William Glembocki said the ordinance should spell out the types of material that may be used on driveway approaches, that part of the driveway that is in the town-owned right-of-way.

pal designer, the total cost of the logo is estimated at $10,000.

It wasn't an unveiling of a Rembrandt or Picasso but the pomp and circumstance ceremony rivaled that of the great master's publicists.

Bristol's town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren unveiled a long-discussed town logo during a Feb. 15 ceremony at the town hall.

The logo consists of a simple drawing of five oak trees, sky and land, with, "The Town of Bristol, Naturally," proclaimed.

"The logo represents the openness, growth, strength and total harmony of Bristol," Van Slochteren said. "Bristol has been in existence since 1837 and we finally have a graphic and verbal representation that differentiates us from other southeastern Wisconsin communities."

The logo was displayed on town stationary, envelopes and business cards and will later be incorporated as a design on town vehicles and possibly the water tower.

Editor's note: Time and staff constraints did not allow us to stay for the entire tournament, so we had to take photos when we could. We did however give the results of the tournament along with our photos, including acknowledging Bristol's tournament victory.

Bristol Town Board pushes for equal rights

By Diane Jahnke

2-21-94
"I'm about as ready as you can get to stand and fight over town's rights," said Bristol supervisor Bill Lesnjak at the Feb. 14 town board meeting.

Lesnjak was to speak at an Assembly Urban and Local Affairs Committee hearing in Madison Feb. 15, to seek support of Senate Bill 684, the town parity bill.

The bill was voted out of committee Feb. 12 and went to the Senate floor.

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said, "We must continue to push for its passage," which will give towns the same rights as villages and cities.

Lesnjak said, "The town is the victim of discrimination of the worst sort. Towns are denied their right to exist when faced with the annexation claims of neighboring cities and villages."

He added, "It is an oppressive inconsistency that residents of towns are considered as second-class citizens under Wisconsin statutes."

Van Slochteren, Lesnjak and supervisor William Glembocki attended a Senate hearing on the bill Feb. 9.

Supervisor John Meyer said, "The only way we're going to lose Bristol is to allow the bureaucrats to win, and we won't accept that."

Recycling ordinance: A resolution to adopt the recycling ordinance will be presented at the next meeting, 7 p.m., Monday, Feb. 28. The proposed ordinance is available for viewing at the town office.

Fireplugs: Glembocki said that the last snow storm had buried a lot of fireplugs in Bristol. He asked that residents dig them out.

Bristol Board OKs recycling

Mandatory program now in effect

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Mandatory recycling is now in effect in Bristol following action Monday by the Town Board.

The board unanimously approved an ordinance and resolution in compliance with state recycling laws.

On Jan. 1, 1995, recycling becomes mandatory statewide. Every private home, public building, industry and governing unit must participate.

Under the Bristol resolution, the recycling center will accept "marketable recyclables."

Effective immediately, townsfolk can bring in: newspapers, office paper, corrugated paper, glass containers, plastic milk bottles, water bottles, laundry soap containers, and soda bottles, aluminum, bi-metal containers, motor oil, anti-freeze, yard waste and brush.

The center will not accept window glass and no plastics other than those listed.

If other materials are accepted, they must be added by resolution, according to advice to the board by its attorney, said Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman.

In other business, the board voted to reconsider a decision against painting a crosswalk on Highway 45 at 82nd Street. The action came Jan. 10, the day before the Bristol School Board voted to make a formal request to the Town Board. The Kenosha County Sheriffs Department has since made a traffic study of the area.

In a letter to the board, Sheriff Allan K. Kehl recommended placing crosswalks and pedestrian crossing signs there.

Beyond petitioning the Department of Transportation for a permit to paint a crosswalk at town expense, there is little the town can do, said Van Slochteren.

Board members authorized Van Slochteren to meet with school board officials and the Sheriff's Department to discuss a recommendation for a flashing light. However, Town Board members said a light would not address the problem of poor visibility and high traffic volume.

"It will need a crossing guard and red light. If we do it, we should do it all the way," said Supervisor William Lesnjak.

The request came as a result of a non-fatal collision of a truck with a school age bicyclist last November. The accident was unrelated to school activities.

In other business, Van Slochteren said she will chair a meeting Thursday of members of the Bristol Conservation Club and residents living near the club grounds, who complained of the noise from target shooting. A major subdivision is planned for property adjoining the club. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the Bristol Town Hall, for informational purposes only, without board action.

Supervisor Donald Weinke gave an update on joint meetings with Paddock Lake officials and those of Warner Cable Co., regarding cable TV service in both communities.

Former firefighter auxiliary forms new organization

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Women's Auxiliary of the Bristol Volunteer Firemen's Association Inc., is dead. Long live the Bristol Woman's Auxiliary Inc.

The old auxiliary was killed by its parent organization last November. The new one was created by 15 remaining members.

Carol Nichols, 19726 82nd St., secretary/treasurer of the Bristol Woman's Auxiliary, said the new group is a non-profit organization that exists only to raise money for worthwhile causes.

The old auxiliary was created in 1964. Four months ago, Richard Bizek, Firemen's Association president, walked in during a meeting of the auxiliary and told the women their group had been disbanded.

Bizek told the group he was acting on orders from the association. The action was taken on a two-thirds vote of the association membership.

After he gave the orders to disband, Bizek said there had been a lot of ill will between the two groups. He called it "a very bad situation with a lot of undercurrents. We're just tired of the complaining and bickering."

Nichols said the new group is devoted to community service.

"We will provide backing to other non-profit groups. Any funds we get will be donated to others."

"This way, we can still work for our community, but we won't be under the Fire Department. We are totally on our own."

President of the new group is Dorothy Niederer, 8432 199th Ave. Gladys Powell, 19900 128th St., is sergeant-at-arms. At its next meeting, the auxiliary will elect a vice president and three board members.

The group meets at 7:30 p.m. on the first Wednesday of each month and is open to any woman, 18 years or older. Members do not have to be residents of Bristol.

Anyone wishing to join may write P.O. Box 32, Bristol, Wis., 53104.

Hotel partners ordered to Senate pass background

Bristol Development Corp. was ordered Wednesday to pay $4.3 million for defaulting on a loan with the First of America Bank, Zion.

Default proceedings began in 1990 on the Best Western Executive Inn, 7220 122nd Ave. The hotel is owned by a partnership that includes Frank Deininger, 4721 75th St., Alfred

A. Kaplan, Milwaukee, and William Ruetz, Racine.

Deininger was represented Wednesday in court by attorney Terrance Kallenberg. Robert Flemma represented the bank and Kaplan represented himself. Ruetz was not present and was not represented.

Kaplan made some oral objections to the ruling but did not file motions to delay.

Kenosha Circuit Court Judge

Bruce Schroeder recommended Kaplan get an attorney and any differences between the partners be settled in other court proceedings.

Schroeder ruled the partnership owned $4,348,498.34 in defaulted mortgage, interest, back taxes and attorney's fees.

The principal balance due is $3,781,182 on a construction loan. Back taxes came to $391,368 and unpaid interest is

Bristol Town Board approves recycling

The Bristol Town Board took action Feb. 28 and has made recycling mandatory in the town effective immediately.

Mandatory recycling in the state becomes effective Jan. 1, 1995.

Bristol's center will accept marketable recyclables, including newspapers, office papers, corrugated paper, glass containers, plastic milk containers, water bottles, laundry soap containers, soda bottles, aluminum, bi-metal containers, motor oil, anti-freeze, yard waste and brush. Window glass will not be accepted.

The center is located at 195th Avenue and 81st Street.

Crosswalk: Board members voted to reconsider a Jan. 10 decision against painting crosswalk lines at Highway 45 and 82nd Street.

On Jan. 11, the Bristol School Board voted to formally request the town board paint the crosswalk. The site was the scene of an accident involving a student who was hit by a truck while crossing Highway 45. The November 1993 accident took place after school.

The Kenosha County Sheriff's Department has done a traffic study of the area. Sheriff Allan Kehl has recommended the crosswalk be installed and pedestrian crossing signs be put up.

Town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren will meet with school board members to address the situation.

Conservation Club: A meeting will be held with Bristol Conservation Club members and area residents who have complained about the noise disturbance at the club's target shooting range.

Bristol plans to upgrade Hansen Park

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Town Board and Parks and Recreation Committee, in a joint meeting Tuesday night, came up with six immediate steps aimed at improving Hansen Park and possibly opening a toddlers' park.

They include:

- Obtaining from the state Department of Natural Resources the requirements for state grants for expanding and improving space for recreational activities.

- Conducting a survey to determine the heaviest concentrations of children in the community and how many have to cross Highway 45 to get to Hansen Park.

- Obtaining the cost of relocating swings and other children's recreational equipment within Hansen Park or to another site.

- Determining what Bristol must do to comply with park regulations established by the federal government for local facilities.

- Obtaining projected costs for creating and equipping a park for toddlers on an interim basis while long-term goals are established and achieved.

- Pursuing long-range recreation plans.

Town Supervisor John Meyer suggested town officials think carefully about moving any equipment from Hansen Park to an interim park. He said the costs would be quite high since the town would have to observe federal regulations.

"If an industrial company came along with enough money to buy another park, we might sell Hansen Park," said Town Supervisor William Lesnjak.

Meyer said he thinks the townspeople would oppose such a proposal.

"Hansen Park should stay," he said. "It is big enough for what we use it for but not for what we need. The obvious choice is expansion of the park to the south so we could have green space at the entrance."

The problem with that idea, said Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, is that the owner of the property, currently used for farming, has indicated he does not want to sell any of this land.

Van Slochteren said the town owns two sites that might be suitable for an interim park. One is across the street from the town hall, she said, and the other is the site of the old wastewater treatment plant at 195th Avenue and 81st Street.

"The problem with the town hall site," said Lesnjak, "is that when there is a fire call, we have a lot of high-speed traffic here."

That, he said, would be a major concern with children using a park right across the street from the fire station.

Parks and Recreation Committee Chairman Dorothy Niederer said she doesn't envision the interim park being used by children of all ages but rather by mothers with toddlers. She said all such a park would need is a small swing set and a few other pieces of playground equipment designed for toddlers.

Those present at the meeting agreed gather information needed before any steps can be taken.

"Once we get the information," said Van Slochteren, "we can have another meeting to go over it."

March 22 to continue studying the need for expanding the school.

In other business, the board agreed to continue supporting the Bristol Town Board in its efforts to convince the state Department of Transportation of the need for a school crosswalk at Highway 45 and 82nd Street, east of the school.

While all Bristol students are bused to and from school each day, Ryczek said whenever children living east of the highway miss the bus, they walk to school and have to cross the busy highway. In recent months, he said, one youngster was struck by a car and another had a close call.

In other action, the board:

- Was informed that longtime head cook Eloise Rigert has announced she will retire March 31.

- Accepted applications from the parents of four students for the school district to provide transportation expenses, as required by state law, for them to attend Christian Life School in Pleasant Prairie.

Shangrila sewer project ripped

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 3-11-94

BRISTOL — Residents in the Lake Shangrila section of Bristol took issue both with the plan to install sewer lines and the formula for determining how much each property owner will be assessed to pay for the $1.7 million project.

Citing the need to improve ground water and surface water for landowners and residents, a report on the proposed special assessments indicated that assessments would be based on the relative value of all properties in the area, with lakefront properties assessed at 2.25 times the rate of other properties. The base assessment was set at $7,995 with an annual payment the first year of $1,199, dropping to $839 for the 10th and last year the assessments would be levied.

Boundaries of the district are Highway V (116th Street) on the north, 122nd Street on the south, one block east of 221st Avenue on the east, and Lake Shangrila on the west.

Rick Sankovitz, an attorney with the Milwaukee law firm of Whyte and Hirschboeck, which is representing the town, said property owners would benefit two ways: "One, you get sewers," he said. "Two, you get an increase in the value of your property so you can reap this when you sell."

Replied Steve Schwartz, 12114 213th Ave., "You say we will recover this money when we sell, but we don't ever intend to sell."

Sankovitz defended the different formula for lakefront property, saying, "If you have a house on the lake with a sewer, more valuable. If an inland lot doubles in price, the lakefront lot will more than double."

The beautiful logo for Bristol, the sky looks like the UFO coming over. I never saw oak trees looking like that. For that amount of money, can't see it but too bad. 3-7-94

Congratulations Bristol, it's beautiful. Money well spent on your new logo and slogan. It's unfortunate that the county and city of Kenosha can't get their washed out, has been logos up to date. 3-21-94

"The sewers will be there to take away sewage, not to increase property values," said Jean Foster, 12000 214th Ave.

She stated that a fairer method of assessment would be based on front footage of lots, and the Town Board agreed to consider that option before acting on the special assessment package.

Several taxpayers objected to the town's statement that it intends to use police powers in levying the special assessments and installing the sewers. The comments referred to a report issued by the town that states, in part: "It is the intent of the town to exercise its police powers under Section 66.60 of the Wisconsin Statutes to levy an area-wide special assessment against all properties located in the sewer assessment area."

Sankovitz agreed that referring to the town's police powers was an "unfortunate choice of words." He said it simply means the town is using its authority to oversee the project for the good of all townspeople.

Added Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, the town is not acting on its own but under orders from the state Department of Natural Resources. She said the DNR is also the agency insisting the town link the sewer line to the Salem system, because of its proximity to the special assessment area.

"When the idea came up several months ago," said Bernard Gunty, 21401 121st St., "more than 50 percent of the property owners were against it. I am against the sewers. I can't afford it, so my home is up for sale...I'm moving on."

The Town Board indicated it would take all of the input from the public into account before taking action on the special assessment proposal on a date to be announced.

CORRECTION

BRISTOL — The Bristol Town Board approved the appraisal but has not taken any official action on the purchase of seven acres of land at 83rd Street and 195th Avenue as was stated in Wednesday's paper. The site, owned by Robert Watring, 517 Sheridan Road, is currently zoned R-11, which permits construction of apartment buildings.

Bristol to purchase site for future children's park

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer 3-13-94

BRISTOL — The Town Board started action Monday to purchase about eight acres of private property for use by the town as a flood control site and possible future children's park.

The board approved appraisal of 7.84 acres of land on the northwest corner of 83rd Street and 195th Avenue owned by Robert Watring, 517 Sheridan Road, Somers.

The board has begun negotiation with Watring to pay fair market value for the parcel, said John Meyer, supervisor. The property was assessed in 1991 at $42,300, according to records at the county Assessors Office.

The offer to purchase the site was part of a lawsuit settlement between the county and Watring regarding zoning the property for a proposed apartment complex.

Watring had proposed in 1981 to build up to three apartment buildings with a total of 72 units.

The property was eventually zoned residential after delays related to citizens' petitions against it.

Citizens commented at Monday's meeting the site was best suited for a park. The town has an anonymous donor for that purpose, said Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman.

Responding to citizens' complaints that approval for the site should not be construed as a vote against residential development, Van Slochteren said, "I strongly want the Watring property for a retention pond. I strongly want the Watring property for a park. I do not want the Watring property to stop development in Bristol."

In other business, the board voted 3-2 to table the dense application of Li Wilson, 15901 Horton Rd. Voting to table were Don Wienke, John Meyers, William Lesnjak. Vote against tabling were Van Slochteren and William Glabicki.

The controversy over keeping eight dogs on the property began in autumn 1993 and expanded from neighbor complaints to feuds between board members. A conditional use permit for the kennel was denied by the board and tabled by the county Land Use Committee.

Meyers said application approval would allow the county to give the conditional permit.

Supervisor Donald Wei made the motion to table "clarification."

Salem sewer extension opposed

By Jim Rohde
Staff Writer

SALEM — The Salem Town Board acknowledged petitions Monday signed by more than 440 property owners asking for an immediate halt to the expansion of the town sewer to Bristol or any other area outside of Salem Sewer Utility District 2.

Petitions were circulated by Bill Barhyte, 27315 113th St.

The petitioners said they see no need to expand the sewers outside the district since it receives no tax monies from their housing and future area developments.

"The amount the Town Board is going to charge Bristol for the sewer is ridiculous since it ($80.25 per quarter) is the same charged to other users in District 2," they said.

Town Chairman Shirley Boening said the town has no control because the area on the Bristol side of Lake Shangrila is already in the Salem District 2 sewer service area.

"And as far as the charges, we cannot charge a surcharge just because they are not in the town," Boening said.

Petitioners also said there was a real need to reserve the sewer plant's capacity in order to handle the sewage from the utility district plant, which was converted into a pumping station, and for the amount of land currently being developed in the area.

"We do not want to be burdened with a possible sewer plant expansion in the future," the petitioners stated. "We feel the board members are not acting in the best interests of Utility District 2."

Boening said the board will hold a special meeting March 24 at 7 p.m. with the petitioners to address their concerns.

Man held for wrecking hotel room

A Chicago man was arrested Saturday night for trashing a hotel room at the Knights Inn, 7221 122nd Ave., causing more than $1,000 in damage.

Doug L. Misch, 19, was arrested for criminal damage to property and theft.

Sheriff's deputies were called to the hotel at 11:14 p.m. by an employee because the people in Misch's room refused to quiet down, the report said.

When deputies entered the room, they found cuts in the mattresses, beer stains on the carpet, 15 holes in the bathroom door, broken lights and damaged ceiling panels. The telephone was also ripped out of the wall and smashed on the floor, the report said.

The bedding was stolen, more than 50 empty beer cans were on the floor and graffiti was drawn on the walls, the report said.

Shortly after discovering the damage, officers found Misch and two others checked into the Bugetel Inn, 7540 118th Ave. The men had the stolen bedding with them.

Misch claimed he didn't vandalize the Knights Inn room and didn't know who had. Misch was arrested because the room was in his name, the report said.

Fire damages Bristol house

BRISTOL — A small fire on an enclosed porch caused $3,000 to $4,000 damage to a house on 60th Street Monday afternoon.

The house at 14001 60th St. is owned by John Kellum, 47. Kellum's 78-year-old mother was home when the fire started but wasn't injured.

There was extensive smoke damage to the house, but Bristol

Fire Chief Scott Muhlenbeck said he couldn't estimate the damage. Muhlenbeck hadn't determined the origin of the fire.

Kellum said he was bringing his wife home from the hospital at 2:15 p.m. when he spotted smoke. In addition to Bristol, fire departments from Pleasant Prairie, Paris, Somers and Salem responded.

Bristol board discusses park, kennel license

By Diane Jahnke

The Bristol Town Board took the first step March 14 to purchase land for the possible development of a children's park and retention pond.

The board voted to engage the services of Steve Schultz to appraise nearly 8 acres of land at the northwest corner of 83rd Street and 195th Avenue.

The land is owned by Robert Watring, who had planned to build three apartment buildings with over 70 units.

It was the consensus of the board, as well as other audience members, that a park and retention pond is needed in the town.

Supervisor John Meyer said 3 acres of property would be needed for water retention which is "the first step at flood control."

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she is not against housing development in the town.

"I strongly want the purchase of the Watring property for a retention pond. I strongly want the purchase of the Watring property for a park, not to stop development of apartments. I don't want anybody to misconstrue it. No one can doubt it."

Kennel license: Following a heated discussion, the board voted 3-2 to table the dog kennel license application request from Linda Wilson.

The town board had denied a conditional use permit; however, the land use committee tabled the request.

Van Slochteren said the town would be in violation of an ordinance if the premises were not first inspected.

Meyer said a town ordinance is already being violated since Wilson is keeping nine dogs on the property at 15901 Horton Drive.

And without a conditional use permit, "You cannot have a dog kennel," Meyer said.

"We denied it twice," Meyer continued. "We have never, ever given a kennel license" after a conditional use permit was denied. The denial was a result of objections from adjacent neighbors.

Van Slochteren said Wilson is writing to the county for the kennel license approval. But the board must, by ordinance, view the property or have an agent view it on the town's behalf.

Van Slochteren said, "We must go through the property. If we deny (application), we are going against our own ordinance."

Supervisor Donald Wienke moved to table the matter until more clarification was given.

Voting in favor were Wienke, Meyer and supervisor William Lesnjak; against, Van Slochteren and supervisor William Glembocki.

School crossing: Responding to a citizen's comment regarding a school crossing or overhead ramp on Highway 45, Van Slochteren said the board will be setting a date to meet with the Department of Transportation and Bristol School Board.

Airport: Dave Muhlenbeck, speaking for ICARE (Informed Citizens Against Airport Runway Expansion), urged residents to attend a meeting regarding the Kenosha Municipal Airport expansion at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 7.

Muhlenbeck said, "The air doesn't stop in Kenosha." Bristol would be greatly affected by the expansion, he said, reporting that 20-30 727 flights could be scheduled to fly each evening.

"They make as much pollution as 16,000 cars," he said.

Van Slochteren said a public hearing on this issue is scheduled for Wednesday, April 6. No further details were available at this time.

Bristol School panel views 'dream list'

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Bristol School Building Utilization Committee got its first look Tuesday at a "dream list" of what teachers and administrators would like to see if the building is remodeled and/or enlarged.

Administrator Gale Ryczek was quick to point out that some items, such as a parking garage for teachers' vehicles, were listed in a tongue-in-cheek effort to bring a little fun into an otherwise serious exercise. Still, he said, some other items that might at first seem frivolous actually make a lot of sense.

"For example, teachers at all grade levels listed air conditioning as an important amenity in any building addition. If Wisconsin's public schools eventually go to year-round operation, as is currently being suggested by some legislators, Ryczek said air-conditioned classrooms would become a necessity.

Committee member Daniel Hohmeier, whose job entails the design of university buildings, said that it is much more cost-effective to install such features as air conditioning when a structure is being built than to retrofit an existing building. He said given the growing number of requirements, such as complying with the Americans with Disabilities Act, the cost of upgrading existing buildings often approaches that of new construction.

Ryczek said another example of a feature that many would consider frivolous in an addition is a lower level that is at least partly below ground. A recent inspection tour by Kenosha County Emergency Government Director Paul Hess convinced Ryczek of the need for a more room below grade.

After witnessing the school go through a tornado drill, Hess told Ryczek that sending all the children to inner hallways might seem like a good idea but, given the block construction of the sprawling single-story structure, it would likely topple over like dominoes in a direct hit by a big tornado.

Before the committee can determine the size of an addition and the extent of remodeling that is to be presented for approval by the voters, Ryczek said it must evaluate population projections.

Bristol head cook Eloise Rigert retires

By Jeanie Lindstrom

Every day moms across the country face the dilemma: What do I make for dinner? What if you had to cook for 430 children every day like Eloise Rigert does?

She refers to herself as "chief cook and bottle washer." But that will end for Rigert on March 31. After 31 years as head cook at Bristol School, Rigert has decided it's time to retire.

Rigert started at what was South Bristol School on Highway C, now known as the Western Kenosha County Senior Center. Later, she was the first cook at the new school building located at 20121 83rd St.

Every day food was cooked at Bristol School and a portion of it transported by Rigert to Woodworth School for distribution to students there. South Bristol School served 60 students at that time.

Rigert had one kitchen helper when the move was made to the present building.

Now, she estimates, 70 to 75 percent of the student population of 430, chooses hot lunch over brown bagging it. She has a larger staff and has seen many of the former students she cooked for, come to work for her, including Pam Benedict, Sue Plants and Kitty Murrie.

Rigert has learned to adjust to the ever-changing wants and needs of the students.

"The kids have changed," Rigert said. "They like more fast foods, like tacos and chicken nuggets. And we serve pizza once a week. That goes over very well."

Dietary needs are another challenge.

"Now we are trying to cut fats and sweets from the menus," Rigert explained.

Once a year Rigert faces the taste test from parents and grandparents during specialty lunches. The parents' luncheon seats 550 people feasting on turkey dinner with all the trimmings. Last year, 105 pounds of turkey was prepared.

New this year, was the grandparents' luncheon. Rigert anticipated 50 people would attend but over 150 showed up! Perhaps because everyone has heard about her famous bread baking.

"I'll leave the recipes behind but now my husband will get the bread," she laughed.

She and husband, Roy, are the parents of Linda, Gary, John, Debbie and Kay. Son Kevin is deceased. The Rigerts have been married for 47 years or "an awfully long time," she said.

Rigert plans to spend her newfound spare time quilting. But you can bet the sweet smell of bread dough will be floating through her Paris neighborhood.

Bristol School cook Eloise Rigert will give up washing dishes. She will retire March 31 after serving as head cook for 31 years.

Spaghetti was the students' favorite meal when Eloise Rigert first started cooking for South Bristol School in 1962.

Today, pizza is No. 1 choice on the menu at Bristol Elementary School. Tacos, chicken nuggets and hamburgers are also well-liked, Rigert said.

"Kids are more fast food eaters today," she commented. "They don't like (homemade) macaroni and cheese because it doesn't look like Kraft."

Rigert, 64, will retire as head cook of Bristol Elementary School at the end of the month, with the satisfaction of having fed thousands of children in her 31 years with the school lunch program.

Rigert's day starts at 6:15 a.m. when she prepares the dough for fresh homemade bread each day.

She finally gets a chance to sit down and rest around 1:30 p.m. after preparing, serving and washing the dishes created by more than 300 lunches. She is assisted by two other cooks. Some of the older students also help out with serving and clean-up.

Feeding a crowd is made easier with industrial-size equipment: a 20 burner stove, a 50 pound mixer, stack ovens that hold six trays of pizza or cookies.

Steam tables keep the food warm as lunch is served, beginning at 10:50 a.m.

daily. A walk-in refrigerator and freezer and a pantry hold staples.

Rigert plans a month's worth of menus at a time, depending on what government commodities she receives and what the children prefer to eat.

"I start with the main dish and then I fill the rest in," she said.

"I go with what I know they're going to eat pretty well. One thing they're not too fond of is fish products. They don't eat fish like they used to."

A salad bar is offered as an alternative to the hot lunch.

Rigert learned to cook from her mother, who cooked for the former Woodworth School (now St. Irene's) for 15 to 20 years before retiring at age 65.

Rigert perfected her cooking skills feeding her family of six children, and helped out in the Paris Elementary School lunch room while her children were students there — until she started working at Bristol.

Her one cooking shortfall: "I can't make meringue. I keep trying. I find it a challenge," she says.

One of her family's favorite dishes is Rigert's apple pie. And she enjoys making doughnuts with her 10 grandchildren during school vacations.

Three of her grandchildren have gone through Bristol Elementary while she was cooking there.

"When they were younger they kind of liked it," Rigert said.

She has fed two generations of Bristol school children in several families, she noted.

Rigert still enjoys cooking as much as ever, and plans to devote more time to baking for her family after she retires.

"I don't have time to bake homemade bread (at home) now," she said.

She also plans to make a quilt for each of her children, and find time for her hobbies of knitting, crocheting and cross stitch. And she'll have more time to spend with her grandchildren, ages 7 to 23, who all live in Kenosha County.

Rigert said she'll miss the school children after she retires, but won't miss getting up early weekday mornings. Her husband of 47 years, Roy, retired from Dynamatic nine years ago.

"I'm tired of getting up in the morning and seeing him sit in the house," she said with a laugh.

"I feel good and I want to go out while I feel good and enjoy some of it."

Salem group opposes sewer extension to Bristol

By Arlene Jensen

SALEM — Opponents of a sewer extension into Bristol had their opportunity to be heard Thursday. Only 12 of the 440 petitioners showed up at a special meeting of the Salem Town Board.

The petitioners, led by Bill Barhyte, 27315 113th St., asked for an immediate halt to the expansion of Salem sewers into the town of Bristol and any other areas outside the boundaries of Salem Utility District 2. The signed documents were turned in March 14.

Petitioners also objected to the $90.25 quarterly fee paid by Bristol residents, identical to the fee paid by Salem residents. They challenged the operation of the town utility districts and asked that sewer extensions be placed on a referendum or be decided by a special sewer committee.

Town Attorney John Bjellac said about 50 acres near Lake Shangrila, in the town of Bristol, has been in the Utility District 2 service area since its inception in 1983. About 16 homes connected to the sewer in the early '80s, and more are being added now.

Construction costs of the system needed to serve the Bristol segment are all paid by those residents, he said, as well as hook up fees. Every user pays the same rate, he said.

Town Engineer Chris Kaempfer said with 3,500 users, the Salem plant is only running at about half capacity. The plant processes 700,000 to 800,000 gallons of wastewater per day but is capable of handling 1.6 million.

"If the Bristol area was completely developed with 160 homes, it would only add 160,000 gallons per day," he said. "We would not be able to tell the difference."

The town also has a contract to accept wastewater from the town of Randall and the area around Gander Mountain as well as eight or nine homes in the immediate vicinity.

Peter Wachs, District 2 utility manager, said when the plant was built, the town received state and federal grants.

"That opened the door for providing service to other areas," he said.

Barhyte also objected to the town's allowing Salem Utility District 1, the area around Montgomery Lake, to send its wastewater to District 2.

Kaempfer said the state Department of Natural Resources will not allow numerous small plants but will only permit large regional plant.

"The District 2 plant was designed to serve 15,000 people," said Kaempfer, "and even if the Town Board said no, I have a feeling you'd be hooking them up."

On the subject of appointing a special sewer commission, Bjellac said the Town Board serves as commissioners of the sewer districts and they may choose whether to delegate that responsibility.

Town Chairman Shirley Boening said she will send out 2,200 letters to sewer customers explaining the board's stand on the issues raised by Barhyte's petition.

Nancy Schlenz, 21912 121st St., criticized the board for not sending out meeting notices to all those who signed the petition.

"Wouldn't it make sense to send out 2,200 letters announcing this meeting?" she asked.

Boening said it was announced in the normal places, including area newspapers.

Supervisor Josephine Weidman challenged some of the signatures on Barhyte's petition.

She said, "I've lived here a long time, and I've never heard of Sylvester Road in Trevor, or Elmer Fudd."

Bristol passes sewer resolution

Lake Shangrila properties affected

BRISTOL — Town officials Monday passed a resolution that authorizes the installation of sanitary sewers for 180 properties on the eastern edge of Lake Shangrila.

An attorney for some of the property owners said his clients may take the matter to court.

At a meeting of the Bristol Town Board, a final assessment resolution was passed that will divide the estimated $1.7 million cost over the benefited properties, minus 10 percent that will be paid by the town.

Wastewater from the new collection system will be conveyed to Salem and the treatment plant on Highway C.

The actual cost of the project will be determined on completion of construction and evenly divided by the total number of assessment units. Parcels with lake frontage will be assigned two and one-quarter assessment units. Parcels without lake frontage will be assigned one unit.

Attorney Dennis Lynch, Burlington, representing a group of lakefront owners, said the assessment method is not in conformance with the state statute that requires an assessment to be reasonable.

"It assumes that lakefront property owners will benefit more than those off the lake," said Lynch.

He said the Kenosha County Assessor's office values a sewered lot on Lake Shangrila at $1,000 a front foot and an unsew-ered lot an identical amount. "It is your assumption that a lot with sewer increases in value," he said. "The assessor does not agree."

In a letter to the board, Lynch wrote: "In the event that the district proceeds to utilize the currently proposed method, our clients will challenge the assessment method by appealing to the Circuit Court of Kenosha County."

Richard Sankovitz, representing the town, said the assessment method is reasonable because "there is a general expectation that you will pay more for lakefront property than property that is not on a lake."

After the meeting, Sankovitz said if the assessments are challenged, "we believe it will be upheld."

Supervisor Donald Wienke called the Shangrila sewer project a tough issue.

"Two-thirds of the property owners requested sewers and on that basis, this board continued with the project," said Wienke.

Boundaries of the project are Highway V on the north, 122nd Street on the south, one block east of 221st Avenue on the east, and Lake Shangrila on the west.

The Monday agenda also included a decision to seek an informal appraisal of an eight-acre parcel at 83rd Street and 195th Avenue. The site is owned by Robert Watring, 517 Sheridan Road, and is currently zoned multi-family.

In other business, the board voted to ask the state Department of Transportation to hold off on approval of a transfer of Highway AH from county to town jurisdiction until a question about the width of the road right of way is answered.

GRADE SCHOOLS

Bristol (2)

Shirley Bizek did not return the questionnaire.

Barbara L. Boldt, 39, Bristol, is a math instructor at College of Lake County, Grayslake, Ill.

She is a graduate of Iowa-Grant High School. She received her bachelor's degree in mathematics and English from UW-Platteville.

This is her first bid for political office.

Boldt stated, "I've been involved with education in various capacities all my life. Seeking a position on the school board is a natural extension of this interest, as well as an opportunity to serve the community.

"Bristol School provides our children with a well-rounded education and a positive atmosphere in which to learn. The school will be challenged to maintain its current quality as our community continues to grow.

"As the state Legislature debates school funding, it is important our school board and town board work together in seeking ways to lessen the impact of growth on the taxpayers of Bristol."

Kendall DeRoo, Bristol, is seeking her first bid for office.

She is a graduate of Lake Forest High School and attended Grinnell College and Boston University.

She is a free-lance writer.

DeRoo stated, "I have always been interested in education since my son began attending Bristol School 3 years ago.

"I have been impressed with the attitude and direction of the school. I think the school board and the administration have done a very good job of providing a quality education, innovative programs and a positive environment for learning.

"There are also a number of challenging issues coming up in the not-too-distant future, not just for Bristol School but for all schools. Things like school choice and school funding, in which I would like to participate."

Jack Spencer, 44, Bristol, is a loan officer at Gateway Mortgage, Kenosha.

He is a graduate of Union Grove Union High School, attended UW-Wisconsin and received a bachelor's degree from Carthage College, Kenosha.

This is his first bid for public office.

Spencer stated, "My interest to be on the Bristol Grade School Board stems from my two sons, ages 4 and 9.

"Elementary education is the foundation for an individual's success in life. I want to maintain and improve the quality of education that Bristol Grade School provides."

Thirty-one candidates will be competing April 5 for the 22 school board seats which expire on the 10 grade school and two high school boards in western Kenosha County.

There will be races in the Bristol, Randall, Riverview, Salem, Trevor and Wheatland grade school districts and Westosha Central High School District. Terms are for three years.

Bristol

Incumbent Shirley Bizek, 10306 187th Ave., faces a challenge from Jack Spencer, 17320 Winfield Road; Barbara Boldt, 20612 81st St., and Kendall V. DeRoo, 15707 Horton Road, for the two terms expiring. Incumbent Karen Kiefer did not seek re-election.

The annual salary of the president, clerk and treasurer is $1,475; all other members receive $1,275. The board elects its own officers.

■ Bizek is completing her second term on the Bristol School Board. She was originally appointed to complete the unexpired term following the death of her husband, Charles.

■ Boldt, 39, a part-time math instructor at the College of Lake County, is making her first bid for public office. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Platteville, she has a bachelor's degree in mathematics and English secondary education. She has been involved in education throughout her life and said seeking a position on the school board is a natural extension of this interest and an opportunity to serve the community.

Second Supervisor

William M. Glembocki, 56, Bristol, retired supervisor, AMC/Chrysler, Kenosha.

He graduated from Notre Dame High School. He took various management and human relations courses.

He served in the U.S. Army Reserve.

He lost his bid for Bristol supervisor in 1991 and won his bid in 1992.

Glembocki stated, "I am running because I care about Bristol. Bristol has been good to me and my family and now I am retired. I have the time to work for my community. I am available for meetings, both night and day."

"Being retired, I know what it is to be on a fixed income. I look at town spending from that point of view."

"During the last 2 years, I believe that I have shown fiscal responsibility. While controlling approximately 10 percent of the over all property tax, the town has controlled spending while upgrading its road, fire and office equipment. I will continue to work toward these goals."

Mark Miller did not return the questionnaire.

Fourth Supervisor

Wayne E. Eide, 33, Bristol, is manager of technical services at Cintex of America, Kenosha.

He is a graduate of Waukegan Christian School; Gateway Technical College; and he attended Black Hills State College.

He served in the U.S. Air Force for 8 years.

This is his first bid for public office.

Eide stated, "A voice is needed on the Bristol Town Board. There are many decisions that will come up in the future. Decisions such as annexation, growth and spending."

"Bristol must be allowed to determine its future without the constant threat of annexation. Growth in Bristol must be managed while carefully maintaining a rural community atmosphere. Prudent spending policies of the town's funds should be foremost on each member's mind."

"I have a desire to serve the people of Bristol."

William Lesnjak, 43, Bristol, construction and maintenance services contractor and owner of Storm Inc., Bristol.

He is a graduate of Waukegan High School, Waukegan, Ill. He has attended College of Lake County, University of Illinois Extension, Southern Illinois University Extension and UW-Extension.

He was appointed in 1990 to fill the Supervisor 4 seat and was elected in 1992.

Lesnjak stated, "I would like to continue responsible leadership in Bristol. I have the working knowledge necessary for efficient service."

"My political outlook is, for government 'of the people.'"

"I would like to improve the quality of life for all Bristol residents."

All Bristol town candidates say resist annexations

Editor's note: The following story was compiled from responses to a questionnaire mailed to all candidates in the race.

By Darren Hillock
Bulletin Editor

If all the candidates for Bristol Town Board have their way, the town's boundaries won't be changing much in the future. All favor challenging annexation attempts by neighboring municipalities if they are elected.

The methods they advocate, however, for keeping the town lines as is vary from taking the matter to court whenever necessary to invoking to the spirit of the minute men of the United States Revolutionary War.

On the ballot in the April 5 general election vying for two supervisor seats are incumbents William Glembocki, 56, and William Lesnjak, 43, along with newcomers Wayne Eide, 33, and Mark Miller, also 33.

Glembocki, a supervisor for two years, said he believes the town should defend its borders against annexation even if it means a court battle.

"Bristol is 36 square miles and I believe it should have the right to remain 36 square miles," said Glembocki.

He added that for the town's comprehensive master plan to work, the borders must stay intact.

Lesnjak, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1993 and a town supervisor since 1990, conjures the spirit of the founding fathers when addressing the issue.

"Hostile annexations of Bristol territory by neighboring municipalities should be met with the same courage and determination shown by the minutemen at Lexington and Concord in 1775," said Lesnjak. "And I don't mean by violence, but by maintaining the moral high ground of justice and equality, which is basic to American constitutional principles."

Eide, manager of tech services for Cintex of America Inc., acknowledged that court battles over annexation could become costly, but "Bristol must be able to determine its future without the constant threat of annexation."

He advocated careful planning as a way to minimize the "threat of annexation."

Miller, a tool and die maker, addressed the fiscal aspect of the annexation issue.

"To allow annexation could ruin Bristol's tax base," Miller said.

Diverse, controlled and managed were some of the adjectives used by the candidates to describe the type of development from which the town would benefit in their opinion.

"Diverse development is what Bristol needs," said Glembocki. "A balance between residential, commercial and industrial. This would ensure growth without taxing the schools too hard."

Such development also could mean more local jobs, he pointed out.

"Balanced development containing the components of residential, rural, industrial and commercial," was advocated for the town by Lesnjak. He would seek to foster development that would "preserve the open-space character of Bristol and the freedom of its residents."

Eide sees "carefully planned, managed development of Bristol" as the most beneficial to the local tax base.

Consideration of the impact on the local community should be in the forefront of the planning process and kept in mind when attracting development.

Likewise, Miller seeks "controlled growth" with a specific ratio of types in mind.

"We need growth but controlled," Miller said. "I'd like to see 60 percent industrial and 40 percent residential in tax base."

On the issue of providing tax relief to local property owners, the newcomers defended the town's record.

"In the past town budgets, I have shown fiscal responsibility by keeping spending under control while still upgrading the town equipment and instituting a town road rebuilding program," said Glembocki, a retired supervisor at AMC-Chrysler.

He pointed out that the town can only effect about 10 percent of the total property tax bill.

Lesnjak, a self-employed maintenance and construction services contractor, said Bristol has reduced the town tax rate the last two years.

However, he points out that assessment practices play a key role in whether that prudence makes it to the taxpayer's bill. The town has a role to play in providing tax relief "by encouraging fair assessment practices and by supporting changes to Wisconsin law that would allow long-term residents to defer taxes until a property is sold; it is unfair to tax people out of their homes."

Eide said the town can provide tax relief "by encouraging prudent spending policies. Every effort to lower property taxes must be considered by each board member."

Eide praised the industrial park as an "excellent source of revenue" for the town and said he favors expanding the park. He also cites encouraging single family residential development over multi-family as a way to favorably impact the tax rate.

Miller said "the board needs to make good, sound decisions before spending any money."

Glembocki is married and has three children. He has served 31 years with the Bristol Volunteer Fire Department.

Lesnjak is married with two children and two step children. He is a member of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, U.S. Parachute Association, Aircraft Owners & Pilots Association, Sky Knights Sport Parachute Club and the Wisconsin Towns Association.

Eide is a member and deacon of Paddock Lake Baptist Church and served as a school board member of the Fox Valley Christian School. He is married and has a daughter.

Miller is married with four children.

Four seeking 2 Bristol posts

By Patrik Vander Velden

3-29-94
BRISTOL — Two political newcomers face two incumbents for Bristol supervisor posts in the April 5 election.

Incumbent William Glembocki, 19605 81st St., is challenged by Mark J. Miller, 19724 83rd St., for the Supervisor 2 post. Incumbent William Lesnjak, 17901 93rd St., faces Wayne Eide, 19818 84th St., in the contest for Supervisor 4. Annual salary for Bristol supervisors is $5,775 for the two-year positions. Major issues addressed by candidates were annexation, impact fees, and the need for a second fire station in Bristol.

Supervisor 2

■ William Glembocki says he wants to return to the board because "I have time to contribute back to a community that has been good to me."

His short term goals are "to continue to maintain (Bristol's) 36 square miles intact."

Annexation of Bristol land into the city of Kenosha is a strong issue to Bristol voters, said Glembocki. The issue is tied to providing sewer and water services.

"Given half a chance, we can provide all services necessary," said Glembocki.

The time to build a second fire station and the place for it will be decided on the rate of residential, commercial and industrial growth and where that takes place, said Glembocki.

Expansion of town services should be covered by the increased tax base as the town grows and not from new taxes, he said.

"As the tax base goes up, the income goes up," he said.

He favors school impact fees for subdivisions.

"However, fees have to be balanced, uniform and within reason. And seeing that Bristol is a feeder school (to Westosha Central High School), it has to be coordinated with the other towns," he said.

He sees movement among Western Kenosha County towns to work together to solve mutual problems. An example is a cable TV committee he serves on and his representing the town at recent countywide planning meetings.

■ Mark Miller said he would put the same effort into town projects as he did in remodeling and landscaping the 100-year-old farmhouse his family moved to from Gurnee, Ill.

"We want Bristol to succeed and be able to say, 'Bristol is a good place to live.'"

A political newcomer, Miller said he was encouraged to run by friends and wanted to set an example of community involvement for Bristol.

"We're going to be here for awhile. I'd like to see more community involvement. Too many people are in a hurry," he said.

Miller said he favors controlled growth and impact fees for developers for sewers, parks and schools.

"I'm concerned that we've seen a history of people coming and going and we're left with the mess," he said.

He also accepted the current countywide zoning ordinance in Bristol but would like to see more democratic control. He cited the citizen effort in 1990 to stop a proposed motor sports complex development in the town as a good example of people stopping what's not best for the community.

However, he said, "a person should be able to do what they want with their property and sell it for what they want."

But he added, "I believe people also have a say. We do live in a democracy."

He would like to keep a tax base split between 60 percent for industrial and 40 percent residential. Miller said this approach can both control growth and keep taxes down.

"We need to please the people and keep taxes down as much as possible," he said.

A primary goal would be to maintain Bristol borders without annexation into the city of Kenosha, he said.

Town fire services, now under study by a committee, should be expanded, he said, but it's not something that will happen until after recom-

Supervisor 4

■ Wayne Eide says he will get out among the people as much as he can. He accused his opposition, incumbent William Lesnjak, of poor attendance at regular meetings.

"I would get out as much as I can and get the input of the people," said Eide.

He said Lesnjak "has missed important meetings and has not been there for major decisions" but declined to elaborate.

"I don't want to be a wedge. I just feel uneasy when a board member isn't there," he said.

Eide said he always had a love for politics but dislikes the label politician.

"What's a politician? A policy maker. And he has to have input from the people," he said.

He favors impact fees that pay for town services.

Eide said he would get the input of the fire department to help decide where and when to build a new fire station. He said he liked the direction the board was going.

His main issue is to keep Bristol property from being annexed into the city of Kenosha.

"I do believe firmly Bristol should be separate from Kenosha," he said.

Eide came to Bristol, his wife Christine's hometown, in 1985 after leaving the military service.

"I want to maintain a community that is rural. I don't want to see it swallowed up by Kenosha or industries that

■ William Lesnjak said he is a passive candidate.

"People know me well enough to know what I stand for. They make their opinion known in the ballot box," he said.

Lesnjak said he was first prompted to be on the board by an attitude that he thought he could do better. Now, with experience, he says, "I found there are things I can change. I'd like to continue; I have a big stake here."

He said he enjoys public service and townspeople are saying they like the direction the board has taken since the controversy over a motorsports track split it into factions four years ago.

But, added Lesnjak, "this is public service in its purest form. People can come in and point fingers."

Lesnjak takes seriously citizens' concern about property annexations into the city of Kenosha from the I-94 and Highway 50 corridor.

"Our people have told us to defend our borders. Or else," he said.

Lesnjak supports planning for expanded fire services as development warrants but is confident the current manpower and equipment is adequate. The town has enough equipment for two stations now, he said.

"I like the volunteers. We will probably go to a few full-time (eventually). But I wouldn't want to discourage their volunteer service," he said.

Referring to impact fees as a way to pay for the increased cost of services, Lesnjak said, "I support them in principal but am skeptical about their constitutionality."

He supports orderly development citing White Caps subdivision in the city which has come to be synonymous with poor drainage plans and six-foot setbacks as what the town does not want.

He would support more communication between towns regarding their development plans as a way to reach a consensus on area-wide planning.

"We don't need fiefdoms — people isolating themselves. We have to cooperate for mutual concerns," Lesnjak said. He included the city of Kenosha in his support for area-wide planning.

Second Supervisor

William M. Glembocki, 56, Bristol, retired supervisor, AMC/Chrysler, Kenosha.

He graduated from Notre Dame High School. He took various management and human relations courses.

He served in the U.S. Army Reserve.

He lost his bid for Bristol supervisor in 1991 and won his bid in 1992.

Glembocki stated, "I am running because I care about Bristol. Bristol has been good to me and my family and now I am retired. I have the time to work for my community. I am available for meetings, both night and day.

"Being retired, I know what it is to be on a fixed income. I look at town spending from that point of view.

"During the last 2 years, I believe that I have shown fiscal responsibility. While controlling approximately 10 percent of the over all property tax, the town has controlled spending while upgrading its road, fire and office equipment. I will continue to work toward these goals."

Mark Miller did not return the questionnaire.

Fourth Supervisor

Wayne E. Eide, 33, Bristol, is manager of technical services at Cintex of America, Kenosha.

He is a graduate of Waukegan Christian School; Gateway Technical College; and he attended Black Hills State College.

He served in the U.S. Air Force for 8 years.

This is his first bid for public office.

Eide stated, "A voice is needed on the Bristol Town Board. There are many decisions that will come up in the future. Decisions such as annexation, growth and spending.

"Bristol must be allowed to determine its future without the constant threat of annexation. Growth in Bristol must be managed while carefully maintaining a rural community atmosphere. Prudent spending policies of the town's funds should be foremost on each member's mind.

"I have a desire to serve the people of Bristol."

William Lesnjak, 43, Bristol, construction and maintenance services contractor and owner of Storm Inc., Bristol.

He is a graduate of Waukegan High School, Waukegan, Ill. He has attended College of Lake County, University of Illinois Extension, Southern Illinois University Extension and UW-Extension.

He was appointed in 1990 to fill the Supervisor 4 seat and was elected in 1992.

Lesnjak stated, "I would like to continue responsible leadership in Bristol. I have the working knowledge necessary for efficient service.

"My political outlook is, for government of the people."

"I would like to improve the quality of life for all Bristol residents."

All Bristol town candidates say resist annexations

Editor's note: The following story was compiled from responses to a questionnaire mailed to all candidates in the race.

By Darren Hillock
Bulletin Editor

If all the candidates for Bristol Town Board have their way, the town's boundaries won't be changing much in the future. All favor challenging annexation attempts by neighboring municipalities if they are elected.

The methods they advocate, however, for keeping the town lines as is vary from taking the matter to court whenever necessary to invoking to the spirit of the minute men of the United States Revolutionary War.

On the ballot in the April 5 general election vying for two supervisor seats are incumbents William Glembocki, 56, and William Lesnjak, 43, along with newcomers Wayne Eide, 33, and Mark Miller, also 33.

Glembocki, a supervisor for two years, said he believes the town should defend its borders against annexation even if it means a court battle.

"Bristol is 36 square miles and I believe it should have the right to remain 36 square miles," said Glembocki.

He added that for the town's comprehensive master plan to work, the borders must stay intact.

Lesnjak, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in 1993 and a town supervisor since 1990, conjures the spirit of the founding fathers when addressing the issue.

"Hostile annexations of Bristol territory by neighboring municipalities should be met with the same courage and determination shown by the minutemen at Lexington and Concord in 1775," said Lesnjak. "And I don't mean by violence, but by maintaining the moral high ground of justice and equality, which is basic to American constitutional principles."

Eide, manager of tech services for Cintex of America Inc., acknowledged that court battles over annexation could become costly, but "Bristol must be able to determine its future without the constant threat of annexation."

He advocated careful planning as a way to minimize the "threat of annexation."

Miller, a tool and die maker, addressed the fiscal aspect of the annexation issue.

"To allow annexation could ruin Bristol's tax base," Miller said.

Diverse, controlled and managed were some of the adjectives used by the candidates to describe the type of development from which the town would benefit in their opinion.

"Diverse development is what Bristol needs," said Glembocki. "A balance between residential, commercial and industrial. This would ensure growth without taxing the schools too hard."

Such development also could mean more local jobs, he pointed out.

"Balanced development containing the components of residential, rural, industrial and commercial," was advocated for the town by Lesnjak. He would seek to foster development that would "preserve the open-space character of Bristol and the freedom of its residents."

Eide sees "carefully planned, managed development of Bristol" as the most beneficial to the local tax base.

Consideration of the impact on the local community should be in the forefront of the planning process and kept in mind when attracting development.

Likewise, Miller seeks "controlled growth" with a specific ratio of types in mind.

"We need growth but controlled," Miller said. "I'd like to see 60 percent industrial and 40 percent residential in tax base."

On the issue of providing tax relief to local property owners, the newcomers defended the town's record.

"In the past town budgets, I have shown fiscal responsibility by keeping spending under control while still upgrading the town equipment and instituting a town road rebuilding program," said Glembocki, a retired supervisor at AMC-Chrysler.

He pointed out that the town can only effect about 10 percent of the total property tax bill.

Lesnjak, a self-employed maintenance and construction services contractor, said Bristol has reduced the town tax rate the last two years.

However, he points out that assessment practices play a key role in whether that prudence makes it to the taxpayer's bill. The town has a role to play in providing tax relief "by encouraging fair assessment practices and by supporting changes to Wisconsin law that would allow long-term residents to defer taxes until a property is sold; it is unfair to tax people out of their homes."

Eide said the town can provide tax relief "by encouraging prudent spending policies. Every effort to lower property taxes must be considered by each board member."

Eide praised the industrial park as an "excellent source of revenue" for the town and said he favors expanding the park. He also cites encouraging single family residential development over multi-family as a way to favorably impact the tax rate.

Miller said "the board needs to make good, sound decisions before spending any money."

Glembocki is married and has three children. He has served 31 years with the Bristol Volunteer Fire Department.

Lesnjak is married with two children and two step children. He is a member of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, U.S. Parachute Association, Aircraft Owners & Pilots Association, Sky Knights Sport Parachute Club and the Wisconsin Towns Association.

Eide is a member and deacon of Paddock Lake Baptist Church and served as a school board member of the Fox Valley Christian School. He is married and has a daughter.

Miller is married with four children.

Porter changes law discriminating against Kenosha

Kenosha County property taxpayers will have greater power to contest unfair property tax assessments under Assembly Bill 777, which has been approved by both houses of the Legislature and is now awaiting the governor's signature. The bill was introduced by state Rep. Cloyd Porter.

The bill was approved without opposition by the state Assembly on Feb. 8. It was approved by the state Senate, also without opposition, on March 24.

"A loophole in the present law denies property taxpayers in Kenosha County the right to appeal a claim of excessive property tax assessments in Circuit Court," Porter said.

In other counties, a property taxpayer can appeal an unfair assessment in Circuit Court. But current law exempts counties with a county assessor program. Kenosha County is the only county with a county assessor program.

"If this procedure works well in other counties, why shouldn't property taxpayers in Kenosha County have the same right?" Porter said. "This is a check and balance method that has worked well on behalf of property taxpayers in other counties."

Phyllis J. Kaskin, clerk of the town of Randall, said, "Because Kenosha County is the only county in the state to adopt county assessing under s. 70.99, we do not have the privilege to file a claim on excessive assessments. The citizens of Kenosha County are being discriminated against because the taxpayers can only obtain a trial in Circuit Court under s. 74.37."

August Zirbel Jr., chairman of the town of Paris, stated, "Many thanks for you and Reps. Wood, Schneider and Ryba for introducing AB 777 authored to bring relief to taxpayers who are being faced with unfair tax assessments."

Audrey Van Slochteren, chairman of the town of Bristol, said, "I believe we in Kenosha County find ourselves in a unique position, due to the fact that we are the only county in the state of Wisconsin to have adopted county assessing. Under s. 70.99, taxpayers in counties with county assessing — such as Kenosha County — do not have the privilege to file a claim on excessive assessments. The only means a taxpayer has for obtaining a trial in Circuit Court is under s. 74.37."

Dry conditions are resulting in grass fires

A Bristol firefighter works a grass fire at Highway ML and the West Frontage Road Friday afternoon, one of several grass fires that plagued rural fire departments throughout the day. Pleasant Prairie firefighters fought two grass fires, at Cooper Road and 91st Place, the other in the 9000 block of First Ave. About 20 acres of grassland burned at the Robert Pringle farm, highways Q and MB in Bristol, when a piece of burning paper was carried by the wind into a hayfield. Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren cautioned residents to use extreme caution when burning outdoors.

Bristol bans outdoor burning

BRISTOL — Outdoor burning is banned in the town of Bristol, effective today by order of Fire Chief Scott Muhlenbeck.

The ban, which will be in effect until further notice, affects all outdoor burning, said Muhlenbeck, including covered containers.

Muhlenbeck said the ban will be lifted when the area receives enough rainfall to relieve dry conditions.

Bizek upset in Bristol School race

BRISTOL — Incumbent Shirley Bizek, 10308 187th Ave., was upset in the race Tuesday for the two seats expiring on the Bristol Grade School Board.

Top vote-getter in the election was Jack Spencer, 1720 Winfield Road, with 323 votes. Also elected was Barbara Boldt, 39, 20612 81st St., with 370 votes.

Bizek received 174 votes and Kendall V. DeRoo, 15707 Horton Road garnered 85 votes.

Sewer ordinance debated in Bristol

By Diane Jahnke

The allocation of funds to pay for the installation of sewers to serve Lake Shangri-la "discriminates against lake-front property owners," said attorney Dennis Lynch.

He added, at the March 28 meeting of the Bristol Town Board, that his clients are considering appealing the matter in Kenosha County Circuit Court.

The board passed a resolution which authorizes a special assessment for the installation of a sanitary sewer collection system in Bristol. The system is to be connected to the Utility District 4 sewage treatment plant in Salem.

A group of lake-front property owners who live on the east side of Lake Shangri-la have retained the law firm of Lloyd, Phenicie, Lynch & Kelly, Burlington, to review the proposed special assessment method.

Cost of the project is $1.7 million; Bristol will fund 10 percent. The cost to property owners will be determined at the completion of construction and be evenly divided by the total number of assessment units.

Lake-front property owners will be assigned two and one-quarter assessment units, while a parcel located off the lake will be assigned one assessment unit.

Said Lynch, "That method discriminates against lake-front property owners. It assumes they will benefit more (than inland property owners) from it."

He went on to say that with or without sewers, lake-front property in Lake Shangri-la is assessed at $1,000 a foot.

"There is no difference in value," Lynch said.

He felt that the only fair, reasonable and consistent solution to the assessments, is to have all 180 property owners equally share the costs.

Town board members, along with attorney Richard Sankovitz, representing Bristol, agreed that lake-front property has a higher valuation than inland property, concluding that this method is a fair way to spread the assessment.

"You will experience a greater increase (valuation) than inland" will after sewers are installed, Sankovitz said,

Supervisor Donald Wienke said the board spent 3-1/2 hours "struggling with what is the best way," he said. "We have put in every honest effort to make this as fair as possible."

He added that two-thirds of the affected property owners have expressed that they want sewers installed.

Sankovitz said benefits would be an increased value to the property and protection from possible pollution of ground and surface water.

BRISTOL — Jim and Judy Conte's variance requests were approved Wednesday by the Bristol Plan Commission and later by the Bristol Town Board.

The Contes are seeking variances to make possible the building of their new home at 116th Street and 214th Avenue.

They are asking approval of a

Kenosha County Board of Adjustment tonight. It was on that board's agenda Feb. 17 and was tabled because it was challenged by a neighboring property owner, Robert Mooney, Oak Creek.

Mooney appeared at the Bristol meeting Wednesday to again register his objection.

Conte said he has had three surveys and all of them produced different property lines.

Ex-Falcon Gilmore helps Carthage sweep

WHEATON — Senior Amy Gilmore, a former Westosha High player, collected four hits and scored six runs to lead the Carthage College softball team to a double-header sweep over host Wheaton, 17-2 and 8-5, Thursday.

Gilmore had four hits, including a triple, and scored four runs in the first game as Carthage totaled 20 hits. Jenny Waid (5-2) pitched all six innings.

Gilmore tripled, singled and scored twice in the nightcap. Tara Kennedy picked up her first decision and Christa Goetz got the save. Carthage had nine hits.

Carthage, 2-0 in the CCIW, 10-5 overall, plays double-headers at Illinois Wesleyan Saturday and Millikin Sunday.

The Contes are seeking variances to make possible the building of their new home at 116th Street and 214th Avenue.

They are asking approval of a 60-foot shoreyard setback from the high water mark of Lake Shangrila. County zoning ordinances require 75 feet. They are also asking to build 24 feet from 117th Street instead of the required 30 feet.

The issue will go to the

Mooney appeared at the Bristol meeting Wednesday to again register his objection.

Michael Lopez, the architect who is designing the Conte home, said the shape of the lot creates unusual restrictions on shape of the house. There has been confusion, he said, concerning the point on the lake-front from which the setback is measured.

"We want to create something nice on the property but still follow all zoning rules, " said Lopez.

"I'd like to see them get their variances," he said.

Wednesday's plan commission agenda also included approval of a variance request from Paul and Emma Wayda, Harwood Heights, Ill. They are asking for permission to build a home on a lot near 102nd Street, between 185th and 186th avenues.

Countywide plan for growth urged

By Jennie Tunkielcz
Staff Writer

A countywide approach to planning is needed to successfully manage Kenosha's future growth, an early draft of the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee's report states.

The task force, formed by County Executive John Collins in the fall, is charged with making recommendations to be used for guiding development throughout the county.

A final draft is expected sometime in May, and a public hearing will be held to discuss the recommendations.

F. Gregory Campbell, Carthage College president, and task force chairman, said his group generally agrees with the recommendations, but will continue to refine the report.

"The report does stress the desirability to have an overall plan pertaining to the whole community to assist in maintaining the living environment as the citizens of Kenosha County would like to see it. This can only be done by cooperating throughout the county," Campbell said.

It will be up to each municipality to make the recommendations successful, Campbell said.

"Our hope is this compliance with the recommendations will be voluntary," Campbell said. "We are not advocating that some super authority mandate and require these things be done. Hopefully, the logic in the report will be sufficiently compelling that people will want to cooperate with each other for the betterment of the community."

The draft was prepared by the Planning and Design Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, the consulting firm working with the task force. The findings are based on numerous public hearings and a countywide survey conducted earlier this year.

Draft goals of task force

4-3-94
Draft goals from the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee report:

1. Countywide coordination.

■ Increase the effective coordination of growth-related decisions among local units of government and between the county and local units of government.

2. Comprehensive planning and implementation.

■ Develop plans that balance growth throughout the county, help achieve local objectives for maintaining and enhancing community character, and create a fair pattern of costs and revenues among taxpayers.

3. Education.

■ Establish ongoing programs that educate public officials about critical growth management problems and solutions.

4. Community impact analysis.

■ Increase the knowledge of decision makers about how new development affects the community.

5. Regulation of development.

■ Develop regulations for land use and site planning that enhance and protect the character of each community while providing fair procedures for growth and property development.

"Hopefully, the logic in the report will be sufficiently compelling that people will want to cooperate with each other for the betterment of the community."

F. Gregory Campbell

Key to the recommendations is for growth to be coordinated countywide.

A council, made up of officials from all of the local units of government, and a technical working group, consisting of professional planning staff from each municipality, should be formed.

The council would discuss issues such as industrial park locations and standardizing local codes.

The technical working group would work to implement the recommendations in the report. The group should meet quarterly and examine issues such as expanding countywide zoning or creating overlay zones addressing issues that cross municipal boundaries.

municipal boundaries.

A comprehensive plan for municipalities west of I-94, developed through the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, is recommended.

A countywide growth plan would be formed by balancing the plans for areas east and west of I-94.

Countywide guidelines would also be developed to regulate land use and site planning. The purpose of the guidelines would be to enhance and protect the character of each community while providing fair procedures for growth and property development.

VILLAGE OF PLEASANT PRAIRIE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING FOR AN AMENDMENT TO THE HIGHWAY ACCESS AND DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR STH 50 BETWEEN I-94 AND 60TH AVENUE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that there will be a PUBLIC HEARING before the VILLAGE PLAN COMMISSION of the VILLAGE OF PLEASANT PRAIRIE, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, at the Village Municipal Building, 9915 39th Avenue on the 13th day of April 1994 on or after 7:00 P.M. of said day, to consider the following:

The Village of Pleasant Prairie is conducting a public hearing to an amendment to the Highway Access and Development Plan for STH 50 between I-94 and 60th Avenue. 8 MEMORIAM

BAKKA

In loving memory of Jean Bakka, on her birthday, April 12, 1944.

LOVING MEMORIES

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall.

You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is muffled and stilled the heart, that loved us well and true.

Ah, bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one nor will you ever be.

As long as life and memory last we will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore, as time goes by we miss you more;

Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can fill your vacant place.

Incumbents defeated in race for Bristol Town Board seats

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The face of the Bristol Town Board was changed dramatically Tuesday with the defeat of two incumbent supervisors and the election of two newcomers.

Wayne E. Eide, 34, 19818 84th St., polled 395 votes, easily beating incumbent William Lesnjak, 43, 17901 93rd St., with 238 votes.

Mark J. Miller, 33, 19724 83rd St., with 354 votes, won over incumbent William Glembocki, 56, 19605 81st St., who polled 298 votes.

"I'm relieved that it's over," said Eide, "but I'm restless and ready to get to work, ready to serve the people."

Eide said he encountered major frustration on the campaign trail.

"People want to make sure they are represented. I will be an ear for those people."

"My opponent said some things I consider unsavory," said Lesnjak. "I consider what he said untrue. But the voters will get what they voted for. I feel good about my contribution to the town."

Miller said he was "shell-shocked" by his victory. "I don't know what to say. I guess it proves people wanted a change. Some said they were disappointed with what was happening in the town. Hopefully, we can make it better."

Glembocki attributed his defeat to a low turnout.

"But the people have spoken. I met a lot of good people and I enjoyed serving them. I'll still keep abreast of what's happening in Bristol."

Town parity bill to be signed

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

A bill that gives Wisconsin towns parity with cities and villages will be signed into law today by Gov. Tommy Thompson.

Thompson will sign the bill at 3:15 p.m. at the Rockland Town Hall in Brown County.

When it becomes effective Jan. 1, 1995, the law will give town governments many of the same powers currently enjoyed by cities and villages.

An example is the power given to city and village officials to request the governor to call out the National Guard in case of a disaster. Under current law, town officials can't do that.

The parity bill amends more than 200 sections of current state law, including the right to have parking meters, truck routes, create controlled access highways and ask the state to erect directional signs on state trunk highways.

There are 1,266 towns in Wisconsin, representing 31 percent of the state population.

Somers Town Chairman David Holtze, who also serves as chairman of the Urban Towns Committee of the Wisconsin Towns Association, said the town parity bill helps to level the playing field.

"Over the years, the Legislature has passed laws that enable cities and villages to do certain things. Towns were just left out, either through oversight or on purpose."

Bristol Supervisor William Lesnjak and Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, made several trips to Madison to testify in support of parity for towns. Lesnjak will represent Bristol at the signing today.

"In the spirit of justice and equity, I am very pleased to have participated in the passage of the legislation," said Lesnjak. "This bill reinforces the legitimacy of all town government within Wisconsin and brings us one more step toward full equality with cities and villages."

"Too often, town residents have been thought of as those flunkies out in the country," said Van Slochteren. "This law is the first step toward getting rid of that second class status."

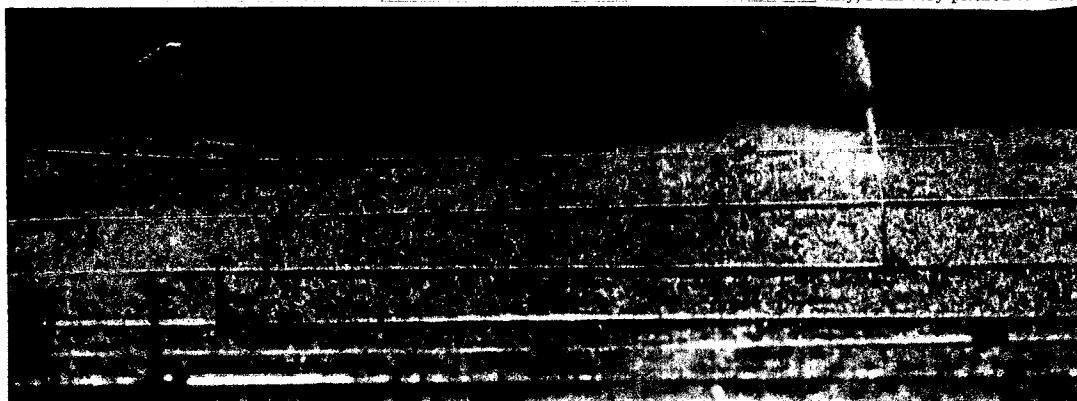

"It recognizes that town exist," she said.

Holtze said, "There was time when a clear distinction could be drawn between town on one hand and cities and villages on the other. But, today dozens of towns have large populations and bigger tax bases than most cities and villages."

In 1990, 247 towns had equalized values in excess of $46 million; 92 had equalized value above $100 million, and 25 exceeded $200 million.

"Town residents today expect their local government to meet service needs and regulatory issues in the same manner as cities and village," said Holtze.

All members of Kenosh County's legislative delegation Sen. Joseph Andrea, and state representatives Cloyd Porte, James Kreuser and Robert Wirch, supported the bill. Lasee, the chief sponsor of the bill, is also the Rockland town chairman.

Countywide plan for growth urged

By Jennie Tunkielcz
Staff Writer

A countywide approach to planning is needed to successfully manage Kenosha's future growth, an early draft of the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee's report states.

The task force, formed by County Executive John Collins in the fall, is charged with making recommendations to be used for guiding development throughout the county.

A final draft is expected sometime in May, and a public hearing will be held to discuss the recommendations.

F. Gregory Campbell, Carthage College president, and task force chairman, said his group generally agrees with the recommendations, but will continue to refine the report.

"The report does stress the desirability to have an overall plan pertaining to the whole community to assist in maintaining the living environment as the citizens of Kenosha County would like to see it. This can only be done by cooperating throughout the county," Campbell said.

It will be up to each municipality to make the recommendations successful, Campbell said.

"Our hope is this compliance with the recommendations will be voluntary," Campbell said. "We are not advocating that some super authority mandate and require these things be done. Hopefully, the logic in the report will be sufficiently compelling that people will want to cooperate with each other for the betterment of the community."

The draft was prepared by the Planning and Design Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, the consulting firm working with the task force. The findings are based on numerous public hearings and a countywide survey conducted earlier this year.

Draft goals of task force

4-3-94
Draft goals from the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee report:

1. Countywide coordination.

■ Increase the effective coordination of growth-related decisions among local units of government and between the county and local units of government.

2. Comprehensive planning and implementation.

■ Develop plans that balance growth throughout the county, help achieve local objectives for maintaining and enhancing community character, and create a fair pattern of costs and revenues among taxpayers.

3. Education.

■ Establish ongoing programs that educate public officials about critical growth management problems and solutions.

4. Community impact analysis.

■ Increase the knowledge of decision makers about how new development affects the community.

5. Regulation of development.

■ Develop regulations for land use and site planning that enhance and protect the character of each community while providing fair procedures for growth and property development.

"Hopefully, the logic in the report will be sufficiently compelling that people will want to cooperate with each other for the betterment of the community."

F. Gregory Campbell

Key to the recommendations is for growth to be coordinated countywide.

A council, made up of officials from all of the local units of government, and a technical working group, consisting of professional planning staff from each municipality, should be formed.

The council would discuss issues such as industrial park locations and standardizing local codes.

The technical working group would work to implement the recommendations in the report. The group should meet quarterly and examine issues such as expanding countywide zoning or creating overlay zones addressing issues that cross municipal boundaries.

municipal boundaries.

A comprehensive plan for municipalities west of I-94, developed through the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, is recommended.

A countywide growth plan would be formed by balancing the plans for areas east and west of I-94.

Countywide guidelines would also be developed to regulate land use and site planning. The purpose of the guidelines would be to enhance and protect the character of each community while providing fair procedures for growth and property development.

VILLAGE OF PLEASANT PRAIRIE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING FOR AN AMENDMENT TO THE HIGHWAY ACCESS AND DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR 5TH 50 BETWEEN 194 AND 60TH AVENUE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that there will be a PUBLIC HEARING before the VILLAGE PLAN COMMISSION of the VILLAGE OF PLEASANT PRAIRIE, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, at the Village Municipal Building, 9915 39th Avenue on the 15th day of April 1994 on or after 7:00 P.M. of said day, to consider the following:

The Village of Pleasant Prairie is conducting a public hearing to an amendment to the Highway Access and Development Plan for 5TH 50 between 194 and 60th Avenue. BAKKA

In loving memory of Jean Bakka, on her birthday, April 12, 1944.

LOVING MEMORIES

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall; You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart, that loved us well and true.

An bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you. You are not forgotten loved one nor will you ever be.

As long as life and memory last we will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, as time goes by we miss you more.

Your loving smile, your gentle face, no one can fill your vacant place.

Setting a bad precedent

4-8-94

To the Editor:

The Bristol Town Board set a dangerous precedent on March 28 when they forever altered the way the cost of service may be distributed among its residents.

On the Lake Shangri-la sewer proposal, our board decided not to assess by the standard linear foot (actual cost to run by) method or even on an equal dollar per lot basis. They voted unanimously to assess sewer cost strictly by location. Lakefront lots will be assessed at $17,042.08 each and off-lake lots at $7,574.26 each. Their reasoning (?) for such inequitable assessment was that lakefront lots will "benefit" more by the sewer service. By benefit, they obviously mean in value. Isn't that why we pay taxes — on property valuation? Already lakefront lots are rightfully assessed a great deal more. In addition, it is fully expected that sewer service will also raise the value and thus the tax assessment. I guess the board expects us to pay for the service twice — once in unequal sewer assessment and again in higher taxes.

The board also voted to pass on 10 percent of the total cost of the project to the Town of Bristol. While appreciated, we did not request or expect that. I wonder if individual cost per taxpayer will be determined by the location method or is that ridiculous idea reserved for Lake Shangri-la residents only. No sewer project here has been assessed in this manner. Why now?

We're talking about a sewer pipe — running past all lots and serving the same purpose — a service. We can only hope that familiar service oriented entities don't pick up on this idea.

We, of course, have chosen to challenge this totally unfair method of assessment and as residents of Bristol, Kenosha County and the State of Wisconsin, you should all hope that this board will not be allowed to set a precedent for cost of service that may never be equitable again.

D.R. Horton Custom Homes has opened two model homes in its Bristolwood subdivision in Bristol.

Horton Custom Homes, based in Rolling Meadows, Ill., plans to build 68 single-family homes on 34 acres on Highway AH, one mile south of Highway 50.

The planned houses, in eight floor plans, have living space ranging from 1,534 square feet to 2,419 square feet. Prices range from $127,900 to $164,900.

Winners in the Westosha Central High School art show competition, winning best of show, were Mike Brenner, advanced class, with his "Silhouette in Roses"; Scott Kaminski, intermediate class, with "Catch of the Day"; and Terria Fowler, basic class, with "Victorian Rose." Each winner won a $50 savings bond.

The proposed jail which would house 888 inmates would be built directly behind the current courthouse

County jail proposal

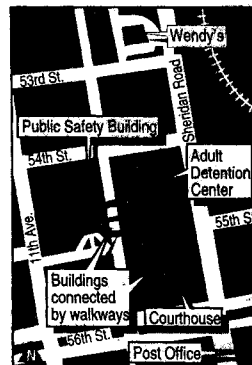

What: A new county jail to house 888 inmates.

Where: North of the courthouse, 912 56th St., and west of Sheridan Road. The courthouse annex and First United Methodist Church would be razed for the project.

When: Planned opening July 1, 1997.

Cost: $63.1 million would be borrowed to build the jail and it will cost $20 million to operate it the first year, including $13.7 million for staffing.

Tax impact: The county tax levy would increase $10.3 million, or $166.94 yearly for the average taxpayer.

Jail: Go west

County site now sought

By Jennie Tunkleicz

A new jail should be built away from the cost and controversy of the proposed downtown site, County Executive John Collins and Sheriff Allan Kehl said Thursday.

Collins and Kehl said they will ask the County Board to reconsider building a new jail on a "green space," preferably near the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St., Bristol.

Both said they cannot support the proposed high-rise jail downtown, estimated to cost about $64 million.

They estimate a green space jail would save as much as $30 million in initial construction costs.

"The Sheriff and I are in concert in our belief that the proposal submitted last week is too expensive. It costs too much," Collins said.

Kehl said the jail proposal reflects what he and the architects were mandated by the board to do.

"It is the most cost-effective and cost-efficient operation at that location," Kehl said. "I cannot condone nor support the costs we are looking at. The $64 million is totally out of line. And, I don't think anyone wants a building of that magnitude the focal point of the downtown area."

Even at another downtown location — without the $5 million expense to move an electrical substation, and an estimated $2 million for razing the courthouse annex and purchasing, relocating and razing the Immanuel United Methodist Church — the jail would have to be a high-rise and the costs are too high, Collins and Kehl said.

Kehl said he will attend Tuesday's board meeting and again outline a more reasonably priced jail option.

It will essentially be the same one-story, wagon-wheel design that had been proposed by the administration in 1992. The number of beds would be considerably less than the 888 planned for the downtown four-story jail, but it would be much easier to add on to the facility, Kehl said. It would also feature the direct supervision mode proposed for the downtown jail, rather than the linear supervision used in the current jail.

Plans for a green space plan were killed and the board voted for the jail to remain downtown after a series of complaints from residents around the areas being considered for the jail.

Heated opposition first arose when the county looked at placing the one-story jail at a lot owned by Jupiter Transportation Co., 4314 39th Ave., in the Wilson Heights neighborhood.

County executive candidate alerts taxpayers

My name is Kathleen Morave, candidate for Kenosha County executive. The intent of this letter is to alert the taxpayers of Kenosha County.

Under the present county executive John Collins, the county tax levy has increased 52.33 percent and has put us in debt over $50 million in years. Debt you and your grandchildren will pay.

The Kenosha County Board gave Collins a 12 percent raise and themselves a 14 percent increase in salary. In addition, $112,116 went for health insurance. Pretty good for a part-time job! Any wonder why our taxes keep increasing?

The tax-spend-borrow mentality must be stopped.

A total of $22 million was spent on the county garage on highways 4 and 50. A jail and juvenile detention center should have been built first, saving millions of dollars of transporting prisoners to other counties.

My opponent purchased the union building for the county. The total amount to the taxpayer is $674,000 for a building assessed at $167,800.

The majority of the union board are supporting my opponent. I was not interviewed, even though my husband is a member of Local 215. It's called, "cronyism."

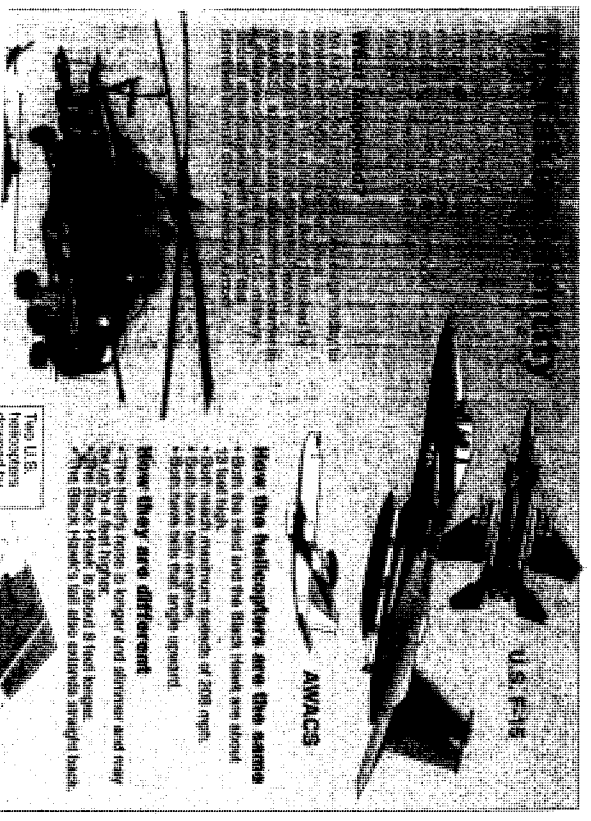

More bad news! The political manipulation of your real estate assessment freeze before the election is due to be lifted after the election. Assessments are expected to go up 25 percent and higher. This spending spree of the taxpayer's money must stop. People are losing their homes.

Please vote on April 5. Put the spenders out of office.

That site was then withdrawn.

WhiteCaps Subdivision residents then protested a proposed jail site on Highway 158, west of Highway 31. Mayor John Antaramian also threatened to sue the county if the jail was built on land that could generate future tax dollars for the city.

Collins said there will not be a drawn-out site search this time.

"We cannot and will not participate in another one of these lengthy, exacerbated processes where every piece of ground in Kenosha County more than five acres is considered," Collins said.

If land adjacent to the Kenosha County Center is not acceptable, Collins suggests the board choose another site.

"But, do it quickly so the process can continue and we can get a referendum on the ballot in 1994," Collins said.

A binding countywide referendum will be necessary for approval of jail operation costs. State law requires counties to hold a referendum on issues that would raise the tax rate.

Collins said he hopes the referendum will still be held this summer.

Both Collins and Kehl are braced for public and board outcry at not building the jail downtown.

"There's going to be a clamor of turmoil," Collins said. "The Bar Association and the Downtown Association are going to say they want it downtown. I can't help that. The numbers on a downtown jail are so unconscionable that the plan can't move forward. We have to go back to the rational plan we started with."

"I predict that the debate on the County Board floor for the next 30 to 60 days will be intense, and I hope it is. I hope all of the argument, all of chastising and all of the things that have to occur will occur and that a decision gets made," Collins said.

"This can't drag on. This has taken entirely too long and wasted too much time and effort by everybody. But neither can we support the expenditure of $64 million for a jail house. It's simply too much money."

Kehl said he is sure to hear criticism that the downtown jail costs were inflated for political purposes.

"We puffed nothing," Kehl said.

One of the greatest critiques of moving the jail westward has been the issue of transportation costs.

"The transportation costs from a west jail will balance what the costs would be for the additional staff required for a high rise facility," Kehl said. "It is a break-even in that regard. A ground level facility means much lower personnel costs, while a high rise means additional staff to maintain the facility and provide the necessary security."

Kehl said he will continue to propose the current jail be renovated for a juvenile detention facility and housing for adult work release inmates.

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey VanSlochteren, said she supported building the jail at the Kenosha County Center last year, and she supports it now.

"I feel that corner should be developed to its fullest capability," she said of Highways 45 and 50.

WHEREAS, upon consideration of the comments of the residents who reside in the assessment area and of other factors relating to the fairness of the assessments, the Town Board was considered an amended report setting forth a revised methodology of assessment, which amended report is on file with the Town Clerk.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Bristol, as follows:

1. Approval of Report. That the amended report, including an estimate of the assessment to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, and the plans and specification for the work prepared by Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer and Associates, Town engineers, on file with the Town Clerk pertaining to installation of sanitary sewer collection system in the area of the Town of Bristol are hereby adopted and approved.

2. Performance of the Work. That the Town Board of the Town of Bristol shall carry out the work for the installation of said sanitary sewer collection system in the area of the Town of Bristol described in this resolution in accordance with said report and the plans and specifications for the work, prepared by Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer and Associates, Town engineers on file with the Town Clerk.

3. Payment by Area Assessment. Payment for said sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol shall be made by assessing the cost to the properties benefited as indicated in the amended report, including an estimate of the assessment of benefits to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, on file with the Town Clerk.

4. Benefits of Improvements. The Town Board of the Town of Bristol has examined the area where said special assessments are proposed to be levied and the properties listed on that portion of the amended report in which an estimate is made as to the assessment to be levied against each parcel of property in the assessment area, and the Town Board concludes and hereby declares that each parcel in the assessment area is benefited by such improvements, and that the benefit received by each property will be as valuable or more valuable than the amount of the assessment; that such benefits consist, among other things, in an increased value to the property, in protection from the possible pollution of ground water and surface water and in protection of the public health.

5. Exercise of Police Powers. That the estimated assessments itemized in the amended report represent an exercise of the police powers authorized by Section 66.60(1)(b), Wisconsin Statutes, have been determined to be reasonable in view of the purposes of the assessment, the cost of the improvement and the benefits conferred upon each parcel in the assessment area and are hereby confirmed.

6. Determination of Assessments. That the assessments shall be calculated on a modified unit assessment basis, as follows:

a. Unit-Basis Assessment. The total cost of construction of the improvements shall be determined upon the completion of construction and the cost shall be evenly divided by the total number of assessments units, as determined in paragraph 6(b). It is the intent of this resolution that the Town recover at least ninety percent of the costs of the proposed improvements.

b. Assignment of Units Depending Upon Size of Parcel and Location of Parcel. For purposes of implementing this resolution, the term "parcel" shall mean any lot or combination of lots in the Lake Shangri-La Beach subdivision assigned a single tax key number. Any parcel measuring more than one hundred (100) feet across the front of the parcel for the purposes of this assessment shall be assigned two assessment units and shall be assessed in an amount which is two and one-quarter (2.25) times the amount of the assessment levied against a parcel not located on the lakefront, which parcel shall be assigned one assessment unit. Upon completion of construction, the Town Board shall determine the total number of assessment units by determining the total number of assessable parcels in the as-cel, however the assessment units for one parcel shall be deferred for so long as no more than a single residence is built on the parcels and the parcels are not sold to two (2) separate purchasers.

d. Contiguous Parcels. Three. Persons who own three contiguous parcels that front on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however, the assessment units for one of the parcels shall be deferred for so long as no more than two residences are built on the three parcels and the three parcels are not sold to three separate purchasers.

e. Contiguous Parcels. Four. Persons who own four contiguous parcels that front on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however the assessment units for two of the parcels shall be deferred for so long as no more than three residences are built on the four parcels, or if such a person sells only one of the four parcels, the assessment units for one of the four parcels shall continue to be deferred and one assessment unit shall become payable in the manner provided in paragraph 6.

f. Community Access Lots. Parcels owned in common and treated as community lakefront access shall be assessed in the manner provided herein, but the assessment shall be deferred for so long as no improvement is constructed on the parcels.

g. Connection fee. Upon all parcels upon which a residence is located shall be levied, in addition to the assessment described in the foregoing paragraphs, a further assessment equal to the connection fee charged by the Town of Salem.

7. Payment of Assessments. Assessments may be paid in full without interest charge at any time on or before October 15 of the calendar year in which the improvements are complete, upon sufficient notice in writing from the Town informing the owner of the exact amount of the assessment. Assessments not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in installments (18) installments in accordance with Section 66.54(7) of the Wisconsin Statutes. The first installment shall be due on or before the deadline for payment of property taxes and shall include at least a 18th part of the assessment together with interest on the whole assessment from October 15 through the deadline for payment at a rate of 5% per annum. Each subsequent installment shall include a like portion of principal and one year's interest upon the unpaid portion of such assessment. The Town, upon duly enacted resolution, may adjust the interest rate as necessary to recover fully the costs to the Town incurred by reasons of permitting installment payments (for example, interest costs on funds borrowed by the Town to fund construction of the improvements).

8. Payment of Deferred Assessment. In the event of a deferred assessment becomes payable by reason of the sale of a parcel or portion of a parcel subject to a deferred assessment, the assessment shall be paid immediately upon purchase by the buyer of the parcel or portion of the parcel. In the event a deferred assessment becomes payable by occurrence of any other condition stated in paragraph 6, the Town shall give notice in writing to the record owner(s) of the parcel subject to the deferred assessment indicating that such deferred assessment may be paid without interest charges on or before the next October 15. Deferred assessment not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in a number of installments equivalent to the number of complete calendar years remaining until December 31, 2014.

9. Receipts. All receipts from the collection of these special assessments shall be maintained in separate accounts and used only for the respective payment of project necessary for the assessment are defined, except that, for every parcel for which a connection fee is levied pursuant to paragraph 6(g), the Town shall pay the Town of Salem in full upon due demand by the Town of Salem the connection fee for the parcel.

10. Annexation. Upon the event of detachment from the Town, because of annexation to another municipality or by operation of any intermunicipal boundary agreement, of any property subject to deferred assessment, then all unpaid assessments (whether paid by installment or not) shall become immediately due and payable.

11. Notice. That the Town Clerk shall publish this resolution as a Class 1 Notice and mail a copy of this resolution to every property owner whose names appear on the assessment roll and whose post office address is known or can with reasonable diligence be ascertained.

Rummage sales spark debate

BRISTOL — After being ordered out of a town meeting Monday, Sharon Tubbs told Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, "You'd better watch your back."

The angry exchange between the two started when Tubbs, 7905 Bristol Road, accused Van Slochteren of spying on her.

In August 1992, Tubbs was convicted in municipal court of having more than two rummage sales a year in a residential area. The fines were dropped when she promised not to have another sale for six months.

At Monday's meeting of the Bristol Town Board, Tubbs accused Van Slochteren of driving around the parking lot of a church that adjoins the Tubbs property. She claimed Van Slochteren was in a big, black car.

"I'd like to know what you were doing spying on me," said Tubbs. "I followed you and you came back here. Every time I open my garage door you're spying on me. When other people have garage sales do you spy on them? Why me?"

Van Slochteren said, "I do not own a black car. I have not ridden in a black car and I have never circled the Lutheran church parking lot."

When Tubbs screamed at Van Slochteren, telling her to "stay off my property," Van Slochteren shot back "I wouldn't be caught dead on your property. And now, Mrs. Tubbs, will you kindly exit the building."

Later in the meeting, Van Slochteren came in for more criticism, but this time from a member of her own board.

Supervisor John H. Meyer took exception to the chairman's plan to move away from the committee system and work as a committee-of-the-whole.

"For the past year we have been functioning with a committee system. Some committees have functioned well. Some have not," said Van Slochteren.

With the election last week of two new supervisors, Wayne Eide and Mark Miller, Van Slochteren said the committee-of-the-whole system will "give us the opportunity to orient the new members on the board to the full scope of what we have to do."

WHEREAS, upon consideration of the comments of the residents who reside in the assessment area and of other factors relating to the fairness of the assessments, the Town Board was considered an amended report setting forth a revised methodology of assessment, which amended report is on file with the Town Clerk.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Bristol, as follows:

1. Approval of Report: That the amended report, including an estimate of the assessment to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, and the plans and specification for the work prepared by Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer and Associates, Town engineers, on file with the Town Clerk pertaining to installation of sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol are hereby adopted and approved.

2. Performance of the Work: That the Town Board of the Town of Bristol shall carry out the work for the installation of said sanitary sewer collection system in the area of the Town of Bristol described in this resolution in accordance with said report and the plans and specifications for the work prepared by Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer and Associates, Town engineers, on file with the Town Clerk.

3. Payment by Area Assessment: Payment for said sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol shall be made by assessing the cost to the properties benefited as indicated in the amended report, including an estimate of the assessment of benefits to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, on file with the Town Clerk.

4. Benefits of Improvements: The Town Board of the Town of Bristol has examined the area where said special assessments are proposed to be levied and the properties listed on that portion of the amended report in which an estimate is made as to the assessment to be levied against each parcel of property in the assessment area, and the Town Board concludes and hereby declares that each parcel in the assessment area is benefited by such improvements, and that the benefit received by each property will be as valuable or more valuable than the amount of the assessment; that such benefits consist, among other things, in an increased value to the property, in protection from the possible pollution of ground water and surface water and in protection of the public health.

5. Exercise of Police Powers: That the estimated assessments itemized in the amended report represent full exercise of the police powers authorized by Section 66.00(1)(6), Wisconsin Statutes, have been determined to be reasonable in view of the benefits conferred upon each parcel in the assessment area and are hereby confirmed.

6. Determination of Assessment: That the assessments shall be calculated on a modified unit assessment basis, as follows:

a. Unit-Basis Assessment: The total cost of construction of the improvements shall be determined upon the completion of construction and the cost shall be evenly divided by the total number of assessments units, as determined in paragraph 5(b). It is the intent of this resolution that the Town recover at least ninety percent of the costs of the proposed improvements when the sewer collection system is installed by an area-wide special assessment against all properties located in the sewer assessment area.

b. Assignment of Units Depending Upon Size of Parcel and Location of Parcel: For purposes of implementing this resolution, the term "parcel" shall mean any lot or combination of lots in the Lake Shangri-La Beach subdivision assigned a single tax key number. Any parcel measuring more than one hundred (100) assessment area and whether the parcels have or do not have lakefront footage.

c. Contiguous Parcels - Two: Persons who own two contiguous parcels that front the on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however the assessment units for one parcel shall be deferred for so long as no more than a single residence is built on the parcels and the parcels are not sold to two (2) separate purchasers.

d. Contiguous Parcels - Three: Persons who own three contiguous parcels that front on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however, the assessment units for one of the parcels shall be deferred for so long as no more than two residences are built on the three parcels and the three parcels are not sold to three separate purchasers.

e. Contiguous Parcels - Four: Persons who own four contiguous parcels that front on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however the assessment units for two of the parcels shall be deferred for so long as no more than two residences are built on the four parcels and the four parcels are not sold to three or more separate purchasers; if such a person builds three, but no more than three, residences on the four parcels, or if such a person sells only one of the four parcels, the assessment units for one of the four parcels shall continue to be deferred and one assessment unit shall become payable in the manner provided in paragraph 8.

f. Community Access Lots: Parcels owned in common and treated as community lakefront access lots shall be assessed in the manner provided herein, but the assessment shall be deferred for so long as no improvement is constructed on the parcels.

g. Connection Fee: Upon all parcels upon which a residence is located shall be levied, in addition to the assessment described in the foregoing paragraphs, a further assessment equal to the connection fee charged by the Town of Salem.

7. Payment of Assessments: Assessments may be paid in full without interest charge at any time on or before October 15 of the calendar year in which the improvement are completed; upon sufficient notice in writing from the Town informing the owner of the exact amount of the assessment. Assessments not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in eighteen (18) installments in accordance with Section 66.54(7) of the Wisconsin Statutes. The first installment shall be due on or before the deadline for payment of property taxes and shall include at least a 18th part of the assessment together with interest on the whole assessment from October 15 through the deadline for payment at a rate of 5.0% per annum. Each subsequent installment shall include a like portion of principal and one year's interest upon the unpaid portion of such assessment. The Town, upon duly enacted resolution, may adjust the interest rate as necessary to recover fully all costs to the Town incurred by reasons permitting installment payments for example, interest costs on funds borrowed by the Town to fund construction of the improvements.

8. Payment of Deferred Assessment: In the event of deferred assessment becomes payable by reason of the sale of a parcel or portion of a parcel subject to a deferred assessment, the assessment shall be paid immediately upon purchase by the buyer of the parcel or portion of the parcel. In the event a deferred assessment becomes payable by reason of the sale of a parcel or portion of a parcel, the Town shall give notice in writing to the record owner(s) of the parcel subject to the deferred assessment indicating that such deferred assessment may be paid without interest charge on or before the next October 15. Deferred assessment not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in a number of installments equivalent to the number of complete calendar years remaining until December 31, 2014.

9. Receipts: All receipts from the collection of these special assessments shall be maintained in separate accounts and used only for the respective payment of project necessary for the assessment are defined, except that, for every parcel for which a connection fee is levied pursuant to paragraph 6(g), the Town shall pay the Town of Salem in full upon due demand by the Town of Salem the connection fee for the parcel.

10. Annexation: Upon the event of detachment from the Town, because of annexation to another municipality or by operation of any intermunicipal boundary agreement, of any property subject to deferred assessment, then all unpaid assessments (whether paid by installment or not) shall become immediately due and payable.

11. Notice: That the Town Clerk shall publish this resolution as a Class 1 Notice and mail a copy of this resolution to every property owner whose names appear on the assessment roll and

Resident asked to leave Bristol meeting

By Diane Jahnke

4-18-94

Bristol Town Board chairman Audrey Van Slochteren was cautioned to "watch your back" from a resident who was asked to leave the April 11 meeting following a garage sale ordinance dispute.

Accusing Van Slochteren of "spying" on her, Sharon Tubbs said she and her husband will seek legal counsel.

"We want to sue you for harassment," Tubbs said.

Last year, the town board passed a garage sale ordinance which limits sales to two per year. Tubbs had taken out a permit, yet due to inclement weather, said she returned the permit to the town clerk.

Tubbs asked, "Why are you spying on me when I gave back the permit?"

She continued, "Every time I open up my garage door you call and spy on me. Now you're circling the parking lot."

Tubbs claimed that she saw Van Slochteren driving in a big, black car circling the church lot near her property.

Responded Van Slochteren, "I do not own a black car; I have not ridden in a black car; and I have never circled the parking lot. I would not want to look at the mess."

An angry Tubbs yelled until Van Slochteren interrupted, by saying, "Mrs. Tubbs, will you kindly exit the property?"

As Tubbs was leaving the municipal hall, she warned Van Slochteren that if she sees her near her premises again, "You better watch your back."

Kennel license: After several months of debate, the board voted 3-2 to deny a kennel license application for Linda Wilson.

Van Slochteren, along with supervisors William Glembocki and Donald Wienke, had, on different occasions and unannounced, inspected the property at 15901 Horton Drive.

Nine dogs are being kept on the property. Van Slochteren and Glembocki found the kennels to be clean and in good condition and recommended approval of the license.

Wienke, however, found the pens crowded, with two or more dogs housed at one time and denied the license.

Supervisor William Lesnjak took a neighbor's objection into consideration and also denied the request.

The town board had previously denied a conditional use permit, supervisor John Meyer reminded and he also cast a dissenting vote.

Committee system: With two new members joining the board, Van Slochteren decided "to move away from the committee system and work more as a committee-of-the-whole."

She added, "This will afford us the opportunity to orient the new members on the board to the full scope of what we have to do."

Meyer objected the decision, saying it was "a bad idea. Committees as a whole do not work," he said. "It's a silly thing to do at this point."

Ordinances: Questioned why some town ordinance violations seem to be ignored, residents were reminded of the proper procedure.

Van Slochteren said it is not the board's responsibility to respond to an ordinance violation complaint. When one is received, the sheriff's department is contacted to investigate.

Offended Cub fan

I am currently a junior at Westosha Central High School and I recently read an article in the April 11 edition written by Dave Stoxen. It was entitled, "Game of baseball not a shrine."

This article disappointed, insulted and offended me all at once.

His nasty, detrimental comments toward Cub fans were totally untrue and uncalled for. Now, certainly, the Cubbies don't win the World Series every year, but the singular qualities of die-hard Cub fans — hopefulness, loyalty, dedication, faithfulness, love, patience and a deep care for the game and its preservation — are something that quite obviously Mr. Stoxen is lacking.

His sly, nasty comment about Cub fans lacking brain power is a testament to his ignorance and bullheadedness. I know many Cub fans who are quite intelligent and I must include myself among the smart Cub fans, since I find myself first in my class.

His bashing of baseball purists is likewise uncalled for. Mr. Stoxen is what the great writer Roger Angell calls a "god of hype."

I realize that the game of baseball must change as time progresses but the addition of gimmicks, such as the DH, nighttime World Series ball and realignments, resulting in larger TV contracts, are detrimental to the game, since they are simply gimmicks created by owners to make a fast buck.

Now, Mr. Stoxen, if you want to see and report about hype, write about basketball but please stop polluting our great national pastime with your offensive clap trap.

Daniel Walter
Bristol

In boys action, Westosha had three thirds: 4,000 distance medley, Eric Mickewicz, Dave Nosko, Tim Andresen and John Doan, 11:31.23; discus, Aaron Emond, Terry Magwitz and Matt LaRose, 336-4; and the long jump, Chris Brankey, Nosko and Phil Jahnke, 56-9 1/4-24-94.

The best finish for Wilmot boys was fifth in the 330 hurdle shuttle. Sean Lehr, Erick Collier and Luke Kloc ran 1:03.65.

Now with our two new town supervisors in Bristol, we, the people of Bristol are hoping faithfully that they run the office for the people in mind and get rid of the anarchy in which it was being run for the last four years.

Town board defends stand on fire station

Mott claims town needs I-94 station

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Town officials were asked Tuesday why they had not moved ahead on a plan to build a fire station in the I-94 and Highway 50 corridor.

Speaking at the Annual Town meeting Russell Mott, 6100 156th Ave. questioned why "Absolutely nothing has been done," on the plan approved by electors last year.

"What is the problem?" asked Mott.

Referring to City of Kenosha capital improvement plans for a fire station at the Municipal Airport, Mott said the town risks losing the commercial district to the city, when it can provide fire protection.

A station in the corridor was among five recommendations in the town's study.

He also said the town should consider a police force for property protection in the area. "If we're not going to do anything, we may as well give it to the city or take the bull by the horns," he said.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said the town had acted on the plan recommendation to use daytime town employees as on-call fire fighters.

She said the plan could be reviewed again this year to update it. The study itself calls for a feasibility study within 18 months of acceptance, but it has not been before the plan commission for referral.

John Meyers, town supervisor, said fire services are adequate. "We do not have police but we do have fire protection. When they call, we respond," he said.

Regarding annexation Meyers said, "I'm not worrying about making decisions based on annexation."

He said Mott overlooked the $330,000 the town spent for a new fire truck and the money spent to extend the life of a 1973 model truck another 15 years.

Larry Kilduff, plan commission chairman, said the commercial district is not necessarily the town's goose that lays golden eggs.

"If we have to start servicing it, it won't lay so many golden eggs," he said.

A fire station in the area, would not by itself stop annexation, he said. In other business, there were 29 new single family permits issued in the town compared to 25 in 1992. Improvements to Factory Outlet Centre had a value of $1,130,650. The total value of 81 building permits issued, including single family homes was $5,545,861.

In a related matter Kilduff said having regular plan commission meetings on the first Tuesday each month at 6:30 p.m. allowed more citizen input.

The meetings are public hearings and Kilduff said citizen interest was important and welcomed at the meetings.

Newly elected board members Wayne Eide and Mark J. Miller attended their first annual meetings as town officials.

Farm breaks Westosha high jump record

PADDOCK LAKE — Kris Farm set a Westosha school record in the high jump during a victory over Lake Geneva Badger in a Southern Lakes Conference track and field meet Tuesday.

Farm won the event with a jump of 5 feet, 4 inches. She broke Johnene Zullo's 1989 record of 5-3 1/2.

The Westosha girls won 71 1/2-64 1/2. The Westosha boys outpointed Badger 91-50.

Farm also finished first in the 100-meter dash and teamed with Stacy Christopherson, Andrea Arnold and Leslie Hucker to win the 1,600 relay.

Also finishing first for Westosha were Tammi Willingham, long jump; Rachel Muhlenbeck, triple jump; Tina Moran, 400 and 200; Michelle Kunkel, discus; and Lori Golubski, 3,200.

Finishing first for the boys were John Doan, Tom Oldenburg, Dave Mabry, Eric Mickewicz, 3,200 relay; Phil Jahnke, 100; Ken Krahn, 1,600; Perry Bell, long jump; Mickewicz, 400; Jon Bastrup, pole vault; Jahnke, Dave Nosko, Rick Campbell, Chris Brankey, 400 relay; Doan, 800; Brankey, 200; Tim Andresen, 3,200; and Nosko, Matt Erdman, Brankey, Chiappetta, 1,600 relay.

See results on the Scoreboard, page 18.

In JV action, Westosha's girls won, 53-8, and the boys, 55-48.

Bristol firefighter Joe Kozak attacks smoldering sticks near tracks near 199th Street and 242nd Avenue Saturday

Train sparks ignite 5 fires

Sparks from a passing southbound train ignited a number of grass fires along railroad tracks between Trevor and Lake and McHenry counties in Illinois Saturday afternoon.

Trevor Fire Chief Tom Seep said about five fires over a three mile stretch along the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks through Trevor were reported, beginning at 2:50 p.m.

Firefighters set up a water command at 119th Street.

"There were a couple of real sizable fires," Seep said.

The Bristol, Wilmet, Salem and Silver Lake fire departments combined to put the fires under control by 5 p.m. and spent the next two hours cleaning up.

Seep said excavator Andy Phillips assisted in knocking down piles of half-rotted railroad ties that were left aside the track when the railroad replaced them with new ties a few years ago.

"The grass fires were easy to put out," said Seep. "The old ties were a different story."

He said he believed the fires started from sparks from a passing train that "must have had a hot brake shoe on a car." Fire departments in Antioch, Grayslake and Lake Villa, Ill. asked for assistance in fighting grass fires along railroad track in their jurisdictions, indicating the train was southbound.

Meanwhile, chief of one of the departments to assist Trevor Scott Muhlenbeck, Bristol, said Saturday morning the outdoor burning ban was lifted in Bristol.

The ban, which began April 1, affected all outdoor burning, including covered containers.

Trevor is a part of Salem. Its board last week lifted a similar burning ban, Seep said.

Lifting the bans was immaterial to the fires that occurred Saturday, Seep indicated.

Muhlenbeck said a limited number of burning permits will be issued at the town hall between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays and at the fire department from 8 a.m. to noon Saturday. Both are at 198th Avenue and 83rd Street.

Muhlenbeck warned residents to be cautious in burning items outdoors because there are some areas that continue to be dry and possibly hazardous.

Kilduff dropped from commission

BRISTOL - Town officials voted 3-2 Monday not to reappoint Larry Kilduff to the Bristol Planning Commission.

Voting against reappointment were supervisors John Meyer, Wayne Eide and Mark Miller.

Kilduff is currently chairman and was appointed to the commission in 1990.

Referring to recent comments by Kilduff that the I-94-Highway 50 commercial area might not be worth a fight against annexation, Meyers made the motion against reappointment.

Eide said Kilduff had a conflict of interest his job with Meridian Properties, a development firm.

Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman, said Kilduff has brought forward nothing from Meridian for action and would not.

He served the town well and was dedicated, she said, adding, "You're slapping a good man in the face."

In a related matter, Meyer also moved and the board voted the same way to deny the appointment of Bill Glembocki, former supervisor, to his former position on the plan commission, where he served smacked of cronyism.

Van Slochteren said the commission makes its recommendations without input and said to Meyer, "You don't like Glembocki."

Meyers said serving commission before to make him the best man job and "in my opinion isn't."

Meyers said the board make referrals to the mission.

Bristol opinions vary on jail site

The proposal to build a new county jail in Bristol next to the County Center at Highways 45 and 50 has sparked controversy throughout Kenosha County.

And in Bristol itself, the idea's reception is at best lukewarm among some local elected officials. Sheriff Allan Kehl and County Executive John Collins have gone on record supporting construction of a new jail near the Kenosha County Center.

They contend it would be more cost effective than proceeding with the current plan to build the jail in back of the Courthouse in downtown Kenosha. A $63 million plan for a downtown jail

BRISTOL — The identity of Bristol as represented in a newly adopted logo will soon be appearing on wearing apparel, cups, pins and town equipment.

Developed for the town two months ago, the logo is oak trees, under a blue sky and the words "The Town of Bristol, Naturally." It was designed by Stanhibel and Associates, Kenosha.

At a Wednesday committee-of-the-whole meeting, Bristol Town Board members approved a version of the design to be recreated on coffee cups, golf shirts, hats and lapel pins.

Joseph Stanhibel, president of Stanhibel and Associates, told the board he and graphic designer Steve Casio will supply the artwork once the town selects a supplier for the items.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said items with the town logo will be offered for sale during Bristol Progress Days in July.

Stanhibel said he and Casio studied town fire and maintenance trucks, and decided that the town logo would look best on vehicles if it is done in a white reflective, silk-screened vinyl.

The circular logo would bring "a new identity to the town trucks, but in a quiet way," said Casio.

The logo will also be used on signs at the entrance to the unincorporated village of Bristol and the town's industrial park.

In other items on the Wednesday agenda, the board reviewed a list of projects that need to be done at Hansen Park, Highway 45, and directed Public Works Foreman Randy Kerkman to approach the list from a safety first standpoint. Items that are cosmetic in nature will go to the bottom of the list.

In a rancorous exchange that has become commonplace at Bristol Town Board meetings, Van Slochteren and Supervisor John Meyer tangled over the agenda for tonight's public works session.

"I took the liberty of preparing an agenda for the meeting," said Van Slochteren, "based on what you said you wanted to discuss. Is this basically what you wanted to see?"

"I don't care," Meyer said. "It's your meeting."

"I think it's time for this board to once again work together," said Van Slochteren, "not pull apart at the seams. I don't care who calls the meeting. Let's work together."

Among the dignitaries attending Richard Nixon's funeral Wednesday in Yorba Linda, Calif., were President Clinton and Hillary Rodham Clinton (from left), and former Presidents and First Ladies George and Barbara Bush, Ronald and Nancy Reagan, Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter, and Gerald and Betty Ford.

Bristol Assessment reviewed 4-28-94

The final assessment and payment schedule for the Lake Shangri-la sanitary sewer project will be reviewed by the Bristol Town Board due to an April 25 vote.

The vote came as a result of an omitted sentence from the resolution passed in March that authorized the sewer system for 180 properties on the lake's eastern edge.

Project costs, estimated at $1.7 million, will be determined upon completion of the project. It will be evenly divided by the total number of assessment units. Parcels without lake frontage will be assessed one unit.

Street vacations sought

BRISTOL — Three requests for street vacations have been made to the Bristol Town Board, Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Thursday.

Although still in unofficial form, Van Slochteren said at a committee-of-the-whole meeting that board members should be prepared for the official petitions that will likely be filed.

The three areas in question are streets that have been platted but never developed. They include:

- 78th Street off 128th Avenue
- the extension of 83rd Street west of 203rd Avenue
- a street south of 101st Street in George Lake, just east of Old Bristol Road.

Getting a platted street taken off the official road map is not an easy task. It requires that a petition be filed with circuit court, said Van Slochteren. Then it would come to the town for action.

The bulk of the Thursday meeting was spent explaining Bristol's sewer and water systems to newly elected supervisors Wayne Eide and Mark Miller.

The supervisors learned where the three wells are located, how deep they are, which neighborhoods are served by municipal sewer and water and which areas are likely to be served in the future.

Supervisor John Meyer suggested that Eide and Miller take a tour of the town with Public Works Foreman Randy Kerkman to learn where all the town roads are located.

was presented to the board last month.

County Board Supervisors William Arb and Douglas Noble, whose districts include parts of Bristol township, agree that the cost of the presented downtown plan is outrageous and needs to be reconsidered in choosing the location for construction.

Arb does not object outright to any general site for the jail, including in Bristol or downtown.

"I'm open as far as where to build. I have no objection to building in the city, but not for $60 million," said Arb, who is the newly elected supervisor for District 23.

Noble is more adamant in opposing a jail in Bristol.

"Building the jail on (Hwys.) 50 and 45 is as realistic as going a mile out into Lake Michigan and building it," said Noble.

He explained that the County Board had originally intended to build the new jail on a green space site. At that time, April 1993, the location for the jail that was favored was at 45th Street and 39th Avenue in the city of Kenosha.

Opposition to this location was voiced, including from the surrounding neighborhood, and County Executive Collins persuaded the board to rescind the green space concept and consider a downtown location as a site for the new jail.

The estimated cost of a new downtown jail was $30-36 million.

On April 7 1994, when the plan was presented to the County Board, the cost had doubled to $60 million.

"Whatever happened to the $30 million that was authorized?" asked Noble.

Said Arb, "The County Board has to grab the bull by the horns and do something."

Noble pointed out that due to both state and federal laws, the jail must provide a certain amount of room for each prisoner and include recreation facilities. Each cell must have access to natural light.

"We can't afford to build jails at any price with all this fluff and puff," said Noble.

The need for the new jail is clear, however, decisions need to be made soon or the federal government will step in and assign a federal master to the existing county jail. This federal master will go into the county jail on a daily basis to see if the amount of prisoners is over the jail's capacity of 189. If there are more than 189 in the jail, the overflow of prisoners will be set free — somewhat like playing Monopoly and drawing a "get out of jail free card."

Bristol town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she would "favor anything that would cut many millions of dollars off the cost for taxpayers."

However, she felt the idea of taking additional land (approximately 40 acres) off the tax rolls in Bristol would have to be studied.

Douglas Eide, newly elected Bristol town supervisor, agreed that taking land off the tax rolls for the town of Bristol needed to be considered carefully. "As far as I see, it's a loss of tax dollars. Bristol has already made a sacrifice on tax dollars with the county building," said Eide.

He pointed out that residents who live in the immediate vicinity of the County Center are against the construction of the jail at that location.

Bristol town nixes planning board member

By Jeanie Lindstrom

While retaining their dignity, the tension among Bristol Town Board members was evident, as a long-time member of the planning commission was ousted at the April 25 meeting.

Supervisor John Meyer explained his motion to deny the appointment of Larry Kilduff, saying, "On two occasions I've listened to him refer to himself as chairman of the plan commission. It sounds as though he is representing Bristol."

Meyer also referred to comments Kilduff had made at the annual meeting about the I-94 and Highway 50 intersection being the "golden goose."

Meyer added, "I consider those remarks inappropriate."

Supervisor Wayne Eide expressed his reasons for denying Kilduff's reappointment after hearing of the remarks at the annual meeting. He was also unhappy with Kilduff's, saying Bristol was not providing services to the businesses at the intersection.

Eide remarked that he had personally seen the fire department in action over the previous weekend, fighting grass fires along I-94.

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren rebutted their remarks, saying, "I think he (Kilduff) is dedicated to his position and served the town very well. I don't believe in slapping anyone in the face. He brings something to the planning commission that no one else could bring."

A vote was called on Kilduff's appointment. Van Slochteren and supervisor Don Wienke voted to retain Kilduff, while Meyer, Eide and supervisor Mark Miller voted against.

The vote went the same way for the appointment of former board member Bill Glembocki to the planning commission.

"This smacks of cronyism," Meyer related. "The board had no communication from the chairman on this."

Eide requested time to consider the appointment. Meyer asked that other applicants be considered, saying, "In my opinion, he (Glembocki) isn't qualified."

Shot back Van Slochteren, "You just don't like Mr. Glembocki."

Van Slochteren said the planning commission makes its own recommendations on appointments without town board members input.

"Apparently, you would like to rewrite our ordinance so you can make the appointments," Van Slochteren told Meyer.

Former town board supervisor Daniel Hohmeier was the only person receiving a positive nod as planning commission member.

Bristol holds off assessment

By Jeanie Lindstrom

The people have spoken and Bristol Town Board members did listen. A final assessment and payment for the Lake Shangri-la sanitary sewer will be reviewed.

"We only want what's fair. We'll pay the same hook-up, monthly fee, whether we use it every day or weekends only. Just because you have property on the lake doesn't mean we are rich," Robert Becker said, as he pleaded the case for the group of Lake Shangri-la residents.

The resolution had been previously passed in March, authorizing a sewer system for the 180 properties on the east side of the lake. The total cost of the project is estimated at $1.7 million. The costs will be evenly divided by the number of units assessed.

Board newcomer Wayne Eide motioned to deny passing the resolution. Later a motion passed to table the item for review, giving the new board members time to look it over and consult with the town attorney.

Chris Sorensen, 11818 213th St., said, "We will fight this tooth and nail no matter how far it goes. If this Supervisor John Meyer countered, "Let us go at this one more time. This board will put together a proposal that we can legally defend."

A closed session meeting with the attorney and board members to discuss the resolution is planned. Asked after adjournment why the meeting would be closed, town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she anticipates a lawsuit over the resolution.

Bids: The board voted to take bids under advisement for road paving projects and fencing the public works building. Lighting over the fire station and entry to the town hall will also be looked into.

Construction: County Highway U and 116th Street will be under construction starting in May. The $64,000 project will improve the intersection.

Construction on Highway 45, from the state line to Highway 50 is anticipated for 1999, according to a letter from the Department of Transportation (DOT).

The necessary right of ways will be purchased and resurfacing of drainage work will be done. Van Slochteren is scheduled to meet with

Variety spices Bristol Public Works

BRISTOL — Like the U.S. Marines, the town of Bristol only needs a few good men.

A crew of six handles 27 miles of roads, as well as sewer and water systems, a recycling program, a town park and the demands of nearly 4,000 residents.

Randy Kerkman, 31, is the town public works director. His work force includes Robert Bohn, 60, and Ron Fiebelkorn, 48, who are primarily assigned to roads. Joe Panek, 30, Mike Hole, 24, and Steve Kempf, 24, all consider sewer and water operations their first responsibility.

All six are members of Teamsters Local 43. Wages range from $11.49 to $16 per hour.

Each man is trained to fill in on every job. Each has at least a grade one license for wastewater operation. Kempf is the only one not yet certified for the water department but he's working on his license.

"The employees are basically on their own," said Kerkman. "I work up a list of jobs and it's up to them to get it done. They have a lot of responsibility."

"People take pride in their work if they are part of the decision-making process," he said.

Kerkman, Panek, Hole and Kempf are emergency medical technicians and ready to respond when a call for help comes in.

Like all rural volunteer fire and rescue departments, Bristol has difficulty finding enough people to respond during the daytime. Most fire and rescue volunteers have jobs that take them out of the community during the daytime.

Since it is the job of the town employees to be in the town during the day, it makes sense for them to be trained in fire and rescue service.

"When I schedule, I try not to have everyone committed to critical work, like laboratory testing, at the same time," said Kerkman. "When the need arises, we have to drop everything and go." Only two people are needed for a standard rescue call.

A major responsibility for the town crew is running the Bristol Wastewater Treatment Plant at 8101 195th Ave.

Cathodic equipment that prevents rust from forming on the inside of the towers must be checked, as well as lights on top of the structures. Water supplies are also checked for purity.

Road maintenance this winter has been especially taxing for both employees and equipment, said Kerkman, because of the abundance of snow and ice. "Still, we've been lucky because we haven't had one huge snow, just a lot of small ones."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said "We've gotten the most compliments this winter and the fewest complaints we've had since I've been on the board."

"The difference," said Kerkman, "is that the board has approved overtime and we get out earlier, before people start driving."

Summer road maintenance includes patching, sealing cracks, cutting brush, shouldering, repairing guard rails and cleaning ditches.

Once a week, two employees, usually Bohn and Fiebelkorn, drive what is affectionately known as "the garbage route." They drive every town road, looking for trash that may have been carelessly tossed.

Kerkman said they always come back with a loaded dump truck. The more deserted the road, the more junk.

The weekly trip serves another purpose, said Kerkman. Roads are scanned for potholes, broken signs and damaged guardrails.

Van Slochteren is quick to praise the town crew and Kerkman. "Randy always has a smile and a positive attitude, even if he's up to his ears in a mudhole," she said, "and that carries over to the rest of the work force."

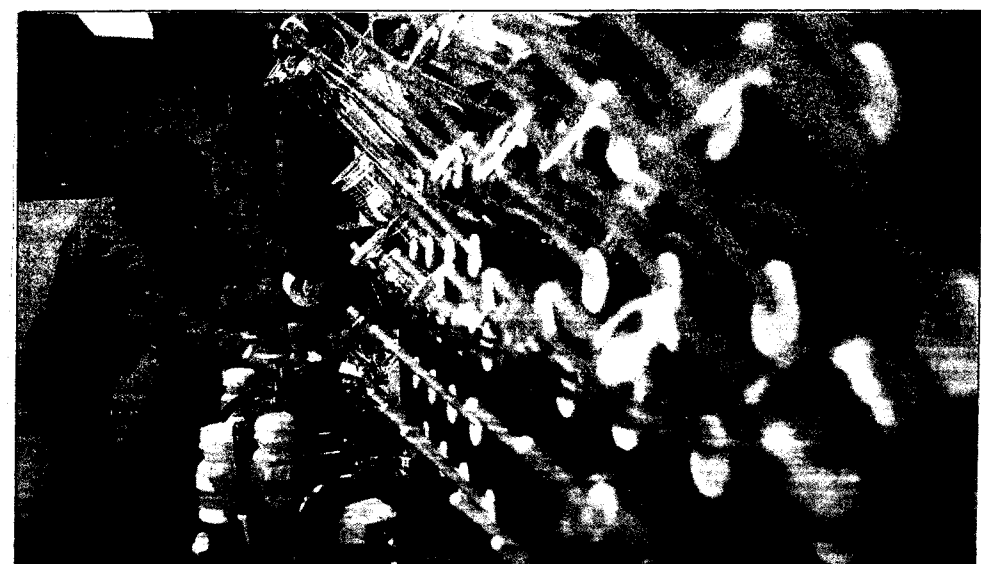

"Our employees are so good they don't need supervision," said Kerkman. "They get the job done and I don't second guess them or look over their shoulders."

The town's new public works garage, 8101 195th Ave., is currently under construction south of the wastewater treatment plant. The four-bay building will keep road equipment under cover and provide a maintenance area for Hole who services road equipment and town firetrucks.

A major responsibility for the town crew is running the Bristol Wastewater Treatment Plant at 8101 195th Ave. Kerkman is the head operator of the seven year old plant that was designed to process 480,000 gallons of wastewater a day.

Maintenance, repair and laboratory work are the key wastewater responsibilities. "We have to figure out the sludge age and volume and make adjustments to keep within the correct range," said Kerkman.

The plant averages between 350,000 and 400,000 gallons on normal days, but has gone as high as two million gallons in extremely wet weather. That kind of emergency is why Kerkman and his crew wear pagers that keep them in contact with the plant. An automatic dialer alerts them to changing conditions.

Switching to their water utility hats, the town crew must check three wells and two water towers every day.

Town Chairman Audrey van Slochteren said "We've gotten the most compliments this winter and the fewest complaints we've had since I've been on the board."

"The difference," said Kerkman, "is that the board has approved overtime and we get out earlier, before people start driving."

Summer road maintenance includes patching, sealing cracks, cutting brush, shouldering, repairing guard rails and cleaning ditches.

Once a week, two employees, usually Bohn and Fiebelkorn, drive what is affectionately known as "the garbage route." They drive every town road, looking for trash that may have been carelessly tossed.

Kerkman said they always come back with a loaded dump truck. The more deserted the road, the more junk.

The weekly trip serves another purpose, said Kerkman. Roads are scanned for potholes, broken signs and damaged guardrails.

Van Slochteren is quick to praise the town crew and Kerkman. "Randy always has a smile and a positive attitude, even if he's up to his ears in a mudhole," she said, "and that carries over to the rest of the work force."

"Our employees are so good they don't need supervision," said Kerkman. "They get the job done and I don't second guess them or look over their shoulders."

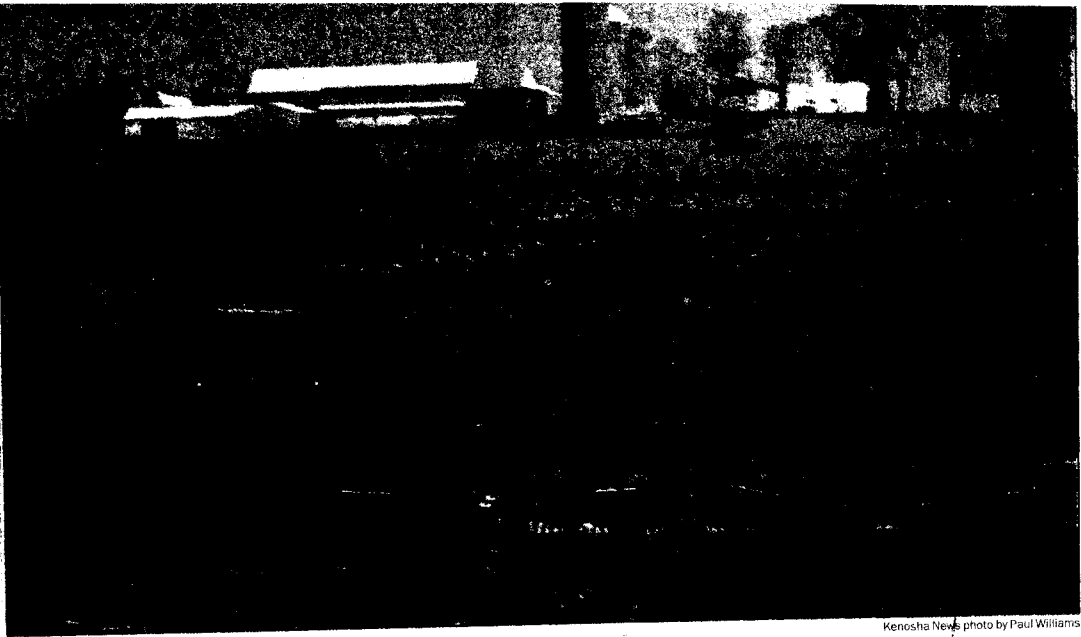

The town's new public works garage, 8101 195th Ave., is currently under construction south of the wastewater treatment plant. The four-bay building will keep road equipment under cover and provide a maintenance area for Hole who services road equipment and town firetrucks.

Adjoining the garage is a new recycling center, open to the public Mondays from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m., Wednesdays from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Town residents drive through the building and sort their recyclables into 14 appropriate bins. When the bins are filled, Kerkman's crew hauls the recyclables to market.

Maintenance of Hansen Park, Highway 45 at 86th Place, is also the responsibility of the six-man work force. They do the maintenance of the playground and bring in sand for the ball diamond. The town recreation committee is responsible for the day to day operation of the park.

Kerkman jokes that his multi-talented, much-in-demand crew members call themselves "the universal work force."

Field work ahead of schedule

A farmer discing his fields Thursday at 130th Avenue and 104th Street found dry, sunny conditions. Most farmers throughout Kenosha County report spring chores ahead of schedule because of dry weather. Lou Fowler, 15115 60th St., said the lack of rain in recent days has made it possible for farmers to get most of their corn planted. Fowler said he will be finished planting corn by the weekend. Once the crops are in, though, farmers will be hoping for rain, said Fowler. "We still have moisture, but it can go in a hurry if it's not replenished."

Board members chided for removing planner

Bristol Plan Commission delays election

BRISTOL — Calling them "new kids on the block," Robert Helfferich Tuesday denounced newly elected Bristol Town Board members Wayne Eide and Mark Miller for their votes that removed Larry Kilduff from the Bristol Plan Commission last week.

Helfferich, 21409 60th St., was a member of the commission for 10 years, serving part of those years with Kilduff. At a Tuesday meeting of the commission, he called the Town Board's failure to reappoint Kilduff "a great loss to Bristol and the community."

"He was summarily removed by the new kids on the block in their first meeting," said Helfferich. "I hope there will be someone available to take up the slack."

Helfferich's comments were made in response to an April 25 Town Board meeting that saw both Kilduff and William Glembocki rejected for plan commission seats on 3 to 2 votes. Supervisor John Meyer, along with Eide and Miller, cast the deciding votes. Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren and Supervisor Donald Wienke voted in favor of Kilduff and Glembocki.

At the April 25 meeting, Eide accused Kilduff of a conflict of interest because of his job with Meridian Properties Ltd., 2719 18th St., a Kenosha development firm.

Helfferich said Tuesday if Eide and Miller had researched the issue "they would have found out it wasn't true."

"I really believe the plan commission should be incensed by what has happened," he said.

Although the Tuesday agenda included election of officers, the five members in attendance voted to table the item until the next commission meeting June 7.

"Hopefully, by then, the Town Board will have some new members for us," said John Boldt, who served as chairman Tuesday.

In other business, commissioners rejected Dale Cole's request for a conditional use permit that would allow him to operate a dermatographic (tatoo) studio and retail clothing sale business at 9416 120th Ave.

Cole, 8926 38th Ave., said he used the term dermatographic studio, rather than tatoo parlor, because he believes tatooing has become an art form.

"We're not associated with the darker side of tatooing," he said. "We want to get rid of the

Nominees sought for Bristol award

5-3-94

BRISTOL — In preparation for the 25th anniversary of Bristol Progress Days, a committee is searching for two outstanding town residents to be honored at the annual event July 8, 9 and 10.

The Bristol Outstanding Citizen Committee, led by Terry and Patty Rajala, 10929 152nd Ave., is seeking a man and a woman who have made significant contributions to the community.

Suggestions should be mailed to the Rajalas, stating the reasons you believe your candidate should be honored. Friends, neighbors, relatives and parents should all be considered, according to the committee.

The only people who cannot be considered as candidates are elected officials currently in office.

Nominations are only accepted for the current year, and those submitted last year have been discarded. Names that were submitted last year and not selected may be sent in again.

The deadline for nominations is July 1. The winning man and woman will be honored at a dinner July 8 and be asked to ride in the Progress Days Parade on July 10.

negative image associated with tatoos."

He said he and his wife, a dental hygienist, are very concerned about cleanliness. "We would meet or exceed every requirement," he said.

Besides tatooing, the business would feature a line of silk-screened T-shirts, said Cole.

Van Slochteren said she is more concerned about the T-shirt business than the tatoo studio.

"I'm showing my age and puritanical aspect," she said, "but I don't think the T-shirts are going to say 'Welcome to downtown Bristol.' If not repulsive, they will at least be indiscreet."

Cole said he doesn't plan to produce any vulgarity on his T-shirts. "I'm willing to sign a contract saying that I won't sell vulgar T-shirts," he said.

The commission recommended approval of a request from William and Diane Mayer, 18018 Horton Road, seeking a conditional use permit to allow expansion of an existing kennel on their property.

James A. and Robert Hofer, 3002 89th St., received commission approval of their request to rezone 13.8 acres at 60th Street and Highway D from agricultural to residential single family.

All three requests will be on the agenda for the Town Board Monday at 7 p.m.

Bristol firefighters plan open house

Smoke Busters to be featured

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — A fire prevention team known as the Smoke Busters will be among the featured attractions at an open house and dance Saturday in the Bristol fire station, 198th Avenue and 83rd Street.

The Smoke Busters are a take-off on the Ghost Busters movie. Like their ghost-hunting counterparts, the Smoke Busters wear jump suits and carry backpacks and drive a converted 1960s ambulance. They are different in that their mission is to teach youngsters the basics of fire prevention and safety.

Also planned for the open house is a booth operated by the American Red Cross where people can learn about first aid kits and get information on Red Cross first aid and safety classes. Fire extinguisher vendors will be on hand to discuss the types of extinguishers available.

The Bristol Volunteer Fire Department's new combination pumper-tanker truck will be on display as will the department's refurbished pumper truck, rebuilt grass fire rig and rebuilt equipment van.

The open house will run from

Firefighters become the Smoke Busters

They may be Bristol firefighters, but when they don their jumpsuits, grab their waterguns and climb into their converted ambulance, Neil Volling, left,

Mark Niedur, center, and Daniel Bizek become the Smoke Busters, a team dedicated to teaching children about fire prevention.

3-6 p.m. followed by a sock hop dance from 7 p.m. to midnight in the firehouse with music provided by a disc jockey. Food and liquid refreshment will be available all afternoon and evening.

Admission to the open house is free; admission to the dance is $1. All proceeds will be used by the Bristol Volunteer Firefighters Association to purchase firefighting equipment and for other projects benefitting the town of Bristol.

Bristol delays T-shirt store OK

5-16-94

BRISTOL — Dale Cole brought a stack of T-shirts to the Bristol Town Board meeting Monday to prove to town officials that his silk screening business is not turning out shirts of questionable taste.

Cole, 8926 38th Ave., plans to produce shirts as a companion business to a dermatographic (tattoo) studio at 9416 120th Ave., but he needs town and county approval of his request for a conditional use permit.

Unfolding the shirts one by one, Cole showed board members garments with corporate and sports logos.

"I will not sell anything that is socially inappropriate," he said.

Cole's impromptu style show was done in response to comments made at last week's Bristol Plan Commission meeting by Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who said she feared the shirts might be "if not repulsive, at least indiscreet."

Alternative Art is the name Cole has chosen for his place.

"It won't be a tattoo parlor, per se. It will be clean, bright and sterile...Tattoo is an art form. It deserves a place where it can be respectable," said Cole.

After hearing Cole's presentation, board members voted to table it for further consideration because of concerns about the "soundness and sanitation of the building."

"The building hasn't been used for a long time," said Van Slochteren. "We want to give the building inspector and sanitation time to conduct inspections of the property."

In another matter, Brenda K. Ward, 20030 82nd St., complained to the board that she was attacked by two dogs who were roaming free near 8014

NOTICE
On May 9, 1994, the Town Board for the Town of Bristol adopted a Revised Final Resolution relating to special assessment for the installation of a sanitary sewer system in the Lake Shangri-La area of the Town of Bristol, the full text of which is published here.

REVISED
FINAL ASSESSMENT RESOLUTION IN ACCORDANCE WITH SECTION 66.60, WISCONSIN
STATUTES, AUTHORIZING
SPECIAL ASSESSMENT FOR INSTALLATION OF SANITARY SEWER COLLECTION SYSTEM IN THE TOWN OF BRISTOL

WHEREAS, the Town Board of the Town of Bristol, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, held a public hearing at the Town Hall, which is located in the Town of Bristol, on the 10th day of March, 1994, for the purpose of hearing all interested parties concerning the preliminary resolution and report prepared for the Town Board, which consists of:

A. Preliminary plans and specifications for the sanitary sewer collection system;
B. A description of the area and properties to be assessed;
C. An estimate of the entire cost of the proposed facilities; and
D. A statement that the property against which the assessments are proposed is benefited and a schedule of proposed assessment.

WHEREAS, the report filed with the Town Clerk relates to the proposed improvement and construction of sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol (to be connected to the sewage treatment facility located in the Town of Salem) to serve the following described property as shown on the plans now on file in the office of the Town Clerk:

Beginning at the Northwest corner of Section 31; thence East along the North line of Section 31 and the East line of 116th Street (County Trunk Highway V) a distance of 16-26.19 feet more or less to the Northeast corner of Lake Shangri-La Beach 2nd Addition a distance of 294-2.35 feet to a point on the South line of the Northwest Quarter of Section 31 and the Southeast corner of Lake Shangri-La Beach 2nd Addition a distance of 621.3 feet more or less to the shore of Lake Shangri-La; thence North easterly and Westerly along the shore line of Lake Shangri-La to the West line of Section 31; thence N along the W line of Section 31 a distance of 465 feet more or less to the point of beginning.

WHEREAS, upon consideration of the comments of the residents who reside in the assessment area and of other factors relating to the fairness of the assessments, the Town Board has considered an amended report setting forth a revised methodology of assessment, which amended report is on file with the Town Clerk.

WHEREAS, on March 28, 1994, the Town Board adopted a Final Assessment Resolution in accordance with Section 66.60, Wisconsin Statutes, Authorizing Special Assessment for Installation of Sanitary Sewer Collection System in the Town of Bristol ("The March 28, 1994 Resolution"); and

WHEREAS, the March 28, 1994 Resolution contains a typographical error in Paragraph 6 (b) which alters the meaning of the March 28, 1994 Resolution and defeats the intent and purpose of the Town Board in adopting the March 28, 1994 Resolution.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Board of the Town of Bristol, as follows:

1. Rescission of the March 28, 1994 Resolution. The March 28, 1994 Resolution is hereby rescinded and this Revised Final Resolution is adopted in its stead.

2. Approval of Report. That the amended report, including an estimate of the assessment to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, and the plans and specification for the work prepared by Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer and Associates, Town engineers, on file with the Town Clerk pertaining to installation of sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol are hereby adopted and approved.

3. Payment by Area Assessment. Payment for said sanitary sewer collection system in the Town of Bristol shall be made by assessing the cost to the properties benefited as indicated in the estimate of the assessment of benefits to be levied against each parcel of real estate in the assessment area, on file with the Town Clerk.

4. Benefits of Improvements. The Town Board of the Town of Bristol has examined the area where said special assessments are proposed to be levied and the properties listed on that portion of the amended report in which an estimate is made as to the benefits to be levied against each parcel of property in the assessment area, and the Town Board concludes and hereby declares that each parcel in the assessment area is benefited by such improvements, and that the benefit received by each property is as valuable or more valuable than the amount of the assessment; that such benefits consist, among other things, in an increased value to the property, in protection from the possible pollution of ground water and surface water and in protection of the public health.

5. Exercise of Police Powers. That the estimated assessments itemized in the amended report represent an exercise of the police powers authorized by Section 66.60(1)(b), Wisconsin Statutes, have been determined to be reasonable in view of the purposes of the assessment, the cost of the improvement and the benefits conferred upon each parcel in the assessment area and are hereby confirmed.

6. Determination of Assessment. That the assessments shall be calculated on a moored unit assessment basis, as follows:

a. Unit-Basis Assessment. The total cost of construction of the improvements shall be determined upon the completion of construction and the cost shall be evenly divided by the total number of assessment units, as determined in paragraph 6(b). It is the intent of this resolution that the Town Board at least ninety percent of the costs of the proposed improvements when the sewer collection system installed by an area-wide special assessment against all properties located in the sewer assessment area.

b. Assignment of Units Depending Upon Size of Parcel and Location of Parcel. For purposes of implementing this resolution, the term "parcel" shall mean any lot or combination of lots in the Lake Shangri-La Beach subdivision assigned a single tax key number. Any parcel measuring more than one hundred (100) feet across the front of the parcel shall be deemed two parcels. Each parcel having any lakefront footage shall be assigned two assessment units and shall be assessed in an amount which is two and one-quarter (2.25) times the amount of the assessment levied against a parcel not located on the lakefront, which parcel shall be assigned one assessment unit. Upon completion of construction, the Town Board shall determine the total number of assessment units by determining the total number of assessable parcels in the assessment area and whether the parcels have or do not have lakefront footage.

c. Contiguous Parcels - Two. Persons who own two contiguous parcels that front on the same street shall be assigned assessment units for each parcel, however the assessment units for one parcel shall be deferred for so long as no more than a single residence is built constructed on the parcel(s). g. Connection fee. Upon all parcels upon which a residence is located shall be levied, in addition to the assessment described in the foregoing paragraphs, a further assessment equal to the connection fee charged by the Town of Salem.

7. Payment of Assessments. Assessments may be paid in full without interest charge at any time on or before October 15 of the calendar year in which the improvements are complete, upon sufficient notice in writing from the Town informing the owner of the exact amount of the assessment. Assessments not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in eighteen (18) installments in accordance with Section 66.54(7) of the Wisconsin Statutes. The first installment shall be due on or before the deadline for payment of property taxes and shall include at least a 18th part of the assessment together with interest on the whole assessment from October 15 through the deadline for payment at a rate of 5.0% per annum. Each subsequent installment shall include a like portion of principal and one year's interest upon the unpaid portion of such assessment. The Town, upon duly enacted resolution, may adjust the interest rate as necessary to recover fully all costs to the Town incurred by reasons of permitting installment payments (for example, interest costs on funds borrowed by the Town to fund construction of the improvements).

8. Payment of Deferred Assessment. In the event a deferred assessment becomes payable by reason of the sale of a parcel or portion of a parcel subject to a deferred assessment, the assessment shall be immediately upon purchase by the buyer of the parcel or portion of the parcel. In the event a deferred assessment becomes payable by occurrence of any other condition stated in paragraph 6, the Town shall give notice in writing to the record owner of the parcel subject to the deferred assessment indicating that such deferred assessment may be paid without interest charge on or before the next October 15. Deferred assessments not paid in full on or before October 15 may be paid in a number of installments equivalent to the number of complete calendar years remaining until December 31, 2014.

9. Receipts. All receipts from the collection of these special assessments shall be maintained in separate accounts and used only for the respective payment of project costs or debt payments associated with improvements necessary for the assessment are defined, except that, for every parcel for which a connection fee is levied pursuant to paragraph 6(g), the Town shall pay the Town of Salem in full upon due demand by the Town of Salem the connection fee for the parcel.

10. Annexation. Upon the event of detachment from the Town, because of annexation to another municipality or by operation of any intermunicipal boundary agreement, of any property subject to deferred assessment, then all unpaid assessments, whether paid by installment or not shall become immediately due and payable.

11. Notice. That the Town Clerk shall publish this resolution as a Class 1 Notice and mail a copy of this resolution to every property owner whose names appear on the assessment roll and whose post office address is known or can with reasonable diligence be ascertained.

Bristol Town Board questions tattoo shop

By Jeanie Lindstrom

Bristol Town Board members might have been caught eyeing up Dale Cole, looking for tattoos.

But none were visible beneath the professional, white dress shirt worn by Cole, as he pleaded with the board to allow him to start a combined tattoo shop/T-shirt business in the community.

Cole presented the board with a sampling of the T-shirts he would offer and a booklet of tattoo artistry.

"I wouldn't sell anything socially inappropriate," Cole told the board members.

He then explained that he meets or exceeds the sterilization standards set by OSHA.

"Tattoos have surpassed the level of the bad image," Cole added. "It's body decoration, an expression of yourself."

Cole was seeking the board's approval after the planning commission recommended denying his request.

"I've got concerns about the building, as well as the business," chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said.

Cole's request was tabled pending an investigation of the premises, located on Frontage Road, along I-94, between highways 50 and C.

Crosswalk: Board members will not reconsider their decision to deny a crosswalk on Highway 45 and 82nd Street as requested by Bristol School Board members.

"A crosswalk would give kids a false sense of security," Van Slochteren said.

Merkt trial targets company profits

By Dave Backmann

The number-two man at Merkt Cheese Co. testified in a jury trial Monday that the Bristol cheese food maker was unprofitable from 1988 through 1993.

But Donald Servi, vice president and treasurer, said that despite running in the red for years, the company had made a profit of about $60,000 in the two months before Merkt recalled 518,630 pounds of cold pack cheese beginning Feb. 25, 1992.

Servi took the witness stand in a trial in which Merkt is seeking damages exceeding $1 million against a supplier, for losses related to the recall.

On March 16, 1993, Merkt,

19241 83rd St., filed suit against Zander Creamery Inc., Cross Plains, and its insurer, for delivering allegedly tainted butter that caused the recall.

Butter, whey and cheese are used in Merkt's product.

The trial before Circuit Court Judge David Bastianelli began Wednesday and is expected to continue at least through Friday. Jurors include seven women and five men.

L. William Staudenmaier, an attorney representing Zander, used Servi's testimony to portray Merkt as a failing company that wants his client to pay for a share of dropping cold pack sales. Staudenmaier said sales were on a downward trend before the recall.

He established that at one point Merkt had a negative net worth.

Servi testified the company routinely borrows large sums of money in the fall to have products ready for the busy Christmas holiday season. He acknowledged the company's long-term and short-term debt reached about $5.5 million in 1991-92.

On June 30, 1991, Merkt Cheese assets were $6,065,000, according to court documents.

In February 1992, the state Department of Agriculture tentatively detected a disease-causing bacteria, listeria, in some of Merkt's cold pack cheese in Bloomer during a random inspection.

The organism poses a health risk to children, elderly people, pregnant women, fetuses and people with weakened immune systems.

Merkt on Feb. 25, 1992, recalled 15,000, 1-pound tubs of Sharp Cheddar Cold Pack Cheese Food that had been distributed mostly in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Florida and Ohio.

On March 5, 1992, the company recalled all of its cold pack cheese foods and stopped making the product when final results showed contamination.

Servi testified Monday the recall was enacted out of concern for public safety, to avoid confusion in identifying possibly contaminated products, and to limit the damage of contamination.

Merkt alleges that tests by the state and a Merkt-hired laboratory showed the source of contamination probably was Zander's butter. The butter also contaminated Merkt equipment, making it temporarily unusable.

The suit said Zander's tainted butter caused Merkt to suffer other losses also, including:

- Disposing of inventory and returned cold packs plus their containers.

- Paying for new labeling and advertising and for brokers and customers to return the products.

- Diverting productive use of space, trucks and other equipment to handle the recall.

- Testing and cleaning all of its equipment.

What is the true name of the home of the Falcons?

By Jeanie Lindstrom

5-23-94
What is the real name of the high school located on Highway 50, Pad-dock Lake?

Answer this question correctly, and you'll win 5 million pounds of falcon manure.

Baby boomers would tell you they graduated from Central High School. Others would say from Salem Central High School. And those graduating over the last decade have heard Westosha Central High School.

Where did all this confusion start? According to administrator Gerald Sorensen, it began back in 1976, with a change in the state laws.

Wisconsin Inter Athletic Association (WIAA) needed to be able to specifically identify all the Central high schools in America's dairyland.

Sorensen told board of education members of the request and asked that they be informally known as Central High School, District of Westosha, as the school's stationery now reads.

Many were already referring to the school as Salem Central High School. But the school was never located in Salem, and was a feeder school for not only Salem Grade School but many others in the county. This fact was pointed out to Sorensen by an upset Bristol family.

Sorensen sent a letter to the WIAA, asking that Central be referred to as Central High School, District of Westosha. At that point, a local daily newspaper picked up on Westosha Central High and others followed suit. (But not this reporter, who graduated from Central High in 1970.)

"We have never changed the name," Sorensen explained. "All official documents say Central High School."

A few years ago, a committee was formed to look into the possibility of an addition to Central. "What shall we call the school?" was a question heard at one of the meetings.

The committee decided to call the school, for publicity purposes, Westosha Central High School, another mistaken identity.

Now, I realize this important bit of knowledge is not going to help you in the final "Jeopardy" round. But I have one more question.

Would you like your prize gift Westosha Salem Central High wrapped or can you pick it up at School?

Merkt Cheese given $1.6 million

5-30-94
Merkt Cheese Co., Bristol, was awarded $1.6 million by the jury in its lawsuit against a butter supplier May 20.

After the 8-day trial, the jury spent just a few hours deliberating. Merkt had originally asked for $2.1 million in damages.

Merkt, 19241 83rd St., took its butter supplier, Zander Creamery Inc., Cross Plains, to court after the creamery sent them butter containing a bacteria called listeria monocytogenes in February and March, 1992. The tainted butter caused a recall of Merkt's cold pack cheese products.

The bacteria can cause illness, and in some cases, even death.

Tests at the Merkt plant showed bacteria in the company's cheese and Zander's butter, according to the company's attorney, William H. Alverson.

Alverson added that although only a portion of the cheese was contaminated, all of it was recalled, in order to maintain Merkt's image.

The money awarded to Merkt was based on how much money the jury felt the cheese company lost in business.

Zander's attorney L. William Staudenmaier said $182,000 in damages would have been sufficient because the loss of business Merkt's suffered had more to do with competition than the recall.

Joseph Czubin, long time advocate for the elderly, died of a heart attack on May 21 at his home in Elkhorn. Joe and his wife, Fay, moved to Elkhorn three years ago after retiring from their farm in Bristol. Joe had been a member of the Kenosha County Commission on Aging and the Community Options Program Advisory Committee for a number of years. He was past president of the Wisconsin Coalition on Aging and member of the Area Agency on Aging Board of Directors. He never hesitated to express his views to governors, senators and anyone else who might affect services for older persons. Joe was 81. He will be missed by all who knew him.

RESOLUTION NO. 11 5-3-94

WHEREAS, the Town Board of Bristol adopted a resolution August 1976 to establish a public inland lake rehabilitation district for George Lake; and

WHEREAS, since the formation of the lake district, George Lake has secured grant funds from the DNR to study the watershed and identify areas within the watershed needing land treatment and improvement by a 1993 Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources Grant; and

WHEREAS, a 1991 Wisconsin DNR Grant conducted a study of lakebed core samples for lake dredging and analyzed surface water quality; and

WHEREAS, the fundamental reason for monitoring watershed water quality is to obtain baseline data and observe trends during the implementation of nonpoint source pollution controls in the watershed; and

WHEREAS, George Lake has developed a proposal for the 1996 Southeast District DNR Nonpoint Priority Watershed selection consideration in which a proposal for further inventory and land treatment projects are proposed and are vital to improving the watershed;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Kenosha County Board of Supervisors support the nomination and award of a 1996 Southeast District DNR Nonpoint Priority Watershed Project to George Lake which will assist to further implement the Kenosha County Agricultural Erosion Control Plan and enhance the primary environmental corridor for George Lake and the Des Plaines River.

Bristol defends sewer project

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

5-24-94
BRISTOL — Members of the Town Board Monday night defended their recent decision authorizing installation of sanitary sewers for 180 property owners on the eastern side of Lake Shaugrila at a cost of $1.7 million.

The decision has drawn criticism from many of the affected property owners and several of them stormed out of the meeting Monday after being gavelled down by Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren for interrupting the meeting.

"Our decision (to install the sewer) was not easy," said Town Supervisor Wayne Eide. "But I stand by the decision."

"It was a hard decision," said Town Supervisor Donald Wienke, "because we know it will result in a hardship for some residents."

Addressing complaints that lakefront property owners will bear the brunt of the special assessment, Wienke said comparing the unit assessments for the homes that will be connected to the Bristol sewer to homes in Salem that are assessed by the front foot is not fair because "we are not comparing apples and apples."

Added Town Supervisor John Meyer, "Most of those houses' septic systems would fail a (percolation) test if this were a wet spring. If they would try to sell these houses, they couldn't...you can't please everyone. We have to do what is best for all."

Van Slochteren ended the discussion by pointing out that a lot of building is planned in the affected area and the reason is because of access to a sewer.

In other business, Van Slochteren presented and the board unanimously adopted an ordinance spelling out the requirements for establishment of Town Board committees. Previously, the town chairman operated more on custom than on a rule of law.

The board members also approved Van Slochteren's committee appointments for the next year. They are:

■ Budget and Finance: Mark Miller as chairman and Van Slochteren.

■ Fire and Rescue: Wienke as chairman and Miller.

■ Planning and Zoning: Meyer as chairman and Wienke.

■ Parks and Recreation: Miller as chairman and Eide.

■ Ordinance and Ordinance Enforcement: Van Slochteren as chairman and Miller.

■ Employee Relations: Wienke as chairman and Eide.

total cost until permanent borrowing was made on the project last year.

The state, at Antaramian's request, earlier this year passed a law that should keep the tax bite small until 2002. After that, the city could face high tax increases unless significant development takes place on the 42-acre site owned by K.A.T. Realty Corp.

Antaramian gave a "theoretical example" that the city could soon raise taxes $100,000 for a pot of money to help taxpayers pay the bill in the early 2000s.

"Let's say nothing ever develops out there, now you've built up over a nine-year period funds that can help offset the costs," he said, "and yet also build into the base so that at no one time will the taxpayers gets totally clobbered for something that's not viable."

The cleanup price tag is estimated at $4 million. No timetable has been announced to clean and develop the site.

Alderman Stephen Casey, City Council president, said the

the district go into a special fund to pay the city's infrastructure costs.

Local schools and the county receive none of the tax money for up to 23 years until the infrastructure costs are paid.

The city in the late 1980s used temporary financing to pay for the improvements, setting up a $17.2 million payment in 1996. Officials wanted to see how much tax money was going into the fund before deciding on permanent financing, and never intended to pay the $17.2 million all in 1996.

Instead of waiting until 1996 to begin making payments, Antaramian last year decided to start paying for the project immediately.

"By refinancing when we did and not waiting till '96, we guaranteed to ourselves what we believe will be a lower interest rate," the mayor said. "That way the city saves money long-term."

The city also has a TIF district at its filled industrial park on Highway 158 just west of Vast emptiness of former factory site on harbor is cause of city marina's financial problem

Tax truth told about the Marina

The city envisioned a new neighborhood, complete with 300 elaborate condominiums and 550 apartments next to a sprawling private marina as the way to spur redevelopment downtown.

That was in the late 1980s, when the city anticipated $46 million in new downtown development by the end of this year, 1994.

The optimism was short-lived. In 1994, the city has a public marina but no new lakefront housing. Actual development since the late 1980s has been about $7.3 million.

A 42-acre site north of the Southport Marina, 5801 Third Ave., sits empty while its owners and the state negotiate how to remove pollution from the barren land. Under a creative financing package, that site was key to the city paying for the marina construction without raising taxes.

A recent report shows the city owes $34.3 million on the marina, and much of that money may be raised through higher property taxes. Previously, documents showed the city owed $21.2 million.

For the first time, city documents show an accurate amount of how much money is needed to pay for the project.

Mayor John Antaramian, a state legislator when the city decided to spend the money in the 1980s, said no estimate could have been made on the

New group voices municipal concerns

Members hope to increase communication

By Jennie Tunkielez

Garbage will be the starting point for a new group that hopes its efforts will increase communication and cooperation among the towns, villages, city and county governments.

Calling itself the Kenosha County Council of Government, the group's members will represent each town and village in Kenosha County, and from the city and county governments.

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey VanSlochteren said at a meeting Friday she wants the group to meet in good times and in bad.

"As long as everything is going smoothly, we become very apathetic," VanSlochteren said. "When things are bad, it's a holy terror. We all share common concerns. We all have the same governmental problems. If we could just get together and talk, it would be nice."

Friday's meeting at the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St., was an effort to formalize the group that first gathered in February to discuss mutual concerns.

County Executive John Collins, who organized the meeting, said the group won't be a passing fancy.

"We will make this formal enough that it doesn't go away and not so formal that we have to hire an executive director and three assistants," Collins said. "We don't want another layer of bureaucracy."

Collins said the group would meet quarterly or more often if there is a desire to do so.

As a first order of business, the group directed county personnel to look into the costs of cooperating on hazardous waste and recyclable pick-ups.

Jon Hanken, University of Wisconsin-Extension community development agent, reported that a survey of local municipalities shows there could be money saved by working cooperatively on refuse pick-up.

Refuse collection costs communities a total $974,896 per year, minus the city's costs, according to the 10 municipalities that responded to the survey, Hanken said. Recycling costs $274,535 per year, not including the city, he said.

"It is possible if there was a multi-community collection, we could bring those numbers down," Hanken said. "If the communities banded together, there are economies of scale and bargaining power."

Officials expressed a need for places people can bring in things such as used tires, and deposit hazardous materials that cannot be placed in landfills.

County Emergency Services Director Paul Hess and Hanken will investigate possible ways of coordinating the collections and report back to the group.

The fate of a proposed county health ordinance was discussed by the group and decided that a special meeting should be held on the topic.

The proposed ordinance has been rewritten to define the county Health Department's role as one of abating health concerns and not dealing with nuisance issues.

Somers Town Supervisor William Miller said the ordinance is needed.

"We have no control over these things," Miller said.

Wheatland Town Clerk Sheila Siegler said the changes the proposed ordinance have improved it, but there are still concerns about it.

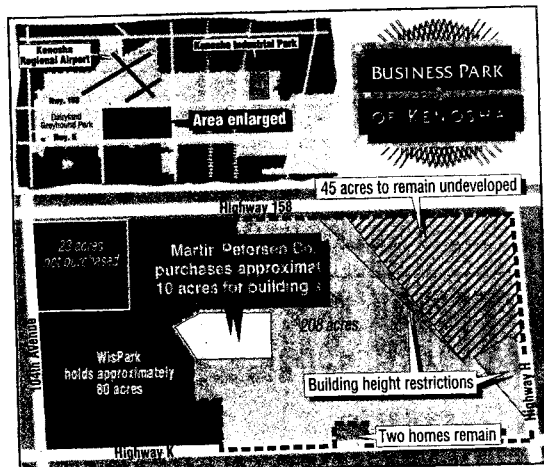

On another, Geoffrey Wheeler, a member of the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee, reported the group's draft report is completed and ready for review. Copies will be sent to the town villages and city.

A public hearing on the draft will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. June 15 at the Kenosha County Center.

Bristol town Chairman Audrey VanSlochteren, never one to pull any punches about her views on issues, has taken her share of shots in Sound Off! and other forums of public opinion.

But I think she pegged the "intergovernmental cooperation issue" perfectly with a statement at the Kenosha County Council of Government May 28.

VanSlochteren, speaking on the need of the group to continue to meet was quoted as saying "As long as everything is going smoothly, we become very apathetic. When things are bad, it's a holy terror. We all share common concerns. We all have the same governmental problems. If we could just get together and talk, it would be nice."

Nice indeed.

If VanSlochteren's words are kept in mind, perhaps there's hope for intergovernmental cooperation after all.

Bristol town Chairman

Audrey VanSlochteren, never one to pull any punches about her views on issues, has taken her share of shots in Sound Off! and other forums of public opinion.

But I think she pegged the "intergovernmental cooperation issue" perfectly with a statement at the Kenosha County Council of Government May 28.

VanSlochteren, speaking on the need of the group to continue to meet was quoted as saying "As long as everything is going smoothly, we become very apathetic. When things are bad, it's a holy terror. We all share common concerns. We all have the same governmental problems. If we could just get together and talk, it would be nice."

Nice indeed.

If VanSlochteren's words are kept in mind, perhaps there's hope for intergovernmental cooperation after all.

Treat each child as an individual

6-2-94

At Armitage, we want children who have the desire to learn, to take risks and who will benefit by our rich and

Karen Sommer
Admissions Officer

diverse curriculum. I believe that each child is an individual and has the right to be treated as such. Each child brings with him or her a richness derived from personal experiences through family, friends, pre-school and/or day-care. The early years are times to explore by taking risks and by not limiting children to only skills they can easily master.

Opening doors to new areas of learning and allowing for growth through trial and error, without labeling a child "success" or "failure," is essential during the early years.

Our full-day kindergarten provides children with the time, the materials and the nurturing environment to grow, through investigation, through sharing and through friendship. Our program, "Success in Reading and Writing," ensures the opportunity for children in kindergarten to read. They are very enthusiastic about that.

No grades are given until the fourth grade, thereby maintaining an attractive environment in which new skills are introduced and mastered.

A real plus for Armitage is that our graduating students have good skills and basic knowledge. They are not afraid to ask questions and to communicate with teachers or other adults.

My two children are Armitage graduates and as a mother, a former Head Start teacher and as a staff member of Armitage, I firmly believe that an Armitage education deserves this evaluation: 'A job well done.'

Bristol project to map town water system

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

6-2-94

BRISTOL — The Department of Natural Resources will require Bristol to provide a detailed map of the town's water system, Public Works Foreman Randy Kerkman said Wednesday.

At a meeting of the Public Works Committee, Kerkman said the town water utility will be surveyed first. Computerized data will show every hydrant, valve and pipe in the system as well as the size of the mains.

Kerkman said it may be necessary to hire an engineering firm to produce the first map. It will take three to four months to accomplish, he said, but once the base map is done, town staff will keep it up to date.

Public Works Committee Chairman John Meyer said the mapping project was in the town budget last year but dropped because of the cost.

Kerkman also told the committee a drain tile had been smashed during construction of Bristolwood Subdivision, highways 45 and AH. An excavating company smashed the tile, then diverted the drainage into a town ditch at 203rd Avenue, north of Highway AH, he said.

He said the board may want to consider withholding building permits until the tile is replaced.

Armed man robs motel

6-11-94

Authorities continued to investigate Friday an armed robbery at the Days Inn Motel, 194 and Highway 50.

Sheriff's Department Lt. Larry Zarletti said a man entered the motel about 3:10 a.m. Thursday, displayed a blue steel semiautomatic handgun and demanded all the money from the register.

The male attendant, 38, turned over an undisclosed amount of cash.

The suspect fled in white van on the west frontage road.

Later the van was located in a ditch on a curve on an access road to the Factory Outlet Center.

Wildflowers color a formerly barren tract near the Bristol Recycling Center, 8101 175th Ave.

Hillside recycled with flowers

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — A year ago it was a barren patch of ground.

Today, the hillside near the Bristol Recycling Center is alive with color, brilliant shades of pink and purple, red and blue.

Bachelor's button, baby's breath, scarlet flax and fragrant purple dame's rocket brighten the landscape now. As spring gives way to summer, black eyed Susan, purple coneflower and oxeye daisy will take center stage.

Bristol Public Works Director Randy Kerkman didn't like the looks of the weed-infested vacant lot near the town recycling center, 8101 195th Ave. He knew the town had no plans to develop the area anytime soon.

"We wanted something that was attractive and low maintenance," said Kerkman.

He admits he's no flower expert. "I can't tell baby's breath from bachelor buttons," he said.

He studied the brochures from various seed companies until he found a mixture that was low cost and would grow well in Wisconsin's sometimes nasty climate. He ordered the Northern Wildflower Mix from the Lofts Seed Co. in New Jersey.

To plant the one-acre field, the company estimated it would take 12 pounds of seed at a cost of $291.

Last September, Kerkman and his town maintenance crew sprayed the hillside with Round-up to kill the existing vegetation. The seed company recommends that preliminary step, said Kerkman, so the new wildflowers won't be crowded out by weeds.

After about a week, the area was disced and all remnants of weeds uprooted.

Flower seeds were distributed with a lawn spreader, then dragged to work them into the soil.

This spring, an incredible thing happened. The results were just as good as the seed catalog promised.

The only maintenance required this year will be one cutting. After the first frost, the field will be mowed to a height of about eight inches.

"After a few years, it will reach the point where it doesn't look good anymore; then you have to do the procedure all over again," he said. "How long it lasts depends on the type of soil you have and how well you killed the weeds."

"If we'd known it would turn out so well, we would have done a larger area," said Kerkman. "It makes the site look great."

And it has made the weekly trip to the recycling center an eye-catching experience.

Contracts add 40 jobs at Merkt

By Dave Backmann

6-9-94

Merkt Cheese Co. has signed new long-term private-label contracts to make special cheeses and related products for several major, national and international consumer goods companies, Merkt announced Wednesday.

Specifics were not disclosed by the family owned company.

To fill those contracts, Merkt will add three production lines, hire 40 more workers and create a third work shift.

Thomas Merkt, company president, said in a press release that continued business with major food service companies also helped fuel the expansion.

"We've already interviewed, started and trained some of the new employees and we'll be a round-the-clock operation before this month is over," Merkt said.

The company now runs one manufacturing shift and one shift for set-up and cleaning. Under 24-hour scheduling, two manufacturing shifts will be operating and one for change-over and preparation.

Adding 40 employees will bring total employment at the plant at 19241 63rd St., Bristol, to 100.

The addition of three more production lines will bring the number of lines to seven.

Merkt said the new equipment will allow the company to increase production of products like cheese balls and cheese logs, two items that have gained increased popularity.

CORRECTION

The hillside of wildflowers near the Bristol Recycling Center may be viewed at 8101 195th Ave. The address was incorrect under a photo in Monday's paper.

Airport expansion opposed by Bristol

By Ariene Jensen
Staff Writer 6-8-94

BRISTOL — Both the Bristol Town Board and the Bristol Plan Commission voted unanimously Tuesday to oppose the expansion of Kenosha Regional Airport.

Bristol becomes the third town to pass such a resolution. Somers and Paris have taken similar action.

Reasons given for the opposition include:

- The city of Kenosha failed to request Bristol's input concerning expansion.

- Airport expansion would lower Bristol property values.

- Airport expansion is in conflict with Bristol's land use plan.

The town also asks that the city allow affected communities to be represented on any future study or recommending committee before further action is taken.

In other business Tuesday, the two Bristol boards recommended approval of changes in the Kenosha County Zoning ordinance.

Major changes include an amendment to the county's M-3 mineral extraction district, to make the ordinance consistent with state statutes.

The new rules will require more information on restoration to be furnished in the permit approving process. It will also require monitoring of ground water and wells, control of dust and noise, and allow greater input from towns.

A new section in the county zoning ordinance would also allow a Bed and Breakfast facility in certain districts as a conditional use.

Also proposed is a plan to separate the fee schedule from the ordinance. Currently, a fee change requires a costly reprinting of the entire ordinance.

The Plan Commission recommended and the Town Board agreed to deny a request from Alan Campobasso, Northbrook, Ill., who wants to build a house on the shore of Lake Shangrila, at 121st Street and 213th Ave. The Campobasso home would have only a 15-foot setback from 121st Street and a 38-foot setback from the lake.

Commissioners told Ray and Gail Mattucci, Lake Forest, Ill., that they do not look favorably upon a driving range concept the couple presented. The location is located on State Line Road, three-quarters of a mile west of Highway 45.

Boldt said the plan does not comply with the town's land use plan, which shows the area as agricultural.

Meehan said a driving range has a potential to be a nuisance because of the need for bright lights.

In the first item on their agenda, commissioners elected Boldt their chairman, Gene Anderson vice chairman, and Dan Giannotti secretary.

Salem may patrol Lake Shangrila

Bristol committee reviews codes for boat speeds, buoys 6-7-94

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — An ordinance giving the town of Salem enforcement authority on Lake Shangrila was reviewed Monday by the Ordinance Committee.

The codes cover lake water only and include boat speeds and permits for placement of buoys and water markers. Lake Shangrila straddles the Bristol-Salem town line, just north of the Wisconsin state line.

The ordinance allows the Salem water patrol to enforce the rules and the town of Salem to prosecute violations and collect fines and forfeitures.

Currently, only Salem has such ordinance control of the lake, and officials there asked Bristol to adopt a code for universal enforcement.

While about three-fourths of the lake is in Salem, the only boat ramp is in Bristol. Salem has a water patrol while Bristol does not.

Under the current situation, Bristol residents cannot be prosecuted by the Salem patrol.

Bristol had three options, according to Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren. Bristol can stay with the status quo, adopt the ordinance with Salem enforcement, or adopt the ordinance and have Bristol form its own patrol.

Committee members said forming a patrol was too costly, a duplication of services and would create enforcement confusion.

The committee recommended the Town Board authorize Town Attorney Jeffrey Davison to draft a local ordinance for Lake Shangrila. It currently has a similar ordinance governing Lake George.

In other business, the committee recommended adoption of a sprinkler ordinance for new construction.

Under the ordinance, multi-family residences with two or more units built in the town's water district would require a sprinkler system.

Supervisor Donald Weinke, who advanced the measure, said the cost of such a system for new construction is recovered within three years through reduced insurance premiums.

Supervisor John Meyer favored the ordinance because it would save lives, protect property and enhance fire protection, he said.

George Lake seeks grant

The George Lake Rehabilitation District has applied for a grant from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. 6-13-94

The grant would be used to improve water quality in the lake. The quality has diminished over the years because of runoff from the surrounding lands.

The weed harvesting committee is planning to have the harvester operating by the time of the annual meeting. The Eurasian water milfoil, which have been the lake's biggest problem over the years, appears to be growing slower than usual this year.

However, the curlyleaf pond weed population has been doing very well this year. This weed has been dying off as the water has warmed.

The new signs for the lake beaches and boat landing will be unveiled at the annual meeting. The new signs were purchased by the special projects committee to help beautify the beaches.

Everyone is reminded that a wake on the waters of George Lake can be made between noon and 6 p.m.

Progress Days celebrates 25 years of fun, entertainment

Twenty-five years ago, it was felt that a community picnic of some sort be started for the township of Bristol. Earl Hollister, town chairman at the time, was approached by Don Wienke, a member of the recreation committee of Bristol.

The idea was accepted by Hollister felt that it should be an activity that everyone could participate in.

The first Progress Days celebration was July 5, 1970. A parade started off the festivities at 12:30 p.m. with Charlie Ling as its chairman. Mrs. Alvin Houtsinger won the prize for naming of the special one day event, Bristol Progress Days, which has since expanded to the first full weekend after the 4th of July.

This year, the festivities begin Friday evening, July 8, with the annual dinner dance and coronation at Bristol Oaks Country Club. Dinner is planned for 7 p.m. followed by the announcement of the Outstanding Man and Woman and the crowning of the 1994 Miss Bristol.

Dancing starts at 9 p.m. to the music of Nite Shift. Tickets are $10 each and are available at the Bristol Town Hall or by contacting Kim Scheckel at 857-9403. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Entries for Miss Bristol and Outstanding Man and Woman for the 25th anniversary of Bristol Progress Days are presently being accepted. June 23 is the deadline for Miss Bristol contestants. Watch for details in your local newspaper. The winners will be announced at the coronation dinner. Contact Nettie Nelson for more information.

July 1 is the deadline for the Outstanding Man and Woman with the winners being announced at the Friday night banquet. Contact Terry/Patty Rajala for more information.

All former Miss Bristols and Outstanding Citizens of the last 25 years will be invited to ride in the parade.

Softball tournaments will be held at Hansen's Park and Brighton that same evening, July 8.

The next two days are filled with fun activities, contests, good food, sports and fellowship for all ages.

Saturday, July 9

Open men's fast pitch softball tournament (16 teams). Starting Friday at 6:00 p.m. at Hansen's Park and Brighton and will continue on the next two days at Hansen's Park and Bristol School ball fields. Contact Ralph Myers at 857-7254 for more details.

A carnival with fun rides and amusements, will be on the grounds at Hansen Park both Saturday and Sunday from 10:00 till closing. There will be three major rides: the Ferris Wheel, Scrabble, and the Tilt-A-Whirl. There will also be 5 children's rides. On Saturday, one can buy a bracelet for the rides in the carnival area - $7.00 for 5 hours.

Volleyball tournaments will be held on Saturday and Sunday starting at 10 a.m. each day. Contact Darla Wack for further information.

A traveling medicine show featuring Doctor Morrissy will be back with us again on Saturday and Sunday with three shows daily. Saturday will be Circus Day and Sunday the Medicine Show.

Children's activities will include the Annual Car Race at the pavilion on Saturday around 11 a.m. There will be trophies awarded to the winners of the car race. Prizes will go to anyone dressed as a clown for the circus theme show around 11 a.m. on Saturday. Free clown face painting and balloons on Saturday.

Arts and crafts will also be on display. All arts and crafts entries are to be brought to the arts and crafts tent on Saturday, July 9, between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. Young adults to age 16, and adults 16 and over are encouraged to enter as many items as desired. Judging will begin at 10:30 and is closed to the public. Ribbons will be awarded. A grand prize ribbon and saving bond will go to one art entry and one craft entry.

Cookie judging is part of the celebration, Fancy Party Cookies. Please bring six cookies on a plate. Judging will begin at 1 p.m. on Saturday July 9. Bring entries to the arts and craft tent between 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. on Saturday. All ages are encouraged to enter.

Walk down Memory Lane at the memorabilia tent with over 300 pictures of old Bristol plus other items. Open Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, after the parade until 9 p.m.

Dancing until 1 a.m. finishes the day. A disc jockey from Big Fun Entertainment will provide the music starting at 7 p.m. (Music Sponsored by the Bristol Volunteer Fireman's Association)

Sunday, July 10

Open softball men's tournament, volleyball tournaments, Travelling Medicine Show (3 shows daily) and the carnival amusement area will continue on Sunday. The arts & crafts tent and the memorabilia tent will be open on Sunday.

The Bristol Progress Days parade will begin at 12:30 sharp. Parade awards will be handed out at 3:30 p.m. at the sound booth.

To celebrate our 25th year, we will host a lip sync contest in the arts & crafts tent. Children 5-16 may enter. Just bring your favorite song on tape. A tape player will be provided. Begins at 4 p.m. on Sunday, July 10. Pre-register by Friday July 8 by calling 857-2758 or 857-2673 or at the arts & crafts tent on Saturday between 8 a.m. & 6 p.m. on Saturday or by noon on Sunday.

A horseshoe pitching contest will be held at 2 p.m. Double elimination, 21 points. Register from 11-2 on Sunday, July 11. Entry fee is $3. Use your own shoes. Trophies and money prizes will be awarded at the end of the tournament. For further info, contact Dick Muhlenbeck at 857-2227.

Dancing from 6 until 11 p.m. Music provided by a disc jockey from Elite Entertainment sponsored by Bristol Volunteer Fireman's Association.

Fireworks display at dusk on Sunday night and sponsored by the Bristol Volunteer Fireman's Association.

Parade theme: 25 Years of Progress

The Bristol Progress Day Parade will be held on Sunday, July 10, 1994. Twenty-five Years of Progress is the theme for the 1994 parade.

The parade, consisting of over 100 units, will begin at the Bristol School on Hwy. 45 between the Wisconsin/Illinois state line and Hwy. 50 at 12:30 p.m. Registration begins at 10 a.m.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call:

A traditional part of Bristol Progress Days is the crowning of Miss Bristol. This year, 1994 Miss Bristol will be crowned July 8 at the Bristol Oaks Country Club.

Bristol Progress Days celebrates its 25th year with a number of festivities including a carnival, softball tournaments, arts and crafts, traveling medicine show and a number of children's activities. Also part of this year's celebration is the parade. Twenty-five years of Progress is the theme for the 1994 parade which will be July 10 at 12:30 p.m.

Firefighters to install lights

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

6-14-94
BRISTOL — The Bristol Fire Department has volunteered to install 16 new lights on tower poles in Hansen Park.

Purchase of the lights at $3,528 was approved Monday by the Bristol Town Board.

Town supervisors Donald Weinke and Wayne Eide negotiated the price of Northern Lights & Electric Co., Kenosha down $1,272 from the original estimate of $4,800. The lights cost $220.50 each and come with a one year warranty.

Having town volunteers put in the lights saves an additional $10,000 in costs estimated for installation by the company.

The suggestion to use the ladder truck as possibly part of a training exercise came from the department, said Supervisor John Meyers.

"If it's their suggestion we will consider it a voluntary donation," said Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman.

In other business, the board approved to purchase for $7,150, a 10-ton trailer with air brakes to haul recyclables to market.

Recommended by the public works committee the money can be budgeted from sale of a motor salvaged from the sewage treatment plant and sold for $9,500., said Meyers.

"It will not be exceeding the budget in any way, shape, or form," Meyers said of the recycling funds.

The expense will show up as a budget amendment item for audit purposes.

A $1.4 million bid by Super Excavators, Menomonee Falls, was approved for the sanitary sewer project for Lake Shangrila subdivision.

In a related matter, the board approved borrowing the $1,411,290 from the State Clean Water Fund Program at an interest rate of about 4.1 percent.

The board authorized the town attorney to draft an ordinance giving the Town of Salem enforcement authority on Lake Shangrila.

The codes cover lake water only and include boat speeds and permits for placement of buoys and water markers.

An ordinance requiring sprinklers in all new two-family and multi-family homes was passed by a 4-1 vote.

Van Slochteren voted against, citing conflicting state codes which give authority for towns to enact such ordinances but includes a Jan. 1, 1992 date for local enactment.

But other supervisors concurred with Town Attorney Jeffrey Davis' conclusion the Department of Industry and Human Relations will support the town's ordinance.

The ordinance affects only new construction but will include a compliance clause following construction after 50 percent damage from fires, or an addition over 50 percent of the current value.

Board members discussed hiring a part-time employee at $5 per hour and up to 20 hours a week for simple maintenance jobs at Hansen Park.

Without formal action, members said the idea had merit but there weren't any funds in the park budget this year.

Van Slochteren suggested an autumn inspection of the park might help budget next year for the planned jobs and hiring of part-time summer help, possibly a student.

Towns favor health proposal

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

6-17-94
BRISTOL — A proposed county health ordinance has the support of the majority of town officials. Two village boards have voted to oppose the ordinance.

The Environmental Health/Food Ordinance, currently being considered, would give the Kenosha County Health Department the power to order abatement of any public health nuisance, order evacuation of any premises not fit for human habitation and seek a court order for such abatement and correction.

At a Thursday meeting chaired by County Executive John Collins, officials from the towns of Brighton, Bristol, Somers and Wheatland all said they need and want the ordinance passed. Support in the form of a letter was sent by the town of Salem.

The towns of Paris and Randall were not represented at the meeting at the Kenosha County Center. Reached at home later, Paris Town Chairman August Zirbel said he favors the ordinance, but his board has not taken a vote on it.

Randall Town Chairman Laurin Fox said she has no objection to the ordinance and will likely schedule it for discussion and a vote by her board next week.

Paddock Lake Village President Marlene Goodson said she is opposed to the health ordinance.

"The village of Paddock Lake takes care of all of our own nuisances," said Goodson. "I don't see why our citizens should pay for something we already take care of."

Silver Lake Village President Ralph Drinkwine attended the meeting but said he was there to gather information. No position has been taken by the Silver Lake Village Board.

At a Monday meeting, the Twin Lakes Village Board voted to oppose the ordinance. Trustee June Norin said at that meeting the village does not need it because it already has one. Pleasant Prairie also has its own ordinance.

"We've got a problem in towns," said Somers Town Chairman David Holtze. "The state Legislature took away our power to have health officers. They gave the power to the county, and until now the county has ignored it. For towns, it is either the county ordinance or none."

Holtze said a health problem arose in Somers, and he attempted to step in and correct it: "I got sued. The judge told me I don't have the authority."

Collins asked Assistant Corporation Counsel Debra Bursinger if it is possible to enact an ordinance that only affects unincorporated areas and allow villages to keep their own.

Bursinger said there could be problems with such an ordinance because the county has countywide jurisdiction in health matters. "You might have equal protection problems," she said.

BRISTOL — The Bristol Fire Department has volunteered to install 16 new lights on tower poles in Hansen Park. Purchase of the lights at $3,528 was proved Monday by the Bristol Town Board.

Town supervisors Donald Weinke and Wayne Elde negotiated the price of northern Lights & Electric Co., Kenosha down $1,272 from the original estimate of $4,800. The lights cost $220.50 each and come with a one year warren-

Having town volunteers put in the lights saves an additional $10,000 in costs estimated for installation by the company.

The suggestion to use the ladder rack as possibly part of a training exercise came from the department, said Supervisor John Meyers.

"If it's their suggestion we will consider it a voluntary donation," said Sidney Van Slochteren, town chairman. In other business, the board approved purchase for $7,150, a 10-ton trailer for air brakes to haul recyclables to market.

Recommended by the public works committee the money can be budgeted on sale of a motor salvaged from the waste treatment plant and sold for $500., said Meyers.

"It will not be exceeding the budget in any way, shape, or form," Meyers said the recycling funds.

The expense will show up as a budget item for audit purposes. A $1.4 million bid by Super Excavators, Menomonee Falls, was approved for the sanitary sewer project for Lake Angela subdivision.

In a related matter, the board approved borrowing the $1,411,290 from the State Clean Water Fund Program at interest rate of about 4.1 percent.

The board authorized the town attorney to draft an ordinance giving the town of Salem enforcement authority Lake Shangrila.

The codes cover lake water only and include boat speeds and permits for placement of buoys and water markers. An ordinance requiring sprinklers in new two-family and multi-family homes was passed by a 4-1 vote.

Van Slochteren voted against, citing conflicting state codes which give authority for towns to enact such ordinances but includes a Jan. 1, 1992 date for local enactment.

But other supervisors concurred with town Attorney Jeffrey Davis' conclusion the Department of Industry and Human Relations will support the town's ordinance.

The ordinance affects only new construction but will include a compliance use following construction after 50 percent damage from fires, or an addition over 50 percent of the current use.

Board members discussed hiring a part-time employee at $5 per hour and to 20 hours a week for simple maintenance jobs at Hansen Park.

Without formal action, members said the idea had merit but there weren't enough funds in the park budget this year. Van Slochteren suggested an autumn inspection of the park might help budget next year for the planned jobs and hiring of part-time summer help, possibly a student.

Towns favor health proposal

BRISTOL — A proposed county health ordinance has the support of the majority of town officials. Two village boards have voted to oppose the ordinance.

The Environmental Health/Food Ordinance, currently being considered, would give the Kenosha County Health Department the power to order abatement of any public health nuisance, order evacuation of any premises not fit for human habitation and seek a court order for such abatement and correction.

At a Thursday meeting chaired by County Executive John Collins, officials from the towns of Brighton, Bristol, Somers and Wheatland all said they need and want the ordinance passed. Support in the form of a letter was sent by the town of Salem.

The towns of Paris and Randall were not represented at the meeting at the Kenosha County Center. Reached at home later, Paris Town Chairman August Zirbel said he favors the ordinance, but his board has not taken a vote on it.

Randall Town Chairman Laurin Fox said she has no objection to the ordinance and will likely schedule it for discussion and a vote by her board next week.

Paddock Lake Village President Marlene Goodson said she is opposed to the health ordinance.

"The village of Paddock Lake takes care of all of our own nuisances," said Goodson. "I don't see why our citizens should pay for something we already take care of."

Silver Lake Village President Ralph Drinkwine attended the meeting but said he was there to gather information. No position has been taken by the Silver Lake Village Board.

At a Monday meeting, the Twin Lakes Village Board voted to oppose the ordinance. Trustee June Norin said at that meeting the village does not need it because it already has one. Pleasant Prairie also has its own ordinance.

"We've got a problem in towns," said Somers Town Chairman David Holtze. "The state Legislature took away our power to have health officers. They gave the power to the county, and until now the county has ignored it. For towns, it is either the county ordinance or none."

Holtze said a health problem arose in Somers, and he attempted to step in and correct it. "I got sued. The judge told me I don't have the authority."

Collins asked Assistant Corporation Counsel Debra Bursinger if it is possible to enact an ordinance that only affects unincorporated areas and allow villages to keep their own.

Bursinger said there could be problems with such an ordinance because the county has countywide jurisdiction in health matters. "You might have equal protection problems," she said.

Service key to Pfeiffer's success

Good customer relations and word of mouth have contributed to the success of Pfeiffer Sales and Service, 13301 Wilmot Road (Hwy. C) Kenosha.

The business, established in 1985, is owned by Pete and Cheryl Pfeiffer, and is family operated.

Pete Pfeiffer explains that his mechanics, Dan and Mark, as well as himself, talk directly to customers for troubleshooting their problems. Customers can call or stop in to discuss their needs.

Pfeiffer is a Dixon zero turn riding mower dealer. It also sells used Ford tractors and other equipment.

He has new or used parts for older Ford, M.F., I.H.C., A.C. J.D., Oliver, M.M. tractors as well as other equipment. The business also offers service calls, pick up and delivery, small engine repair, tune-ups on lawn and garden equipment, painting, rebuilding hydraulic cylinders, tune up, major overhauls, oil changes, hydraulic and transmission oil changes, welding, clutch work, transmission repairs and rear end work. In addition, Pfeiffer has new tires and wheels and tubes installed and has utility and equipment trailers and hitch accessories.

Pfeiffer also buys old tractors and equipment or sells on consignment.

The business is located one half mile west of Interstate 94 on County Highway C.

No question Bristol needs room

BRISTOL — The question facing the Bristol School Growth Committee is not whether an addition is needed, but how soon it must be built and how big it should be.

William R. Henry, the school's architectural and engineering consultant, told the committee Tuesday his best estimates are that enrollment will go from 449 to 470 next year and to 486 the following year.

Projecting any farther into the future is impossible, he said, because of the possibility that a large developer could come in and build a lot of homes in a short period of time.

Henry said if the school were to add 20,000 square feet of space, it would likely accommodate growth for a five-year period. Adding 37,000 square feet of space would extend that period to 10 years. After that, he said, it is possible growth could slow down.

Options for expansion exist on the east, south and west sides of the school, he said. Building up is not an option because the existing structure was not designed to hold a second story.

School Board President Richard Bizek expressed frustration at the dilemma facing the school district. "How do we project how big we go?" he asked. If a project similar to the Whitecaps development of Kenosha were to be started in Bristol, Bizek said, the community could find itself with 600 or 700 new homes within a matter of months.

While the committee searches for a recommendation it can present to the School Board and ultimately the taxpayers, the School Board Tuesday night took steps to deal with an existing space crunch. The board authorized spending $65,000 to add 1,180 square feet to the cafeteria.

In other business, the board heard the first reading of two proposed policies:

One establishes a walking zone in which students who reside must walk to school. It includes the Bristolwood subdivision immediately west of school and the area bounded by Highway 45 on the east, 205th Avenue on the west, 81st Street on the north and 83rd Street on the south.

The other establishes rules for parents who want their children transported between school and a child-care facility. It requires parents to notify the school of such a request by Aug. 1 of the current school year and stipulates room must be available on an established route and the service must be on a continuous basis.

Report calls for cooperation in managing county's growth

Successful growth management means cooperation.

Can that occur in Kenosha County?

People attending a public hearing Wednesday on the draft report generated by the Community Growth Management Task Force Committee hope it can.

Audrey Van Slochteren, Bristol town chairman, voiced concern at seeing only a few representatives from towns and only one from a village at the hearing, held at the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St.

"I want to make sure that if we are going to cooperate, then we are all going to cooperate," she said.

Van Slochteren said she didn't want to see a plan inflicted on unincorporated municipalities only to find incorporated municipalities are not participating.

"I guess I'm speaking for the towns. You will find us the most cooperative, but we don't want to be the most controlled," she said.

About 12 people attended the hearing on the task force's 53-page report.

A 17-member task force, appointed by County Executive John Collins, working in cooperation with the Planning and Design Institute at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, a consulting firm, and the South Eastern Wisconsin Regional Plan Commission, held numerous public hearings and conducted a county-wide survey to develop the report.

Collins said intergovernmental cooperation is a problem in Kenosha County. The recommendations in the report are not for any one entity to lead growth but for an intergovernmental council to be developed, he said.

"If the current level of animosity and lack of communication continues, it will have a negative impact on what the future of Kenosha County will be," Collins said.

"There are problems in the community between municipalities, and it is evident. Those issues need to be resolved, not for any one municipality, but for the whole community. The recommendation in the report gives municipalities the opportunity to strive toward resolving those issues," Collins said.

Heat causing berries to ripen fast

Picking season shortened

Jeff Thompson prefers an orderly spectrum: green, proceeding to white, followed by pink and, finally, red.

That's the way strawberries should slowly ripen into large, mature, tasty fruit.

But the weather this summer has turned on Thompson, who manages the Thompson Strawberry Farm in Bristol.

The strawberry picking season usually begins in mid-June and lasts about two to three weeks.

Thompson said Tuesday he can't remember a summer when the weather turned so hot, so soon.

"When it's so hot, the berries go from green right to red," he said. "So you get a lot of small berries."

"Other than hail and 15 inches of rain coming down at once, the worst thing for strawberries is 95-degree temperatures and high humidity. And it's hard for anyone to pick strawberries under those conditions.

"Everything is ripening so quickly and we've had no customers."

Thompson's farm at 14000 75th St. grows 55 acres of pick-your-own berries. If the air is too hot and too sticky, berry pickers stay indoors. Berries can rot on plants during what should be the peak picking time in Kenosha County.

Even with a staff of 30 seasonal workers, Thompson doesn't have enough hands to pick strawberries as fast as they're ripening.

"Normally, when the berry turns red, you have four to five to six days to pick it. Under these conditions, after it's turned red you almost have to pick it right away.

"We try to cool the berries by irrigating during the day. When you put moisture out, the berry cools when the moisture evaporates. But then you're creating a moist environment that opens the door to diseases like gray mold."

"Typically, a strawberry prefers to be dry. But if you don't do anything (irrigating) they are like cooking out there in the field."

The Thompson farm historically attracts 8,000 to 9,000 berry pickers from June 15 to July 1. Those fingers usually pluck about 150,000 quarts, which weighs out to about 225,000 pounds.

"It's going to be down by quite a bit," Thompson said. "When the berries are smaller, people don't pick as many."

Greg Lurvey of the Lurvey Pick Your Own farm on Wisconsin 67 near Dousman said the heat had created a boom of pickers during the early morning and late evening hours.

"We're not getting a lot of people in the middle of the day," Lurvey said.

Farmers told to cut fertilizers, tilling

Profitable crop still possible

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Farmers who participated in a field day Tuesday at Bristol Farm Inc., 20811 98th St., saw proof they don't have to rely heavily on potentially harmful nitrogen-based fertilizers and lots of cultivating to produce a profitable crop.

Hosts were farm owners Wilfred and Connie Meier, the Nutrient and Pest Management Program of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and the UW-Extension office for Kenosha and Racine counties.

The score of farmers who attended got to inspect a half dozen 2.5-acre plots, each planted with the same type of corn but managed differently. Some of the corn was grown using no-till and low-till methods, while some was subjected to traditional plowing and cultivating. The test plots are in their fifth year and were planted in corn one year, soybeans the next and so on.

All the corn appeared healthy and well on its way to a good yield. Two years ago when the plots were also planted in corn, yields ranged from 74 bushels per acre for a no-till section to 123 for field-cultivated corn. A second no-till plot in the test yielded 113 bushels per acre, while three plots that were chisel plowed (low-till) produced yields ranging from 105 to 116 bushels per acre.

Last year, the same plots produced soybeans yields ranging from 41 to 54 bushels per acre with both the low and high yields coming from no-till fields. All plots receive the same amount of fertilizers and pesticides. To insure that all nitrogen-based fertilizers are absorbed by the crops and do not leach into the ground water, the Farm experts report on test plantings

Scott Sturgul, left, a nutrient management specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and James Stute, UW Extension agricultural agent for Kenosha and Racine counties, address farmers

Tuesday at a field day at Bristol Farm Inc. Farmers were informed of benefits of no-till and low-till planting and of the reduced use of nitrogen-based fertilizers.

1993 soybean crop was grown without any fertilizer but absorbed nitrogen left over from the previous year.

Meier said he thinks the field test, in the fifth of seven years, is proving the UW agronomists correct.

"They said you need four or five years of no-till farming before the crops do as good as with other methods," he said.

"And it got me to thinking," Meier told his fellow farmers. "How many more acres could I have handled using all no-till methods? It's not how much corn you grow but how much money did you make growing it."

Meier said watching the results over the past five years has sold him on the benefits of no-till and low-till.

Contamination possible

BRISTOL — Experts who addressed farmers Tuesday stressed a common message: for their own sake as well as for others, farmers must continue striving to cut down on the use of nitrogen-based fertilizers.

When nitrogen is over-used, said James Stute, ag agent for Kenosha and Racine counties, "it is like throwing money away." Even more important, he said, such practices can risk contaminating the water that farmers and non-farmers alike depend on for drinking.

Stute called on farmers to "set realistic field goals" and then take nitrogen credits from the government to offset it and a reduction in yield from reducing nitrogen application.

His message was reinforced by Richard Proost, nutrient and pest management regulations agronomist with the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

"Water quality is directly related to what is done to the land," he said. "It is more important to protect our water than to try to fix the problem later."

Scott Sturgul, a nutrient management specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, advised farmers to use newly developed methods for testing soil to determine the amount of nitrogen in it before they apply any more.

Bristol Board upset by unauthorized work

By Joe Van Zandt

6-23-94

BRISTOL — The Town Board Monday night tabled approval of $11,421 in change orders for utility work related to Bristolwood Subdivision after Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren complained that the work was done without the board's prior approval.

The invoices included installation of a fire hydrant, reconstruction of a ditch wall that was eroded by stormwater runoff, connection of a water line to the town's water main, and engineering fees for the work.

"We are getting change orders after the fact, and I don't like it," Van Slochteren said.

Replied Public Works Committee Chairman John Meyer, "We are just tying up loose ends. If you are closing on a house, you would have the same thing."

The board did approve payment of invoices for change orders on two other projects — $943 for additional work on the recycling building to meet state code and $7,062 for work on the public works facility, also to bring it into compliance with the state building code.

In other business, the board voted to have town attorney Cecil Rothrock draft an ordinance spelling out procedures for extending utilities to private property. The vote was 4-1, with Meyer and town supervisors Donald Wienke, Wayne Elide and Mark Miller voting in favor and Van Slochteren casting the vote against it.

Van Slochteren said since attorney Jeffrey Davison is recodifying the town ordinances, it would make sense to also have him draft the ordinance. The other members said since Rothrock is the town attorney, he should draft the ordinance.

The board agreed to have the town of Bristol sponsor a request by the Factory Outlet Centre, 7700 120th Ave., to change the zoning from A1 agricultural preservation and A4 agricultural land holding district to B3 highway business on parts of the center property. Van Slochteren said the changes are warranted to reflect the current use of the property.

The board approved changes in the town's boating and recreation ordinances to eliminate differences between the regulations of Bristol and the neighboring town of Salem. The ordinance will affect Lake George and Lake Shangrila, which lies across both communities. Among topics covered by the ordinance are speed restrictions for boats; placement of buoys, piers and rafts; and regulations dealing with water skiing, swimming and sporting events.

To the Editor: 6-23-94

When I taught American literature, I particularly enjoyed a simple letter written by Benjamin Franklin. This letter is often referred to as "The Whistle Letter" because in it he recalls a time when, as a child, he offered all of his "coppers" to an unscrupulous merchant for a whistle. As he went about the house blowing his whistle, much to the annoyance of his family, they told him that he had paid too much for his "whistle." In the letter, Ben Franklin goes on to relate how people throughout their lives often pay too much for their "whistle."

The examples he gives in his letter may sound old-fashioned or out-dated today. The "whistles" may have changed, but the principle is still timely.

For a moment of sexual gratification that ends in an unwanted pregnancy, an unwanted child, an abortion, hasn't someone "paid too much for the 'whistle'?"

For the momentary "high" brought about by drugs that ends in addiction, arrest, incarceration, hasn't that person "paid too much for the 'whistle'?"

For that "one more for the road" that ends up with a hang-over, an accident, a death, a jail sentence, hasn't someone "paid too much for the 'whistle'?"

For staying out beyond the time established by one's parents that causes one to be grounded, hasn't the price for a few extra minutes or hours been more than the "whistle" was worth?

For spending beyond one's means and ending up in debt and bankruptcy, hasn't that person spent too much for his "whistle"?

If, indeed, O. J. Simpson is guilty as alleged, will he not pay too much for his "whistle"?

"Whistles" vary. Next time you consider doing something questionable, ask yourself if the "whistle" is truly worth the price.

Bristol Rescue Squad policy questioned

"Call 9-1-1!" someone screams. You expect to have your call answered promptly by your local fire and rescue squads. And they do.

But you don't expect to have the injured party transferred to another ambulance because the vehicle has crossed the state line, adding precious moments onto a serious situation.

But that's exactly what happened to Bernard Guntz's wife, Lucienne.

the squad to the hospital.

"Of course," he replied.

Squad members told him not to be alarmed if they pulled over when they reached Highway 173 and Hunt Club Road in Illinois, which they did.

At that point, Lucy was switched to a Newport Township ambulance and transported to the hospital, where she died a few hours later. (Newport billed Guntz $400 for the service.)

Her husband, choked with emotion, told this story to members of the Bristol Town Board June 27. Guntz perhaps they thought that she needed a paramedic."

Richard Bizek, president of the firemen's association, when contacted by telephone, said, "This is one of the first instances we've tried like this, to see how it worked."

He explained that Bristol's rescue squad has approximately 13 emergency medical technicians (EMT) but no paramedics.

"It's hard enough to ask them to put in the time just to become an EMT," he said.

Rescue will now be allowed to have a paramedic from Newport Rescue board the Bristol ambulance, reducing the need for transfer of the patient from one vehicle to another.

Muhlenbeck explained that the rescue squad is under the authority of Kenosha Hospital and Medical Center and St. Catherine's Hospital.

The board did approve payment of invoices for change orders on two other projects — $943 for additional work on the recycling building to meet state code and $7,062 for work on the public works facility, also to bring it into compliance with the state building code.

In other business, the board voted to have town attorney Cecil Rothrock draft an ordinance spelling out procedures for extending utilities to private property. The vote was 4-1, with Meyer and town supervisors Donald Wienke, Wayne Eide and Mark Miller voting in favor and Van Slochteren casting the vote against it.

Van Slochteren said since attorney Jeffrey Davison is recodifying the town ordinances, it

The board approved changes in the town's boating and recreation ordinances to eliminate differences between the regulations of Bristol and the neighboring town of Salem. The ordinance will affect Lake George and Lake Shangrila, which lies across both communities. Among topics covered by the ordinance are speed restrictions for boats; placement of buoys, piers and rafts; and regulations dealing with water skiing, swimming and sporting events.

"Call 9-1-1!" someone screams. You expect to have your call answered promptly by your local fire and rescue squads. And they do.

But you don't expect to have the injured party transferred to another ambulance because the vehicle has crossed the state line, adding precious moments onto a serious situation.

But that's exactly what happened to Bernard Gunty's wife, Lucienne.

Former Bristol town supervisor, Bernie, and his wife, Lucy, are well known in their community of Lake Shangri-La.

When Lucy became gravely ill, Bernie called 9-1-1. He questioned the dispatcher, asking if the Bristol Rescue Squad would transport Lucy to Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan, Ill. He explained that his wife's doctor was waiting in the emergency room for Lucy. He was assured they would.

When the rescue squad arrived, standard procedure was performed. Bernie was asked if he would follow the squad to the hospital.

"Of course," he replied.

Squad members told him not to be alarmed if they pulled over when they reached Highway 173 and Hunt Club Road in Illinois, which they did.

At that point, Lucy was switched to a Newport Township ambulance and transported to the hospital, where she died a few hours later. (Newport billed Gunty $400 for the service.)

Her husband, choked with emotion, told this story to members of the Bristol Town Board June 27. Gunty complimented the rescue squad for their volunteered efforts, but questioned the transportation procedures.

Gunty told the board he wasn't sure if the extra time would have saved his wife's life but it could make a difference for someone else.

"If we're paying taxes, why can't we pay someone to go all the way to the hospital?" he asked the board. "A dog would be better treated than my wife. I think this was wrong. I'd like to see the policy changed."

"This is just a guess," chairman Audrey Van Slochteren offered, "but perhaps they thought that she needed a paramedic."

Richard Bizek, president of the firemen's association, when contacted by telephone, said, "This is one of the first instances we've tried like this, to see how it worked."

He explained that Bristol's rescue squad has approximately 13 emergency medical technicians (EMT) but no paramedics.

"It's hard enough to ask them to put in the time just to become an EMT," he said.

In an out-of-state transport case, they will directly transport to a Waukegan hospital, but, "When we feel we need a paramedic, we use them. They can get more advanced care in case of cardiac trouble. A paramedic can administer drugs," Bizek said.

Fire Chief Scott Muhlenbeck added, "We do transport directly. Medical control advised us, because of her condition. We have an agreement to intercept. We transferred to a higher level of care."

According to a letter from Newport Chief Mark Kirschhoffer, Bristol

Rescue will now be allowed to have a paramedic from Newport Rescue board the Bristol ambulance, reducing the need for transfer of the patient from one vehicle to another.

Muhlenbeck explained that the rescue squad is under the authority of Kenosha Hospital and Medical Center and St. Catherine's Hospital.

"They allow us to function as we do," he said. "It's not our policy to change."

Van Slochteren and Supervisor Don Wienke agreed to look into the situation.

Plan commission: Leonard Schlager was appointed to the planning commission on a unanimous vote.

Expenditures: Change order charges on the recycling building and public works facility were approved, costing $943 and $7,062, respectively.

A charge of $11,421 for utility work at Bristolwood subdivision was tabled.

Van Slochteren explained that she was tired of "getting change orders after the fact and I don't like it."

Farmers told to cut fertilizers, tilling

Profitable crop still possible

BRISTOL — Farmers who participated in a field day Tuesday at Bristol Farm Inc., 20811 98th St., saw proof they don't have to rely heavily on potentially harmful nitrogen-based fertilizers and lots of cultivating to produce a profitable crop.

Hosts were farm owners Wilfred and Connie Meier, the Nutrient and Pest Management Program of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and the UW-Extension office for Kenosha and Racine counties.

The score of farmers who attended got to inspect a half dozen 2.5-acre plots, each planted with the same type of corn but managed differently. Some of the corn was grown using no-till and low-till methods, while some was subjected to traditional plowing and cultivating. The test plots are in their fifth year and were planted in corn one year, soybeans the next and so on.

All the corn appeared healthy and well on its way to a good yield. Two years ago when the plots were also planted in corn, yields ranged from 74 bushels per acre for a no-till section to 123 for field-cultivated corn. A second no-till plot in the test yielded 113 bushels per acre, while three plots that were chisel plowed (low-till) produced yields ranging from 105 to 116 bushels per acre.

Last year, the same plots produced soybeans yields ranging from 41 to 54 bushels per acre with both the low and high yields coming from no-till fields. All plots receive the same amount of fertilizers and pesticides. To insure that all nitrogen-based fertilizers are absorbed by the crops and do not leach into the ground water, the

Tuesday at a field day at Bristol Farm Inc. Farmers were informed of benefits of no-till and low-till planting and of the reduced use of nitrogen-based fertilizers.

1993 soybean crop was grown without any fertilizer but absorbed nitrogen left over from the previous year.

Meier said he thinks the field test, in the fifth of seven years, is proving the UW agronomists correct.

"They said you need four or five years of no-till farming before the crops do as good as with other methods," he said.

"And it got me to thinking," Meier told his fellow farmers. "How many more acres could I have handled using all no-till methods? It's not how much corn you grow but how much money did you make growing it."

Meier said watching the results over the past five years has sold him on the benefits of no-till and low-till.

Contamination possible

BRISTOL — Experts who addressed farmers Tuesday stressed a common message: for their own sake as well as for others, farmers must continue striving to cut down on the use of nitrogen-based fertilizers.

When nitrogen is over-used, said James Stute, ag agent for Kenosha and Racine counties, "it is like throwing money away." Even more important, he said, such practices can risk contaminating the water that farmers and non-farmers alike depend on for drinking.

Stute called on farmers to "set realistic field goals" and then take nitrogen credits from the government to offset it and a reduction in yield from reducing nitrogen application.

His message was reinforced by Richard Proost, nutrient and pest management regulations agronomist with the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

"Water quality is directly related to what is done to the land," he said. "It is more important to protect our water than to try to fix the problem later."

Scott Sturgul, a nutrient management specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, advised farmers to use newly developed methods for testing soil to determine the amount of nitrogen in it before they apply any more.

Foulke made the games after a three-day tryout. Forty-eight women were picked from a field of 100 for the four teams.

BRISTOL — The 25th annual Bristol Progress Days Parade will start at 12:30 p.m. Sunday. The parade will assemble on the grounds at Bristol Grade School, 20121 83rd St., and proceed through the village.

Parade entries will be accepted until noon Sunday. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Participants are asked to allow at least two car lengths between units in the parade and to display entry numbers on the left side for the reviewing stand.

No alcoholic beverages are permitted while marching or riding in the parade, and campaigning for political office is not allowed while riding in the parade.

Candy may be tossed underhand to parade-watchers so it lands off the pavement. Candy may not be thrown from enclosed moving vehicles.

Fire departments are requested to sound only air horns and bells.

Vandalism reported

Bristol officials are seeking information about a vandalism incident that happened about 1 a.m. Tuesday.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said an witness reported seeing a blue or turquoise Suzuki Samurai drive across the wet grass at Bristol School, 20121 83rd St., tearing up the sod.

BRISTOL — Fire Chief Scott Muhlenbeck announced Tuesday the burning ban in the town of Bristol has been lifted.

The area has had enough rain to lift the ban, at least temporarily, said Muhlenbeck.

The existing 125th Avenue runs along the west side of the Taste of Wisconsin Restaurant, then takes a sharp left turn toward the Factory Outlet Centre. The new proposal would see the street continue south behind the shopping center, then curve toward I-94.

Besides 125th, the proposal includes another north-south street, about four blocks to the west, and an east-west street between highways K and 50.

Town planner Patrick Meehan urged the commission to adopt the proposal.

"Without a plan for collector streets, we have no rationale for telling developers where we want new structures to go," he said. "It's very important from a public policy standpoint to get this in place."

"Once again, we're trying to correct a situation we've been stuck with," said Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren.

The proposal is not expected to result in any immediate changes. Rather, it is a blueprint for future development.

- A ring of the intercom buzzer goes unanswered. Lights are on in the house.
- Fuhrman says a white Ford Bronco, parked haphazardly outside the estate, has a speck of blood on the driver's side door handle. He asks Vannatter to inspect the Bronco.
- Vannatter calls for a criminalist and decides to go over the wall. Fuhrman scales the 5-foot wall and unlocks the gate for the others.
- Detectives ring the bell at the front door; there is no answer. At about 5:30 a.m., they knock at the doors of houseguest Brian Kaelin and Simpson's daughter Amelle, 25. Amelle admits the detectives and tries to locate her father by telephone.
- Kaelin tells detectives he heard a thumping noise the previous night. Between 6 and 6:15 a.m., Fuhrman goes to a backyard path to investigate and discovers a bloody right-handed brown leather glove, which matches a left-handed glove found at the murder scene. Over the next 40 minutes, he calls the other detectives back one by one to examine it.
- Vannatter returns to the front of the house; dawn has broken. He sees drops of blood leading from the Bronco to the front door of the house.

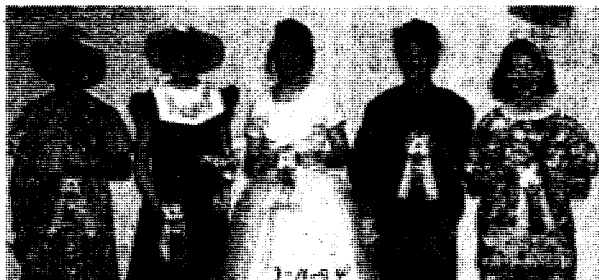

Soon, Amelle picks up Simpson's youngest children from police custody. At about 7 a.m., Vannatter instructs officers to secure a search warrant for the residence, and the house is officially deemed a crime scene.

Bristol readies 25th Progress Days fest

Celebration begins Friday

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 7-5-94

"Bristol: 25th Year of Progress Days" is the theme of the 1994 Progress Days celebration July 8, 9 and 10.

Festivities will start Friday with the annual dinner dance at Bristol Oaks Country Club. A 7 o'clock dinner will be followed by the crowning of the 1994 Miss Bristol and announcement of the Outstanding Man and Woman.

Dancing will start at 9 p.m. to the music of Nite Shift. Tickets, at $10 each, are available at the Bristol Town Hall or by contacting Kim Scheckel, 857-9403. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Friday evening also marks the beginning of the Open Men's Fast Pitch Softball Tournament in which 16 teams will play. Games will start at 6 p.m. at Hansen Park and Brighton School. More information about the tournament may be obtained from Ralph Myers, 857-7254.

The Saturday schedule will include more softball at both the Bristol and Brighton diamonds.

Carnival rides and amusements will start at the Hansen Park grounds at 10 a.m. with three major rides — Ferris Wheel, Scrabble and Tilt-a-Wheel. The carnival will also feature five rides especially designed for children.

On Saturday, children may purchase a special bracelet for $7 that is good for unlimited rides during a five-hour period.

Volleyball tournaments will be at 10 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Celebration suggested by Wienke

When Bristol Progress Days started in 1970, it was a one-day celebration.

It came about at the suggestion of Don Wienke, now a town supervisor, who was then a member of the town recreation committee.

Wienke told then town chairman Earl Hollister he thought Bristol should have a community picnic. Hollister liked the idea but said it must include the entire community.

Sunday, July 5, 1970, was chosen and the recreation committee was put in charge.

Charlie Ling was chairman of the parade and Mrs. Alvin Houtsinger won a prize for suggesting the name Bristol Progress Days.

The Traveling Medicine Show, starring Doctor Morrissey, will be presented three times on Saturday and Sunday.

Other Saturday activities will include a car race for children at 11 a.m. with trophies awarded to the winners.

Prizes will be awarded to anyone dressed as a clown for the circus theme show, also at 11 a.m.

Free clown face painting and free balloons will also be available for children.

All arts and craft entries are to be brought to the Arts and Crafts tent between 8 and 10 a.m. Saturday. There is no limit on the number of items that may be entered by an individual.

Judging will begin at 10:30 a.m. and is closed to the public. A grand prize ribbon and savings bond will be awarded to one art entry and one craft entry.

Cookie judging will be at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Arts and Crafts tent. The category this year is Fancy Party Cookies. Participants are asked to bring six cookies on a plate to the tent between 8 and 10 a.m. All ages are encouraged to enter.

Saturday's schedule will conclude with dancing to the music of a disc jockey from Big Fun Entertainment from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m., sponsored by the Bristol Volunteer Fireman's Association.

The main event Sunday will be the Progress Days Parade at 12:30 p.m. Parade awards will be handed out at 3:30 p.m.

A lip sync contest is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday in the Arts and Crafts tent. The contest is open to children ages 5 to 16. The only requirement is that children bring their favorite song on tape. A tape player will be provided.

Participants may pre-register for the lip sync contest by calling 857-2758 or 857-2873 by Friday, or registering at the Arts and Crafts tent between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday, or by noon on Sunday.

A horseshoe pitching contest is at 2 p.m. Sunday. Registration is between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Contestants must pay $3 and use their own shoes.

The tournament is open to the first 32 people to register.

Miss Bristol crowning begins Progress Days Celebration

By C.J. Holl
For the Bulletin

The 25th anniversary Bristol Progress days started off with the crowning of a new Miss Bristol July 8 at the Bristol Oaks Country Club.

Tracy Easton, 16 was crowned by Kimberly Carroll, the 1993 Miss Bristol.

"I wasn't expecting it at all," said Easton. "I just went out for the fun of it, just to get the experience."

"After the first two, I wasn't expecting it at all, I thought that I would go out again next year. I was very surprised," said Easton. The other two Easton refers to are first runner up Jennifer Backstrand and second runner up Amy Christopherson who were announced prior to the crowning of Miss Bristol.

Easton was the youngest competitor of the eight contestants and is a junior at Central High School. At Central, she is active in volleyball, cheerleading, softball, the Student Council, Spanish Club and Peer Helpers.

Easton also is a member of Central Swing, Inc. and her church choir. She was the eighth grade student of the year and has earned an American Legion Award.

As Miss Bristol, Easton will represent the community at local events and donate her time raising money for charities. She will also be back next summer to crown the 1995 Miss Bristol.

Future plans for the newest Miss Bristol, see her attending college where she would like to study marine biology or possibly physical therapy. She also is interested in education.

The 1993 Miss Bristol, Carroll, spoke before the coronation and offered her thoughts on her term as Miss Bristol.

"It was a very busy year, but I enjoyed every bit of it. It is an honor that I'll remember for the rest of my life. I have had the opportunity to work with many in the community," said Carroll.

Among her official duties as Miss Bristol, Carroll helped open Bank One of Bristol, participated in the first and second annual Children's Parade in Paddock Lake and crowned the 1993 Kenosha County Fair Queen.

Carroll was involved in many volunteer duties including helping a women's shelter in Waukesha, donating time to an adult literacy program and working with underprivileged children.

"I have been able to do extensive volunteer work. The most fun of all the activities I got to do was help create a Christmas Wonderland for underprivileged children in Waukesha," said Carroll.

Carroll praised the local contest for the quality of the women it selects to represent the community.

"Our contest not only looks for a young lady of outer beauty, but one of inner beauty and strength of character as well," said Carroll.

"Miss Bristols are clearly unique. They are leaders. They are strong young women with determination and fantastic accomplishments," said Carroll.

Carroll will compete for the 1994 Kenosha County Fair Queen crown and is currently majoring in communications and business administration at Carol College. She also is preparing herself for the law school entrance exam as she would like to become an attorney.

The judges for the Miss Bristol contest were Bruce Andrekus, Ann Kmiecik and Gail Petersen. They praised all the contestants for the way they handled themselves during the judging process, but singled out Easton as one who stood above the rest.

"We basically had a format of questions and she handled herself maturely and she handled the questions well," said Kmiecik. "She had the most poise and confidence."

The first runner up was Jennifer Backstrand, 17, a 1994 graduate of Central who is off this fall to attend Oregon State University where she will major in drama.

While at Central, Backstrand was active in gymnastics, pom poms, French club, student council and was a member of the prom court. Backstrand also received awards from the booster club and a student council scholarship award.

The second runner up was Amy Christopherson, 18, also a 1994 graduate of Central. In the fall, Christopherson will attend the University of Wisconsin-Platteville and plans on majoring in business administration.

While at Central,

Christopherson was involved in track and field, and Junior Achievement. She was chosen by her teachers to visit Salem Grade School to teach fifth graders basic business concepts as part of her Junior Achievement activities. In her spare time, Christopherson likes to run and bike.

The annual event also featured a dinner and dance as well as the announcement of the "Outstanding Man and Woman" for 1994. Taking those honors were Wilfred Meier and Eleanor Chapman.

Meier is very active in the community. He has served on the board of education, is a steward of his church and is a director for the Kenosha County Fair. He also is very active in county 4-H activities.

"I am too shocked to speak," Meier said when asked to say a few words. "It is really an honor," he finally said. Meier went on to thank many in the community who have supported him.

Meier has served on numerous committees including the Wisconsin Electric Citizen Advisory Committee, the Kenosha County Drainage Board and Rep. Les Aspin's Agricultural Advisory Committee.

"Our community has benefited greatly by this outstanding man," said Mike Nelson, master of ceremonies.

Chapman, who was named the Outstanding Woman, also is very active in the community. She was a teacher and principal in the Bristol schools for 23 years. In 1987, she was named to the Teacher Hall of Fame. She also is a member of the Retired Teachers Organization.

Chapman's community activities include chairperson of the Christian Women's Club, the Township Planning committee and is a 4-H leader in Bristol. She also walks the local malls for exercise and serves the homeless in area soup kitchens.

"I had no idea this was going to happen. I was wondering why so many of my former students were here," said Chapman after receiving her award.

Also attending the event were several past Miss Bristols as well as past Outstanding Persons. State Rep. Cloyd Porter, state Sen. Joseph Andrea and Kenosha County Sheriff Alan Kehl was also present for the festivities.

Bristol Progress Days also featured many other activities held at Hansen Memorial Park including a volleyball tournament, a fast pitch softball tournament, a carnival, arts and crafts tent, cookie judging, a parade, dancing and fireworks to cap off the weekend event held July 8-10.

Bristol's annual Progress Days was another big success from the looks of it.

Attendance for the parade on Sunday was great, with most of the whole route lined on both sides.

The parade itself also was well populated with a variety of interesting units. It was surely one of the better parades I've seen in the area.

Of course it probably was less popular with those people who were trapped for considerable periods on Highway 45 while the parade crossed. I

Hey the way I figure it, anyone happening on a parade as good as the Progress Days one should just sit back, enjoy it passing by and count their blessings.

I think there were only enough breaks in the parade to let traffic pass about two, maybe three times at most. That speaks to great pacing for the parade, but not so great waiting times for those just passing through Bristol on July 10.

While at Progress Days, I checked out the memorabilia tent. I found it very interesting and full of great historical artifacts, from yardsticks and calendars to literally walls of photos.

Take a look at it next year if you get the chance. Because it is a tent, it made a great place to cool off a little in the shade. And you can get some history at the same time.

The parade itself also was well populated with a variety of interesting units. It was surely one of the better parades I've seen in the area. Of course it probably was

Take a look at it next year if you get the chance. Because it is a tent, it made a great place to cool off a little in the shade. And you can get some history at the same time.

Parade, contest awards for Progress Days announced

Bristol Progress Days celebrated it's 25th year of the event July 8-10 with great attendance.

"There were thousands of people," said Marian Ling, one of the coordinators of the event.

There were quite a variety of things to do at Progress Days including: a horseshoe tournament, a lip sync contest, arts and crafts competitions, party cookie baking contest and a poster contest.

The first place winner in the horseshoe tournament was Glen Schnider, second place Dick Muhlenbeck, third place Gary Glover and fourth place Harry Nelson.

The lip sync contest was something new for children to participate in. Steffanie Davies took first place performing "Pink Shoe Laces." Mike Nelson and Courtney Meyers took second performing "The Whole New World." Becky Riegert took third place performing "A Thousand Stars in the Sky."

The Grand Champion for arts was Dottie Kozak and the Grand Champion for crafts was Kim Scheckel.

The party cookie competition was dominated by a family. LorRain Davies received the Grand Champion Award for her Mazapan Cookies. LorRain's daughter Claire Davies took first place with Mint Puffs, and her other daughter, Steffanie Davies, took second with Cream Wafers. Third place was won by Cathy Zarovy for her Fanciful Raspberry Ribbons.

The theme for the poster contest was "25 Years of Progress Days." The Grand Champion for the poster contest was Steffanie Davies. Claire Davies took first place, Amanda Weis took second and Becky Riegert took third.

Prizes also were awarded in ten different areas from the parade that took place on July 10.

The Outstanding Lighthouse Brigade from Racine won the outstanding band award, receiving a trophy.

Special Merit Awards were received by CYO Band from Kenosha and Lake Band Cadets from Milwaukee.

The first place non-musical marching unit award was received by Cub Scout Troop 328, Salem; second place was received by the Factory Outlet Mall Walkers, Bristol; and third place was received by International Order of Jobs Daughters, Bethel 79 Walking Unit, Bristol.

In the floats division, the Salem Pioneers 4-H took first place along with the Outstanding Float award, for which they received the Town Chairman's Trophy. The Wheatland Willing Workers 4-H took second place and the Slades Corners Lucky Clover 4-H took third place.

In the Civic division, a 1931 Model A Ford postal truck entered by the Bristol office, took first place. Tom Wood's Military Vehicles took second and the Bristol Grade School Board took third.

In the Commercial division, the Kenosha Ice Arena took first place; Happy Acres Campground, Paris, took second place and the '50s and '60s float took third place.

The Bristol Clowns received an award in the novelty area. Stephanie Battles received the Pony Western Award. Linda Weidner received a first place award for Horse Costume, and Corey Dubey received a second place award.

In the Horse Western division, Heather Grochops received first place, Terrie Kinnie received second place and Mike Nelson received third.

In the Senior Card division, Glen Gillmore received first place, Dan Molgaard received second place, and Jim and Mary Norgaard received third place.

All award winners in the parade received ribbons. All winners also received prize money with the exception of the commercial division.

(Clockwise from top right) Judy Warner of Paddock Lake looked over some of the historical photos in the memorabilia tent. It contained over 300 pictures of old Bristol and other items of historical interest. This 4-H group's float saluted the 25th anniversary of Progress Days with a birthday cake. The parade route, which started at Bristol School and went north then west across Highway 45, then south to Hansen Park, where the reviewing stand and judges were located, may have been a tough walk for some. But not so for these hardy individuals, the Factory Outlet Centre Mail-Walkers. Outstanding Man of the year Wilfred Meier and Outstanding Woman of the Year Eleanor Chapman served as honorary parade marshals. School planners consider junior high

Construction of new school possible

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL - The Long-Range Planning Committee of the Salem Grade School Board is asking school boards of neighboring communities whether they would be interested in pooling resources to build a junior high school.

In a report at Tuesday night's meeting of the Bristol Grade School Board, Administrator Gale Ryczek said the possibility of a joint venture in building a junior high school was broached in a letter from Salem School Board member Stephen Jensen, who heads that school's Long-Range Planning Committee.

In part, the letter stated that a combined junior high school that would serve all feeder grade schools for Westosha Central High School is one of several options for handling the anticipated growth in enrollment that the Salem committee is investigating.

It asked for area school boards to inform it of previous discussions on the subject and to express current feelings on the idea.

In other business, the board approved a proposed budget and tax levy for presentation to electors at the annual school district meeting July 25.

Proposed expenditures for the 1994-95 school year total $2,509,954, which is 5.17 percent higher than for the 1993-94 school year. The tax levy, set at $2,327,706, is $86,000 higher than for 1993-94, Ryczek said.

However, because the total valuation of the school district is continuing to grow, the tax rate for next year will be $9.79 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. That is 51 cents lower than for 1993-94, Ryczek said.

The budget reflects spending to the limits allowed by the state formula. Still, Ryczek said, the budget includes money for such important expenditures as purchase of a file server for the computer lab, replacement of old doors, purchase of new science textbooks, update or replacement of the public address system, and purchase of computer software, audio-video materials, library books and equipment for the music department.

The budget also allows for blacktopping the parking lot, upgrading the building's heating and cooling system, paying architects' fees for planning an addition, installing sidewalks, rerouting water runoff from the building, and painting the new addition to the cafeteria.

Ryczek said work on the addition is on schedule. The foundation is in place and the walls currently going up. He said the work will be completed before the start of the fall semester.

Bristol School offers look at expansion options

By Jeanie Lindstrom

Stop in and take a look at what could be the future of Bristol School, 20121 83rd St.

Members of the Bristol School Building Utilization Committee, Board of Education members and administration were given a set of three drawings by architects William Henry and Associates, Elkhorn. The proposals range from $1.9 million to $3.1 million.

The committee, consisting of volunteer community members, was originally formed to discuss plans for the overcrowded school. Henry and Associates was contracted to do a feasibility study of the building and present options.

The three architects' renderings are available for the public's view in the school office, where questions will be answered and comments will be considered by the committee.

The next committee meeting will be Wednesday, July 13, at 7 p.m. Meetings are open to the public.

Citizens are encouraged to view the plans, attend committee meetings and attend the upcoming open house regarding the building's future, Monday, July 25, from 5 to 8 p.m. The annual meeting will follow at 8 p.m.

Walter pitches Lake Region to win

By Dave Stoxen

Pitcher Dan Walter's complete game, four-hit, nine-strike out performance was the key ingredient to the Lake Region 16-year-old team's 5-1 win over Lake Geneva, July 5, at Central High School.

It was better late than never for Lake Region, as it took awhile for them to get their motors running. Lake Geneva jumped out on top in the first inning when Walter had a little trouble with his control. He walked two batters after two were out and then was hurt by an RBI single.

It stayed 1-0 until the bottom of the fourth, when Lake Region came roaring back. They tied the score in the fourth on a base hit by Brett Eisenhauer and an RBI single by Jason Fugett.

They added three runs in the fifth inning on a lead-off double by Walter, a run-scoring single by Jim Brenner, a walk to Dave Derler, and a two-run double by Eisenhauer.

They sealed the win with a run in the sixth on a single by Chris Fox and a run-scoring single by Walter.

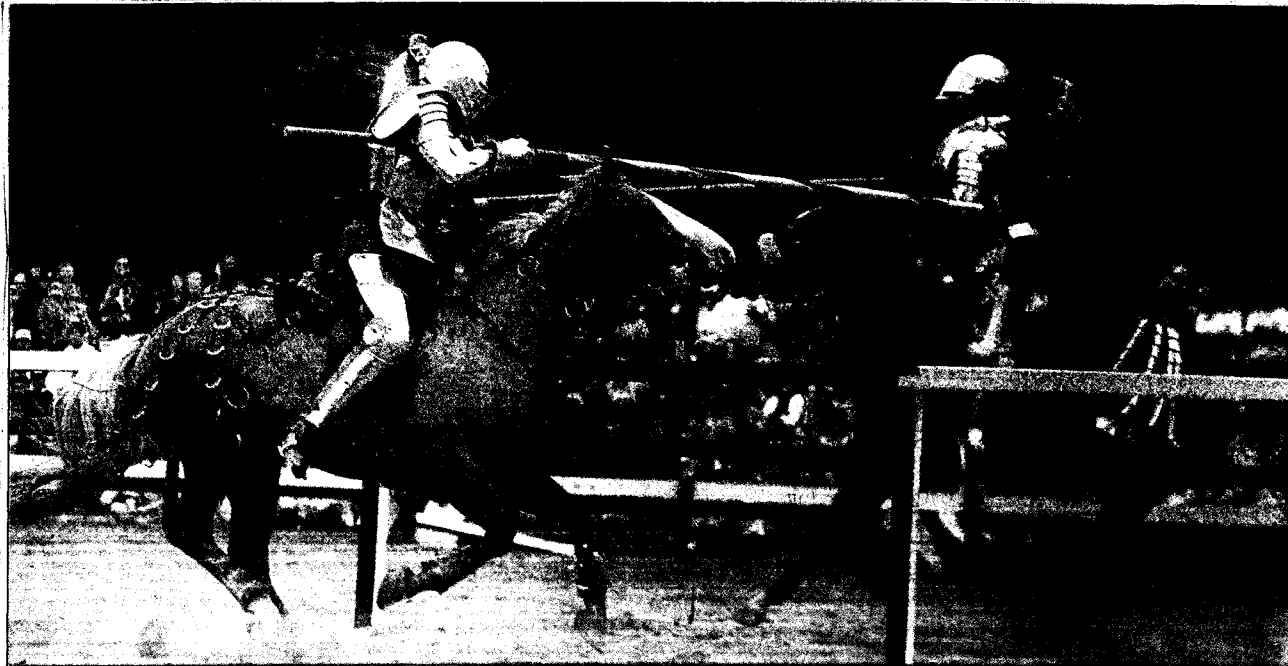

Eisenhauer and Walter each had two hits to lead Lake Region. Walter ran his record to 3-0, while Lake Region improved to 9-3.

Competitors in the jousting contest clash after racing at each other

It was joust one of those things ...

By Patrik Vander Velden

BRISTOL - Now in its seventh year the Bristol Renaissance Faire is open rain or shine Saturday and Sunday until August 21.

Queen Elizabeth I conducts a knight-ing ceremony each afternoon for the children. Each child receives a written proclamation from the queen who reigned England from 1558 to 1603.

Queen Elizabeth revived jousting among knights as a display of power and pageantry, said Sir Matthew of Windsor. For the armored knights who found themselves unemployed warriors because gunpowder made them obsolete the tournament "was a way to get political prestige, as well as make a living," said Sir Matthew, (Matthew Mansour).

Part entertainment, the jousts include exploding shields and breast plates to please the crowds. As in other Renaissance art forms English artisans learned armor skills from Italian artists and tried to better them, said Sir Matthew.

Located at 12420 128th St. admission is $12.95 for adults; $5.95 for children age five to 12; adults 55 years and older, $11.95; student discount with I D card, $11.95 and season pass, $60. Children under five are free and group rates are available but must be arranged in advance.

The hours are from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m..

Sixty different food shops and pubs feature roasted corn, turkey legs, dragon wings, stuffed chiles, monkey tails, and Polish sausage.

Mother Goose, Mistress Mary and her magical flower garden return again with Judith the Queen's royal storyteller and director of Kids Kingdom.

The fair also has over 160 artisans making hand-crafted goods, including silver and gold jewelry, pottery and stained glass.

Corn crop bringing smiles

7-14-94

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

After seeing their crops damaged in recent years by drought, floods and storms, farmers finally have something to smile about.

According to best estimates, this year's corn planting in Kenosha County is shaping up as a bumper crop, and if the excellent growing weather continues, farmers could bring in a record harvest.

Mary Zinser, wife of Brighton dairyman Ernest Zinser, highways X and 142, said their corn crop is in great shape.

"They say corn should be knee high by the Fourth of July, but ours was waist high or higher," she said.

The only problem was that some of the corn came up sparsely and that she attributed to chisel plowing and a dry spring.

The situation east of I-94 is also excellent, according to Somers cash grain farmer Charles Tunkleicz, 8410 60th St.

"Some of our corn is six feet high already," he said, "while normally it would be around four feet high right now."

Within the next few weeks, it should reach its maximum height of around eight feet.

"When corn grows fast, it produces a better yield," Tunkleicz said, "especially when conditions are the best, which is hot and humid weather."

Tunkleicz said he began planting corn April 20, which is the earliest ever for him.

"The land was nice and dry so we got going," he said.

If all goes as expected, the harvest will begin in October, that is, barring an early frost or hail, either of which could damage the corn.

Bristol vote split on tatoo studio

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren went against the other Town Board members in voting on two controversial matters Monday night.

They involved:

■ A request for a conditional-use permit to allow the operation of a dermographic (tatoo) studio and T-shirt shop.

■ A proposal from Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer Associates, town engineers, to allow the firm to conduct a feasibility study on running a sewer line from the I-94 and Highway 50 business district west to the Bristol sewage treatment plant.

Van Slochteren acknowledged that the Bristol Plan Commission had recommended against allowing the dermographic studio, stating its location at 9416 120th Ave., between two adult book stores on the west I-94 frontage road, is a bad one and would add to the negative impression people get when entering the town.

However, she added, the property is zoned B3 (highway commercial) and all the agent is seeking is a conditional-use permit.

Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman

Whether one approves or disapproves of so-called tatoo parlors, Van Slochteren said, "we were not elected to legislate morality. I don't think we have the right to legislate morality."

Town Supervisor John Meyer said, "This board was elected to make decisions."

The townspeople are overwhelmingly opposed to allowing the proposed business to operate, he added.

Dale Cole, 8926 38th Ave., who plans to operate the business, said tatoos are no longer outside the mainstream of society, and lots of nice, decent people are getting tatoos. He called the decorations "an art form" and said it is time to stop viewing them as something offensive and anti-social.

As for his plans to sell custom-printed T-shirts, Cole said he anticipates that most of his customers will be corporations. He said the T-shirts would not be vulgar or obscene. As for concerns about his plans to keep the shop open until 10 p.m. nightly, he said that his hours are flexible and he would be willing to close earlier.

Meyer and supervisors Donald Wienke, Wayne Eide and Mark Miller voted against issuing a conditional-use permit, while Van Slochteren voted in favor.

On the question of whether to spend $6,000 for a study to determine the feasibility of running a sewer line west to the town treatment plant, Van Slochteren was the lone opponent.

"It will be like throwing money down a rat hole," she said, pointing out that the state Department of Natural Resources has stated unequivocally that it will not allow the town to connect the businesses at I-94 and Highway 50 to its own sewer system.

"A study made by the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and DNR shows it is more cost-effective to run the sewer east a mile (to the Kenosha sewer system)," she said. "Our engineers tried to show it would be better to run the sewage west but were unsuccessful. Spending $6,000 on something the DNR won't allow is simply wasting $6,000."

Again, Meyer took the opposite position. "We should do everything possible before annexation (by Kenosha) occurs," he said, "to let the town stand on its own two feet. We need to defend our borders."

Voting in favor of the feasibility study were Meyer, Miller, Wienke and Eide, with Van Slochteren casting the dissenting vote.

COURT REPORT

7-20-94
■ Ronald F. Roberts, 57, 8558 184th Ave., Bristol, remains in jail in lieu of $31,000 cash bond after an initial appearance Tuesday.

The appearance on two counts of threats to injure, battery, disorderly conduct and resisting an officer was adjourned until Thursday.

Roberts allegedly became violent and threatened to kill a woman and two others at his home on June 19. He reportedly propped guns up in windows and locked himself in the basement with a cooler full of beer.

The proceeding was adjourned so information could be obtained on an incident June 22 at Bank One in Bristol. Roberts is accused of battery to a police officer and disorderly conduct for ripping an officer's shirt, trying to hit several officers and shouting obscenities.

7-22-94
■ Kenneth J. Riedl, 32, Woodridge, Ill., had a continued initial appearance Wednesday on charges of burglary and theft adjourned until July 29 to allow him time to hire an attorney.

He posted a $2,500 cash bond. Riedl is accused of taking $4,500 of golf clubs and two golf bags from the golf shop at Bristol Oaks Country Club Sunday afternoon.

7-23-94
■ Ronald Roberts, 57, 8558 184th Ave., Bristol, had a continued initial appearance Thursday on two counts of threats to injure, two counts of battery, two counts of disorderly conduct, resisting an officer, and bail jumping.

Court Commissioner Jon Mason set a $75,000 cash bond, which Roberts hasn't posted.

Roberts allegedly threatened to kill a woman and two others on June 19, propped guns up in windows of his home and locked himself in the basement with a cooler of beer.

On June 22, he ripped a police officer's shirt and tried to hit officers as they attempted to arrest him for disorderly conduct at Bank One in Bristol.

Roberts posted a $31,000 cash bond Wednesday and met a friend in a bar. Sheriff's deputies arrested him hiding in the bushes outside of the home of the woman he'd threatened.

Mason scheduled a preliminary hearing Friday and ordered a competency evaluation at Mendota Mental Health Institute.

Bristol Fire Department changes rescue squad policy

By Diane Jahnke 7-18-94

The Bristol Fire Department Rescue Squad policy was revised following questions raised at the last Bristol Town Board meeting.

Supervisor Don Wienke, commenting on the fire department report at the July 11 meeting, stated that patients will no longer be transferred to another rescue unit when crossing the state line.

The issue was raised by Lake Shangri-La resident Bernard Gunty at the June 27 meeting. He spoke of the procedure that followed after calling 9-1-1 when his wife, Lucienne, became ill.

He asked if the Bristol Rescue Squad could transport her to Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan, Ill., where her doctor would be waiting.

The Bristol squad arrived and transported Lucy to Highway 173 and Hunt Club Road in Illinois, where she was switched to a Newport township rescue squad and transported to the hospital. She died there several hours later.

Gunty was not sure if his wife could have been saved had the time spent during the transfer been eliminated. However, he said the extra time could make a difference for somebody else.

Wienke told the board this procedure will no longer occur. He explained how the mutual aid box alarm system works and how units respond with the equipment needed to cover each rescue vehicle.

From now on, Wienke said, "Instead of transferring patients from squad to squad, at the connecting point (emergency medical technicians) will come on our squad with the equipment" necessary for treatment.

Tractor fire burns Bristol man

7-19-94
A Bristol man was taken to Kenosha Hospital and Medical Center to be treated for burns after an engine he was working on caught fire Monday afternoon at Pfeiffer Sales and Service.

According to police reports, Chris Kordecki, 13301 Wilmot Road, received burns to his arm when a spark ignited the engine of the tractor. Kordecki was treated for his injuries and released.

New Bristol roads

7-19-94
BRISTOL — Plans for Bristol collector streets are shown as adopted recently by the Bristol Plan Commission.

The proposal calls for 125th Avenue to run south from Highway K, parallel to I-94, then curve slightly eastward to join existing 125th near Perkins Restaurant on Highway 50.

Existing 125th, which continues along the west side of Taste of Wisconsin Restaurant, takes a sharp turn toward the Factory Outlet Centre, but the proposal is for 125th to continue south behind the shopping center and then curve east toward I-94.

Another north-south street is proposed about four blocks the west of 125th as well as an east-west street between K and 50.

Bristol denies permit for tattoo parlor along I-94

By Diane Jahnke 7-18-94
Following a recommendation from the planning commission, the Bristol Town Board voted 4-1 to deny a conditional use permit for the operation of a dermagraphic studio (tattoo) and retail clothing sale business.

Supervisors said, July 11, they were voting according to their constituents' recommendations in denying the permit, requested by Dale Cole. Also, they did not like the idea of a tattoo business to be located between two adult books stores on highways 50 and C, along the I-94 west frontage road.

Said Wienke, "We just do not feel this is a good entrance to Bristol."

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who cast the favorable vote, did not like the location either; however, she said, "I do not think we were elected to legislate morality."

"I don't like tattooing," she continued. "But I don't think less of anyone who does. He (Cole) has his zoning and is willing to work with the conditions."

The location is zoned B-3, which is a business zoning district.

Cole said he has been given a lot of support and will comply with all conditions to bring the building up to code.

"I want to operate a clean, safe sterile business," Cole said. "I had calls wishing me luck and people saying they hope I get it."

He understands that at one time, the mention of a tattoo parlor conjured up a dark image, such as undesirable and people out of control.

"It's come a long way since then,"

Cole said, explaining it attracts a diverse group of people.

He said that he would not sell anything that was socially inappropriate.

Denying the permit request were supervisors Don Wienke, Wayne Eide, Mark Miller and John Meyer.

Cole said he is considering seeking signatures to petition the decision.

Sewer study: Van Slochteren was also outnumbered in her efforts to table spending $6,000 on a feasibility study to review alternate methods of running a sewer line to the town's wastewater treatment facility to service businesses at I-94 and Highway 50.

Although town engineers reported that it is more cost-effective to run the line west, from Bristol Utility District 3 to Utility District 1, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (SWRPC) disagreed. The DNR and SWRPC reported it is more cost-effective to run the line east to the Kenosha sewer plant.

Van Slochteren said, "If the DNR says you will not build it, you will not build it. I think we're wasting $6,000 on a study that may never be implemented."

She suggested tabling the issue until all entities could get together.

Meyer, on the other hand, felt the cost was justified, if it could prevent annexation.

He said, "I'd rather spend $6,000. I propose we do everything possible to stymie annexation efforts."

The vote was 4-1 to approve the study, with Van Slochteren casting the lone dissenting vote.

Lakefront assessments

To the Editor: 7-19-94

In a recent Voice of the People article Audrey Van Slochteren quotes a letter by Ben Franklin named "the whistle letter." In the letter Ben Franklin goes on to relate how people throughout their lives often pay too much for their "whistle." She concludes "next time you consider doing something questionable, ask yourself if the whistle is truly worth the price?"

However as Bristol town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren has no qualms about charging select property owners 2 1/4 items more than their neighbors for the same whistle — the Lake Shangrila sewer addition. All people in the affected area will get the same use and benefits of the new sewer running down the center of the streets. However the Bristol board "on the advice of our attorney" has voted to assess lakefront property owners 2 1/4 times the rate of non-lakefront lots for the cost of the sewer, mandated under the police powers of the Bristol board.

In the present sewer district around the remainder of the lake to which the new sewer will connect to, all property owners were equally assessed for the sewer. In over 40 court cases as well as thousands of sewer projects in southeast Wisconsin all assessments were done on a per foot or per unit basis with equality of cost for all using the sewer. The Bristol boards defense of the 2 1/4 to 1 assessment is a single case involving commercial property being assessed more than adjacent residential property. All the affected area at Lake Shangrila is residential.

As a result many of the affected property owners have instigated a court proceeding to correct the lakefront unfair assessment of 2 1/4 times the non-lake front lots. This may result in delays in the sewer and surely will cost the Bristol board and ultimately all Bristol taxpayers a significant legal expense.

I urge Audrey Van Slochteren and the Bristol town board to immediately correct their discrimination against lake property owners by amending the sewer resolution to a one to one assessment basis. This will save the taxpayers of Bristol legal expenses and will treat all Shangrila residents equally in the cost of their "whistle" sewer.

NOTICE
Bristol School District #1 School Board have put two new board policies into effect. We would like to inform the public of these two policies. The first one is "Transportation to and from Child Care Providers" in which Bristol School must be notified in writing by August 1, 1994 for the current school year, if a desired pick up/drop off point other than the child's residence must be made. There are other restrictions to this policy. A copy of the policy is hanging on the school door for further information. There is a form in the school office which will need to be filled out by August 1, 1994 for this special request. Once school has commenced for the year, a written request for such service must be submitted to the school for approval by the District Administrator.
The other policy is "Student Transportation Management" where as the Board has designated special areas as walking zones. This includes the Bristol Woods Subdivision and the area bounded by Hwy 45 on the east, 205th Avenue on the west, 81st Street on the north and 83rd Street on the south. A copy of this policy is on the school door for further information.

NOTICE OF WATERWAY ALTERATION
Bristol Branch of Brighton Creek
Town of Bristol
Kenosha County
The Town of Bristol, 198th Avenue and 83rd Street, P.O. Box 187, Bristol, WI 53104 has applied to the Department of Natural Resources for an after-the-fact permit to grade in excess of 10,000 square feet on the banks of the Bristol Branch of Brighton Creek. The purpose of the project is to construct a sewer to replace an existing lift station and leaking force main. This proposal would occur on the bank of the Bristol Branch of Brighton Creek, in the NE 1/4, NE 1/4 of Section 18, T1N, R21E, Kenosha County.
If you want to know more about this project, you should contact Christopher F. DeRemer at the Department of Natural Resources Office in Milwaukee to see the application and plans. If you don't feel the permit should be granted, write to the Southeast District Office, 2300 N. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Drive, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53212, explaining your objections. Your letter should ask for a contested case hearing and it must include reasons why the proposed project would violate the legal standards applicable to the project. You must also state that you or your representative will appear and present information supporting your objection at the hearing. The Department may issue its decision without a hearing if no objections to the project are received within thirty days of the date of publication of this notice.

Video store owners pay $11,790 in violations

By Jennie Tunkielcz

Violations of the county Health Department's adult video booth regulations have cost bookstore operators $11,790 in fines, so far.

The regulations, approved by the county Board of Health in September 1992, apply to construction, maintenance and use of movie viewing booths.

The regulations are intended to prevent the spread of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases.

Anthony Milisauskas, the private attorney hired by the county to prosecute the violations, said the regulations are effective.

"I think the adult bookstore owners are complying because the regulations are on the books and they know we are enforcing it," Milisauskas said. "The health department has the authority to go in and look around."

Owners of both Sheridan News & Video, 12212 Sheridan Road, and Superb Video, 6005 120th Ave., stipulated in court to violations and paid fines and costs totaling $5,895 each, Milisauskas said.

Violations alleged against Odyssey-Satellite Video News, 9720 120th Ave., may go to trial, but no date has been set.

Milisauskas said one of the County Board supervisors who recently toured the adult bookstores have said some owners are still violation regulations.

The regulations have been ruled constitutional twice in county Circuit Court in challenges by adult video store owners, Milisauskas said.

Superb Video is appealing a civil lawsuit it filed against the county.

Judge Barbara Kluka issued a written decision ruling against Superb Video in the civil suit.

Superb Video filed a lawsuit Dec. 14, 1992, hoping the regulations would be found invalid.

Judge Kluka in the decision ruled in favor of the county, which had argued the regulation was valid and that Superb Video's lawsuit should be dismissed.

Judge Bruce Schroeder also ruled the health regulations constitutional in a challenge last month, Milisauskas said.

County Corporation Counsel Frank Volpintesta said the county has paid $5,430 to Milisauskas so far for prosecuting the cases.

The County Board this week approved $24,378 be given to the District Attorney's office to hire an attorney to prosecute violations of the county's obscenity ordinance.

Men fined for hunting out of season

Two Kenosha County men were fined and lost their hunting and fishing privileges for three years following recent convictions on charges relating to killing a deer out of season.

Scott A. Shannon, 37, 11216 290th Ave., Trevor, and Paul J. Van Heirsele, 23, 23514 75th St., Paddock Lake, each were fined a total of $2,784.

Before a scheduled jury trial, Shannon pleaded no contest to hunting during a closed season and pleaded guilty to obstructing an officer, while Van Heirsele pleaded no contest to counts of being a party to a crime of possession of an untagged deer.

In addition, a 44-magnum pistol Shannon apparently used to kill the deer was confiscated.

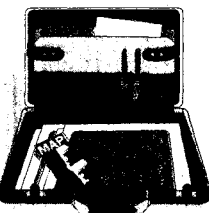

Judge Michael Fisher sentenced the two men on charges brought in a case against them by Department of Natural Resources Wardens Ron Nerva and Russell Fell, assisted by Warden Joseph Jerich.

The case against the men began to unfold after they were involved in a one-car accident on Highway C in Bristol. Deputies notified game wardens that three legs from a butchered deer and a pistol were found in the vehicle. The accident occurred about a week before the gun deer season opened on Nov. 20, 1993.

Nerva was told by the men that the deer was shot with a bow and arrow. Jerich said the hide, which had been sent to a taxidermist, was examined and the investigation determined that an arrow was pushed into the deer after it was killed.

Bristol electors approve levy

By Arlene Jensen

BRISTOL — Twenty-six electors approved a 1994-95 budget of $2,591,194 for Bristol School District No. 1 at Monday's annual meeting. The new budget is an increase of $234,509 over the 1993-94 budget.

Electors approved a tax levy of $2,327,706, an increase of $86,422 over last year's $2,241,284 levy.

Administrator Gale Ryczek said last year's tax rate was $9.30 per thousand dollars of assessed value. The anticipated 1994-95 rate is $8.79, said Ryczek, a decrease of 51 cents.

On the recommendation of the board, salaries of board members will stay the same as this year. The president, treasurer and clerk each receive $1,475. Members receive $1,275, but those who serve on the negotiating team receive an extra $1,000.

A three-hour open house preceded the board meeting, offering Bristol residents an opportunity to discuss proposals for a possible building addition.

Bristol denies permit for tattoo parlor along I-94

By Diane Jahnke

7-18-94

Following a recommendation from the planning commission, the Bristol Town Board voted 4-1 to deny a conditional use permit for the operation of a dermagraphic studio (tattoo) and retail clothing sale business.

Supervisors said, July 11, they were voting according to their constituents' recommendations in denying the permit, requested by Dale Cole. Also, they did not like the idea of a tattoo business to be located between two adult books stores on highways 50 and C, along the I-94 west frontage road.

Said Wienke, "We just do not feel this is a good entrance to Bristol."

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who cast the favorable vote, did not like the location either; however, she said, "I do not think we were elected to legislate morality."

"I don't like tattooing," she continued. "But I don't think less of anyone who does. He (Cole) has his zoning and is willing to work with the conditions."

The location is zoned B-3, which is a business zoning district.

Cole said he has been given a lot of support and will comply with all conditions to bring the building up to code.

"I want to operate a clean, safe sterile business," Cole said. "I had calls wishing me luck and people saying they hope I get it."

He understands that at one time, the mention of a tattoo parlor conjured up a dark image, such as undesirables and people out of control.

"It's come a long way since then,"

Cole said, explaining it attracts a diverse group of people.

He said that he would not sell anything that was socially inappropriate.

Denying the permit request were supervisors Don Wienke, Wayne Eide, Mark Miller and John Meyer.

Cole said he is considering seeking signatures to petition the decision.

Sewer study: Van Slochteren was also outnumbered in her efforts to table spending $6,000 on a feasibility study to review alternate methods of running a sewer line to the town's wastewater treatment facility to service businesses at I-94 and Highway 50.

Although town engineers reported that it is more cost-effective to run the line west, from Bristol Utility District 3 to Utility District 1, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (SWRPC) disagreed. Bristol addition planned

Options range to $3.9 million for school

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Four proposals for a possible addition to the Bristol Grade School were presented at an open house Monday. The plans range in price from $3.4 to $3.9 million.

School Board President Richard Bizek said the district's Growth Committee has looked at several building proposals.

Proposal A would provide a one-story addition west of the school, an 11,000-square-foot gymnasium and locker room addition and a 32,500-square-foot classroom addition.

Proposal B would see a 14,000-square-foot gymnasium addition to the east of the present school, and a 26,000-square-foot two-story classroom addition.

Proposal C includes a one-story addition east of the school consisting of 11 classrooms and a gymnasium with a total square footage of 48,500.

Bizek said the School Board will likely discuss the proposals at its Aug. 16 meeting. If the board decides to proceed with any of the proposals, district voters will have an opportunity to cast their ballots in a referendum.

At a June meeting, William R. Henry, the school's architectural and engineering consultant, predicted that the school's enrollment will go from 449 to 470 next year and 486 the following year.

Henry told the committee a 20,000-square-foot addition would accommodate growth for a five-year period.

Bristol cautioned on growth

By Arlene Jensen

BRISTOL — Communities should be choosy about the type of development they allow, Harlan Klinkenbeard told a Bristol audience Thursday.

Klinkenbeard, administrator for the town of Pewaukee, said a developer told Pewaukee officials he planned to put Wisconsin's largest shopping center in that town.

"We said no to $200 million in assessed value," he said. "The developer went away shaking his head," he said.

Klinkenbeard said Pewaukee would have had to rebuild a highway interchange, hire 10 police officers and additional firefighters to serve the huge shopping center.

"We told them the shopping center was not in our plan, and it would bring us a crime rate we don't want."

Speaking at a special meeting of the Bristol Town Board and Plan Commission, Klinkenbeard said, "You have to look at everything very carefully. We encourage development that has less impact on the community and the community purse."

Bristol chairman asks to ponder airport issue

By Diane Jahnke 8-1-94

Bristol town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren urged citizens to give careful thought to the county's role in having partial control of the regional airport in Kenosha at the July 25 meeting.

She asked, "Do we want the airport to become a regional airport with county involvement which will include a cost to every county taxpayer but one in which we will have a voice, or do we want the airport to remain a city of Kenosha airport which will continue to exercise 'government without representation'?"

A meeting will be held in August between Bristol, Paris and Somers town chairman and county and city officials to discuss the issue. At that time, Kenosha Mayor John Antaramian will present his proposal.

The Kenosha Plan Commission passed an airport zoning ordinance July 21. The issue will be on the agenda for final action at a Aug. 15 Kenosha Common Council meeting. If passed, construction will be prohibited on properties located near the Kenosha Regional Airport.

Van Slochteren said she sent 42 letters to involved Bristol property owners who will not be able to build a house.

Under Antaramian's proposal, the city and the county would have equal representation on the Airport Commission.

The county would be responsible for enacting and enforcing zoning outside of the city's corporate boundaries; the city would be responsible for the same within such boundaries.

The city would agree not to lengthen any runway beyond 6,700 feet nor widen any runway beyond 150 feet without approval of the county board.

The city would not move forward with the proposed feasibility study for international cargo facilities and operations.

The county will provide an operating subsidy totaling $300,000 per year. If the amount needed is less than $300,000, the subsidy would be reduced to an amount that is needed.

Antaramian stated, "I believe this to be a fair and equitable proposal. It limits the county's exposure to a maximum of $300,000, provides considerable representation to non-city residents and provides some equity to city taxpayers who fund a facility which benefits the entire county."

Van Slochteren said, "I urge everybody to give (proposal) careful thought. It's very important."

Furnaces: The board approved the purchase of three furnaces for the town hall from Eckhart Refrigeration at a cost of $8,500.

Cool and casual: The board accepted a proclamation designating Thursday, Aug. 25, as Cool and Casual Day for MDA.

Van Slochteren said Muscular Dystrophy Association personnel will contact all businesses to seek participation. If employees purchase a button for $5 or a T-shirt for $10, they will be able to come to work dressed in casual attire Aug. 25. All proceeds will benefit MDA.

Understand assessments: UW-Extension will offer a program at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 4, at the town hall, to help property owners understand their property assessments.

Plans for Bristol School addition told

By Bill Huber 8-1-94

Residents of the Bristol School District were shown four plans which would shape education at the school for years at an open house prior to the July 25 annual meeting.

The plans, three of which call for additions at the present school, the other for a new building for grades 6-8, range in price from $3,167,500 to $3,973,250.

Although the current building is still 80 students under its capacity (based on a projected enrollment of 470 students for the 1994-95 school year), grades 3, 4 and 6 will be over capacity for the upcoming school year and grade 8 will be at capacity.

The four plans are:

Option A: The cost of the 43,500 square foot addition is projected at $3,488,750. The plan would include a new gymnasium with bleacher seating on each side, locker rooms and a lobby, 13 new classrooms, science and computer laboratories, library, band and music rooms and offices.

The vacated science rooms would be remodeled into specialty offices, such as guidance and counseling rooms. The existing library would be expanded.

Option B: The cheapest of all the options, the project would cost $3,167,500, while adding an additional 40,000 square feet to the building.

As in Option A, a new gym, with bleachers and a lobby would be constructed. A multi-purpose room would also be built.

The 2-story addition would add 15 new classrooms and band and music rooms to the school. The vacated science rooms, like in Option A, would be used as guidance and counseling rooms.

The existing library would be expanded and the art room and science and computer laboratories would be remodeled.

Option C: The cost of the 48,500-square-foot addition would total $3,840,750. The single-story addition would add 11 new classrooms, science and computer labs, a library and a gymnasium, complete with bleachers and lockers to the building. A new band, music and art room would also be built.

The first and second floors of the building would be remodeled to create four new rooms. The vacated science room would be turned into a library for elementary students and the old library would be renovated to create a primary student activity area.

Option D: The final option calls for construction of a new middle school for grades 6-8 at a cost of $2,990,000. Another $299,000 would be spent renovating the old building. Other assorted fees would push the cost to $3,973,250.

This projected cost does not include furnishings, moveable equipment, relocation, land acquisition, staff or operational costs.

Each of the four options would add another 125 seats to the school's capacity, increasing the number to 675. Enrollment is projected to reach 575 students by 1996.

Each of the options include music and band rooms, something the school does not currently have.

According to Administrator Gale Ryczek, the school's 22-member community committee "very much favored" Option C.

The school board is hoping to hold a referendum in September. The exact date will be set at a future meeting.

State Rep. Cloyd Porter and State Sen. Joseph Andrea presented Bristol Progress Days committee chairmen a proclamation commending them for their hard work and dedication for the past 25 years. The 25th celebration was held July 8-10. From left are recreation committee chairman Richard Merten; Porter; Earl Hollister, chairman of Bristol during the first Progress Days celebration; Andrea; and Don Wienke, first recreation committee chairman who started the annual festivity by suggesting, "Let's have a big picnic."

Bristol road closed

Kenosha County and the town of Bristol will be starting an intersection safety improvement construction project on Highway U (136th Avenue) at 116th Street the first week of August.

Construction crews will grade the roadway to eliminate a hazardous hill and improve the overall safety of the intersection. The road will be closed to traffic for approximately 4 weeks.

The Bristol Progress Days are very great. All the people donate their time and efforts. This year, Supervisor John Myer paid town employees time and a half, which was never approved. This should be stopped immediately.

People. Bristol School District. Please beware. The new school, when equipped, will cost you up to $2 per thousand for lots of years. Can we afford a $4 million addition for the future?

Referendum slated for Bristol School addition

$3.9 million project to add 11 classrooms

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 8-5-94

Bristol School Board voted 4 to 1 to send the issue to referendum. Board President Richard Bizek and members Jack Spencer, Jeanine Lindstrom and Barbara Boldt voted in favor. Edward Becker cast the dissenting vote.

The 48,500-square-foot expansion voters will be asked to approve includes:

- A one-story addition with 11 classrooms, science and computer laboratories, library, gymnasium, lockers, band and music rooms, art room and offices;

- Remodeling of the first and second floors for four additional classrooms;

- Remodeling of the vacated science classrooms for an elementary library;

- Remodeling of the vacated library for a primary student activity area;

- New parking lot east of the building, and

- Extension of a security and fire access drive.

A description of the proposed project prepared by the school's architect, William R. Henry Associates, Elkhorn, shows the expansion level would be adjacent to the existing kitchen.

Sixth, seventh and eighth grade classrooms in the addition would accommodate a possible middle school concept at some future date, said the architect.

The addition would be built east of the present school. Construction of the addition would proceed with no disruption of normal school activities, according to the project design.

Bizek urged board members to pass the resolution Thursday in order to meet the deadline for getting it on the September ballot. He said the $3.9 million plan is the one supported by the district's growth committee.

"Now it's time to ask the taxpayers of Bristol if they want to spend $3.9 million," he said. "One thing is sure; we will stay within our budget."

Lindstrom said, "I'm all for an addition, but I'd like to see it cut a little."

Boldt said she supports it because the district needs additional space. Spencer supports the move and made the motion that ultimately passed.

"I cannot and will not support a $4 million addition," said Becker. "We don't need a gym that big."

Bizek said there are items in the proposal that can be trimmed. "This is just an initial resolution," he said.

In other items on the Thursday agenda, board members considered hiring a third first grade teacher but voted to hold off until enrollment figures are in. Administrator Gale Ryczek was directed to take that step if he deems it necessary.

Antique mall put on hold

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 8-2-94

BRISTOL — Town officials said Tuesday they like the idea of having an antique mall at highways 50 and MB. But they don't want business zoning at that location.

Richard and Linda Hoover, 13510 75th St., and Michael Beluomini, Rolling Meadows, Ill., are seeking permission to create an antique mall in the building that once was Woodworth School. It is currently known as St. Irene Byzantine Catholic Church.

At a meeting of the Bristol Plan Commission, petitioners said the property has been on the market for some time. The church will soon be closed because there are too few members to support the operation, they said.

The property is zoned institutional, but business zoning would be required for an antique mall.

Commissioner Gene Anderson said he opposes business zoning because there are homes nearby to the west and north.

Commission Chairman John Boldt said, "My biggest concern is spot zoning. I like the proposal but not the rezoning. The corner of MB and 50 was not meant to be commercial."

"I like the proposal but not the rezoning. The corner of MB and 50 was not meant to be commercial."

Commission Chairman John Boldt

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said business zoning at that location would be contrary to the town's land use plan, which shows institutional zoning.

On the plus side, the antique mall would put the property on the tax rolls.

Rather than deny the petition, the commission tabled the request and recommended a meeting with town officials and the county Office of Planning and Development. A solution that will be considered is attaching a deed restriction to the property, allowing it to revert to institutional zoning if the antique mall folds.

The request will be back on the agenda for a 6:30 p.m. meeting of the commission, Sept. 6.

Richard Slodyczka's request for a variance on property at 214th Avenue and 119th Street was denied. Slodyczka, Chicago, wants to build a summer home 20 feet from 119th. The zoning ordinance requires 30 feet.

Commissioners told Slodyczka he should consider a smaller home or a design that would fit on the lot without the need for a variance.

Greg Klemko's request for vacation of the street near his home was recommended for approval by the Town Board. Klemko, 7727 128th Ave., is asking that 78th Street off 128th be vacated.

Van Slochteren said a new law that goes into effect Jan. 1, 1995, will allow towns to vacate streets.

Approval was also recommended for a conditional use permit sought by Wayne and Diane Anderson, Arlington Heights, Ill. They are seeking permission to construct a new building at the east end of 84th Street in the Bristol Industrial Park.

Bristol assessments up 12.5% overall

Residential assessments up about 20%

By Jennie Tunkieicz
Staff Writer 8-4-94

Total property assessments in the town of Bristol are up 12.5 percent, county Assessor Mary Reavey said.

The total town value increased from $236,274,700 last year to $265,905,600. There are 2,337 parcels in Bristol.

During a two-year assessment freeze, assessed values had dipped to 83.5 percent of full market value. All Kenosha County properties are being assessed at 100 percent of market value this year.

Agricultural values have declined slightly in Bristol after being the highest in the county for the past few years. Now, all agricultural property is valued at the same rate, Reavey said.

Agricultural property in the town is valued at a total of $28,144,600, down from $30,544,200 last year.

Forty-eight parcels in Bristol were reclassified from agricultural to residential for assessment purposes, Reavey said. The department is reclassifying parcels of 35 acres and less as residential throughout the county.

Residential property values are up an average of 20 percent for a total of $150,862,600, up from $124,997,900 a year ago.

Commercial values are up an average of 7.7 percent for a total of $86,442,200, an increase from $80,264,900 last year.

Bristol property owners can get more information about their assessment by contacting the assessor's office for an appointment to meet with an appraiser. Appraisers are available by appointment at the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St., and at the Kenosha County Courthouse, 912 56th St.

Further appeal of an assessment can be made to the Board of Review. The board will hear Bristol cases starting Aug. 29.

Bristol to hold addition referendum Sept. 27

⁸⁻⁸⁻⁹⁴
Voters in the Bristol School District will decide if they want to spend $3.84 million on a 48,500-square-foot addition in a Sept. 27 binding referendum.

Board president Richard Bizek and members, Jack Spencer, Jeanie Lindstrom and Barbara Boldt, voted in favor of the motion. Edward Becker voted against it, during the board's Aug. 4 meeting.

The addition would add 11 new classrooms, science and computer labs, a library and a gymnasium, complete with bleachers and lockers to the building. New hand, art and music rooms will also be built.

The first and second floors of the current building would be remodeled to add four more classrooms. The old science room would be turned into a library for elementary students and the old library will be remodeled to create a primary student activity area.

A new parking lot would also be built and the current security and fire access drive would be expanded.

The addition is deemed necessary as the school's enrollment is fast approaching the current building's ca-capacity. Grades 3, 4, and 6 will be over capacity as the 1994-95 school year begins.

According to Lindstrom, the board is going to trim some of the project's cost down.

The addition would be built into a hill on the east side of the building. Construction would not interfere with any normal school activities.

Bristol plans for school opening

⁸⁻⁸⁻⁹⁴
BRISTOL — The first day of classes for Bristol School students will be Thursday, Aug. 25. Classes will start at 7:45 a.m. and dismiss at 2:45 p.m.

Registration fees, $12.50 per student, may be paid during the week of Aug. 15 through 19. Office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Gym shirts and shorts will be available for sale to sixth through eighth grade students. Lunch tickets may also be purchased during registration week. Hot lunch will be served the first day of school.

Students who are new to the district should contact the school immediately to get the forms necessary for registration.

Lists of student materials are available in the lobby of the school.

More information is available by calling the school at 857-2334.

An early morning fire on Highway MB, south of Highway 50, consumed a large 100-year-old barn owned by Lloyd Nelson, Bristol, Aug. 13. The structure housed a 36-foot by 8-foot hog barn; 36-foot by 60-foot main barn; and a small milk house.

Fire departments from Bristol, Salem, Somers, Randall, Pleasant Prairie, Wilmet, Trevor, and Antioch and Town of Newport, Illinois, responded to the call. According to Bristol fire chief Scott Muhlenbeck, the only thing inside was some loose straw. The fire was reported to be of suspicious origin. (Jeanie Lindstrom photo)

Firefighters and Sheriff's Department detectives are investigating the cause of a fire that was reported at about 9:15 a.m. Sunday.

Scott Muhlenbeck, Bristol Fire and Rescue chief, said the barn fire at 8733 160th Ave., Bristol, appeared suspicious and was not certain of the blaze's point of origin.

The fire was controlled after about an hour, Muhlenbeck said, although crews remained on the scene until about 2 p.m. One firefighter was slightly injured from debris and treated at the scene.

Shooting range not a surprise

To the Editor:
In response to the letter against the Bristol shooting range, readers must realize there has never been a complaint prior to the new subdivision's (Bristol Wood) construction. The shooting range has been running long before the numerous subdivision around it and we all knew it existed prior to building or buying. The shooting range is not a nuisance as the letter states and Bristol is an excellent country community in which to live. I suggest those against the shooting range go back where they came from or investigate your new neighborhood prior to buying. Bristol doesn't need you, nor do we want you!

Debi from Bristol

Shooting range a nuisance

⁸⁻¹⁸⁻⁹⁴
To the Editor:
I'm writing in hopes of provoking the Bristol Town Board to take action to improve the quality of life for the people in the surrounding area. The Conservation Club of Kenosha County's Bristol Shooting Range is a continuing public nuisance that the Town Board has failed to alleviate.

I sent a letter to the Town Board on February 20, 1994, insisting upon the need for measures that would dissipate the noise generated by the shooting ranges. I heard of planned public meetings to discuss the issue but never heard of any actual meetings that have taken place. If anything was resolved or decided, it could not have been implemented given the level of noise still originating from the ranges.

The Town of Bristol's new logo "The Town of Bristol, Naturally" is a fallacy. I've lived in numerous rural and urban settings across this country, but because of the excessive and constant noise emanating from the shooting range, Bristol has to be the most unnatural place I've ever lived.

I only hope the Bristol Town Board will take the time necessary to resolve this important issue that faces its current community and its future development.

Gerald Urban

Check out the neighborhood

⁸⁻³⁰⁻⁹⁴
To the Editor:
In response to Gerald Urban's August 18th Voice of the People.

You complain about the Bristol shooting range as being a public nuisance because of noise; however, you don't complain about the new subdivision that is being developed across the street from the shooting range, the shooting range that has been there for 30 years. You don't complain about the "cheap" housing in the Kenosha-through-Lake Geneva areas and beyond which are destroying farm land and forest land.

You evidently don't check out the neighborhood before you move. If Bristol is "the most unnatural place you've ever lived," then follow your previous actions and move! Don't force your misguided opinions and personal problems on safe, sport-oriented people of a peaceable community.

Finally, for all people including the congressmen, senators and especially the president of the United States who are sworn to uphold the Constitution, stop attacking the United States Constitution which gives you the right to complain! The Second Amendment is very important, that is why it's placed immediately after Free Speech which we all support and use so much — not after the Twenty-Fifth Amendment.

Referendum slated for Bristol School addition

$3.9 million project to add 11 classrooms

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 3-5-94

BRISTOL — Voters in Bristol School District 1 will be asked to cast their ballots on a $3.9 million addition to the present school. The binding referendum is set for Sept. 27.

At a Thursday session, the Bristol School Board voted 4 to 1 to send the issue to referendum. Board President Richard Bizek and members Jack Spencer, Jeanine Lindstrom and Barbara Boldt voted in favor. Edward Becker cast the dissenting vote.

The 48,500-square-foot expansion voters will be asked to approve includes:

- A one-story addition with 11 classrooms, science and computer laboratories, library, gymnasium, lockers, band and music rooms, art room and offices;

An early morning fire on Highway MB, south of Highway 50, consumed a large 100-year-old barn owned by Lloyd Nelson, Bristol, Aug. 14. The structure housed a 36-foot by 8-foot hog barn; 36-foot by 60-foot main barn; and a small milk house.

Fire departments from Bristol, Salem, Somers, Randall, Pleasant Prairie, Wilmet, Trevor, and Antioch and Town of Newport, Illinois, responded to the call. According to Bristol fire chief Scott Muhlenbeck, the only thing inside was some loose straw. The fire was reported to be of suspicious origin.

Barn fire under investigation

Firefighters and Sheriff's Department detectives are investigating the cause of a fire that was reported at about 9:15 a.m. Sunday.

Scott Muhlenbeck, Bristol Fire and Rescue chief, said the barn fire at 8733 160th Ave., Bristol, appeared suspicious and was not certain of the blaze's point of origin.

The fire was controlled after about an hour, Muhlenbeck said, although crews remained on the scene until about 2 p.m. One firefighter was slightly injured from debris and treated at the scene.

Shooting range not a surprise

To the Editor:
In response to the letter against the Bristol shooting range, readers must realize there has never been a complaint prior to the new subdivision's (Bristol Wood) construction. The shooting range has been running long before the numerous subdivision around it and we all knew it existed prior to building or buying. The shooting range is not a nuisance as the letter states and Bristol is an excellent country community in which to live. I suggest those against the shooting range go back where they came from or investigate your new neighborhood prior to buying. Bristol doesn't need you, nor do we want you!

Shooting range a nuisance

⁸⁻¹⁸⁻⁹⁴
To the Editor:

I'm writing in hopes of provoking the Bristol Town Board to take action to improve the quality of life for the people in the surrounding area. The Conservation Club of Kenosha County's Bristol Shooting Range is a continuing public nuisance that the Town Board has failed to alleviate.

I sent a letter to the Town Board on February 20, 1994, insisting upon the need for measures that would dissipate the noise generated by the shooting ranges. I heard of planned public meetings to discuss the issue but never heard of any actual meetings that have taken place. If anything was resolved or decided, it could not have been implemented given the level of noise still originating from the ranges.

The Town of Bristol's new logo "The Town of Bristol, Naturally" is a fallacy. I've lived in numerous rural and urban settings across this country, but because of the excessive and constant noise emanating from the shooting range, Bristol has to be the most unnatural place I've ever lived.

I only hope the Bristol Town Board will take the time necessary to resolve this important issue that faces it's current community and it's future development.

Gerald Urban

Check out the neighborhood

⁸⁻³⁰⁻⁹⁴
To the Editor:
In response to Gerald Urban's August 18th Voice of the People.

You complain about the Bristol shooting range as being a public nuisance because of noise; however, you don't complain about the new subdivision that is being developed across the street from the shooting range, the shooting range that has been there for 30 years. You don't complain about the "cheap" housing in the Kenosha-through-Lake Geneva areas and beyond which are destroying farm land and forest land.

You evidently don't check out the neighborhood before you move. If Bristol is "the most unnatural place you've ever lived," then follow your previous actions and move! Don't force your misguided opinions and personal problems on safe, sport-oriented people of a peaceable community.

Finally, for all people including the congressmen, senators and especially the president of the United States who are sworn to uphold the Constitution, stop attacking the United States Constitution which gives you the right to complain! The Second Amendment is very important, that is why it's placed immediately after Free Speech which we all support and use so much — not after the Twenty-Fifth Amendment.

Parade pay for employees angers Bristol resident

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

8-9-94

BRISTOL — Supervisor John Meyer was criticized by town residents Monday for his decision to pay three employees time-and-a-half to participate in the Bristol Progress Days parade.

"You've overstepped your authority so many times, I'm sick and tired of it," Russell Mott told Meyer during citizen comments at a meeting of the Bristol Town Board.

"Let's have this stuff stop," said Mott, 6100 156th Ave. "You got elected to protect our tax dollars."

Meyer is chairman of the Public Works Committee and oversees the operations of the highway, utilities and recycling departments.

He did not respond to citizen comments about the parade but said after the meeting, he could not require union employees to work without paying them overtime. The parade was held Sunday, July 9.

Public Works Foreman Randy Kerkman, and employees Mike Hole and Bob Bohn each drove a town vehicle in the parade, including a new snow plow truck and a backhoe tractor.

"I'm responsible for the equipment," said Meyer, "and I think you have to have town employees drive town vehicles."

"It's a sad day when workers can't do their civic duty," said

Bristol to correct sign

The Bristol Town Board may have wondered where Vanna White was when they needed her Monday.

The supervisors had to buy a vowel and a consonant to correct a longstanding mistake on the sign outside the town hall.

Since it was built, the sign has identified the structure as the "Bristol Township Municipal Building." In Wisconsin, however, an unincorporated governmental unit is a town, not a township.

The corrected sign will read "Town of Bristol Municipal Building." Wheel of Fortune fans will quickly realize that it required the purchase of an O and an F, at a cost of $81.20.

Anyone want to buy a surplus S, H, I or P?

Karen Gibson, 9310 128th Ave. "This is not a one-man show, Mr. Meyer."

Meyer said the three were paid a total of $120 for their two hours of work during the parade. Town records indicate that the total cost was $170.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said, "I agree that our vehicles should be driven by town employees, but in my opinion, they should have been able to donate their time."

Van Slochteren said, "The decision was made by John Meyer."

In other business, the board agreed to provide three "slow-no-wake" buoys in the area between Lake Shangrila and Benet Lake.

Van Slochteren said there have been accidents in the area called the "narrows" between the two lakes.

"A jet ski crashed into a pontoon boat and another jet ski hit the swimming beach," she said.

"The no-wake rule will slow them down."

The request for buoys came from the Department of Natural Resources.

The Monday agenda included approval of a request from Greg Klemki, 7727 128th Ave., who is seeking the vacation of 78th Street, off 128th. The board agreed to vacate the street but will retain a 20-foot easement for future utilities.

Presently, street vacations must be approved in Circuit Court, but a new law gives towns that power after Jan. 1, 1995.

The board approved a beer and liquor license for John W. Allen, agent for Snappers, formerly known as Denny's, 12121 75th St.

Employee pay argued at town of Bristol meeting

By Diane Jahnke

8-15-94

Two angry residents complained of town employees getting paid while participating in the Progress Days parade, at the Aug. 8 meeting of the Bristol Town Board.

Russell Mott said three employees received time-and-a-half pay which totaled $177 to drive town vehicles in the annual parade July 10. Supervisor John Meyer was the only board member to authorize the pay.

"You overstepped your authority," Mott said during citizen's comments. "We have you there (supervisor) to protect our tax dollars. This kind of stuff has got to stop."

Karen Gibson agreed and felt the employees should have volunteered their service. She said, "It's a shame when workers can't do their civic duty."

Emergency technicians: Supervisor Donald Wienke reported that fire department officers felt adding three full-time emergency medical technicians (EMTs) was more of a priority than building a substation at this time.

A substation had been discussed at I-94 and Highway 50. The concentration, for now, is adding full-time EMTs for a more timely response, Wienke reported.

"The substation could be planned down the road," he said.

Kennel license: Linda Wilson once again asked the board to consider her application for a dog kennel license. Wilson has been unsuccessful for the past 1-1/2 years in obtaining the license. Nine dogs are housed at her residence, 15901 Horton Road.

The board accepted her kennel license application. A public hearing regarding the matter will be held on Monday, Sept. 12.

Town, not township: Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren asked approval to purchase two letters in order to change the sign on the front of the town hall to read "Town of Bristol Municipal Building," instead of "Bristol Township Municipal Building."

She said unincorporated municipalities in Wisconsin are towns, not townships. The letters "O" and "T" cost $81.20.

By now those three greedy town of Bristol employees ought to feel guilty enough about their Progress Days overtime to want to donate it for a softball backstop for the kids at one of our Lake Cherry Vista Park sites. Mr. Meyers should match it, for making such an offer. Progress Days is done (tape ends)

Population of Bristol at 4,181

By Patrick Vander Veiden

8-23-94

BRISTOL — The town grew by 5.36 percent since 1990, according to the U.S. Department of Administration estimates. The town board accepted the figures in action Monday that show a current population estimate of 4,181, or 213 more residents than four years ago.

The 1990 population was 3,968, according to the department figures.

In other action, the board reaffirmed changes in the Kenosha County Zoning ordinance.

The board had given unanimous support in June but considered the item again without a vote. "There was no reason to vote again," said Donald Weinke, acting chairman for Audrey Van Slochteren, who is on vacation.

Major changes include an amendment to the county's M-3 mineral extraction district to make the ordinance consistent with state statutes.

The new rules will require more information on restoration to be furnished in the permit approval process. It will also require ground water and well monitoring, dust and noise control and allow greater town input.

A new ordinance section would also allow Bed and Breakfast facilities in certain districts as a conditional use.

Bristol Town Board don't need new ordinances. They can't enforce the ones they have. So why have any at all?

Bristol town population grows

By Diane Jahnke

The town of Bristol population has grown over 5 percent in the last 4 years.

According to the Department of Administration, as of Jan. 1, the estimated population figure was at 4,181, a figure the board accepted at the Aug. 8 meeting. In 1990, the population was 3,968.

Zoning change request: The board tabled a request from Michael and Mary Ann Melograno, 8210 199th Ave, for the town to sponsor a map amendment zoning change. The change for the former barber shop would be from B-2, community business district, to R-6, urban single family residential district.

Resident and former town treasurer Doris Magwitz pointed out that the residence is not single-family.

"That's been a two-family for ages," she said, and, therefore, two sewer bills should be paid.

Support zoning: The board took no action, but rather reaffirmed its decision in support of the proposed changes in the Kenosha County zoning ordinance. The proposed changes received board approval last June.

Bristol man hurt

Michael D. Coleman, 24, 10246 Bristol Road, Bristol, was listed in satisfactory condition at St. Catherine's Hospital Monday night after a single-car accident at 11:51 p.m. Saturday.

He was heading west on Highway 143 just west of 180th Avenue when his vehicle went off the road on the right while he was trying to negotiate a curve.

His vehicle went into a field, hit a shallow creek bed and overturned.

He was cited for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicant and reckless driving.

Firing off two thoughts

To the Editor: 8-31-94

I am writing for two reasons. First, I would like to address the proposed Kenosha gun ban. Readers should know that once a right is given away, it will never be given back to the citizen. As an example, a court defendant who waives his or her rights loses those rights forever. There is no obligation of the state to give back what its people willingly give away.

Second, I would like to address Gerald Urben (Shooting range a nuisance, August 18, 1994) and others who believe that the Bristol Shooting Range should be shut down. Any complaints about range noise should have been addressed at the time the range was built. Anyone moving to the area since the range has been established should have no one to blame but themselves for not researching the area into which they were moving. All the residents of the new subdivision arising from the nearby cornfield should be fully aware of the facts before they buy their house next door to a shooting range.

Bristol Military Museum seeks expansion

Mark Sondag, operator of the Bristol Military Museum plans to make an impassioned plea on Sept. 12 to the Bristol Town Board for approval of his request to expand the facility.

Sondag and a group of veterans run the museum as a non-profit venture. They are requesting permission from the Town Board to construct a building to serve as a maintenance shop, office warehouse and museum.

The existing museum is located on a 15-acre parcel at 10700 120th Ave. It is zoned agricultural, but Sondag would like it to be rezoned as institutional.

Military Museum seeking Bristol OK to expand

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — When the Bristol Town Board meets Monday night, the operator of the Bristol Military Museum plans to make an impassioned plea for approval of his request to expand the facility.

Mark Sondag, Antioch, Ill., and a group of veterans operate the museum as a not-for-profit venture, volunteering their time to set up displays and to restore the dozens of military vehicles and aircraft that are on display outside the museum. They have requested permission from the Town Board to construct a building to serve as a maintenance shop, office, warehouse and museum.

The existing museum and outdoor displays are situated on a 15-acre parcel at 10700 120th Avenue. It is zoned A2 agricultural in the rear and R1 single-family residential along the portion that abuts the I-94 West Frontage Road. Sondag said he would like to have half of the parcel rezoned institutional.

"Some people in town government say this is a junk yard," Sondag said Thursday. "But none of the Town Board or Plan Commission have ever come here to see for themselves what this really is. If they would investigate, I think they would have a change of heart."

The museum contains thousands of artifacts, ranging from disabled weapons and uniforms to other military paraphernalia going back from Desert Storm to the First World War. Some of the items, such as an M-60 tank, are not found in any other museum, and many other items are rare and getting more rare by the day, Sondag said.

The museum attracts some 10,000 visitors a year, he said. Between one-third and one-half are veterans of the Armed Forces and their families, with many of those who sign the guest register coming from all over the United States and as far as Japan and New Zealand.

"We are even listed in an English travel guide on places to visit in the United States," he said.

"The museum is something special," he said. "It is an important attraction in the county and helps people remember the wars we have fought and the men and women who fought them. A lot of people who come here leave with tears in their eyes."

Sondag said that if he gets permission to put up a new building, he will be able to begin restoring the vehicles and aircraft that some people have objected to. And if he can put up a fence, it should satisfy three homeowners to the north of his property who have expressed concerns.

Pfeiffer's earns award

Pfeiffer's Sales and Service has earned the Blue Leader Award from Dixon Industries Inc. for sales achievement.

Kristoffer D. Hohmeier, 19, 25812 93rd St., Salem, made an initial appearance Tuesday on a charge of knowingly fleeing an officer.

Hohmeier sped away from a sheriff's deputy on May 18 at Highways 45 and 142 after pulling away from a stop sign squealing his tires. The deputy said the car reached a speed of 100 mph. Hohmeier was questioned after pulling into a driveway at 563 200th Ave.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled Sept. 9. Hohmeier was free on a $500 signature bond.

Jim Walter, 8170 214th Ave., Bristol, has been elected to the executive committee of the Wisconsin Builders Association. Walter, of Harvest Homes Inc., 1111 55th St., is an area vice president for the association. He also is president of the Racine/Kenosha Builders Association.

Doris Magwitz, 47, was unanimously chosen by the town board to fill the unexpired term of town treasurer Alvin Reidenbach, who resigned earlier in the month.

Military Museum seeking Bristol OK to expand

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — When the Bristol Town Board meets Monday night, the operator of the Bristol Military Museum plans to make an impassioned plea for approval of his request to expand the facility.

Mark Sunday, Antioch, Ill., and a group of veterans operate the museum as a not-for-profit venture, volunteering their time to set up displays and to restore the dozens of military vehicles and aircraft that are on display outside the museum. They have requested permission from the Town Board to construct a building to serve as a maintenance shop, office, warehouse and museum.

The existing museum and outdoor displays are situated on a 15-acre parcel at 10700 120th Avenue. It is zoned A2 agricultural in the rear and R1 single-family residential along the portion that abuts the I-94 West Frontage Road. Sunday said he would like to have half of the parcel rezoned institutional.

"Some people in town government say this is a junk yard," Sunday said Thursday. "But none of the Town Board or Plan Commission have ever come here to see for themselves what this really is. If they would investigate, I think they would have a change of heart."

The museum contains thousands of artifacts, ranging from disabled weapons and uniforms to other military paraphernalia going back from Dessert Storm to the First World War. Some of the items, such as an M-60 tank, are not found in any other museum, and many other items are rare and getting more rare by the day, Sunday said.

The museum attracts some 10,000 visitors a year, he said. Between one-third and one-half are veterans of the Armed Forces and their families, with many of those who sign the guest register coming from all over the United States and as far as Japan and New Zealand.

"We are even listed in an English travel guide on places to visit in the United States," he said.

"The museum is something special," he said. "It is an important attraction in the county and helps people remember the wars we have fought and the men and women who fought them. A lot of people who come here leave with tears in their eyes."

Sunday said that if he gets permission to put up a new building, he will be able to begin restoring the vehicles and aircraft that some people have objected to. And if he can put up a fence, it should satisfy three homeowners to the north of his property who have expressed concerns.

Pfeiffer's earns award

Pfeiffer's Sales and Service has earned the Blue Leader Award from Dixon Industries Inc. for sales achievement.

The award is given to Dixon mower dealers who sell between 10 and 24 machines annually and provide authorized service.

Pfeiffer's, 13300 Wilmot Road, Bristol, has been a Dixon dealer since 1992.

Kristoffer D. Hohmeier, 19, 25812 93rd St., Salem, made an initial appearance Tuesday on a charge of knowingly fleeing an officer.

Hohmeier sped away from a sheriff's deputy on May 18 at Highways 45 and 142 after pulling away from a stop sign squealing his tires. The deputy said the car reached a speed of 100 mph. Hohmeier was questioned after pulling into a driveway at 563 200th Ave.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled Sept. 9. Hohmeier was free on a $500 signature bond.

Beard growth transforms man into Santa

9-12-94

Steve Rzysko became Santa Claus in a most unlikely way.

Fifteen years ago he decided never to shave again after his boss made him mad.

A traffic manager at Charm-glow Products in Bristol for 21 years, Rzysko didn't get along with the new management when the company was purchased by Beatrice Foods.

"I became a renegade because I didn't believe in the methods of the new regime," Rzysko writes in a letter to the News.

"One day my new boss (the production manager) ticked me off. It was a chilly, rainy evening and I was standing in the street collecting for Lions candy day when I decided never to shave again. And to this day, 14 or 15 years later, I have not shaved."

Eleven years ago, he retired from the company and moved to Florida. In St. Petersburg, the beard kept growing and then turned white. The resemblance was striking. Steve Rzysko became Santa Claus.

In the mid-'80s he was asked to leave Disney World because he was attracting more attention than Mickey Mouse. But then he ended up doing a video for MGM about Christmas in the Magic Kingdom, which he says is the highlight of his life as Good St. Nick.

Generous blood donor

Mark Slobodianuk made his 100th blood donation Wednesday, making him the youngest of eight donors in Kenosha to reach that milestone.

Only 495 people in southeastern Wisconsin or less than 1 percent of all donors in the region have reached this level, according to Victoria Bohman, a spokesman for the Blood Center of Southeastern Wisconsin.

Slobodianuk, 43, 6419 40th Ave., says he first gave blood when he was a student at the University of Wisconsin-Parkside about 20 years ago because he knew someone who had surgery. It was only after graduation that he started donating blood regularly.

Employed in the industrial engineering department at Tri-Clover, Slobodianuk now gives blood every eight weeks, the maximum allowed, at the Blood Center, 8064 39th Ave.

"I enjoy doing it," he says. "You can't make blood in a factory. I like the fact that I'm helping somebody. I just wish more people would do it."

The center provides blood and blood components to patients in 29 hospitals in Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Waukesha, Ozaukee and Washington counties, Bohman says.

Bristol rejects kennel license

BRISTOL — Town officials Monday rejected Linda Wilson's kennel license request on a 3-1 vote, a decision that will likely result in a lawsuit, according to Wilson's attorney.

BRISTOL — Town officials Monday rejected Linda Wilson's kennel license request on a 3-1 vote, a decision that will likely result in a lawsuit, according to Wilson's attorney.

Wilson, 15901 Horton Road, is seeking permission to house nine dogs on her property.

Supervisors John Meyers, Donald Wienke and Mark Miller voted to deny the request. Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren cast the only vote in favor of the kennel. Supervisor Wayne Eide was absent.

Attorney Charles Labanowsky, representing Wilson, said Tuesday litigation is "a very definite option. The claim will probably be filed before the week is out."

Labanowsky said the Bristol ordinance on dog kennels is "vague, confusing and does not have the appropriate standard by which a reasonable person can judge what the law is."

The fight between Wilson and the Town Board has been going on for nearly a year but has a history that goes back much farther.

There have been dogs on the Wilson property since 1985, but they were not licensed until recently. She is seeking a conditional use permit from the county, but the kennel license must be issued by the town.

The meeting never happened. Wilson reported to the board later, "My neighbor chose not to appear."

Wilson currently meets all requirements of the ordinance, Van Slochteren said Monday, including a stipulation that when the dogs die, they will not be replaced.

The agenda included an agreement to table Mark Sunday's request for a rezoning on property known as the Kenosha Military Museum, 11114 120th Ave. Sunday asked to have the matter removed from the agenda and said he will resubmit it at a later date.

Bristol emphatic: 'No Jail'

Residents rally opposition to Bristol site

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Finding a spot for a new county jail has become a political football, Marilyn Griffiths said Monday.

"The city is tired of dealing with it, and they've thrown it out to us. Do we want to receive this pass?"

Griffiths, 7110 Bristol Road, was one of about 100 Bristol residents who turned out at Monday's meeting of the Bristol Town Board to denounce consideration of the northeast corner of highways 45 and 50 as a possible site for a new county jail. It is just one of four locations being considered by the Kenosha County Board.

Griffiths said city residents expect to live near courthouses, jails and pavement.

"We live in the country and we expect to keep our cornfields," she said.

Russell Mott, 6100 156th Ave., one of the few to support a Bristol jail site, said, "They've been fighting this jail situation for two years. Funny thing, each and every group comes to the County Board and says, 'Not in my back yard.' Then, whose back yard? Somebody has to have the jail."

Mott said the jail will need 200 employees. "That could do a lot for this area," he said.

Much of the anger at Monday's meeting was directed at Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, who said last week she personally supports a jail at the Kenosha County Center at highways 45 and 50.

"I can only speak for me as a person, not as part of the Bristol Town Board," she said Friday. Because the county has built a center at that location, additional facilities could be added, she said.

Van Slochteren said Monday she thinks the county should have put a new Brookside care center and a jail on adjacent sites so kitchen and laundry facilities could be shared.

Stuart Galesburg, 7600 184th Ave., said a deal to sell his house had fallen through because of news that the Bristol site was being considered.

He told the board, "If you don't come out against the jail, there will be litigation against you and the County Board."

Former Bristol supervisor William Lesnjak said he supports the Bristol site.

"Everybody wants law and order," said Lesnjak, "but there are a few responsibilities that go with law and order. This is my community, too, and I'm willing to accept my responsibility."

Supervisor John Meyer said the County Board has not consulted with the Town Board. Northerly expansion of Bristol's sewer and water lines is not in the town plans, he said.

"They can make all the plans they want, but they still have to

"This Town Board will never have an opportunity to vote on a new jail," said Van Slochteren. "We all have the right to express our opinion, but the decision will still be made by the County Board."

'No jail' signs sprouting in Bristol

By Jennie Tunkieicz
Staff Writer

Add Bristol residents to the ever-growing list of people who do not want a new county jail in their backyards.

"No Jail in Bristol" signs are filling the area since the County Board decided to add Highways 45 and 50 to the list of potential jail sites.

Some officials want the new jail near the Kenosha County Center, 19600 75th St., which is at the northeast corner of Highways 45 and 50.

The other sites being considered are a farm at Bain Station Road and Green Bay Road in Pleasant Prairie, and a farm at Highways S and EA and one between Highways K and 158, both in the town of Somers.

There are citizen opponents to all the sites.

"I can only speak for me as a person, not as part of the Bristol Town Board. I think we have started a center here with one building and in order for it to be a center in other usage of that word it should be a place to put additional facilities."

Audrey Van Slochteren

Residents of the Wilson Heights Neighborhood successfully fought off two attempts to build the jail in their area. The property considered was a former parking lot south of Washington Road and east of 39th Avenue.

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she personally supports a jail at the Kenosha County Center.

"I can only speak for me as a person, not as part of the Bristol Town Board or as chairman," Van Slochteren said. "I think we have started a center here with one building and in order for it to be a center in other usage of that word it should be a place to put additional facilities. I still say the new Brookside Care Center should have gone there to make it a center."

Van Slochteren said citizens have requested to speak on the jail issue at the Town Board meeting at 7 p.m. Monday.

"I think they believe we can take an action, but the jail is not our jurisdiction. But we can hear them out," Van Slochteren said.

Van Slochteren said she is not surprised by the jail opponents in Bristol.

"I don't care where they put it, they are going to have a NIMBY (Not In My Back Yard). Nobody wants a jail in their backyard," she said.

Marilyn Griffiths, 7110 Bristol Road, who lives across the street from the Kenosha County Center, said some county officials seem to believe their is support for a jail in Bristol because they haven't heard any opposition.

"But, that's not true," Griffiths said. "We were in contention for it, but then the county committee zeroed in on three other sites and we heaved a sigh of relief. Now we are trying to alert people that Bristol is back in contention and may be the number one site."

Griffiths said many people were not aware Bristol is again being considered.

"When we make them aware they are very alarmed and not in favor of it," she said.

Griffiths is hoping for a large turnout at Monday's meeting.

County Executive John Collins Friday said Friday he does not have the names of the Bristol property owners whose land is being considered for the jail. The contacts were made by Corporation Counsel Frank Volpintesta who was not available Friday.

Collins said he expects to see a draft jail site proposal from his staff in the next couple of days. The report will go to the County Board for a final decision.

Arb says opposition to Bristol jail too great

By C. J. Holl
For the Bulletin

"The telephone never stops ringing," summed up District 23 Supervisor Bill Arb on the Bristol jail issue. Arb said since the Bristol Town Board meeting on Sept. 12, concerned citizens have been calling him non stop.

Arb, a Paddock Lake resident whose County Board district includes Bristol, said Tuesday in his opinion, there is too much opposition to a jail in Bristol for the board to approve the proposed Highways 45 and 50 site.

According to Arb, the last thing the County Board wants is another battle over the site as happened with the proposed Wilson Heights site in Kenosha.

"Nobody wants it in their backyard. They will either have to go downtown or to the farm on 60th Street," said Arb.

Arb went on to say that the farm site between Highway 158 and 60th Street is the logical place to put the jail since it would have the least opposition and simply be the easiest place for the jail to go.

Kenosha Mayor John Antaramian opposes a jail on that property, which is across the street from a new city industrial park and near the Kenosha Regional Airport.

Arb also cleared up some misconceptions about the proposed design of the jail. Arb

"Nobody wants it in their backyard. They will either have to go downtown or to the farm on 60th Street."

county supervisor,
District 23

admitted there has been some confusion on that, but denied some citizens' claims the jail would be a 1,400-bed facility with a maximum security portion.

"This will be a minimum security jail that looks like a college dormitory," said Arb. He also said that the current plans call for a 800-900-bed facility with approximately 440 cells.

According to Arb, the issues are space and money. The county currently houses over 150 prisoners at other facilities since they can only hold approximately 180 in the downtown facility. The expense for that and the transportation is costing the county nearly $2.5 million this year. Arb said that the estimate next year is over $3 million.

Bristol citizens turned out Sept. 20 at the County Board meeting to again let their feelings be known. They presented the board a petition opposing the Bristol site with 596 signatures.

Meanwhile, the Kenosha News, on Aug. 21, published an informal poll of county supervisors showing more support for the Bristol site than any of the others under consideration. However, just as many supervisors were shown to be undecided as favoring Bristol.

A special County Board meeting is planned for Sept. 27, though a time or location had not been set as of Wednesday morning.

over taxes, fire and rescue responsibility, sewer and water capacity, and the effect a county jail would have on children growing up in the community.

Marilyn Griffiths of Bristol said that the proposed site doesn't make any sense. "Let's try to put it somewhere where it's more accessible to the judicial system."

Griffiths, whose home is across the highway from the county center, proposed keeping the jail at a downtown Kenosha site. "If you live in the city, you expect to have a courthouse, a jail and pavement. We want to keep the country in the country."

Stuart Galesburg said that even having Bristol considered as a site for the county jail has already affected him. He said a deal to sell his house fell through because of the buyer's concern over having a jail in the community. Galesburg threatened litigation against the town of Bristol and the County Board unless the Bristol board came out against the jail.

The citizen's anger was focused on Audrey Van Slochteren, town chairman, for publicly saying that she didn't oppose the jail in Bristol.

"We are going to have a jail. It has to go someplace. The longer they delay, the more it is going to cost. They need a jail and there will be a jail," said Van Slochteren.

Van Slochteren and the other board members were also careful to point out that the Bristol board has no jurisdiction over the decision of where the jail will eventually go.

"It is a County Board decision where to put the jail," said Van Slochteren.

Several citizens questioned the board on how the Bristol site became an issue and what the board knew from the county.

"They have not been in contact with the town of Bristol," said town Supervisor John Meyer.

"The county has not come to the town of Bristol in any way shape or form," added Van Slochteren. "It has been bungled by the County Board."

She went on to say that if the County Board chooses, they can force Bristol to accept the site.

Only a few citizens said that they would not mind the county jail being in Bristol. Among those were local resident Russell Mott and former Bristol Supervisor Bill Lesnjak.

"Whose backyard is it going to be in? Somebody has to have a jail. I think the jail should be out at the complex hidden behind the complex," said Mott.

Lesnjak added that he would prefer the jail to other things and that at some point the county would ask the town for something. He said it was the duty of the town to work with the county.

"We do need something. If the county wants to put it in Bristol, I say fine. I will accept my responsibility as a citizen. If this is the most cost effective place to put it, then put it here."

I have the perfect wide-open space for the new county jail: in Mrs. Van Slochteren's backyard. That way, she can apply for the warden's job, walk to work and run everyone's lives, like she has been doing while in office. The job of warden and the spaciousness of her property would be ideal, don't you agree? 9-22-94

No jail in Bristol, citizens' group says

By Jeanie Lindstrom

No way. Nohow. Not ever. Not here. And definitely not in my backyard!

Yes, the NIMBYs (Not in My Backyard People) are back, but this time, the issue is not a race track. It's a county jail. A county jail that a group of 140 people vehemently told the Bristol Town Board they do not want in their community.

The Sept. 12 meeting saw a standing-room-only crowd pack the normally peaceful town hall.

Only one lone soul voiced a positive attitude about the possibility of a jail being built at the intersection of highways 50 and 45, behind the Kenosha County Center.

"Somebody has to have a jail in their back yard," said Russell Mott. "It's going to look like a beautiful college. You wouldn't even know that the jail was here."

Mott said he had heard complaints that residents didn't want a jail near their children for safety reasons.

"Maybe we ought to make it a class that children go to see the jail, to keep them out of one," he said.

"There are going to be at least 200 formation from Capt. David McRoberts, Kenosha County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Allan Kehl said, during a telephone conversation, "The day may come when we will be housing 1,500 in the jail." He feels that a pod-like building, one that can be added onto as needed over the years, would be a wise investment.

"We want to keep the corn fields," Griffiths said. "We don't want the jail here."

Supervisors Don Wienke and Mark Miller added their opposition to the jail discussion.

Van Slochteren, when asked if she would support the citizens' request for jail opposition, answered, "I'll support you."

County board supervisor William Arb, Paddock Lake, said he has received 48 telephone calls regarding the jail being located in Bristol.

"Twenty-two were for the jail and 23 against. There were three who said they don't care where it's built," he said.

County supervisor Tom Gorlinski received only one anonymous call against the jail.

But, Arb said, presently, the supervisors out of 27 who want the county board's unofficial vote is 19 jail out of the city of Kenosha.

No jail in Bristol, citizens' group say

By Jessie Lindstrom

No way. Nohow. Not ever. Not here. And definitely not in my back yard!

Yes, the NIMBYs (Not in My Backyard People) are back, but this time, the issue is not a race track. It's a county jail. A county jail that a group of 140 people vehemently told the Bristol Town Board they do not want in their community.

The Sept. 12 meeting saw a standing-room-only crowd pack the normally peaceful town hall.

Only one lone soul voiced a positive attitude about the possibility of a jail being built at the intersection of highways 50 and 45, behind the Kenosha County Center.

"Somebody has to have a jail in their back yard," said Russell Mott. "It's going to look like a beautiful college. You wouldn't even know that the jail was here."

Mott said he had heard complaints that residents didn't want a jail near their children for safety reasons.

"Maybe we ought to make it a class that children go to see the jail, to keep them out of one," he said.

"There are going to be at least 200 employees," Mott went on. "That means 200 jobs. They (the county board) can put the jail anywhere they want. The more we antagonize them, the more the board's going to say, 'Let's stick it to them.'"

Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren started the discussion by explaining the final decision was not the town board's.

"We will not be voting on this," she said. "It's the county board's decision."

Stuart Galesberg threatened a law suit if the town board supported the jail being located in Bristol.

"I know you were against the race track because it was near your home," he told Van Slochteren. "I want you to tell the county board you oppose the jail. Quit playing these political games because Kenosha wants to annex Bristol. You'd better stand up and say something. Take a position."

Van Slochteren countered, "We are going to have a jail. We need a jail."

Van Slochteren was asked, "Do you want it next to your house?"

"I'd rather have a jail than a race track," she responded.

The town was divided a few years ago when a race track was proposed, bordering Van Slochteren's, and then town chairman Noel Elfering's, properties.

Elfering, who backed the race track, was later ousted from office, replaced by Van Slochteren.

Elfering questioned Van Slochteren about the increase in fire and rescue protection that would be needed for a jail.

Van Slochteren explained that issue has not been addressed because, "The county has not come to Bristol in any way, shape or form," she said.

Supervisor John Meyer questioned the information being handed out by the group regarding the size of the facility and amount of beds in the jail.

"Maybe they're not telling me everything," Meyer said. "I was in favor of a holding cell for 800. Not for a full-fledged, high-security jail."

Group organizer Marilyn Griffiths, whose home is located across from the possible jail site, explained, "The long-term plan is 1,500 beds in a maximum-security section."

She said she had received the information from Capt. David McRoberts, Kenosha County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Allan Kehl said, during a telephone conversation, "The day may come when we will be housing 1,500 in the jail." He feels that a pod-like building, one that can be added onto as needed over the years, would be a wise investment.

"We want to keep the corn fields," Griffiths said. "We don't want the jail here."

Bristol residents: No jail here

Operational cost information sought

By Jennie Tunkleicz
Staff Writer 9-7-94

Some residents in the town of Bristol want the County Board to know that they don't want a County Jail in their back yards. "The people in our area are not in favor of the jail," said Marilyn Griffiths, 7110 Bristol Road. "I don't want my grandchildren growing up under the shadow of a jail."

Griffiths and six other Bristol residents attended Tuesday's board meeting.

The County Board added the area at highways 45 and 50, near the Kenosha County Center, to a list of potential jail sites recommended by a special committee. The committee had recommended a farm at Bain Station Road and Green Bay Road, a farm at Highways S and EA, and a farm between Highway 158 and 60th Street.

Supervisor Thomas Kerkman, who headed the special jail committee, said he is disappointed the highways 45 and 50 area is still being considered. He said the committee discussed the site as a possibility, but ruled it out because of the excessive transportation costs created because it is west of Interstate 94 and because it would impede the city Police Department.

"Evidently people aren't concerned about operational costs," Kerkman said. "We should concentrate on the sites that were recommended by our committee and the previous committee and that is not downtown and it is not highways 45 and 50."

Supervisor Anne Bergo said she is disturbed when people talking against a jail in their neighborhood use children as a reason it shouldn't be built there.

"I'd like to remind all of you people that we have children downtown," said Bergo, whose district includes the present jail. "We probably have more children around this district than any of the proposed jail sites ... and they are just as precious to us as any children."

Both Supervisors Gerald Below and Terry Rose called for more information about the operational costs of a proposed jail and an immediate decision about when a referendum on operating the jail will go to the public. County residents might have to vote on spending money to pay for jail operations if the cost will exceed the state's cap on county spending.

In other business, the board voted unanimously to support a proposal that state legislation be changed to limit prison inmates' access to public records. Sheriff Allan Kehl has said that inmates write to law enforcement officials requesting information in hopes that the request would be ignored and they can try to collect $100 in late response fees.

How about a tax break?

To the Editor: 9-16-94
Everyone says Bristol isn't an island so why try to turn us into a Midwest Alcatraz? I'd much rather have had the race track that caused such a stir a few years ago. At least the race track would have brought in business to the community and increased tax revenues. Where are all the opponents of the race track now? In contrast a jail will: 1) take property off the tax rolls (lower tax revenue for Bristol), 2) present a constant hazard and concern for residents living near the jail, 3) increase county taxes because of transportation costs, and 4) diminish property values of those properties near the jail.

I guess, for the city of Kenosha, it is "rotten business as usual." First the city fathers, through annexation, wanted to rob Bristol of its business strip along the I-94 corridor that was developed by Noel Elfering and his board, for which he has never really been given credit. Now the city wants to dump a jail on Bristol. They talk about "cheaper green space" like its some mosquito infested swamp! In fact the area of highways 45 and 50 is one of the prime areas of the township.

It's a fact that no one wants the jail. If the jail site selection committee wants to get rid of this "political hot potato" I have a suggestion for them. There needs to be an incentive to compensate the taxpayers who will bear the burden of danger and loss of property value by having a jail in their back yard, or even worse in their front yard. If the county board truly wants to be fair about this and they want the prison (jail) out here in our "cheaper green space" why not give property owners within a one mile radius and funded by the county a permanent 50 percent reduction in their property taxes. This could probably be achieved by the savings in transportation costs alone. With this as an incentive the selection committee may find residents from the other proposed sites clamoring for a jail in their back yard.

Kennel petition denied in Bristol

By Jeanie Lindstrom 9-19-94

It's a dog's life for Tim and Linda Wilson, Bristol.

For the third time, they have been denied a dog kennel license by the Bristol Town Board.

The Wilson's attorney told the board at the Sept. 12 meeting, "There has been some bias shown by one of the town board members. This could turn into a highly volatile situation."

He was referring to supervisor John Meyer. Meyer's brother, Bill, is the Wilson's neighbor and has objected to the issuing of a kennel license.

The Wilson's own nine large-breed dogs, requiring a kennel license in the town.

Bristol grants use of school to SCA

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 9-15-94

BRISTOL — The Bristol Grade School Board Tuesday granted a request by an area organization to hold a day of medieval revelry at the school.

The board voted unanimously to put the matter into the hands of its administration, and Administrator Gale Ryczek made it clear he feels the event will be fun and educational. Ryczek said he would attend to ensure that no problems develop.

As explained by members Dannie Coleman and Fred Weeks, the Society for Creative Anachronisms is dedicated to recreating combat as it was experienced in the Middle Ages. The members make their own protective armor and mail and engage in battles one-on-one, using rattan swords and weapons to ensure against serious injury.

Other activities in which members participate include feasts, in which food, music and dance from the period are provided. The event is primarily for the edification of members, but others may attend, providing they either come in costume or agree to don clothing provided for them to make the gathering seem as authentic as possible.

Bristol Kennel license rejected

9-29-94
The Bristol Town Board rejected a kennel license request made by Linda Wilson, 15901 Horton Road, by a vote of 3-1. Wilson is seeking permission to house nine dogs on her property.

The board's decision will likely result in a lawsuit, according to Charles Labanowsky, Wilson's attorney.

He explained to the board that a claim will be filed because the Bristol ordinance on dog kennels is vague, confusing and does not have the appropriate standard by which a reasonable person can judge what the law is.

The Wilson's friend, Karen Gibson, came to their defense, saying, "I have found her bap-and animals to be extremely clean. I'm bothered by the fact that John Meyer's brother started this issue. Ethically, he (John Meyer) shouldn't be voting on this."

Town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren explained that Meyer is legally able to vote on the issue, because he will not gain any monetary value from the decision made.

Three letters of opposition and three requesting kennel approval were read.

A motion to deny issuing the kennel license was made and passed, with only Van Slochteren casting the dissenting vote.

Regional sewer meeting scheduled

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 9-23-94

BRISTOL — Representatives of the town of Bristol will meet at 2 p.m. Monday with representatives of the state Department of Natural Resources, South-eastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and other communities along the I-94 corridor to learn the status of plans to create a regional sewer authority.

Addressing other Town Board members Thursday, Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she requested the meeting because until the issue of how sewer and water service will be provided along the I-94 corridor and who will provide it is resolved, the town is hamstrung in planning for future growth.

"We are being held hostage," said Van Slochteren. "We are not being allowed to develop our land as we see fit."

Town Supervisor Donald Wienke said the "proper thing" is for land up to one mile west of I-94 to have sewers running east to Kenosha. "But," he said, "it's not being done for political reasons."

Paul Dreis, of the Madison engineering firm of Strand and Associates, who has been retained to represent the town in the question of sewer and water service along I-94, said he was told by a SEWRPC representative that a long-awaited alternate plan prepared by Kenosha is to be unveiled at Monday's meeting at the Kenosha County Center at highways 50 and 45.

If that plan is not workable, he said, it remains to be seen what will happen next. So far, he said, he has been unable to get anyone with SEWRPC or the DNR to say what will take place next in the effort to get a regional sewer authority.

Van Slochteren said that a regional sewer service plan put forth by SEWRPC would probably be acceptable to Bristol, Paris and Somers but the city of Kenosha has been adamant in its refusal to accept the plan.

Right place for the jail

To the Editor: 9-22-94

The commotion might not be as great if county supervisors considered the obvious when locating their new public safety building: Not only is the intersection of U.S. 45 and Hwy. 50 the geographical center of Kenosha County, but the ideal government center as well.

Further, the county might ease Kenosha's crying need for a first class municipal building by transferring the courthouse and public safety building to the city and moving the sheriff and judges to Bristol. Visionary citizens of Bristol have seen this for decades. The Kenosha County Center is a result of that vision.

The current upheaval stems less from a concern to save open space than from the well-founded suspicion that whenever Kenosha wants something, it tries to take it, and when it doesn't want something, it tries to dump it over I-94 onto Bristol. This is perhaps the biggest reason why "no jail in Bristol" signs have suddenly sprouted in front yards all around town.

We all know that trying to preserve cornfields along the Hwy. 50 corridor is like walking eastward on a west-bound train. But when you live in the country, you expect to see development compatible with a rural setting. At the same time, we know that change has arrived in Bristol and many of us welcome it. In our view, a public safety building would make a quiet neighbor.

Bristol is over-flowing with good citizens who know their duty and do it. Even those who would love to stop the clock are not afraid to speak their minds and because of them, our quality of life is phenomenal. They have helped to preserve our heritage.

But for many people, a government center located here in Bristol, incorporating all the responsibilities of government, including public safety, is a good idea whose time has come. Audrey Van Slochteren should be commended for giving voice to the idea. The country board needs some of her political courage. It's apparently in short supply!

Wilderness experience proposed for Bristol students

By Joe Van Zandt 9-20-94
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Bristol Grade School Board voted unanimously Monday night to seek additional information about a simulated wilderness experience that one of its teachers would like to offer to seventh and eighth grade students.

The proposal, prepared by Clayton Frounfelker, would require participating students to attend five one-hour instruction sessions after school, followed by a 2-1/2-day camping and hiking trip at the Wisconsin Southern Kettle Moraine State Forest.

Cost would be $20 per student and participation would be voluntary.

The School Board members all liked the idea but several expressed concerns.

"It would be a wonderful opportunity for kids who otherwise would never get to go camping," said Jeannine Lindstrom. "But I don't know how the kids will get picked. We will have parents calling to complain if their kid isn't picked."

Lindstrom also expressed concern about the fact that the proposal lists just two adult chaperones. "If we have more teachers go on the trip," she said, "it will cost a lot of money to hire subs."

"I think we should work on it (the proposal) for the spring or fall of next year," said board member Barbara Boldt. "I am uneasy about the short amount of time we have to implement a program like this."

"I hate to see someone who puts in so much effort into a plan have it squelched," said board member Jack Spencer.

The board agreed to postpone action on the proposal until it can learn more about it.

Bristol votes on school addition

Referendum scheduled Tuesday

By Joe Van Zandt and Jim Rohde
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Members of the Bristol Grade School Board say they are optimistic that taxpayers will approve a binding referendum Tuesday for a $3.9 addition to the school.

The referendum asks electors for a yes or no vote on whether the School Board shall have the authorization for construction, equipping and remodeling of the school at 20121 83rd St.

The School Board and administration have been saturating the community in recent weeks with information on the planned addition in hopes that when the public realizes the serious need for more space, they will go along with an increase in property taxes to pay for it.

Among reasons cited for an addition:

- Two more classroom sections have been added this fall because of increased enrollment.

- Rooms previously used for health and music instruction had to be taken over for other classes. As a result, music is being taught with instructional materials wheeled around on a cart.

- No more classroom space of any kind remains in the school building.

- Physical education classes es for primary grades are being taught in the cafeteria and other physical education classes are being doubled up because the school gym is unable to accommodate the classes.

- Some special education teachers are making do with closet-size rooms for offices and for meeting with students.

To alleviate the space crunch, Board President Richard Bizek said, the School Board is proposing to build a 48,500-square-foot, one-story addition with a lower level. The existing K-8 school building is 64,000 square feet.

The plans were prepared by architect William R. Henry, Elkhorn. Sixth through eighth grade classrooms would accommodate a possible middle school concept at some future date.

Also including is remodeling of existing first and second floors to provide four additional classrooms, remodeling of the vacated science classroom for use as an elementary grades library, expanding the parking lot to the east and extending the fire access driveway.

Based on a 20-year payoff of bonds, the School Board has projected that the additional property tax for a home assessed at $75,000 would be $114 the first year and would decrease slightly each successive year to $58 in the 20th and final year of loan payments.

School district residents will cast their ballots at the Bristol Town Hall, 198th Avenue at 93rd Street, or at the Western Kenosha County Senior Center, 19200 93rd St. (Highway C.) Polling places will be open Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Bristol to develop impact fee plan

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Bristol Town Board Monday night voted unanimously to hire a Brookfield financial consulting firm to assist in creating a set of impact fees for new construction in the community.

David A. Wagner, a financial advisor with Ehlers and Associates Inc., Brookfield, told the board his firm would prepare a set of fees in such form that they could be enacted into a single ordinance.

"The fees would be not unlike sewer or water assessments," he said. "They have to relate the cost of what you are doing to what is planned. You cannot recover costs of things already in use."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said the state Legislature has decreed that school districts may not enact so-called impact fees but that municipalities may do so. Referring to Bristol's intent to establish such fees, she said, "They will not be meant to hinder, just to ensure that everyone pays their fair share."

The fee to be paid by the Town Board to the Ehlers firm is not to exceed $4,000.

In other business, Progress Days Committee member Richard Merten reported that $4,000 in unspent funds dating back to 1985 has been sitting in a bank and earning interest, so that today, it totals $6,300. He said the committee has been informed that it cannot legally keep such money, so he proposed giving all but $300 to the town with the understanding it would be used to purchase playground equipment for Hansen Park.

The board agreed to schedule a meeting with Progress Days Committee members to discuss the transfer of funds and how that money ought to be used.

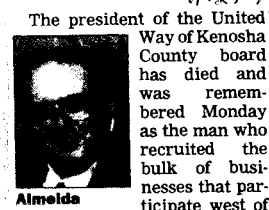

The board also voted unanimously to name Brian Beth, who recently retired from the Kenosha County Sheriff's Department, to a vacant seat on the Bristol Plan Commission.

It renewed the licenses of two mobile home parks — Rainbow Lake Manor, which has 193 lots, and Bristol Heights, which has 18 lots.

Van Slochteren reported disapproval with the posture taken by the city of Kenosha at a Monday meeting to discuss the possibility of creating a regional sewer authority. She said the city's promise of a 20-year moratorium on annexing Bristol land was misleading because it would only take effect after three large parcels along Interstate 94 were taken from Bristol.

United Way board president dies

Almeida rallied countywide fund-raising

Almeida

The president of the United Way of Kenosha County board has died and was remembered Monday as the man who recruited the bulk of businesses that participate west of Interstate 94.

Lawrence "Larry" Almeida died Sunday at Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital, Milwaukee, after a long illness. He was 52.

Almeida, president of Contact Rubber Corp., 8635 198th Ave., in the Bristol Industrial Park, was board president this year after serving as fund chairman for the 1993 campaign.

"I contacted all the board members (about the death) and those that serve as vice presidents commented (Almeida) was always willing to help them," United Way Executive Director Mary Plunkett said.

"He came to their meetings and was involved, and participated in every level, really," she said. "You just don't see that that often. He was just really so caring, just a great guy."

The number of businesses west of I-94 grew from a handful to more than 50 since Almeida joined the board in the early 1990s, officials said.

"He truly helped to make it a countywide effort," said Jerold Franke, 1993 board president. "He helped to get business owners to help recognize that it wasn't just a city of Kenosha thing."

Almeida was direct this January when asked for reasons why the campaign failed to meet its $1.3 million goal, instead raising about $1.15 million.

"The main reason for not meeting our expected goal was apathy among small businessmen in the county," he said. "These are the people we need to reach."

O'Neill McDonald, president of SuperValu Great Lakes division, is directing the 1994 campaign, which began Sept. 10. He also is president-elect, and is slated to succeed Almeida as board president.

There only is one board meeting left this year, and officials said they were unsure whether McDonald would be named president before January.

County handed 'no jail in Bristol' petition

By Jeanie Lindstrom

9-27-94

The bell rings and round two starts.

Ladies and gentlemen, in this corner, petition in hand, we have a group of Bristol residents ready for the fight. And in the other corner, with gloves on, is the Kenosha County Board of Supervisors. The prize: A location site for a new county jail.

Bristol citizens gathered at the Kenosha County courthouse Sept. 20 to protest the possible location of a new county jail at highways 50 and 45. With only 40 people able to be seated in the board room, a large crowd waited in the hallway for their chance at the microphone, to voice their opposition.

The same voices had been heard at a Bristol Town Board meeting Sept. 12, but citizens realized they would have to make themselves heard at the county board meeting. The Bristol Town Board explained it has no voice in the decision about where the jail is to be built.

Other site locations being considered are in Somers and Pleasant Prairie.

"Why would you put a jail in Bristol," asked Stuart Galesberg. "Because you want to annex Bristol. The place to put the jail is in Kenosha, where the most arrests occur."

Dave Pfeiffer added, "Politicians are planning on going into business and hauling prisoners in here. We enjoy rural living. This has been a political football. Bristol is out of bounds."

Byron Aslett, an Illinois state trooper living in Bristol, said, "Jails make profits by housing extra prisoners. Build it where it's supposed to be, next to your jail."

Sue Rogers questioned the pampering of criminals, saying, "I don't think these people should have the reward of living in fresh air. Why are we rewarding people who break the law?"

Bristol supervisors Mark Miller, Wayne Eide and Don Wienke attended the meeting, all voicing their opposition to a "green site" jail in Bristol.

"You can see a number of our citizens are opposed," Wienke said. "The Bristol Town Board is opposed too."

A Sept. 13 letter from Rudolph

Ferraro, Ferraro Engineering and Construction, Kenosha, to the county board, recommends the Bristol site for the jail.

The recommendation includes the acquisition of 20 acres adjacent to the Kenosha County Center, another 40 acres north of that, and 2 or 3 acres on Highway 45.

Ferraro added, "Consider purchasing additional land north, up to the Brighton Creek, to provide direct access for storm-water runoff. The contours and elevation would make a perfect fit for a jail site."

Sheriff candidate Ken Polzin supports a jail located at 52nd and 60th streets.

"This is the only site that is centrally located and that could be developed as recommended by the 1991 master plan," Polzin said in a press release.

David McRoberts, captain of detentions, previously reported that the site location is a county board decision, not one made by the sheriff; their (McRoberts and Sheriff Allan Kehl) main concern is that a jail be built to alleviate the already overcrowded conditions.

Perhaps Dan Molgaard said it best for the group: "This is just a start for the people of Bristol. Whatever we have to do to take the jail off that site, we'll do it."

Bristol residents sigh with relief after board defeats jail site resolution

Bristol residents held their breath Sept. 27 as County Board members voted and then erupted in cheers and clapping after the board defeated a resolution on the proposed county jail site in Bristol.

"They really did their homework," said an obviously relieved Sandy Griffiths of the County Board. "They need to be commended tonight for their efforts."

Griffiths, who lives across the street from the proposed site in Bristol, was a leader of the resident opposition to placing the jail there.

The board voted to end discussion on Bristol as a jail site by a 18 to 7 margin after several supervisors commented on information some residents of Bristol presented in a letter submitted before the meeting.

Supervisor Doug Noble pointed out several issues brought up in the letter including the fact that 87 percent of all arrests in Kenosha County happen east of Interstate 94.

"The most viable sites are east of the interstate. We should ignore all sites west of the interstate altogether," said Noble.

County Board Chairman Robert Carbone also recognized the efforts of the Bristol citizens.

"Let's put the facility where the activity is. It makes sense east of the Interstate," Carbone said.

Anna Molgaard of Bristol thanked the board for its action and said she was relieved Bristol was no longer being considered.

"The supervisors should be complimented, they finally saw the expense," said Molgaard.

In an unexpected move, the board decided to allow citizens to speak out on the jail issue after it considered having Jerald Franke, vice president of WisPark Corporation, speak

A site in Pleasant Prairie owned by WisPark was under consideration Tuesday.

"If we are going to have it, then everybody should have the opportunity to speak," said Supervisor Terry Kose.

Bristol residents took advantage of the chance to drive home their point that the costs involved with the Bristol site are more than has been previously thought.

Bristol Town Supervisor Mark Miller, speaking to the County Board, said the costs associated with sewer and water service alone should discount Bristol as a site.

"Jails are not cost effective," said Miller. "It is going to cost everyone money in the county. Let's think about this."

Supervisor Leonard Johnson responded to the concerns, saying "Whatever site we buy will be cheap compared to what it will be 30 years from now. There doesn't seem to be an ideal site and people have a false impression of what the jail will be like. Wherever we put the jail, there will be people living there."

For his part, Franke further explained the letter he sent to the board stating 95 acres adjacent to the LakeView Corporate Park is no longer for sale for a jail site.

"Our site is no longer appropriate," said Franke. He went on to say there is no consensus among the other area businesses on the issue and that the County Board has not given them enough time to gather support for the idea.

A compromise proposal put together by Supervisors Terry Rose and Darrel Haen called for spreading out the jail to three facilities including a larger downtown site.

The plan would have called for a 240-bed facility to house work release inmates to be built at a green site east of the interstate, a 448-bed main jail downtown and a renovation of the existing jail to house inmates prior to trial. Rose lobbied to have the proposal considered, but the board voted to table the discussion.

Russell Mott of Bristol drove home the point that people are tired of the political bickering over the issue.

"I know that the jail is very important and I don't care where the jail goes, but I'm tired of the politics. Let's get it done. Let's put it where it is beneficial to everyone," Mott said.

The board adjourned without deciding on a final site for the jail even after Chairman Carbone admonished the supervisors to decide the issue once and for all.

"We have come under a great deal of criticism for not making a decision. We have tried to be good neighbors throughout the process and it is time to bite the bullet and come up with a site" said Carbone.

Regional sewer plan debated

Bristol, city given deadline on accord

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 9-27-94

BRISTOL — The town of Bristol and the city of Kenosha will have another 60 days to settle a border war that threatens to scuttle the entire concept of regional sewer and water.

If the two municipalities cannot find common ground, a study that took five years and cost $200,000, will be shelved.

Representatives of local governments met Monday and reviewed the situation that has prevented the creation of an areawide sewer and water authority, despite a recommendation from a study committee.

The issue is this: Bristol wants to protect its borders against annexation by the city. Kenosha wants to retain its ability to use sewer and water as a bargaining tool.

The recommendation of the committee, after studying the issue for five years, was that Kenosha, Pleasant Prairie, Somers and portions of Bristol and Paris be combined into an areawide sewer and water authority. One-mile strips along I-94 in Bristol and Paris are included in the area.

The final chapter of the committee's report recommended that a regional authority be implemented and that treatment and storage facilities, transmission mains and trunk sewers be acquired and operated by that authority. Of all the options studied, it was found to be the most cost-effective.

Kenosha Mayor John Antaramian said because of a boundary agreement with Somers and the incorporation of Pleasant Prairie, the city's growth to the north and south has been stopped.

"The only direction we can grow is westward," said Antaramian. "We would like to be guaranteed some room to grow in the future."

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said a poll showed that 97 percent of Bristol residents want their Town Board to maintain the entire 36 square miles of the town — not give up anything to annexation.

"We are absolutely not willing to give up any land," said Van Slochteren. Antaramian said the city has previously negotiated boundary agreements with Somers and Pleasant Prairie.

"We feel strongly that some negotiations with Bristol have to happen before the city moves on this issue," he said.

County Planning and Development Director George Melcher said the committee is in a state of gridlock.

"The county funded half of the study," said Melcher. "We spent money to build a technical document, and now it's absolutely necessary to sit down and get this thing resolved."

Van Slochteren said the town and city entered into negotiations two years ago but could not reach agreement "because no community is willing to give up one-third of its tax base in six years. It was not a fair playing field."

Kurt W. Bauer, executive director of Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, asked if the city of Kenosha is willing to sell its sewage treatment plant.

"No," said Antaramian. "It is not in the best interests of the ratepayers."

CRIME STOPPERS

A $1,000 reward is being offered by Kenosha Area Crime Stoppers for information leading to the arrest of two men suspected of the armed robbery early Monday morning at the Cracker Barrel, 7015 122nd Ave.

Police said the restaurant was robbed at approximately 4:30 a.m. by two men with guns who forced the restaurant manager to unlock the restaurant safe. The men tied up the manager and two maintenance employees before fleeing with an undetermined amount of cash from the safe.

Lt. Larry Zarletti said the manager and two employees eventually worked free and notified police.

Investigators also Wednesday released a description of the two suspects. One is described as between 25 and 30 years old, 5 feet 7 inches, with a medium build. He was last seen wearing a blue knit cap and a black windbreaker jacket.

The other suspect is also estimated between 25 and 30 years old, 5 feet 9 inches, with a stocky build, a mustache and a thin goatee. He has a chipped front tooth.

Both men are suspected to be armed with handguns.

Crime Stoppers can be reached at 656-7333 or 1-800-773-7333 for those with information.

Voters approve school project

$3.9 million
Bristol School plan advances

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — By a vote of 219 to 145, electors in the Bristol Grade School District on Tuesday gave the go-ahead for a planned $3.9 million addition to the school.

School Board President Richard Bizek said the results of the referendum are a mandate for the School Board to proceed with expanding the school facilities to accommodate an expected influx of students.

"It shows," he said, "that if you are honest with the people and don't try to get something over and above what you need, the people will believe and trust you."

Bizek praised the Citizens Committee for working with the School Board to determine whether an addition was needed and to evaluate various options before recommending a final building plan. He said the committee was also instrumental in informing the community about the plans and how important it was for them to support them.

That plan, for a 48,500-square-foot addition, will provide 11 additional classrooms, new science and computer labs, new library gymnasium, art room and offices.

Also included are plans to remodel the existing building to provide four more classrooms, to remodel a vacated science classroom for an elementary library, to remodel the vacated library for a primary student activity area, and to expand the parking lot and fire access drive.

Administrator Gale Ryczek said he was "confident the people would support us because there was a real need."

He said the next step in the process is to have detailed plans drawn and then to seek the best financing possible. Construction work could begin as early as late February or early March.

Politicians taking over

To the Editor: 9-29-94

I'm tired of reading about Audrey Van Slochteren's opinion about the Bristol jail site. She was elected by the Bristol town people to represent them, not to go into backdoor politics behind closed doors. She knows that Bristol is not even close to having enough sewer and water for this size of a jail as proposed. Maybe it is time for a recall. The people of Bristol are sick and tired of Audrey Van Slochteren and don't understand why she would ever consider the proposed Bristol jail site when the taxpayers know it is the most expensive site that anyone could choose. It is the furthest away from the Court House, no sewer and water are available, and the transportation costs are high. In addition, there will be many other hidden costs.

Why are politicians elected by the taxpayers and then when in office go against the people who put them in that office? Let's start working with facts and figures and keep dirty politics out! Start listening to the people who you are supposed to be representing.

Name Withheld

Well, people of Bristol, 9-29-94 Audrey's at it again. She's after another fee. Every time you add on to your house or build on your lot, she's gonna get you for another fee. Let's wake up and get rid of Audrey. Thank you.

Who the devil made Russell Mott spokesman of Bristol? Somebody shut him up. He was never elected to anything. 9-29-94

Bristol School addition OK'd by voters

By Diane Giles
Bulletin Staff Writer

Bristol Grade School District voters gave the green light on Sept. 27 to a $3.84 million dollar addition to Bristol School. The 48,500-square-foot addition will expand the school's space by nearly 175 percent.

The referendum vote had almost twice as many ballots cast as in the primary election held earlier this month. The referendum passed by a vote of 219 to 145.

Bristol School District administrator Gale Ryzek didn't think there was a great amount of verbal opposition to the plan.

"We had a lot of people working hard to get it done," said Ryzek, referring to the campaign waged to get residents to understand the need for the addition. "It was an all-out effort."

Ryzek told of a couple who came to visit on the day before the election.

"He said, 'Before I vote, I want to know what's going on.' Not many people who didn't have kids here did that," explained Ryzek. "I spent about a half-hour with them, showing them the school and the plans. We got done and he said, 'OK, we're leaving now, and we're going down to vote for this.' That was the neat part."

The new addition will include a science lab, a computer lab, a new library, a gymnasium with locker room, offices, separate rooms for band art and music, and 11 new classrooms. Interior remodeling of the present facility also will be done to add four more classrooms.

A new parking lot with 100 more spaces also will be added to handle the current parking problems.

The district owns the land east of the building all the way to Hwy. 45, and the new addition and parking lot would be placed there.

The cramped school's current enrollment is 470, reflecting the area's continued growth with subdivision growth at an all time high.

William Henry and Associates has been chosen as the architectural firm, and Banc One Corporate financial advisor Eugene Schultz is also working on the project.

The new addition will not be ready in time for the 1995-96 school year; construction is slated to start in late February or early March, and will take nine to 11 months to complete.

The positive vote may have come not a moment too soon. "We have 11 homes being built across the street," said Ryzek. "I looked today and there's two more going up that popped up out of the ground."

Bristol plans development of 300-acre industrial park

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The town of Bristol will purchase 300 acres along I-94, north of Highway 50, for creation of a new industrial park, according to Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren.

Four parcels, to be purchased from three owners, will cost $4.7 million. Three of the parcels have frontage on the Interstate highway.

The Bristol Town Board will meet at 7 o'clock tonight to pass a final resolution on the project and authorize the sale of general obligation bonds to pay for the land.

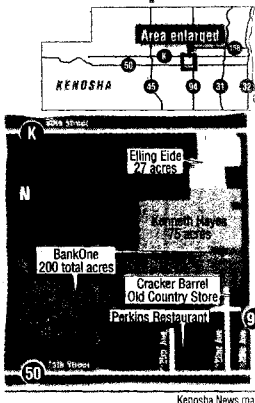

The transaction includes 200 acres of land, in two parcels, to be purchased from Bank One, Kenosha; 75 acres from Kenneth Hayes, Iowa; and the remaining 27 from Elling Eide, a Florida investor.

Van Slochteren said Tuesday the board is "delighted" with the acquisition.

"All steps in the negotiations have been completed. We've worked out all the necessary steps. Once the board takes the final action tonight, it will be a done deal," said Van Slochteren.

The largest parcel in the transaction being purchased from Bank One is the former Bristol Mills property, where once a huge shopping center was planned. That project failed, and the property was obtained by the bank through foreclosure.

The Hayes property was also sold to Bristol Mills on a land contract. When Bristol Mills defaulted, Hayes reclaimed the acreage.

Van Slochteren said the town has been looking for a new industrial site for the past two years, since the last parcel in the Bristol Industrial Park was

"We want to protect the development of that area. We have set up a utility assessment area at I-94 and Highway 50, and we want to make it work to its utmost potential."

sold.

The existing park is in the village of Bristol, Highway 45, south of 83rd Street. Created 32 years ago, the park now has 28 businesses employing 500 people.

Van Slochteren said the town plans to do its own marketing of the new park, and will look for light industry of the type that exists in the village industrial park.

The new development is in conformance with the town's recently adopted land use plan, said Van Slochteren.

"We want to protect the development of that area," she said. "We have set up a utility assessment area at I-94 and Highway 50, and we want to make it work to its utmost potential."

Van Slochteren said the decision to purchase industrial land means the town is more determined than ever to protect its boundaries.

At a Monday session with state and local officials, Bristol and the city of Kenosha were asked to make one more attempt at settling their differences, to make it possible to create a regional sewer and water authority. All other affected municipalities, Somers, Paris and Pleasant Prairie, support the concept.

Kenosha refuses to support regional ownership of sewer and water plants because it would no longer have the power to trade utilities for land. Bristol has vowed to protect its 36 square miles against all annexation attempts.

"We know this purchase will make the regional plan non-implementable," said Van Slochteren. "We will seek help from Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission and the Department of Natural Resources to find the best way to provide sewer and water to the property."

Bristol seals sale of industrial park land

Move to halt annexations by the city

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — In a move designed to prevent annexation by Kenosha, the town of Bristol on Wednesday bought 300 acres of land.

Bristol now owns all of the undeveloped real estate along I-94, between highways 50 and K.

"Tonight's action is an indication of our commitment to protect the town's original boundaries as established in 1837," said Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren. "It is our only means to stop direct annexation."

At a special meeting, the Bristol Town Board passed resolutions authorizing the land purchase for industrial sites and the sale of $4.6 million in promissory notes to be underwritten by Firststar Bank, Milwaukee, at 8.24 percent interest.

Town officials said they don't expect Bristol residents to be taxed for the payment of the debt. By the time the first payment comes due in two years, the plan is to have enough industrial parcels sold to make the payments.

All of the land is north of the established commercial district at I-94 and Highway 50.

The parcels purchased by the town include:

- 190 acres from Bank One, Kenosha, $1,881,600;
- 3.6 acres from Bank One, Racine, $250,000;

- 73 acres from Kenneth Hayes, Iowa, $1,300,000;
- 28 acres from Elling O. Eide, $335,000;

The parcels bought from Bank One were part of the ill-fated Bristol Mills property, once touted as the site of a mega-shopping center. The project failed and banks foreclosed on the property.

The Hayes property, once a turkey farm, was sold to Bristol Mills on a land contract. Hayes reclaimed the land when the developers defaulted.

Attorney James Gormley, Davis and Kuelthau, Milwaukee, said his firm was hired three months ago to investigate the property purchase.

"Upon investigation of undeveloped land at I-94 and 50, we found that all four parcels were for sale," he said.

"We feel we purchased the property when the price was right," said Van Slochteren. "We bought it as an investment and intend to recover the cost through resale and taxes on future development in the area."

"One of our primary goals was to preserve and develop the tax base that supports our schools without increasing enrollment," said Supervisor John H. Meyer. "More than a quarter of the town's tax base is in the I-94 and Highway 50 area. We have an investment in excess of $2.5 million in sewer and water systems to serve that part of the town."

Van Slochteren said the groundwork for a new industrial park was laid when the town adopted a land use plan in 1992 reserving the area near I-94 and Highway 50 for urban, commercial and industrial development.

Also in 1992, the town created a special sewer and water assessment district that includes the just-purchased lands. Earlier this year, a system of collector streets for the area was approved by the town.

"When we started talking about buying this land, it seemed like a far-fetched idea," said Supervisor Donald Wienke. "But the more we discussed it, the more realistic it became. We didn't do this out of spite but because we want to move ahead."

"I'm excited that we could do this and make it work," said Supervisor Mark Miller.

Supervisor Wayne Eide called it "a positive step in managing the growth of Bristol."

Van Slochteren said the Bristol board is still willing to schedule talks with the city of Kenosha "now that the threat of annexation has been removed."

Kenosha officials have made no secret of the fact that they want to annex portions of Bristol to provide room for the city to grow.

At a Monday meeting concerning the possible creation of a regional sewer and water authority, Mayor John Antaramian said the city can only grow west. The incorporation of Pleasant Prairie has sealed those borders and a boundary agreement with Somers prevents growth to the north.

The land purchased by Bristol Wednesday is designated for sanitary sewer under regional and state plans. Bristol's nearest plant is in the village of Bristol.

The current development at I-94 and Highway 50 is served by an interceptor that pipes sewage under I-94 to a plant in Pleasant Prairie.

Water tower comes down

By Jim Rohde
Staff Writer

A symbol of Pleasant Prairie became a part of history Friday when workers dismantled and took down the old Zitzel Water Tower at 82nd Street and 17th Avenue. The well and water tower dates back to the 1940s and served approximately 140 homes in the vicinity of Zitzel Road (82nd Street) and Highway HH (104th Avenue). It was deeded to the town in 1978 by the Zitzel Water Co.

In 1988, water from the system was found to be contaminated and unsafe for human consumption. The water tower was power washed, disinfected and refilled before being declared safe. At that time, the town indicated it would continue to chlorinate the system.

Last year the village board proposed shutting down the well and connecting the homes to the municipal water system because of frequent breaks in the lines and because the well had insufficient capacity to serve the neighborhood.

The village board accepted a bid of $31,800 from Hoover Water Well Service, Russell Ill., to demolish the Zitzel Water Tower while Sam Azarian Wrecking, Racine,

CITIZEN COMMENTS

Jerry Franke, Vice President of WisPark spoke regarding the withdrawal of the site from consideration.

Sandy Griffiths, 7010 Bristol Road - stated that she had put a well prepared letter on all the supervisors desks from Concerned Citizens for the Town of Bristol. The information is accurate and they not stop protesting until Hwy. 45 & 50 is taken off the list.

Russell Mott, 6100 - 156th Avenue, Bristol - stated that the County Board has to make a decision on where to put the jail. The sheriff should say where he wants the jail.

Mark Miller, Bristol Town Supervisor - stated that to expand their sewer plant their looking at roughly 2.8 million to 3 million dollars. A water tower is about $700,000.00.

Wayne Eide, Bristol Town Supervisor - stated that we need to listen to the Sheriff and the has stated that Bristol is not an effective site.

Dave Pfeiffer, 7645 - 184th Avenue, the Bristol site is too expensive to develop.

Dan Molgaard, stated that the people of Bristol want the jail site be taken off the site list.

Shirley Davidson, stated that the jail would cause the loss of tax revenues for the Town of Bristol.

Al Couplan, stated that he is an engineer by profession and makes decisions based on facts. The County Board should base their jail site selection on facts and not play political football.

Marilyn Griffiths, stated that 87% of the arrests take place east of I-94.

Don Griffiths, asked how the county can justify paying over 6 times the assessed value to acquire land in Bristol for a jail.

Jackie Simmons, Bristol - stated that they have not been informed by any supervisor as to what is going on in reference to the jail.

The Clerk read the following Resolution from Building & Grounds Committee to acquire land for a new county detention facility at Hwy. 45/50.

Large 4-bedroom Kingston has traditional design in Wisconsin

Rolling, wooded terrain is the setting for Bristolwood, a subdivision planned for 68 single-family homes and located in Bristol in southeast Wisconsin.

Being built by D.R. Horton Custom Homes, the project offers residences priced from $131,900 to $172,900 that are on lots averaging 14,000 square feet.

Featured as Festival Home Wisconsin, B is the 2,150-square-foot Kingston, a four-bedroom, 2½-bath traditional design priced from $154,900.

To the right of the foyer is the 12-by-13-foot living room, and to the left is the 10-by-12½-foot dining room.

The 16-by-13-foot family room features an optional fireplace, and windows providing views of the back yard.

Adjoining the family room is the breakfast room and kitchen. The kitchen is equipped with an island, range/oven, dishwasher and disposal.

A laundry room and powder room complete the first floor.

Upstairs, the 15-by-13-foot master bedroom includes a walk-in closet, and a master bath with a double-bowl vanity, separate tub and shower, and optional skylight.

Another full bath serves the other three bedrooms. They measure 11 by 10½ feet, 12 by 13 feet, and 11½ by 11 feet.

Standard features include a basement, media niche, and nine-foot ceilings on the first floor.

Options include three-car garage, whirlpool tub, and washer/dryer. D.R. Horton specializes in custom modifications.

To visit Bristolwood, take Interstate Highway 94 north to U.S. Hwy. 50 and exit west. Drive four miles to U.S. Highway 45 and turn south. Drive one-half to County Road AH. Turn west and drive one-quarter mile to the community.

Suit dogs Bristol

Town of Bristol authorities have been sued for not issuing a kennel license.

Linda Wilson, 15901 Horton Road, filed the suit Thursday in Kenosha Circuit Court against the town board, board supervisors and the town treasurer, Geraldine Merten.

The suit claimed the town's kennel ordinance lacks sufficient standards, contradicts state law, is vague and violates Wilson's rights.

The suit asked a judge to:

■ Allow Wilson to continue to use her property to house nine dogs or declare that the ordinance is unconstitutional.

■ Reverse the board's denial of her license applications or order Merten to issue a license.

■ Outline what Wilson's rights are.

The board's denials of the license were "arbitrary, oppressive, unreasonable and without a rational basis," the suit said.

The town ordinance requires a resident to have a kennel license when a resident has more than a certain number of dogs. The board originally denied the license on Oct. 6, 1993. It then approved the license during an Oct. 8, 1993 special session. It reversed itself again on Jan. 10, 1994.

Wilson reapplied on March 7 and Sept. 12, but the board rejected the requests both times.

The suit said that at each session where the board voted against the license, one or more supervisors commented or did something that showed impermissible bias.

That apparently refers to Supervisor John Meyers, who always has voted against the license and is the brother of William Meyers, 16607 Horton Road. William Meyers is Wilson's neighbor and has repeatedly complained to the board about the dogs.

An opinion from the District Attorney's office said John Meyers does not have a conflict of interest in the matter and could vote on the license.

WEPCO applies for transmission lines

Wisconsin Electric Power Co. has applied for permission to construct a 12.3-mile transmission line from its Bain Substation in Pleasant Prairie to a new Spring Valley Substation in Salem.

The application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity (CPCN) was filed with the Public Service Commission on Sept. 12.

Several route alternatives were investigated and public input gathered during public meetings in August 1993 and June 1994. The route shown in the accompanying drawing was selected because it is shorter, less costly than the alternate routes and will affect the fewest number of residential properties.

Wayne Koessl, WEPCO senior local relations representative, said the new transmission facilities are needed to reliably serve existing and future customers in the area.

"The demand for electric power in this rapidly growing area has been increasing and is expected to continue to increase," said Koessl.

The commission will review WEPCO's application and schedule public hearings sometime in 1995. Property owners along the alternative route will be invited to participate in the hearings.

Bristol

Commercial area proposed

10-6-94

The Bristol Plan Commission considered a proposal to allow small commercial areas at a few of Bristol's intersections, on Oct. 4.

An amendment to the town land use plan would allow highway-oriented commercial retail and service facilities at the intersection of two important roads, such as a county and state or U.S. highway.

Criteria would include an average of 5,000 vehicles per day on one of the two intersecting highways and 425 vehicles per day on the other.

For the town to place the intersection in the "commercial node" category, there would have to be two contiguous parcels seeking business zoning.

Bristol works on impact fees

Bristol Town Board members are ready to implement impact fees but it's going to take awhile.

Impact fee schedules are being investigated by Ehlers and Associates and will then be brought in for board approval.

The fees will charge developers for "additional public facilities," according to Ehlers representative Dave Wagner.

"Impact fees are the cost of new facilities related to a new development," Ehlers said. "You can't go backward and recover the cost of

Bristol adds to school, industrial park, but no jail

By Jeanie Lindstrom

School referendum passes

A $3.9 million referendum for an addition to Bristol School met with approval to Bristol electors Sept. 27 with 364 votes cast; 219 voted yes and 145 voted no.

The building addition consists of classrooms, library, science labs, computer room, music, art, band, conference rooms and office area.

Administrator Gale Ryczek thanked the building utilization committee, PTA, parents and board members for getting information to the public.

The plan calls for an additional 48,500 square feet of new construction, remodeling of existing classrooms, library to a primary student activity area, and expansion of the parking lot and fire access driveway.

Construction is expected to begin in the spring, after final plans are drawn and financing sought.

Bristol wins round three in jail opposition

Even though they said they had come unprepared to speak, Bristol residents gave Kenosha County Board of Supervisors quite an earful at the Sept. 27 meeting.

On the agenda, once again, was the location of a new county jail. The possibility of Bristol being considered as a jail site has met with opposition with a large group of residents, with more than 500 signing a "no jail in Bristol" petition.

But plans have changed for the county board. The site in Bristol was voted down 18-7, while the site at WisPark was withdrawn.

Board members may look at the option of condemning the WisPark property for a new jail, although board chairman Robert Carbone called the idea "ludicrous."

Carbone explained that Bristol town supervisors Wayne Eide, Mark Miller and Don Wienke spent many hours informing him of the downfalls of putting a jail in Bristol.

"Because of the utility district, only a portion of the town of Bristol would pay for expanded sewer," Carbone informed the supervisors. "I expect citizens would rather not pick up the tab for this."

Commercial areas proposed

BRISTOL — Small commercial areas would be allowed at a few Bristol intersections under a proposal considered Tuesday by the Bristol Plan Commission.

An amendment to the town land use plan would allow highway-oriented commercial retail and service facilities at the intersection of two important roads, such as a county and state or U.S. highway.

Criteria would include an average of 5,000 vehicles per day on one of the two intersecting highways and 425 vehicles per day on the other.

In order for the town to place the intersection in the "commercial node" category, there would have to be two contiguous parcels seeking business zoning.

Though only a few intersections in Bristol could meet all the criteria for the new commercial zones, a case in point is the intersection of highways 50 and MB.

The Byzantine Catholic Diocese, current owners of the property known as the old Woodworth School at 50 and MB, are seeking to sell the building. The property is zoned institutional, but according to church members, all prospective buyers want business zoning.

Richard and Linda Hoover, 13510 74th St., and Michael Beluomini, Rolling Meadows, Ill., have plans for an antique mall in the old school, but need the zoning change first.

Commission Chairman John Boldt said the reason for the "node" plan is to keep commercial developments together, to prevent spot zoning.

"In the wrong hands, this (amendment) could be devastating to Bristol," said Commissioner Gene Anderson.

"If enough parcels come together, we could have nodes at the intersection of every county and state highway in the town," said Boldt.

"It looks like a good idea to me," said Commissioner William Niederer.

Commissioner Dan Hohmeier said "It could occur anywhere, anytime. It could become the argument for any zoning request."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she believes there are only three intersections in the town that would be affected.

The commission took no action on the proposal, but agreed that it will be discussed again at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 1.

All residents living at intersections that would be affected by the change will be notified to attend the meeting.

interstate system," he responded. Does that specifically mean Bristol?

"Yes," he answered.

"A jail in Bristol would reduce the duplication of services and eliminate some of the transportation scenarios. Anytime a patrol car has to transport a prisoner into the city, it takes an officer off the streets," he added.

Kehl continued, "Too many times negative comments have floated back and forth between government bodies. That's got to stop. We have to resolve this. I am optimistic the board will make a decision in a cost-effective manner."

But, it ain't over till it's over.

Bristol buys land for industrial park

The Bristol Town Board continued to fight the threat of annexation by the city of Kenosha at a special meeting Sept. 28.

Board members voted unanimously to purchase approximately 300 acres of land along the I-94 Highway 50 corridor, for the development of another industrial park.

By providing its own sewer and water to the development, Bristol should be able to thwart any further annexation proposals from Kenosha, according to town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren.

Parcels being purchased include: 190 acres from Bank One, Kenosha, for $1.8 million; 3.6 acres from Bank One, Racine, for $250,000; 73 acres from Kenneth Hayes, (formerly known as the turkey farm) for $1.3 million; and 28 acres from Eiling Eide for $335,000.

The purchase means the town now owns all undeveloped land along I-94 from Highway 50 north to Highway K.

Van Slochteren said, "The town intends to recover the cost through resale and taxes. It was the time to move on this."

Supervisor John Meyer added, "This is an important area for the town. More than a quarter of the town's tax base is located in the area."

"We don't feel this is an attack on our neighbors across the I. We feel we have a right to have it," Meyer continued. "This is not a declaration

Bristol Board approves search for new well site

BRISTOL — A $2,900 contract for a well site study and public service rate change required by the Public Service Commission were approved Monday by the Bristol Town Board.

Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer Associates, Milwaukee, town engineers, were awarded the contract to search for a well site and write a report for the PSC rate change.

In other business, the board tabled the request of Kathy Glembocki, 1966 81st St., for a three-year lease of a town-owned parking lot.

Glembocki offered the board $1,500 a year to lease the gravel lot between the Town Hall, at 198th Avenue and 83rd Street, and Valley Truck Stop, on Highway 45, which Glembocki has an option to purchase.

Board member Wayne Eide moved to table the item until a special meeting Oct. 20 when the board could review contract terms with Glembocki.

The lot is needed for parking space for early morning trucker business, and a three-year term would help set business expenses for the operation, said William Glembocki, speaking for his wife.

The board was given a back-handed compliment from Russell Mott, 6100 156th Ave. Mott praised the recent decision to buy land for an industrial park in the I-94 and Highway 50 corridor on the town's eastern edge but then condemned the board for its handling of a dog kennel license, which was sought by Linda Wilson, 15901 Horton Road. Wilson has filed suit against the Town Board for refusing to issue the license.

Wilson's suit claims the town's kennel ordinance is vague, violates her rights and contradicts state law.

The board denied her a license in October 1993, reversed itself the same month and then reversed itself again in January 1994.

"How can you do such a beautiful job and then look like a bunch of jerks?" Mott asked.

Supervisor John Meyers said Mott could continue to complain at each board meeting, but he would stand by the board's decision to enforce the town's kennel ordinance.

Supervisor Wayne Eide, said he would like to get on with other town business and let the issue be settled in court.

Responding to Mott's comments that the board is argumentative, Eide said, "We may differ, but the end goal is to do what is best for Bristol."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said local response has been positive for the purchase of 300 acres for an industrial park, along I-94 between highways 50 and K.

"We are still receiving phone calls daily praising what the Town Board has done and, in the case of many, stating a desire to become a player in the development of the land."

Bristol library to be named for Becker

BRISTOL — The Bristol Grade School Board honored one of its own Tuesday night, voting to name the library that will be part of a $3.9 million addition the Edward Becker Library.

Becker, who has served 20 years on the School Board, learned recently that the cancer he has been battling is considered terminal by his doctors. Despite that, he decided to continue serving on the board as long as he feels he can make a contribution.

The normally gruff and tough Becker was visibly moved upon hearing the motion by board member Jeanine Lindstrom to name the new library after him. His eyes welling up with tears and finding himself in the rare position of being speechless, he got up and left the room briefly.

Board President Richard Bizek seconded the motion, adding, "As president, I rarely second any motions, but this time I felt I should. Ed and I have been through a lot together."

After returning to his seat, Becker thanked the board.

Bristol tab for industrial park hiked

10-6-94

BRISTOL — The Bristol Town Board called a special session Tuesday to borrow an additional $65,000 to complete a 300-acre land transaction that was started a week ago.

Four parcels had been purchased for a total of $4.6 million from four owners on Sept. 28, but at the last minute, Elling Eide, owner of a 28-acre parcel, refused to sell at his agreed upon price of $335,000.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said, "We got the word Tuesday night that he would not attend the closing on Wednesday."

She said the decision to pay Eide the additional $65,000 was made "because it's better than getting tied up in court."

Town officials said last week they will create a new industrial park on the 300 acres that is along I-94, north of the already established commercial district at the Highway 50 intersection.

The parcels purchased by the town include:

- 190 acres from Bank One, Kenosha, $1,881,600;
- 3.6 acres from Bank One, Racine, $250,000;
- 73 acres from Kenneth Hayes, Iowa, $1,300,000;
- 23 acres from Eide, a Florida investor, originally reported at $335,000, now $400,000.

Restaurant fate to be decided

By Jeanine Lindstrom

Going into business for yourself is tough enough, let alone having that business depend on a neighboring parking lot. But that's how it is for Bill and Carol Glembocki and Anna Frazer.

The three partners are venturing into the ownership of the Valley Restaurant, Highway 45, Bristol. A well-known, local establishment, the Valley has catered to truck drivers who park in a neighboring lot, owned by the town.

The three intend to purchase the business but need a lease for the parking lot from the town.

Glembocki explained he would take responsibility for gravel replacement in the lot, snowplowing, and cleanup. But he felt that complaints about dust control could not be dealt with until the town chooses to blacktop or come up with an alternative solution.

Glembocki was willing to pay the $1,500 per year with a 3-year lease agreement. But the town wasn't biting.

Board member Wayne Eide suggested negotiating a deal, perhaps on a yearly basis.

Glembocki told the board, "The restaurant is so dependent on the parking lot, it makes it impossible to buy the restaurant without an agreement. We're holding off (purchasing the business) until we get the lease settled."

The matter was tabled for further information and discussion at a Thursday, Oct. 20, special meeting.

Well: The board authorized Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer Associates to do a new well site study at a cost of $2,900.

Bristol: Leaves not burned in a container require a burning permit, available at the town hall. They are free and must be obtained the day you intend to burn. Fire Chief Scott Muhlenbeck is available on Saturdays at the town hall to obtain a permit, 8 a.m.-noon, according to treasurer Geraldine Merten. 10-12-94

Co-founder of Merkt Cheese dies

Carol M. Merkt-Wilks, 78, 4110 81st St., died Friday (Oct. 14, 1994) at her home.

With her late husband, George W. Merkt, she founded the Merkt Cheese Co., Bristol.

The daughter of the late William and Alma (Tesch) Riggs, she was born Oct. 29, 1915, in Salem.

A lifelong resident of Kenosha County, she was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Union Grove; the Schubert Club, Kenosha; the Professional Business Women's Group; and other civic organizations.

On Oct. 29, 1937, she married George W. Merkt at Holy Name Church, Wilmot. He preceded her in death, Dec. 6, 1971. She married Herbert Wilks in 1979 and he also preceded her in death.

In her autobiography, "That Business of Love," privately published in 1984, she told of meeting George Merkt in 1936, when he was selling cheese and sausage door to door. After their marriage, they opened a cheese store at Brass Ball Corners in 1937, and later, other shops in Salem and Bristol.

In 1960, they began marketing the product, originally called Old Salem Butter Churn Cheese Spread, which brought success and growth to the Merkt Cheese Co. When her husband died, she worked to keep his dream alive, she wrote, telling relatives at his funeral, "We'll make cheese tomorrow."

Even after she sold her interest in the company to George's nephew, Tom Merkt, in 1982, she continued to maintain an office in the firm, located in the Bristol industrial park.

Merkt-Wilks is survived by an uncle, Fred J. Bienapfl, McHenry, Ill., and by many nieces, nephews and cousins.

The Strang Funeral Home, Antioch, is in charge of arrangements.

MERKT-WILKS—Private funeral services for the late Carol M. Merkt-Wilks, 78, of Kenosha, Wis., who passed away Friday, October 14, 1994 will be held on Monday, October 17, 1994. Interment will be in Salem Mound Cemetery, Salem Township, Wis. There will be no visitation. Strang Funeral Home, Antioch, Ill. handled the arrangements.

The couple, who met at a dance in Libertyville, have three children: Kenneth, New Munster; Ronald, Bristol; and Sandra, Pleasant Prairie. They also have seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

LeRoy Gillmore worked on the Gillmore Farm in Bristol. He is retired but still helps on the farm. Edith Gillmore is a homemaker.

The couple are both active members of Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church.

She is active in Kenosha County Extension Homemakers and Bristol Women's Auxiliary.

The keys to a success marriage are "having a strong commitment to God, to each other, and having a loving family," the couple wrote.

Saluting the Sondag Military Museum

By Jeanie Lindstrom 10-17-94

Joyce Sondag said it best: "The man with the most toys wins."

Husband, Mark Sondag, may not have the most toys but they are probably the biggest around Kenosha County. The Sondags are owners of the Kenosha Military Museum, located along I-94, on Frontage Road, Bristol.

Driving down I-94 you'll get a passing view of tanks and helicopters, among other military equipment.

Mark Sondag is not eccentric or bizarre. He's a man with an unusual hobby. He collects military machinery and artifacts. It's a very expensive but rewarding hobby.

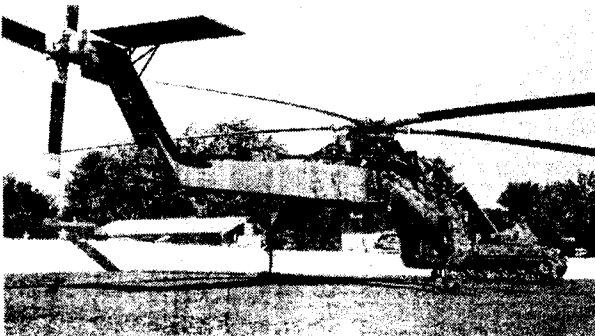

Sondag recently traveled to Alaska to purchase a skycrane. While the skycrane looks like a helicopter, it has a large cable and hook on its belly, used to transport tanks or other machinery up to 40,000 pounds.

Sondag didn't want to divulge the price of the skycrane, but did say it took him and a friend 7 days "round-the-clock" to disassemble it for transport on a flatbed semi-truck. The truck rental alone cost him $25,000, which prompted him to purchase his own truck for future shipments.

A large map of the United States is in Sondag's office, pinpointing military bases. Those bases are like oversized garage sales for Sondag.

"I buy what the government is throwing away," Sondag explained. "I'm fascinated by everything. It's like going out on a hunt, but I don't do any shooting."

After trucking or sometimes flying his new find home, Sondag re-assembles it at the museum for public display.

The skycrane can carry a tank or other military equipment weighing up to 40,000 pounds. Note the size comparison between the skycrane and the two-story house behind it.

He explained that before he opened the museum, people would knock on his door and ask to look over his "toys." By opening the museum to the public for a small admission charge, he is able to continue his purchases while providing a historical treat for visitors.

"I've got one of just about everything you can imagine," Sondag laughed. He owns more than 150 pieces of machinery and equipment "from World War I to Desert Storm."

Even movie makers come to Sondag for help.

"You might see Schwarzenegger driving one of my tanks," he jokes.

His tanks have been used in the movies "Red Dawn," "The Package" and "1941." One was recently used in a commercial for the Potawatomi Casino.

Occasionally, Sondag gets a call from the government asking to trade a piece of equipment. Imagine trading a one-of-a-kind tank for two updated ones!

But Sondag is interested in providing a service to the community. The museum saw 10,000 guests this year from around the world.

"It's really great to see grandfathers telling their grandchildren how they were with General Patton, as they walk around," Sondag said.

By the stories he hears, "Patton must have had a lot of soldiers under him," he says with a grin.

Sondag is presently trying to put up a building to house some of the display. Trying to meet the standards set by county zoning and the Bristol Town Board, the cost of the building has jumped to $250,000.

"I want to do this right," he said. "I'm trying to be a good neighbor."

Sondag hopes the town board will receive calls supporting his museum. He has hired the same architect who designed the Kenosha County Center to design his building.

Bristol town chairman Audrey Van Slochteren commented, saying, "Like everyone else, he has to comply. We want to work together. There's no ill will between the town and Mark Sondag."

Van Slochteren continued, "We met with county zoning. They've given him suggestions about uncluttering the front area along Frontage Road and housing some of the equipment inside. We're not asking for a monumental building. But this town does support county zoning."

What's next for Sondag?

"I wanted to buy an aircraft carrier," he said. "I have big dreams."

The aircraft carrier was 7 acres in size and sleeps 3,000.

Sondag thought it would make a great floating museum, docking all along the great lakes.

"You could rent it for parties and graduations," he explained. But the Environmental Protection Agency talked him out of it.

Sondag joked that he is now looking at a submarine.

"I always want more," he said.

The museum is open on weekends only, weather permitting, during fall and winter. Admission is $3; children under 6 are free.

Visitors are free to roam the area, while the Sondags and their children, Kyle and Troy, answer questions.

An experience for young and old, the Sondag Military Museum deserves a 21-gun salute.

Bristol School and Community Day funds PTA projects

New playground equipment and upgraded computer software may be on the horizon for Bristol School through the fundraising efforts of the PTA.

Bristol School PTA's major fundraiser of the year, the Bristol School and Community Day '94 will be held on Oct. 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the school, 20121 83rd St.

Included in the event will be a craft faire, bake sale and book faire. A Kid's Kingdom area will have face painting, games and prizes for youngsters. A giant raffle drawing for a number of prizes is slated to begin on the stage at 3:30 p.m.

Good food goes hand in hand with good fun and the bake sale, concession stand, and luncheon menu will provide plenty of fare.

The two major projects the PTA has taken on this year are a playground renovation project, including purchasing new playground equipment, and moving forward to update the computer technology in the school library.

PTA Past President Julie Berg explained that when choosing a major goal, the group tries to choose something that reaches the most number of kids.

"The reason things have not been done up until now is because of the building expansion referendum," said Berg. "We didn't know which direction the school was going to go and we didn't want to start with the playground until then. The same was true for the library." Voters recently approved a referendum to build a $3.84 million dollar addition to the school.

The group also sponsors the Bristol Bucks program, eighth grade graduation, various alcohol/drug awareness activities, teacher/student enrichment activities and helps defray the cost of field trips.

Funding for the Bristol PTA projects also comes from the "We Care" grocery receipt program at Pick-N-Save stores and the school's Market Day program, but the vast majority of the funds needed for the budget is generated at the annual School and Community Day.

The Town Board of Supervisors of the Town of Bristol, Kenosha County, Wisconsin, hereby creates Section 13.08 of the Code of Ordinances of the Town of Bristol relating to fire suppression systems to read as follows:

13.08 AUTOMATIC FIRE SPRINKLER SYSTEMS.
(a) Applicability. Pursuant to S101.14(4m) of the Wisconsin Statutes, every multi-family residential dwelling serviced by municipal water which is constructed within the Town of Bristol shall be constructed with an automatic fire sprinkler system for fire protection purposes. "Automatic fire sprinkler system" has the meaning given in S145.01(2) of the Wisconsin Statutes.

(b) Standards Incorporated by Reference. Provisions of the Wisconsin Administrative Code regulating automatic fire sprinkler systems and fire safety are hereby adopted by reference, as may be amended from time to time. Furthermore, to the extent not inconsistent with the Wisconsin Administrative Code, the standards of the National Fire Protection Association regulating automatic fire sprinkler systems are hereby adopted by reference. Any automatic fire sprinkler system which is required by this ordinance shall be installed and maintained in every building and structure where required by the Wisconsin Administrative Code, if not otherwise required herein, and shall comply with the standards adopted by the Wisconsin Administrative Code and the National Fire Protection Association, in effect at the time of such installation.

(c) Certification and Inspection. Every installer of an automatic fire sprinkler system shall, upon completion, certify to the Fire Chief of the Town of Bristol, or his or her designee, that installation was completed pursuant to the requirements of this ordinance. Upon receipt thereof, the Fire Chief or his or her designee will inspect the installation and verify compliance or direct such appropriate action as is required to secure compliance. No building or structure for which an automatic fire sprinkler system is required shall be occupied or used for its intended purpose until compliance with this ordinance is verified by the Fire Chief or the Fire Chief's designee. The Building Inspector shall not issue a certificate of occupancy for any building or structure until compliance with this ordinance, where required, as verified by the Fire Chief or his or her designee.

(d) Connection to Water Supply System. The water service line providing water to the automatic fire sprinkler system may be connected to the general water service lateral, or may be a separate lateral, provided, however, that if connected to the general water service lateral, the fire line must be separate and valued before the water meter which measures the domestic water supply. The sizing, location and all other aspects of the required water supply line must be authorized and approved by representatives of the water utility and the owner of the premises which requires the automatic fire sprinkler service. The owner will be required to pay for the full cost of installing a new or separate fire service water supply line in addition to all necessary valves, fittings and other costs associated with the provision of such service.

(e) Maintenance. The owner or

John Niederer, 13, Bristol, meets Sparky, the fire dog, at the Western Kenosha County Safety Fair. The annual event was held Oct. 9 at the Kenosha County Center, highways 50 and 45, Bristol. (Jeanie Lindstrom photo)

Bristol hires negotiator

By Patrik Vander Velden

BRISTOL — A lawyer has been hired to help negotiate a regional sewer and water plan between Bristol and the city of Kenosha.

At a Monday meeting of the Bristol Town Board, members voted to hire William F. White, of the firm of Michael Best & Friedrichs, Madison, at $175 per hour.

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said part of the attorney's job would be to set up future meetings between the two municipalities to "aid in negotiations with the city on a regional sewer and water plan."

A recently completed five year plan by the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission recommends an areawide authority for sewer and water service for the city, portions of Bristol, and Paris and all of Somers and Pleasant Prairie.

However, the city and towns are gridlocked over use of the Kenosha-owned utility as a bargaining chip for city growth and sewer and water service to Bristol.

Clarification on gun club

To the Editor: 10-18-94

Recognizing that most issues are better resolved off the editorial pages, there is a need to clarify the Bristol gun club situation. Letters previously published may create some misunderstanding.

A recently mailed questionnaire to families in the immediate area of the gun club indicates that 90 percent of the families responding to the questionnaire have concerns about the gun club's hours of operation and the constant and high level of noise that occurs during those hours. Most view the club as any other neighbor; it is accepted that there will be the usual sounds of mowers, chains saws, etc. but such equipment is not operating at 9 a.m. on Sunday mornings or after nightfall in the evening.

There is no interest in closure of the club. There is an interest in reasonable hours and reasonable efforts to contain noise levels. It should be added that there recently was a complaint to the sheriff's department resulting in an investigation that indicated that an alarming amount of shot was falling on properties to the north of the gun club. It's assumed that such a problem has already been resolved but to date we are not certain.

Previous letter writers suggested that the idea of "who was there first" has considerable merit. Without attempting to respond in detail to that argument, personal experience over a period of 16 years indicates that present noise levels are more pervasive now than in the past. This is an issue of mutual accommodation. It is not an issue of guns, and not an issue of squatter's rights nor an issue of natives versus outsiders. Recognition of the true issue should enable a satisfactory resolution.

Andy Bowers, Bristol School eighth-grader, won the Central High School cross country meet, running 1-1/8 mile in 7:47.

On Nov. 8, 1993, Bowers attempted to cross Highway 45, Bristol, when he was hit by a pickup truck. He was severely injured and spent more than a month recuperating. As soon as he was able, he was out running through Bristol every day.

This is the fourth time Bowers entered the race. He won a medal and T-shirt for his endeavors.

Days Inn in Bristol hosts Amerihost meeting

The Days Inn in Bristol Districts, each with its own hosted the Amerihost Midwest distinctive link to the commu- Region Sales Directors Team nity's past and present, gave Meeting Oct. 12-13.

Wednesday evening, the Kenosha Area Tourism Corporation and Lakeshore Trolley hosted a Mystery Progressive Dinner for the group. They boarded the trolley at the Days Inn and were whisked away for a mystery tour of Kenosha.

On the way to their first stop, they were acquainted with unique locations in the community and given a brief history of the area.

My Place Cafe was the perfect spot for hors d'oeuvres and a sampling of fine specialty coffee. A guided tour of Kenosha's Third Avenue, Civic Center and Library Park Historic Districts, each with its own distinctive link to the community's past and present, gave everyone time to sit back, relax and enjoy the beauty along Kenosha's lakefront.

Dinner at the Cooper House came complete with a special visit from the Christmasse Feaste Madrigal Singers. Diners were favored with a fine selection of holiday harmony and a sneak peak at this year's Christmasse Feaste musical repertoire.

Dessert at the Taste of Wisconsin topped off the evening. Afterward, the trolley took weary travelers back to the hotel and dropped others off to enjoy a shopping adventure at the Factory Outlet Center.

Bristol $4.7 million land buy called reckless

Former plan chief criticizes purchase

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

Bristol's purchase of 300 acres of land in an attempt to control its borders was a risky, reckless move, said the former chairman of the Bristol Planning Commission.

Larry Kilduff, who served on the commission for four years, said the land purchase was "poorly thought out."

Kilduff, president of Meridian Properties, 4237 Green Bay Road, said "An awful lot of people have looked at that intersection in the past five years and passed on it because they don't see it as a viable investment."

"They saw it as too risky, too speculative," said Kilduff. "In today's marketplace, you just don't buy land and hold it."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Kilduff's disapproval is a minority opinion. "We've gotten a 99 percent approval rating. Town residents are very much in support of the action we took."

When the Bristol Town Board paid $4.7 million for 300 acres near I-94 and Highway 50 on September 28, board members said the move would prevent annexation by Kenosha. The land will be marketed as industrial sites, they said.

With the purchase, Bristol now owns all of the undeveloped real estate along I-94, between highways 50 and K.

Van Slochteren said the town will recover the cost through resale and taxes on future development in the area.

Bristol residents will not be taxed to pay off the debt, according to town officials. By the time the first payment comes due in two years, the plan is to have enough industrial parcels sold to make the payments.

"It may have looked like a clever way of cutting the city off," said Kilduff, 7912 160th Ave., "but if it's so easy to develop that piece of property, some developer would have done it by now."

Kilduff said creating a new industrial park will be a difficult task for Bristol because there are hundreds of acres of unsold industrial land within 10 miles of the Bristol site.

LakeView Corporate Park in Pleasant Prairie, owned by WisPark Corp., has developed about 450 acres since it opened in 1988 and has 900 acres left.

Business Park of Kenosha, Highway 158, just east of I-94, being developed by WisPark, the city of Kenosha and Kenosha Area Development Corp., has 140 acres and just started selling land earlier this year.

"The only record Bristol has is as a niche player in our original industrial park," said Kilduff. "It attracted smaller users, a whole different clientele, with lower land costs. We have no track record of being able to compete with WisPark on top flight industrial development."

Van Slochteren said the town has no intention of competing directly with WisPark. "Our marketing strategy has not been developed yet, but we plan to compliment, not compete. Our consultants tell us that it definitely is a viable market."

Kilduff has made no secret of his concerns about the I-94 and Highway 50 intersection. At the 1994 Bristol annual meeting, he told the town board and citizens the commercial district is not necessarily the goose that lays golden eggs.

He warned that Bristol is not adequately serving the intersection with sewer, water and fire protection. "If we have to start servicing it, it won't lay so many golden eggs," he said.

Six days later, when Kilduff was nominated for a new term as commission chairman, the vote was 3-2 against him. Only Van Slochteren and Supervisor Donald Wienke voted to reappoint him.

"I wasn't reappointed because I raised the issue of the intersection and the fact that we are underserving the area," he said.

Kilduff says now if he were still on the commission, he would have resigned over the land purchase.

A boundary agreement with the city would have been a better choice, he said. "For Bristol to exist, we have to have a good relationship with our neighbors."

"What scares me the most is they took $4.7 million worth of bonding capacity, bought property from private owners and took it off the tax rolls. They would have to be very naive to think that the city will just walk away and not be interested in it anymore."

Kilduff predicts the city will invoke extraterritorial zoning to tie up development of the property. State statutes allow cities to exercise ETZ powers up to three miles outside their corporate limits. If the city chooses to do that, it would likely mean freezing the existing land use of the 300 acres Bristol just purchased.

"I love Bristol," said Kilduff. "I would dearly love to see us develop that corner and retain our boundaries. But I think you have to be realistic. What they did may not be in the long term best interests of the town."

Pheasant Run may need Bristol sewer

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 10-31-94

PARIS — With another new landfill cell being dug at the Pheasant Run Recycling and Waste Disposal Facility, Waste Management Inc. may soon ask the town of Bristol for permission to run a sewer line from the landfill on Highway K and 45 to a sewer main at Highways 45 and 50.

Addressing a recent meeting of the town of Paris Landfill Committee, Pheasant Run environmental engineer Robert Vallis said such a sewer hookup would eliminate the need to haul leachate pumped from the landfill to the sewage treatment plants in Kenosha and Bristol for disposal.

Vallis said some 20,000 gallons of leachate are pumped each day from the landfill cells at the Pheasant Run site, 19414 60th St. The leachate consists of various liquids, including rainwater, that settle through the packed waste to the bottom of the cells.

Because the leachate is 10 to 20 times as strong as regular sewage, Waste Management would pre-treat it at the landfill and then dilute it before putting it into the Bristol sewer system, Vallis said. While the cost of pre-treating on site and paying Bristol for processing the treated leachate would be costly, he said it would still be cheaper and more efficient than using tank trucks to haul the liquid.

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Saturday that representatives of Pheasant Run had met with members of the Town Board's Public Works Committee several months ago to broach the idea of linking the landfill to the town sewer system.

"At that time, they went back to do some further study," she said. "If they are still interested, the proposal would have to come back to the Public Works Committee for further investigation" before being presented to the Town Board, she said.

Van Slochteren said she believes the sewage treatment plant could handle the increased volume of wastewater from Pheasant Run.

"The benefit to Bristol would be added user fees," she said.

Hunters are sighting-in for the deer hunt

Whenever he visits his brother, Steve, at his home in Bristol, Rich Kuksa, 25, Chicago, like many other hunters, takes advantage of the opportunity to do some shooting at the ranges of the Conservation Club of Kenosha County on Highway

C west of Highway 45. Kuksa zeroed in a new Remington Model 77 rifle that he plans to use for deer hunting near Black River Falls. The bolt-action is a .308 caliber carrying a Redfield Tracker variable power scope.

Water meter device proposed in Bristol

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 11-9-94

BRISTOL — Public Works Director Randy Kerkman made a strong pitch Tuesday night for the purchase of a high-tech device for reading water meters.

At a meeting of the Public Works Committee, Kerkman said the device would enable a village employee to take meter readings from a vehicle instead of manually inspecting the meter at each home and business in the water district.

The device is able to scan data from meters located inside houses up to a distance of 1,000 feet and deciphers an individualized code located in each meter so there is no chance of a mistake.

Currently, Kerkman said, it takes four persons working six hours each, or a total of 24 man-hours, to read each meter in the town. The proposed system would cut the time required for gathering meter data to four man-hours.

The new system would enable the Public Works Department to bill users on a monthly instead of a quarterly basis, meaning the town would not have to wait so long for payment and customers would have a more even cash flow.

Kerkman said the current system has numerous problems, such as not being able to collect a fee for water that is unaccounted for. In many cases, he said, there is a large disparity between the reading on the inside meter and the remote outside meter and the outside meters often malfunction.

Bristol site to be proposed for annexation

11-8-94
A Bristol resident has filed notice of her intent to seek annexation of a 30-acre parcel into the village of Pleasant Prairie.

A legal notice was published by Judith Howe, 10900 120th Ave., on Nov. 5. The law requires that she wait 10 days before she can petition Pleasant Prairie to annex her land.

Howe said she is seeking annexation because she needs sewer and water for the development of her property.

Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said she has arranged a meeting with Howe and her real estate agent to discuss the issue.

"We definitely do not want her to file that petition," said Van Slochteren, "and we are grateful that she is willing to sit down and talk with us."

"I'm opposed to just going out and grabbing land," said Pleasant Prairie President Thomas Terwall. "We'll want to sit down with Bristol and see if they have any interest in developing the area."

Howe's property is located near the Highway 165 interchange, an area that is included in the Pleasant Prairie sewer service area. Lines were installed under the highway during a sewer extension by the village several years ago.

The village has a $6 million investment in the sewer lines, said Terwall.

"We have not encouraged anyone to annex," he said. "When they come to us, we just tell them what procedure to follow."

Bristol School DOT may deny highway exit

The state Department of Transportation may not allow the Bristol Grade School to include an exit from the school directly onto Highway 45.

Gale Ryzek pointed out to the DOT that it would make no difference from a safety standpoint because vehicles leaving the school will have to turn out onto Highway 45 from 85th Street, only one block north of the proposed exit.

He added that it would increase safety because it will lessen traffic jams following school events and take the pressure from drivers to pull out in a hurry.

Commercial nodes approved by Bristol planners

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — A draft plan to create commercial nodes at highway intersections was referred by the Plan Commission Tuesday to the town planner to be added to the current land use plan.

The amendment to the town land use plan would allow highway-oriented commercial retail and service facilities at the intersection of two important roads, such as a county and state or U.S. highway.

It allows the "commercial node" category where two contiguous parcels seek business zoning and street traffic averages 5,000 vehicles per day on one of the two highways and 400 per day on the other. The highway center line would be considered the abutting line of contiguous parcels, said Patrick Meehan, Meehan and Co., Franklin, town planner, who developed the concept.

The idea is an attempt to prevent spot zoning and was prompted by the proposed sale of the Byzantine Catholic Diocese property at highways 50 and MB for business operations.

In a related matter, a plan to develop the diocese parcel as an antique mall remained on the table. Developers Richard and Linda Hoover, 13510 74th St., and Michael Belluomini, Rolling Meadows, Ill., were directed to return to the December meeting with a plan based on the proposed amendment change.

When first presented in October,

11-2-94
“Look at each (request related to nodes) on an individual basis; look to meet criteria, so you aren't locked in. It's a more cautious approach.”

Patrick Meehan, town planner ber, commissioners were split over approval and postponed a decision until after public input from affected property owners.

Meehan said location of the nodes should not be predetermined by the commission or Town Board but by land owners developing the areas.

“Look at each (request related to nodes) on an individual basis; look to meet criteria, so you aren't locked in. It's a more cautious approach,” he said.

Creation of the nodes would control access points, set limits on frontage length and create buffers zones between the commercial zones and properties with other use.

Creation of the nodes would force property owners to talk to each other and come up with plans the commission can look at.

Plans without consideration of development by contiguous property would not have a chance of commission approval.

William Niederer, who made the motion for approval, said, “We have to be open minded and ready for change. It sets guidelines.”

Planner Dan Hohmeier called it a “step in the right direction.”

The vote for drafting the measure was unanimous.

In other business, the commission recommended approval of a setback variance for West-asha Tool Co. Inc., 8411 194th Ave.

Cletus Seitz, 30909 Burlington Road, told the board the business intends to build a 50- by 77-foot addition equal to existing nonconforming setbacks of 13.1 feet, or about twice the 25-foot requirement.

The commission allowed a street yard setback from the required 40 feet to 34 feet for construction of a detached wood frame garage for Charles and Betty Ogren, 9145 176th Ave.

It approved a variance for the maximum square footage on a tower sign for Denny's Restaurant, 12121 75th St. The variance allows Denny's to put a sign with 118 square feet on each side below the Days Inn motel sign on the tower pole.

Combined the signs have 648 square-feet, or 48 feet more than allowed by county zoning ordinance.

Shangrila dam project near completion

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer

11-3-94
BRISTOL — Six years and some $100,000 after the effort began, work to repair and modernize the Lake Shangrila dam is about to be completed.

In a report to a joint Wednesday night meeting of the Town Board and its Public Works Committee, Joseph Cantwell, vice president of the Milwaukee engineering firm of Graef, Anhalt, Schloemer Associates said the project will be completed before the onset of winter.

A 16-inch pipe with a gate or butterfly valve to regulate water flow from the lake will be installed within the next few days. It was chosen over the more traditional, removable boards to satisfy concerns of the state Department of Natural Resources.

Lake Shangrila is not spring-fed. Its only source of water is drainage from the surrounding area, so the water level is not expected to ever require opening the drainage pipe, Cantwell said. Given this, the DNR wanted a water regulation system that is water-tight so that the lake level does not go down because of uncontrolled leakage at the dam.

The DNR also felt a drain pipe and control valve located four feet down would enable the town to drop the lake level before winter to kill off aquatic weeds. Another advantage of placing the valve four feet down is that it would allow for the lake level to be drawn down so that lakefront property owners could make repairs to piers and retaining walls.

Once the pipe is installed, Cantwell said, the only thing left is for the town's maintenance crew to backfill the soil to form the earthen dam walls.

Bristol has paid for its share of the cost of the dam renovation with money from its general fund, while Salem has levied special assessments for property within the lake's drainage area. Assessments range from $45 per parcel for land off the lake to $296 for lakefront parcels. In all, 333 parcels lie in the Salem portion of the lake's drainage area and 177 parcels lie in the Bristol portion.

Gift store/gallery construction begins

Construction has begun on ArtWalk, a $1.7 million gift store/art gallery in Bristol.

Lynn H. and Sandra J. Obertin, who also own a pair of stores in the two I-94 factory outlet malls, are having the new, 14,000-square-foot store built at Highway 50 and 125th Avenue. The couple has purchased 1.68 acres at the intersection, just west of I-94.

Scherrer Construction Co., Burlington, is the general contractor. Bank One is providing the financing.

Sandra Obertin said the store will employ about 10 people and feature retail gifts, decorative accessories, furnishings and wearable art.

Obertin and her husband told the Bristol Planning Commission in January that they will consolidate their two other stores into the new, multi-floor building.

The Obertins now operate The Great Midwest Craftmarket in the Factory Outlet Centre, 7700 120th Ave., Bristol, and Au Pizazz! in Lakeside Market place, 11211 120th Ave., Pleasant Prairie.

Occupancy of ArtWalk is expected in late spring or early summer.

New home for Harvest Homes

An architectural and home building firm is constructing new quarters for itself with a price tag of $250,000.

Harvest Homes Inc. is building a 3,800-square-foot office building and showroom at 4600 Green Bay Road. Occupancy is planned in April.

Advantage Bank is providing the financing.

The six-year-old company has been located at 1111 55th St.

A sister company, Harvest Realty Inc., has been operated from a private residence.

Jim Walter, president of Harvest Homes, said both companies will be brought under one roof in the one-story building.

Along with the new building, the companies expect to hire three or four full-time realtors and clerical employees, Walter said.

About 500 square feet of the new building will be used as a showroom to display home building materials such as lighting fixtures, cabinets, doors and wall sections, Walter said.

Lease leads to lawsuit

An Indiana firm has sued Bristol Investments Limited Partnership for an $86,848 default on an office equipment lease.

GTE Leasing Corp., Carmel, Ind., filed the suit in Kenosha Circuit Court against the local company and several individuals who signed payment guarantees in the leasing arrangement.

The suit said: The Partnership entered two March 1988 leases for cash registers, check printers, 120 telephones and other electronic and communications equipment. It stopped paying on the leases in October 1993.

GTE recovered the equipment and sold it, but an $86,848 balance remains.

Bristol Investments, Inc., another defendant, is a general partner in the Partnership. It is among a network of related firms that was involved in the now defunct Bristol Mills shopping mall.

The proposed $40 million, 1.3 million-square-foot shopping complex was to have opened in 1993. Only the Best Western Executive Inn, 7220 122nd Ave., and a nearby, small strip mall were constructed.

The shopping mall land was taken by banks in foreclosures.

Other defendants in the GTE lawsuit guaranteeing payments were Alfred and Marilyn Kaplan, address unknown; Richard and Dianne Kozich, Torrance, Calif.; Fred O. Neighbors, 4819 Fifth Ave.; Frank Downing, 4721 75th St.; John and Mary Lichter, 6400 12th St., and William and Mary Lou Ruetz, Racine.

Firststar closing Bristol center, cutting 30 jobs

By Dave Backmann
Staff Writer

Firststar Bank is closing a data processing center in Bristol and eliminating 30 jobs in a consolidation of former First Bank Southeast facilities.

The 9,700-square-foot center, in the Landmark Crossings building at 12225 71st St., was opened last January by First Bank Southeast.

Firststar acquired First Bank Southeast on Oct. 18.

Work at the center, including check processing, will be transferred to Firststar offices in Milwaukee, where the bank is headquartered.

To comply with the state's 60-day, plant-closing notification law, Firststar was to officially inform the town of Bristol today of the planned closing.

The 30 positions are to be eliminated between March 24 and May 1, according to a letter from the bank to town officials.

Firststar will continue to operate a branch bank in the building, said Gary R. Hutchins, president of Firststar Kenosha Market.

Hutchins said the bank will try to find positions elsewhere in Firststar for the employees who will be losing their jobs. If they cannot be matched to other jobs or decline alternative positions, they will be offered severance pay of from eight to 26 weeks, he said.

Training and counseling services also have been extended to the employees.

Firststar employs about 10,000 people.

"When you merge two organizations, there will typically be a need to eliminate some duplication of effort," Hutchins said. "In order for banks to remain competitive with mutual funds, investment brokers and all the so-called 'non-bank banks,' it is critical that we operate as efficiently as possible so that we can price our services competitively."

In a related matter, Firststar plans to open a full-service branch office with a drive-through at 3314 80th St. on Dec. 12. The building, formerly a branch office for Bank One Racine, was purchased by Firststar in October.

Hutchins said the 80th Street branch will be staffed by seven people — four of whom will be coming over from the Firststar branch office at 7608 Pershing Boulevard, which is closing Feb. 2.

The Pershing Boulevard office also was a former branch office of First Bank Southeast.

Progress Days funds awarded

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — The Bristol Progress Days Committee delivered a $9,464 check to the Bristol Town Board Monday, proceeds from the annual celebration last July.

Richard Merten, Progress Days chairman, said the committee wants to see $6,000 used for playground equipment.

"We want Bristol children to benefit," he said.

"We promise to use the money wisely," said Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren.

The board stood and applauded Marian Ling, who announced she is resigning after 25 years on the Progress Days

Committee, and Merten, who resigned Monday after 14 years with the group.

In other business, Richard Bizek and William Mayer, Bristol Firemen's Association, explained the "Smokebusters" program used by the group to teach fire prevention in local schools.

Bizek said the team has designed three programs, based on the age of its audience. The 30-year-old ambulance, painted red, with the Smokebuster emblem on the side, is a big hit, he said.

"We're out there to give education," he said. "We're more than happy to go wherever we're asked. We have fun doing it."

During citizen comments,

Scott Pederson, 10708 38th St., said he is circulating petitions to oppose the closing of Highway N for expansion of Kenosha Regional Airport.

The petitions will be delivered to the County Board, he said "at whatever point the city starts the process of closing N."

Bristol's annual budget hearing is scheduled for 7 o'clock tonight, with adoption of a 1995 town tax levy to follow.

The general fund budget is proposed at $776,482, an increase over the 1994 budget that was approved at $660,200.

The town tax levy is proposed at $49,184, an increase from last year's levy of $437,733.

$1.4 million budget approved in Bristol

Town awaiting final figures for tax rate

By Arlene Jensen

BRISTOL — A town budget of $1,478,176 was approved by the Bristol Town Board and eight electors Tuesday.

A town levy of $634,595 was also adopted.

Within the town budget are four major components: the general fund, $776,482; debt service, $483,383; fire and rescue expenses, $186,161; and recycling, $32,150.

Highway expenditures for 1995 were also approved, anticipated at $375,748.

Business manager Mary Schmitt said the town is unable to set an actual tax rate for 1995 because the final assessed value has not been received from Kenosha County.

Noting that the figure is only an estimate, Schmitt predicted a tax rate of $1.82 per thousand of assessed value, compared with $1.74 per thousand a year ago.

"It's only an estimate," she said.

"We will have final figures when we get our assessed value."

Doris Magwitz, 19917 82nd St., asked about the $25,900 earmarked for parks.

"This is the first year we've identified the money spent on parks," said Schmitt. "In prior years, we paid the park expenses out of the general fund. There are items such as $1,600 for electricity and $2,750 for

Yes, recall the whole town, Bristol Town Board, including the clerk and the treasurer. The only thing they agree on is spending our money. They have used up 20 years of sewer capacity in five years. God knows, they don't run the town. The engineers and developers do.

Clerk, treasurer jobs will be combined

When Bristol voters go to the polls next April, they will elect a combination clerk and treasurer, replacing the old system of one person for each job.

At a special town meeting Tuesday, the Town Board and electors voted to combine the offices which are currently held by Clerk Gloria Bailey and Treasurer Geraldine Merten.

Bailey, town clerk for 16 years, and Merten, who has been treasurer for seven years, both said they had no plans to run for the new position. Both said they had already decided not to run next April before positions were combined.

"Bristol has reached the point in time when the combination of these elected positions is warranted," said Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren. "Being elected positions, there is always the chance incumbents may not run. If that is the case, they take with them their knowledge, experience and expertise."

Van Slochteren said elected officials are not required to have specific skills or to work specific office hours.

"You don't even have to know how to read to run for office," she said.

Discussions are currently being held concerning the duties of the new clerk-treasurer and all other office personnel, said Van Slochteren.

"Such an outline has not yet been finalized."

Though Bailey and Merten currently have a combined salary of $27,400, the new position will pay the elected clerk-treasurer $9,000.

lawn mowing, as well as concession stand expenses and softball diamond supplies."

The budget for fire and rescue services includes $73,786 for a new rescue squad, but Schmitt said about $65,000 of that amount is already in a reserve account.

Supervisor John H. Meyer said, "It's one of the few pieces of equipment we can actually write a check for. That hasn't happened in a long time."

The board and electors also approved budgets for Utility 1, $677,941; Utility 3, $299,300; Utility 4, $220,065; and Water Utility, $644,696.

Bristol gets Progress Days check

By Jeanie Lindstrom

The town of Bristol is a little richer these days and a little poorer. While it may have gained more than $9,600 from the Bristol Progress Days Committee, it lost two of its most valuable members.

Richard Merten and Marian Ling both resigned from the committee. Merten has been a 14-year member and Ling a 25-year member.

Both presented the check, profits from last July's Progress Days, to the town board during the Nov. 14 meeting, with Merten making a request.

"We would like $6,000 of the money to go toward equipment at Hansen Park," he said.

"We will use the money wisely," chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said.

Fire prevention: Bill Mayer and Richard Bizek gave a presentation to the board and audience on activities that took place during Fire Prevention Week at Bristol School.

Bizek said the fire department hopes to put up a small building to be used for training and storage. The firemen's association will furnish the building through donations when the town donates land for the building.

Bristol a victim of vandalism

By Jeanie Lindstrom

Bristol School administrator Gale Ryczek reported more than $2,000 in damage to the school building Nov. 14.

"Two doors and 11 windows were shot with a BB gun," Ryczek said.

The same type of damage was also reported in Bristolwoods Subdivision, local cars, apartments and a Bristol church.

"There has been more damage each night throughout the community," Ryczek commented. "This is going on all over. It just seems like it's Bristol's turn."

Ryczek said an informational letter will be sent home with the students.

Natalie and Barney Waldo prepare for Thanksgiving
11-24-94

Family traced to Mayflower

By Debbie Luebke Metro Staff Writer

Today, when families gather, Barney and Natalie Evers Waldo will remember a prominent relative of theirs who attended the first Thanksgiving almost 400 years ago.

The couple, who live at 9414 136th Ave., Bristol, are 11th generation descendants of William Bradford, a Mayflower passenger and governor of the Pilgrims. Natalie is the state historian of the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

"The real pride in belonging to something like this is fresh."

she says. Half of the 102 passengers died the first winter from sickness and starvation.

In fall of 1621, American Indians introduced turkey and corn at the first Thanksgiving, a three-day feast. Fish and a variety of vegetables, like pumpkin, were also served.

The Pilgrims were craftsmen as well as farmers, she says. Because so many children died, names like Mary I, Mary II and Mary III are found in family records.

"Their days weren't very pleasant. They were filled with sickness and death."

This week's Westosha Report Teen is Erin Milligan, a senior at Central High School. She is the daughter of John and Rita Milligan, Bristol.

Milligan is the senior editor for the school yearbook. She is also a member of the National Honor Society. She was a forensics team member.

She has lettered in forensics, receiving a gold medal at a state conference.

Her hobbies include art, painting, sewing, cross stitching and computers.

Susan Pacetti, yearbook advisor, said of Milligan, "She is by far, one of the brightest students in her class. She is a treat to work with and has so much to offer everyone around her."

Art teacher Carolyn Carroll, said, "I've had the pleasure of working with Erin in art classes since she was a freshman. Watching her creativity grow has been what teaching is all about. She is a fine young lady and will add an artistic touch to whatever field of endeavor she chooses."

Milligan said, "I am very glad that I got the teacher's in this school who pushed me to work. These teachers helped me excel in what I do and I just hope I get some teachers like them in college."

She plans to pursue a career in art by attending either UW-Parkside or Gateway Technical College.

Build jail where it belongs

12-7-94

To the Editor:

If a jail is needed, fine. Build it. But build it where it belongs, with the courts and support services close at hand.

My solution. Start right now with the building of a parking structure on the east side of Sheridan Road including all the land from the new office building at 55 Street, north to 52nd Street, east to 8th Avenue, south along 8th Avenue back to the beginning point. This could be a multi-level basic structure to accommodate all area parking needs for the foreseeable future and with expansion for growth built into the structure. This facility could be a Joint Services operation as it serves the city and county. The city would get some covered parking replacing current open lot parking. A win-win situation.

Sheridan Road could be spanned with crossovers as necessary.

The jail expansion could then take place on the present parking lots in the immediate area, causing no severe disruption with day to day operations, and keeping everything at hand. Space other than the actual lockup sections could be held to a minimum. The facility could also address a juvenile layered detention system. Another win-win situation.

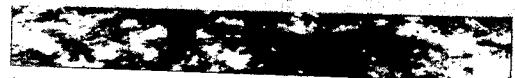

So there it is. Why don't we do it?

It's too simple.

But, I can't worry now. It's getting cold. Florida calls. And they will be talking about it when I come back. I tried.

New body shop opens in Silver Lake

By Jane Gallery
Bulletin Staff Writer

Now that winter is here with snowy and icy conditions on the roads, you are more likely to be involved in an accident.

It's not something that everyone likes to think about, but if it does happen, there's a new business in the area that can help to remedy the problem of damage to your car or truck.

Silver Lake Auto Body, located at 1205 Pryor St., in the Silver Lake Business Park off of Highway B, opened for business the first week of December.

The business is operated by Gary Lutz of Bristol, and Mike Carlson of Morton Grove, Ill., who both have over 25 years of experience in the auto body business.

They give free estimates and welcome insurance work on any foreign or domestic car or truck.

The 47,000 square-foot building and all of the equipment at Silver Lake Auto Body is state of the art in the auto body industry. All of the painting of vehicles is done inside of a Binks Surround Air Spray Booth.

"It is totally environmentally safe," explained Carlson.

The air in the booth is all filtered and heated to force dry or cure the paint on the vehicles.

"When the filters need changing, the booth tells you.

It's all automatic," said Lutz.

Silver Lake Auto Body also does all of their own paint mixing. They have a complete PPG paint mixing system, which includes all the formulas for any color of any vehicle.

"If it's not in the book, there's a number I can call to get the formula," said Lutz.

He went on to explain that all colors have a variety of different colors in them. For example, the formula for a white paint includes yellow, green, black and red in it.

"There's black in just about every color," he said.

Lutz and Carlson have thought about opening their own business for years.

"We've always worked for other people in the past," said Lutz.

"And if it wasn't for the help and support of my wife Toni, opening the business wouldn't have happened," he added.

"We're looking for customers who need auto body work done, and don't know where to get quality work. In most cases they can't go back to the dealer where they bought the car," said Carlson.

Brat Stop plans banquet hall

By Ariene Jensen
Staff Writer 12-7-94

BRISTOL — A 16,000-square-foot banquet hall will be added to the Brat Stop, highways 50 and I-94, according to plans Gerald Rasmussen announced to the Bristol Plan Commission Tuesday.

Rasmussen, who owns the Brat Stop, 12304 75th St., said the 180-by-100-foot building will be adjacent to the back of the present building, which is 22,000 square feet.

The cost of the new building is estimated at $500,000.

It will accommodate 1,200 people or 800 in banquet settings, said Rasmussen. The facility will be available for trade shows, conventions, seminars, parties, weddings, and anniversaries.

Rasmussen's plan was on Tuesday's agenda, but only as a concept for discussion. No vote was taken.

It will likely come back for official action early next year.

In other business, Mark Sondag returned to the board to discuss his new plans for the Kenosha Military Museum.

Sondag, 11114 120th Ave., said he will seek permission to build a 60,000-square-foot building to house his collection of military artifacts.

Architect John Schmidbauer, representing Sondag, said the building will house the bulk of the museum's collection. One or two pieces would be outside in a veteran's memorial area, he said.

Schmidbauer said the building, of pre-cast concrete, would be bermed into the property. A gift shop, cafeteria and theater are planned.

"It will be a very attractive building," he said, "with everything enclosed. It should make neighbors feel easier about it."

"At the last meeting, there was concern by the neighbors about how much of the museum was enclosed," said Sondag. He said he is also anxious to get the museum pieces under roof because they are deteriorating as they sit outside.

"I'm asking the board to approve my request and let me get going with my project," said Sondag.

Emilia Cigan, 11022 120th Ave., whose property adjoins Sondag's, said, "It will never be. Take my word for it. I don't trust this man. I don't trust his word."

Sue Gehring, 11000 120th Ave., said Sondag's original approval for his museum included only 1,000 feet of the Sondag's Vans property.

"Back in September, when this board asked if he had permits, he said he did," said Gehring. "There is a lack of integrity, and we are skeptical."

Sondag said, "The long-range plan for the area is not for residential. The area is not at all conducive to residential."

A third concept discussed by the commission Tuesday was the expansion of the Bristol Renaissance Faire, highways WG and I-94.

The additional acreage will provide space for more shops and entertainment.

Stanley Guilbert, representing Ellora Corp., plans to add 4.5 acres to the 19.5 currently being used for the Faire. The Faire property is 80 acres, but much of it is needed for parking.

Bristol School approves loan for expansion

By Joe Van Zandt
Staff Writer 12-14-94

BRISTOL — The Bristol Grade School Board voted unanimously Tuesday to borrow $3.9 million from Bank One of Burlington to finance a major addition to the school.

The addition was approved by a vote of 219 to 145 in the Sept. 27 referendum. The construction will add 11 classrooms, science and computer labs, a new gym, art room and offices.

Under the terms of the loan, the annual interest rate on the principal will be 6.23 percent for 10 years. At that time, the principal will have been reduced to $3.15 million, which the district will refinance at the interest rate prevailing at that time.

"We looked at the possibility of a considerable amount of savings in going with two 10-year notes instead of a straight 20-year loan," Administrator Gale Ryzek said. "We could save $1.5 million up front by going this way."

Although he voted with the other members, Edward Becker conceded that taking this approach "is a crap shoot. Who knows what the interest rate will be 10 years from now? It might be lower or it might be higher."

Ryzek said the building plans should be finalized and available for bidders in January.

A LIVING NATIVITY WILL BE HELD Dec. 16 and 17 at Oakvue Farm, located one and a half miles west of I-94 on Hwy. Q in Kenosha. The 45 minute performance will be held at 6, 7 and 8 p.m. Cookies, coffee, hot cider and hot chocolate will be served. This event features live performances, including live animals.

Bristol may condemn Watring property

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer 12-13-94

BRISTOL — Responding to a citizen's petition, the Bristol Town Board voted Monday to seek legal advice and possible condemnation in order to stop the proposed multi-family development on a seven-acre parcel.

The parcel, on the northwest corner of 83rd Street and 195th Avenue, is currently zoned residential and has been a source of controversy since owner and developer, Robert Watring, 517 Sheridan Road, received town approval in 1976. Watring claimed development was later stopped by a town moratorium on sewer service, since revoked.

A lawsuit by Watring against Kenosha County to keep the residential zoning was settled out of court in 1993. He currently plans a 49-unit multi-family subdivision.

William Lesnjak, 17901 93rd St., speaking for the 79 people who signed the petition, said "We know you have a renegade developer out to make a profit, destroy a neighborhood, just to thumb his nose at the town. The time is now to save this neighborhood."

Board member John Meyers made the motion to seek legal advice. "We should take action tonight. Let's tell legal counsel to protect us, we're going to go ahead with condemnation."

Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren was the only one to speak cautiously. "I have grave reservations. I think we're a day late and three dollars short. It's my personal opinion," she said, but voted with the majority.

Rather, she preferred checking the legal background before formal board action.

However, Meyers prevailed.

"No action is the wrong way. We should have gone to condemnation as soon as wetlands were identified," he said.

Meyers said the town has a right to condemn the property if it can justify taking it for town-wide use.

That can be proven by using the wetlands and pond for water retention in the neighborhood and for a town park, he said.

The most recent assessment of the property's $180,000 value was out of date, said Van Slochteren and would need to be reassessed.

Bristol taxes increase for some

By Jim Rohde
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — Some taxpayers in the town of Bristol will be getting lower tax bills thanks to the lottery credit for qualified residents, but for the majority, taxes may be up as the result of higher assessed values.

In the town's largest taxing district, which includes the Bristol Grade School and Westosha Central High School, the gross rate is $26.94, less the state tax credit of $1.71, for a net rate of $25.23 per $1,000 of assessed value, a decrease of 91 cents from last year.

A year ago, owners of a house assessed at $80,000 had a tax bill of about $2,091, but since property assessments in Bristol increased this year an average of 12.5 percent, the same house is now assessed at about $89,000. When multiplied by the new rate of $25.23, the tax totals $2,245, an increase of about $154. The lottery tax credit of $110.27 for qualified residents reduces the increase to $44.

The picture is better for property owners in the Salem Grade School-Westosha Central District, where the gross rate totals $27.23, less the $1.71 tax credit, for a net of $25.52. A home as-essed at $80,000 had a tax last year of $2,268, but with a 12.5 percent assessment increase raising the property to $89,000, the new tax will total $2,271, a drop of $3.32. For qualified residents receiving the lottery credit of $113.29, it means a decrease of about $117 on their taxes.

In the Paris Grade School-Westosha Central High School District, the new gross rate is $25.39, less the tax credit of $1.71, for a net rate of $23.68 per thousand, a decrease of $2.62. A house assessed at $80,000 last year had a tax of about $2,104, but if the assessment increased to $89,000 this year, it would have a tax bill totaling $2,107.52, an increase of $3.52. The lottery credit of $102.59 will turn the increase into a decrease $99.07. The individual tax rates which combine to make up the gross rates are: Bristol Grade School, $10.33, up 21 cents; Salem Grade School, $10.62, down $1.93; Paris Grade School, $8.78, down $1.50; Westosha Central High School, $7.01, down 66 cents; county, $4.93, down 50 cents; Gateway Technical College, $1.70, down 22 cents; town, $2.29, down 19 cents; and state, 21 cents, down 3 cents.

Bristol annexation across I-94 sought

By Patrik Vander Velden
Staff Writer

BRISTOL — After a one-month delay, a Bristol resident has filed notice of her intent to seek annexation of a 30-acre parcel into the village of Pleasant Prairie.

In November, Judith Howe, 10900 120th Ave., met with town officials after she and her realtor, David Kohel, 4103 60th St., said they sought the annexation to develop her 37-acre parcel.

Howe lives in a single family home on the property which is zoned commercial, and she wants sewer and water service provided by Pleasant Prairie through lines installed several years ago under the highway as part of the village sewer service area.

The notice was published Thursday, and because Howe is the sole owner of the property it can be annexed by direct petition.

Village President Thomas Terwall said neither Kohel nor Howe have had any discussion with village officials.

They would have to file a legal notice with the village and then the annexation request would go to a public hearing before the Pleasant Prairie Plan Commission.

"Anybody can speak at that hearing," he said, meaning Bristol residents could have their say to the village.

"This is new for us," said Terwall. "We have never had anybody request to annex into the village before. The board has had no discussion."

Meanwhile, Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said the matter will be turned over to the town attorney for an opinion.

"The Town Board had been keeping Mrs. Howe and her realtor, David Kohel, informed on progress providing sewer and water to her property," she said.

"I regret they apparently feel they have to move ahead so rapidly," she said.

In November, Terwall said the village does not seek annexations and was open to discussions about Bristol's development plans in the area.

Van Slochteren said the town definitely did not want the Howe property annexed.

Bristol has minor factory fire

By Jeanie Lindstrom

"It was a non-event," was the way Tom Gorlinski, co-owner of Therm-Cast Corp., put it. He was referring to a minor fire in the Bristol factory.

The Dec. 13 fire started in a 17-year-old, roof-top exhaust fan, located over aluminum casting machinery used by the 14 employees.

The fire was put out by employees by the time Bristol Fire Department got there.

Damage was estimated by Gorlinski at $2,500.

"The fire didn't slow us down any," co-owner Christopher Gorlinski added.

Hauling fee for tank waste to rise

By Joe DiGiovanni
Staff Writer

Fees for companies who haul waste from residential septic tanks in the county will increase next year, under a plan approved Tuesday by the city Water Commission.

O. Fred Nelson, general manager of the Kenosha Water Utility, said the increase was needed primarily to pay for resurfacing Seventh Avenue in Pleasant Prairie.

Ed St. Peter, utility assistant general manager, said the drop was due to Waste Management Inc.'s Pheasant Run Recycling and Disposal Facility, 19414 60th St., Bristol, no longer sending its leachate into the system. The leachate is now sent to Bristol's treatment plant.

The commission, comprised of aldermen, voted 4-0 to increase the rates. The same aldermen hold seats on the city Public Works Committee, which Tuesday recommended

Metropolitan sewer district proposed

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 12-28-94

BRISTOL — Town officials Tuesday proposed creation of a metropolitan sewerage district to cover the city of Kenosha, the village of Pleasant Prairie, the entire town of Somers and portions of the towns of Bristol and Paris.

At a meeting of the Bristol Town Board, members voted unanimously to petition the state Department of Natural Resources to create the Kenosha Metropolitan Sewerage District and conduct a public hearing on the issue.

Creation of a metropolitan sewer and water authority was recommended by a special study committee that included representatives from all five municipalities. The committee worked for five years and spent $200,000 on engineers, but in the end, the plan was shelved because of a border war between Bristol and the city.

When the committee last met, Kenosha Mayor John Antaramian said he would not agree to a metropolitan district because it would mean giving up the city's ability to use sewer and water as a bargaining tool.

"We have to do something to resolve the controversy," Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Tuesday. "Kenosha feels the only way to implement the study is by annexation into Bristol. But we will fight to the end to avoid annexation."

Van Slochteren said the petition for a metropolitan sewerage district will force the DNR to take a stand in the matter.

In a related matter, the Bristol Board Tuesday signed an agreement with Strand Associates, Madison, to provide design and construction services for a fourth town well and well house near the commercial district at I-94 and Highway 50.

Bristol to push for metro district

By Arlene Jensen
Staff Writer 12-30-94

BRISTOL — Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren said Wednesday the metropolitan sewerage district proposed by Bristol would level the playing field among all participating communities.

"In a metropolitan district, we all go in with equal representation," said Van Slochteren.

The Bristol Town Board voted Tuesday to petition the Department of Natural Resources to create the Kenosha Metropolitan Sewerage District and conduct a public hearing on the issue.

Van Slochteren said she hopes to have an answer from DNR by the end of January and expects the agency to conduct the public hearing and open it to all affected communities.

The district would include the city of Kenosha, village of Pleasant Prairie, entire town of Somers and portions of the towns of Bristol and Paris.

Creation of a metropolitan district was recommended after a five-year, $200,000 study by

Bristol resident remembered

Karen Gibson, a Bristol resident who died of cancer Tuesday, was remembered by Bristol Town Chairman Audrey Van Slochteren, as "a person who was not afraid to speak her mind." Van Slochteren said Gibson "fought the disease with the same determination that she had fought for her many convictions, but cancer, unlike convictions, seldom gives in to the good fight."

Ruekert and Mielke Inc., Milwaukee. The plan was not implemented because of a border dispute between Bristol and the city of Kenosha.

At the last meeting of the study committee, Kenosha Mayor John Antaramian said the city wants to be guaranteed room to grow in the future. "The only direction we can grow is westward," he said.

The town of Somers has gone on record in support of an areawide sewer and water plan. Somers Town Chairman David Holtze said Wednesday, "Somers supports the concept of metropolitan sewer and water because there are cost savings."

Holtze said he personally supports the action taken by Bristol, "but I have not discussed it with my board."

Though the study by Ruekert-Mielke recommends both metropolitan sewer and water, Bristol is requesting only sewer.

The Bristol Board signed an agreement with Strand Associates Tuesday that will provide design and construction services for a fourth town well and a new well house. The well is to be drilled near I-94, on the old Hawkeye Turkey farm property, north of Highway 50, recently purchased by the town.

The agreement anticipates construction in 1995 of a well capable of producing 500 gallons of water per minute.

Bristol Board members also voted unanimously Tuesday to start condemnation proceedings for the purchase of an eight-acre parcel of land west of 195th Avenue, north of 83rd Street.

The land is owned by Robert Watring, 517 Sheridan Road, who has said he plans to build a multi-family subdivision on the land. A lawsuit by Watring against the county to retain the residential zoning was settled out of court in 1993.

In the resolution for acquisition of the land, the town is saying the purchase is necessary "to protect property and roadways from water damage within the defined drainage area. Those areas not required for the drainage system shall be developed as a public park."

Last week, Watring filed a writ of mandamus against the Bristol building inspector, demanding that a building permit be issued, so he may move ahead with his project. The writ must be answered by Jan. 6.

During the citizens comments portion of the meeting, William Lesnjak, 17901 93rd St., said Watring and his attorney, Donald Mayew, have demanded a retraction of comments Lesnjak made about Watring at a meeting two weeks ago.

"I intend to defend to the death my right to state my opinion," said Lesnjak, "and it is unfortunate that the mentioned developer and his attorney feel they have cause or the right to try to bully a private citizen into such a retraction."
