Public Health Alert issued December 29, 2021

COVID-19 Transmission Rates on the Rise Following Holiday Season; Masks, Vaccinations, Boosters, and Other Mitigations Recommended

The Dutchess County Department of Behavioral and Community Health (DBCH), in partnership with the Dutchess County Board of Health, supports a multilayered approach to contain COVID-19 to include education and guidance about common sense mitigation measures.

- We strongly urge all Dutchess County residents, businesses, and visitors to employ.all employ.all employ.all employ.all employ.all employ.all <a href="mailto:available:mitigation strategies to reduce community transmission strategies to reduce community transmission
- All persons able to medically tolerate a face covering/mask, regardless of vaccination status, should wear an appropriate face covering/mask while in any indoor public place. Businesses and other entities requiring mask-wearing in their establishments have a right to enforce this requirement.
- Wear high-quality masks, such as surgical masks or KN95, whenever possible. They are more protective than cloth coverings.
- Get the COVID vaccine for all household members aged 5 and older. If you are age 16 or older, fully vaccinated and your last dose was at least six months ago (two months if you received the J&J vaccine), get a booster. While full vaccination is still great protection against severe disease and hospitalization, boosters are your best protection against becoming infected in the first place. For appointment information, visit www.DutchessNY.gov/covidvaccine
- Get your flu shot. There is a resurgence of influenza this year, and you will want to keep yourself less vulnerable to COVID, or to severe flu that can also lead to hospitalization or death.
- We strongly urge all Dutchess County residents to engage in practices that improve their immune systems and overall health, especially this winter. A healthy diet, adequate sleep, generous hydration, avoidance of tobacco and excessive alcohol consumption, regular exercise, and proper hygiene including frequent handwashing are all important to support immunity. A healthier immune system can help reduce an individual's vulnerability to infection and ability to spread the virus.
