

RODNEY J WOOD

Rod Wood was raised in the City of North Salt Lake by a family actively involved in the community. Attended Davis County Schools, U of U, and Westminster College graduating with a degree in Business Management. During College Rod worked as a general and electrical contractor, then an electrician at University Hospital. Rod was elected to the North Salt Lake City Council serving 2 terms.

After graduation, he was hired by North Salt Lake City as Public Works and Zoning Administrator. He is proud of developing fair and equitable water rates, keeping 5 departments' budgets in balance, and economic development. He retired after 30 years.

Rod and his wife Connie moved to the rural city of West Bountiful in 2013, enjoying the quiet life here. He considers West Bountiful the best place to live and always has the desire to serve. Rod has had the honor of serving on the City Council for the past 4 years. His goal is to keep West Bountiful City a peaceful, low-key home for everyone.

Rod acknowledges every city faces growth and has the experience dealing with any issues coming from growth. Rod's considerable training can help guide changes that may come and the skills to avoid pitfalls.
